In view of the fact that one of the greatest needs of the present day in British Columbia is a strong, progressive and efficient government, it is impossible to read the line up of candidates already nominated for the provincial election without a considerable amount of misgiving.

The Conservative party would seem to be almost totally wrecked for the list of candidates does not mention a standard-bearer with the straight Conservative label, despite the fact that the present administration was elected as a Conservative Government.

In the next campaign some Conservatives will be in the ranks of the Tolmie Unionist party, while others will fight under the flag of the Hon. W. J. Bowser. The Liberal opposition is well organized, but the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation is making considerable progress and there is no lack of independent aspirants, so that the battle array already presents a motley appearance that is likely to be made more strange before nominations are completed.

Up to the present 92 candidates have been named to contest 47 constituencies and the list so far is as follows: Tolmie Unionists,2; Liberals, 36; Bowserites, 8; C.C.F., 23; Independents, 15; United Front, 5, and Independent C.C.F., 3.

This is surely a strange medley and if out of it emerges a stable and progressive administration British Columbians will have reason to thank their stars.

ONLY TEN YEARS AGO.

An item in the "Days Gone By" column in this issue tells of the departure from Peterborough ten years ago today of a party of fifty-three harvesters headed for the western wheat fields, bringing the quota from this district up to 200.

Those were the halycon days when young Ontario farmers, spurred on by the desire to see something of Canada's famous wheat area and at the same time pile up a substantial bank account, hurried in thousands to the west every August.

There will be no more of those harvesters' excursions.

Today the western cities are crowded with unemployed; there is no need of help from Eastern Canada for the harvesting operations cannot begin to take care of the idle in the west.

And even with normal conditions restored it is not likely that there will ever again be any great demand from the prairies for assistance in garnering the golden wheat, for new methods and modern machinery have resulted in the elimination of a great deal of the labor once required in the western harvest.

It seems almost impossible to believe today that only ten years ago 200 young men from this district, along with hundreds more from every other Ontario county, were able to find profitable employment in the prairie provinces.

THOSE WORK CAMPS.

It is difficult to understand the determined opposition of such organizations as the western branches of the Canadian Legion to the work camp scheme for taking care of unemployed single men.

The only alternative to this plan is direct relief for these men and surely it is infinitely to be preferred that the single unemployed should be provided with good meals and shelter, with easy working conditions and the healthful effect of open air life, than that they should continue to receive a direct relief dole and spend their time idling round Canadian cities.

The complaint of the Legion and other organizations seems to be based on the scale of wages provided, but our understanding of the plan is that the 20 cents per day allowance given the men in the work camps is not regarded as wages but rather as a grant for the purpose of purchasing tobacco, etc.

The work is not very strenuously carried on, the living conditions are uniformly good, and the men of these camps are the picture of good health, while their morale is decidedly better than if they had been spending their time loafing in their home communities, content to accept relief without giving a measure of labor in return for it.

The men who go to camp even at 20 cents a day will be the ultimate gainers; incidentally they will be the first to be absorbed by industry when the wheels begin to turn with their old time vigor.

FUTILITY OF SUPPRESSION.

In England the prospects of improved constructive legislation on the liquor question are confused because of divided counsel. The report of the Royal Commission on Licensing around a year ago was spoken of by the London Times as a quarry of material which the legislator will find useful in the future, and a conference of churches at Westminster warmly approved the main body of the Commission's recommendations. But after the conference, the United Kingdom Alliance issued a fulmination of the type with which we in Canada have long been familiar, deprecating the Commission's proposals and protesting against compromise measures with regard to the drink traffic. The Alliance hugs the idea to its bosom of prohibition some day in England.

An encouraging episode, however, is the action of Rev. Henry Carter, who was a members of the Royal Commission, and apparently a member of the Methodist persuasion in England, whose book entitled "The English Temperance Movement: A Study in Objectives," is shortly forthcoming from the Epworth Press, in two volumes. The London Observer has been afforded an advance copy of this book and speaks of it as a challenging study destined to have important reactions on the future of the temperance movement in the home land. Rev. Mr. Carter points out that the original objective of the movement was abolition of the evils cased by alcoholic indulgence, the prohibitory trend being a diversion from the original purpose. Thus, encouraged by American legislation, the movement came to regard prohibition as the primary objective, and with the rise of the Alliance the moral objective became completely eclipsed by the legislative one, with futile results.

The object of the author is to call back the movement to its original intent, which was moral, not suppressive. Rev. Mr. Carter offers an unshakeable argument in favor and suasion of the evils of the drink traffic, and points out cogently as follows:

"The significance of this definition will be apprehended if it be set in contrast with the second objective, presented in 1853—the Legislative Suppression of the Liquor Traffic. Its implication was that the drink problem is soluble in the realm of law. This belief does not stand the test of time. Law, well-framed and well-administered, can aid national sobriety; but many other factors than law are involved in remedial action.

"Prohibition, as a ruling legislative policy, came into the arena of English politics under the spur of an American example; the fluctuations of the Prohibition Movement in the United States since Maine 'went dry' in 1851, and the recent reversal of nation-wide Prohibition, afford sufficient proof that more than a legal enactment is needed to eliminate intemperance.

"To put down drunkenness by putting down the traffic in strong drink," is an inadequate proposal. Drunkenness is neither the first nor the last of the mischiefs which make up the drink problem; nor can a change in law of administration, local or national, become permanently effective in this matter without a change in personal conviction."

The above words should not be lost upon intolerant prohibitory advocates in Canada, especially when their source is recognized. The reference to the varying conditions in the United States is very apt, and we should not need to have them called to our attention by a writer as distant from us as this author. In his eminently valuable compendium on The British Citizen, by the late Prof. J. Thorold Rogers, he remarks that toleration, in the best sense, that is, a genuine conviction that truth and justice are not served by the violent repression of opinion adverse to our own, is the last and hardest lesson which civilised man learns. It has taken centuries for this lesson to sink in England, where it has gained more general adhesion than elsewhere. Genuine toleration, which looks on a different judgment from its own with consideration, is a late growth, Prof. Rogers says, though it had made much progress on our day. The Rev. Mr. Carter is evidently a man who happily combines the virtues of tolerance with common sense in the application of lessons derived from unconvertible facts.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Mr. King has made 65 speeches during his western trip but he is still far behind the mark set by Mitchell F. Hepburn this year.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson intimates that there will be no early election in Ontario. And Mr. Ferguson, it should not be forgotten, has always had the faculty of knowing what is going on.

In an effort to increase pork prices and kill off the fall crop Uncle Sam has started in to buy six million hogs. And while this is nice for the farmers of the corn belt the question once more bobs up as to who will eventually have to pay for all these pigs.

Quebec's chief of police is worried over the scanty costumes of some of the Ancient City's visitors. If there is any comfort in the fact, the condition is not at all peculiar to Quebec.

There were 60,000 accidental deaths, 31,000 automobile killings, 17,500 suicides and 11,500 homicides in the United States last year, surely an astounding record.

Public opinion in Canada is against a railway strike because the people of this country know that a tie up at this time would be generally destructive.

VACATION ESCAPADE

By ARTHUR SHUMWAY

READ THIS FIRST:

Sally Gwynne is headed south from Chicago to take a job as secretary to a Florida millionaire, John Kemble Proctor, at Daytona Beach. She spends her first night on the train. The next day she makes friends with a young man who is sitting opposite. He is also Florida bound. She learns his name, Ted Chandler, and they become friends. At Atlanta, Ted buys a newspaper and reads the startling news that Proctor has been found dead, aparently a suicide. Sally's heart sinks.

(Now go on with the story)

Chapter 14

NEXT MORNING when Sally awoke as the train was approaching Jacksonville she had a hard time realizing the predicament she was in. She was worried, yes, but she could not help enjoying the zest of the excitement she felt was ahead. It was, of course, Ted Chandler's offer to help that gave her new courage. More than ever she was glad she had met the tall young newspaperman.

They arrived in Jacksonville soon after eight o'clock. The air was heavy, soft and warm, just like that of a northern summer, only richer, somehow, and thicker, a languorous air that lulled Sally's senses.

"You'll soon get used to it," Ted promised her. "And when you do you'll be spoiled. Florida and California will be the only two places you'll want to live."

A red-cap came swinging up to take Sally's bag. Ted shook his head and took it himself. "Thanks," he said to the red-cap. Then he said to Sally: "We have to save the nickels now, baby. Were probably going to need them."

That "we" made her glow inside. It was wonderful having someone to look out for you. More and more Sally welcomed the adventure that lay before them.

They got on a trolley and rode up through the warehouse district to the heart of Jacksonville. Seeing the tall buildings ahead, Sally turned to Ted with surprise. "Why, it's a big town!" she said.

"Sure. Florida isn't all bathing beaches and Everglades."

They walked from the trolley to a little restaurant. On the way Sally took in the windows full of summery clothes, the crowds of hatless, suntanned people and the palm trees that grew, miraculously it seemed, in the heart of the city. "I'm going to love it!" she exclaimed. What were worries about a job now?

Breakfasting on delicious big grapefruit that needed only a pinch of sugar, followed by bacon, eggs and coffee, they sat and talked as if—Sally reflected silently—they were on their honeymoon instead of being both in search of work hundreds of miles from home in a strange environment.

They walked slowly back to the trolley line where Ted bought a paper and they took a car back to the station. On the way Ted opened the paper.

"Look!" he said.

Sally looked at the front page and saw a picture of a stern, shrewd-looking old man with a stubby little gray mustache. "Mr. Proctor!" she said. "What does it say about him?"

"That's just it," said Ted, thoughtfully. "It says his death was suicide."

"Suicide?" Sally leaned over to read the story beside the picture. Suicide was right. John Kemble Proctor had been found dead in his bedroom, his gun by his side.

"Why—that's hard to believe," Sally said, half to herself. "A man like Mr. Proctor, with millions, committing suicide."

Ted nodded solemnly. "You bet it's hard to believe," he said enigmatically.

"Oh, I wonder what they'll say to me when I get there?" Sally said with a nervous smile. "Who'll be there to see me, I wonder? What am I supposed to say? That I'm sorry about it?"

"That wouldn't be any lie," Ted remarked.

They got off the trolley at the station and at five minutes after ten they were watching the outlying houses of Jacksonville drop behind them.

They stopped at St. Augustine, but Sally could see only the station and the yellow railroad buildings.

"We're next," said Ted.

Sally swallowed hard. At last the ordeal, whatever it might be, began to close in on her consciousness. She had to face the facts. She was again grateful for the tall bulk of Ted Chandler there on the seat beside her.

Within an incredibly short time they alighted at Daytona Beach. Sally looked about, rather bewildered. They seemed to be in a wooded spot removed from any town.

"Perhaps I'd better call Mr. Proctor's house and tell him I'm here?"

Ted nodded.

They went to the station. Sally moistened suddenly dry lips as she waited for someone to answer the telephone. The voice that came finally was marked by the soft drawl of a southern negro. "Mist' Proctah's res'dence."

"This is Miss Sally Gwynne—"

"Who, ma'm?"

"Miss Gwynne. Miss Sally Gwynne from Chicago. I'm the secretary Mr. Proctor engaged. He was expecting me."

Enlightenment flowed suddenly over the wire.

"The sec-a-tary! Yes, ma'am. Just a minute, ma'm. Hole de wire, please."

Sally looked anxiously at Ted as she waited.

"Miss Gwynne?" said another voice. This one was younger, clearer and was the voice of a cultured man. It was a peculiarly well modulated voice, Sally thought, as she replied.

"This is Miss Gwynne," she said. "I just arrived. I was on my way down to report for the position as secretary when I read of Mr. Proctor's death. I'm so sorry. I—" and she paused, not knowing what to say.

"Miss Gwynne," said the voice, competently, reassuringly. "I'm tremendously sorry, too. This is Fred Proctor—Mr. J. K. Proctor's nephew. I've been expecting you, Miss Gwynne."

"I was wondering what I should do," Sally said.

"Come over here by all means, Miss Gwynne. I can't tell you how sorry I am things had to happen this way. Where are you? At the station?"

"Yes, I am."

"Do you mind waiting a few minutes?"

"Not at all, Mr. Proctor."

"Good. I'll be right over and pick you up."

Sally turned to Ted.

"Well?" he asked with a grin.

"That was Fred Proctor, his nephew. He said he was expecting me. I wonder what that means. He's coming right over."

"Well, the least he'll do is feed you and put you up for a day or two."

"I suppose. Ted. I don't know how to thank you—"

"Thank me? I haven't done anything—yet. Don't be a riot, baby. Now, just you hike over there for a nice meal from your late millionaire's larder and see what's what and let me know."

Ted picked up his bag.

"But, aren't you going to wait?" Sally asked.

"No, I think I'll go over to the village and hang my hat. No. I have a hunch that maybe I'd better not be in the picture when he pops in. Just a hunch is all, baby, but a Chandler hunch has never been known to fail—except in connection with a horse or a hand of poker." He took her hand and gave it a quick, crushing squeeze. "Make him do right by you, then sit near the phone and wait for your faithful correspondent to give you a buzz." Ted smiled and was gone.

Sally shook her head. A puzzling young man, this Thornwood L. Cavanaugh, alias Ted Chandler. But a tremendously attractive one.

STOCKS AND BONDS INFLATED

The celebrated Harley, Earl of Oxford, in the year 1711 tried to restore public credit which, at that time, represented a floating debt amounting to nearly ten million sterling. He excited the people with a popular delusion called "the Earl of Oxford's masterpiece."

After debate in the House, three acts were passed: The South Sea Act, The Bank Act, and the General Fund Act.

The first, the proposals of the South Sea Company, were accepted, and that body held itself ready to advance the sum of two million toward discharging the principal and interest of the debt due by the state for the four lottery funds of the ninth and tenth year of Queen Ann.

By the second Act, the bank received a lower rate of interest for the sum of £1,775,027 15s due to it by the state and agreed to deliver up to be cancelled as many exchequer bills as amounted to two million sterling and to accept an annuity of one hundred thousand pounds, being the rate of 5 per cent of the whole redeemable at one year's notice.

The General Fund Act recited the various deficiencies which were to be made good by the aid derived from the foregoing sources.

Mr. Walpole, the statesman, spoke in the House warning them of the evil of this measure and the dangerous practice of stock jobbing and said it would divert the genius of the nation; also that it would lure the unwary to their ruin, for imaginary wealth. At this time France had just been led into bankruptcy by John Low, year 1719. For a period England looked on to the prosperity of France, seeing millions of livres springing up on paper. This led through greed to the beheading of such men as the Count d'Horn, and the bank notes were burned publicly in front of the Hotel de Ville; this was the outcome of the bank credit without bullion to cover it.

Black it stood as night.

Fierce as ten furies—terrible as hell. Men were tied to the wheel and broken alive for hoarding wealth ill gotten, yet passed by the government of that day. Part of the nation starved to death, unable to cope with the speed of the exchange. England also beheaded men to regain the loss and balance her credit. Bribes of as much as £2,000,000 were paid to evade the penalty.

We have followed in the same trail in recent years to balance war debts, and although we have the experiment of our predecessors we are held right in the trap. Each following the other.

This evil Solomon espied
Among the robber rout,
That beggars did on horseback ride,
While princes walked on foot.
South Sea has verified the same
For mighty men of late
Are brought to poverty and shame
While scoundrels ride in state.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

THE FIRST TRAIN AT REGINA

On this date, in 1883, the first Canadian Pacific train pulled into Regina, then only a yea, old. It was in 1882 that the very small hamlet of Wascana was selected by the Dominion Government as the seat of administration for the North West Territories. Wascana was the Indian and official name; but the popular designation was more catching to the imagination, being "Pile O' Bones," due to the fact that, in the days when the buffalo roamed the plains, Wascana creek was a favorite watering hole for the thundering herds, and became a first class locale for the hunters who wantonly slaughtered the bison for the sake of the pelts, with the result that enormous heaps of buffalo bones, bleached by the sun of summer and the winds of winter, accumulated, and the few white settlers in the vicinity adapted the Indian description of the place.

When it came to the question of a name for the new capital it was referred to the Marquess of Lorne, then Governor-General. It had been proposed by somebody that "Victoria" would be a very good name the desire being to honor the Great Queen; but objection as rightly taken that we already had one provincial capital with that name, in British Columbia, and Lord Lorne (or perhaps it was the Princess Louise) suggested that "Regina," the Latin for Queen, would be suitable and so it was that 'Pile O' Bones became the Queen City of the plains.

Its progress was very slow until the iron rails of the C.P.R. arrived, then advancement began. For several months the place was a base of supplies and much money was spent; but as the railway sped in this source of income dwindled away, and Regina had a pretty hard time. As I recall it, in 1885, the rebellion year, the town consisted of the railway depot, a street designated "Railway Street," a small wholesale warehouse, a general store and a bakery, which made excellent pastry, especially pies, which acted as a magnet to the volunteers encamped out on the prairie a few miles to the West, just south of the Mounted Police barracks. The only way of travelling on foot was on the railway track, except in very hot weather, for the mud was the equal of the Manitoba variety, and woe attended the hapless wayfarer who got enmired.

Since those days Regina's progress has been typical of the Great West. From a 'pile o' bones' it has grown into one of the most beautiful and best laid out cities in Canada with a mammoth C.P.R. hotel, a huge and artistic Parliament building, wide streets, public parks, many handsome homes, and a population two-thirds British-born, so that the fear of "foreign domination" which alarms some other communities can have little alarm for Saskatchewan's Queen City. Regina's jubilee celebration in August, 1932, was a great affair; this year Regina has been much in the public eye by reason of the world's grain congress and the C.C.F. convention.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterborough's Leading Handwriting Analyst for the Readers of The Examiner.

Beatrice Johnson,
R.R. 5, Peterborough.

Your handwriting shows that you are rather inclined to be hasty and impulsive. You are emotional and perhaps too sensitive. Although you are emotional you seem to have a natural propensity to hide your feelings, for you are not one who could be termed demonstrative in affections. Your feelings of LOVE, HATE, FRIENDSHIP and SYMPATHY, are lasting and abiding. You are loyal, truthful and very sincere. Your capital 'E' represents musical ability, or an artistic tendency. The other letters do not reflect any definite objective, being of variable size, shape and formation. Some of the smaller letters illustrate a disposition which is subject to change, and show that you are not at all forceful. You would rather give in to others at any time rather than stand up for your own rights. Business should interest you, if under the correct type of supervision. If not you might become very nervous and temperamental because you are being misunderstood.

Miss Alberta Sloan,
Chamberlain Street, City.

The handwriting as portrayed on your sample indicates that your disposition is chanegable, and that you are not at all progressive or determined, except when you want your own way, and cannot seem to get it, then you can be 'Shall we say Dominating'? I really think that this characteristic is due to nervousness on your part. You see your writing runs at every angle, hardly two letters are placed alike. It is almost as if you fly from one thing to another without any definite purpose, and it looks as if you very seldom finish anything that you undertake, unless you have more than a passing interest. I believe that youth is your drawback at present, and that you will become more firmly established in every manner, once you have learnt poise and self esteem. Try to encourage yourself with the thought, that nothing is worth having which is not worth working for. You request initials instead of full name, and I am more than sorry that I cannot concede to your wish, but the option of using initials was refused lately through a public notice in 'THE EXAMINER' because many people used the same initials, and when they did not desire even street numbers printed. It was almost impossible to prevent one person from thinking that the first initial that represented his or hers was personal even if it did not happen to be. Thus many claimants to delineations were sadly disappointed. You have some excellent qualifications delineated on your coupon which outweigh all the others in your letter. You see you have a tendency to write with greater ease in pencil. Haven't you? Your capital 'S' and 'A' show me that you can develop your will power and your determination into something worth while if you make up your mind to do so, the following letters show that you are kind-hearted and lovable.

W. R. for A. Morrow,
Water Street.

This delineation as requested for your friend, shows many interesting characteristics. It represents ingenuity and keen rapid thought. It reflects a type of reserve (not shyness). This person can be most reserved or conservative when business demands, but is humorous, sincere and loyal in friendship. There is a tendency to find fault with people through the cautious critical nature. Most people of this type are born under the sign of Virgo, and it is quite natural for them to be analytical, they make excellent salesmen and are fastidious as to personal attire. They do not like to atend to detail, but for real progressive attire. They do not like to attend to detail, but for real progressive business men and women, there is no equal. They think very quickly, and seem to be gifted with the ability to figure rapidly. As a rule this type of person is refined, well poised and optimistic.

James White,
Indian River.

Your writing as illustrated on the sample and envelope show you to be changeable and undecided at times, then you seem to become master of yourself and your emotions, and begin to domineer people who happen to be near you. You have a splendid opportunity to create a special interest, in work out of doors. It may be farming or dealing with farmers through the medium of sales of produce. Those tall 'J's' show initiative and leadership. The capitals on the envelope reflect generosity and musical interest. The 't' bar crossing in the word 'Peterborough' shows that you have a fair share of will power and determination, but you are rather inclined to be imaginative, and perhaps a little fantastic. You can allow yourself to become excited and temperamental, and when you do, you express yourself in no uncertain terms. Don't you? I am sorry that your name will have to be printed if you wish to see this at all. It has been found necessary to remove the option of using initials, in order to avoid mistakes, due to so many initials being alike. I hope you will understand this, and accept the good will which accompanies it.

MONTREAL MARKET WEAKER AT CLOSE

Profit-taking Wiped Out Earlier Advances.

MONTREAL, Aug. 23 (C.P.). — Late reaction caused early afternoon gains to be wiped out in a wave of profit-taking. Leaders in general fluctuated over a wide range.

International Nickel shot upward after mid-day to touch 21.50, and later dropped back as speculators withdrew support, closing at 21.10 unchanged. Canadian Industrial Alcohol "A" recorded a net loss for the day of ¼ at 19½, while Consolidated Smelters firmed ½ at 130. Shawinigan eased ¼ and Alcohol "B" ⅛, while Brazilian fell ¼ at 13¾.

Third Crossing Victim Dies Barrie Hospital

BARRIE, Ont., Aug. 23 (CP) — Edward J. Robbins, Toronto, died early to-day in Barrie Hospital from concussion of the brain and fractured skull, suffered when the automobile in which he was riding along with two companions was struck by a Canadian Pacific Railway train near Midhurst, Monday.

The two men travelling with Robbins, Thomas Allen, Toronto, and James F. Wilson, father-in-law of Allen, were killed almost instantly when their vehicle was wrecked by the impact of the collision.

The three men were returning to Toronto from Mr. Allen's summer home at Georgian Bay when the fatal accident occurred.

The Columbia, twice conqueror of the North Atlantic, was damaged to the extent of a broken propellor and crumpled left wing. Boyd expects to have the old ship in shape to fly within a few days.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WINNIPEG EXCHANGE

WINNIPEG, Aug. 23 (CP)—Easiness at Liverpool sent wheat prices fractionally lower at the opening of the Grain Exchange to-day, but export business worked on the decline rallied values and at the mid-session, quotations showed gains of ¼ to ⅜ cent over the previous close.

At the half-way mark October option stood at 72, December at 73⅝, and May at 78⅝ cents. Hedging sales were light and other Pit offerings comparatively small. Volume was not particularly heavy but the market held steady at levels about ⅝ cent over yesterday's finish.

No figure was placed on the export sales, but it was believed at least two full cargoes were sold for shipment abroad. Chicago was again firm and aided prices in holding their upturn. Heavy rains in Manitoba and Saskatchewan which will delay harvesting operations also had a steadying effect.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, August 23 (C.P.).—Stocks turned easy in the last hour to-day, and at the close had replaced early gains of fractions to a point or more with similar losses. While some issues displayed resistance, the majority of the leaders apparently had little support in late dealings. Approximately 2,500,000 shares changed hands.

TORONTO EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, Aug. 23.— (C.P.) — Stocks ran into moderate selling in the last half hour to-day on the Toronto stock exchange and gains that had been aded in a laborious advance earlier in the day were wiped out. Metal and oil stocks along with Ford A and some of the Distillery issues boarded narrow recessions at the end.

Walkers Common touched 50, but closed at 48½, a net loss of a point. Distillers Seagram and Industrial Alcohol dropped fractions and Brewers and Distillers 10 cents. Ford A was up ¾ for a while but closed unchanged at 16 1-8 and losses of 1-8 were chalked up for C.P.R. and Brazilian. Nickel lost 20 cents to $21.

The strong forenoon advance in New York stimulated some buying here, particularly in Ford of Canada, Nickel and the Oil group, but there was no disposition among local traders to become enthusiastic and reach for stocks. Nickel was strong on reports of active market for the stock in London and New York.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, August 23 (C.P.).—Prime commercial paper 1½ per cent. Foreign exchange strong. Demand rates: Great Britain 4.54, France 5.40, Italy 7.27, Germany 32.85, Canada 94.50.

Principls In Vanderbilt Romance

Harold S. Vanderbilt, multi-millionaire sportsman, known as the world's wealthiest bachelor, and Miss Gertrude Lewis Conaway, Philadelphia society girl, surprised friends by taking out a marriage license in New York and then dashing to the S.S. Rex to embark for Europe. They are shown at Newport recently.

Set Woman To Catch Woman Scotland Yard's New Axiom

LONDON August 23. — Scotland Yard, with the appointment of the first women detectives in its history, to-day was living to the French police axiom, "Cherchez la Femme" (seek the woman), a new one:

"Set a woman to catch a woman."

Unmarried, athletic and shrewd, the three new women operatives are as much at home wearing evening gowns at a night club as masquerading in disguises befitting the underworld. Their ages are between the upper twenties and the lower thirties.

The decision to make their appointments permanent followed a year's probationary period in which the trio underwent the same training as men. They had trials in actual cases in which all were instrumental in obtaining important arrests.

The women will be used particularly in the West-end, where the criminal conditions run a gamut from high society, with its attendant "smart crooks," to shoplifters narcotic smuggling, and the operation of white slave traffic with Bohemian resort "fronts."

Working under an inspector, the women will be the spearheads in all cases in which women are involved, ranging from keeping observation on doubtful premises to matching their wits with leading criminals. Women, rather than acting as tools and decoys, have been increasing in number as actual leaders in crime.

Macassa Mines

Macassa Mines is making progress in erection of mill and installation of machinery and production will be ready on schedule. Delivery of the ball mill expected this week, with foundations, etc. set up for it's occupation. Results continue satisfactory on the 2,700 foot level. Macassa's program and plans laid by directors to reach production has been the result of well over two year's efforts. From work formerly done new finances were attracted in March 1931 and since then the property hummed with activity. A shaft has been sunk to 2,700 feet and a drift cut at the time over westward from the Kirkland Lake property. Levels above the 2,500 have subsequently been opened. In attaining market leadership Macassa's capital is given valuation around $4,000,000 on it's 5,000,000 share capital. The annual meeting was held June 15 when it was announced mill expenditures would be paid from sale of treasury shares.

Moss Gold Mines

Kirkland Lake

Kirkland Lake Gold is reported with encouragement in extending work on the 1,600 foot level, and opinion is heard this may be approximately the same ore lens as found at 2,000 feet on Macassa adjoining on the west which on the camp is typically dipping.

Thompson Cadillac

Thompson Cadillace is said to have completed a financing program which will provide funds for further development of its property in Cadillac district of Quebec.

$1,000,000 GALE DAMAGE.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Storm damage at Virginia Beach was estimated at about $1,000,000 this afternoon. The new concrete seawall was wrecked and many houses were undermined. A similar estimate of damage was made for Willoughby, a suburb of Norfolk, where tides were highest.

Firm Demand In Mine Market For Leaders

TORONTO, Aug. 23. (C.P.) — Steady buying in the high-priced gold group rolled up considerable volume, Hollinger, Dome, Lake Shore, McIntyre and Teck Hughes on the Standard Exchange this afternoon and gave stability to the rest of the list. Base metal shares were firm and silver issues quiet.

The gold leaders were up 5 cents to 50 cents at the close, including Dome, Lake Shore, McIntyre, Teck and Hollinger. Macassa closed unchanged at 85½ after advancing to 88.

Both Noranda and Nickel met with good buying and Noranda held a gain of 30 cents at the close and Nickel finished down 30 at 20 90.

Trading again lagged in the early part of the session in the high prices gold stock and the base metal leaders were only moderately active while chief interest appeared again in a few specialties including Acme Oil, Wayside, Macassa and Sylvanite. The latter was strong on the dividend announcement.

Rev. Aloysius Begley In Dominican Order

LINDSAY, Aug. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Begley have returned from a motor trip to Somerset, Ohio, where they attended the profession into the Dominican Order of their son, Rev. Aloysius Begley, B.A., O.P., at St. Joseph's Priory, which is situated in the hills quite close to that city. He will continue his studies at the Priory until June next, when, it is understood, he will enter Washington University for a theological course prior to his ordination to the priesthood. Mr and Mrs. Begley visited Wheeling, West Virginia, Pittsburg, Pa., and other points in Ohio and Pennsylvania. Mr. Begley states that conditions are rapidly improving across the line. This was quite noticeable in Pittsburg and other large centres. In the former city, which is a great industrial centre, the steel and other plants are reopening and taking on men.

F. L. ROY TOURS RUGGED GASPE FOR PICTURES

Grandeur of the Peninsula and Hospitality of Residents Win Praise

NOT EXPLOITED.

Fred. L. Roy, of the Roy Studios, has just returned to the city after an extensive trip through the Gaspe Peninsula, during which he took a series of photographs of the rugged beauty of Gaspe which will serve to advertise the district for the province of Quebec. Mr. Roy's experience in photographing the beauties of the Trent Waterways, his photographs having been used extensively in tourist advertising by the Ontario Government, aided him materially in securing "shots" of the wild grandeur of Gaspe.

Mr. Roy's tour of Gaspe lasted twelve days and during it he motored 2,064 miles. He was extended every courtesy on the trip by the Quebec Department of Roads, which department has requested a full series of the photographs.

Mr. Roy expresse enthusiasm for the unexploited beauties of Gaspe, its unexcelled services to tourists, and the charming courtesy of its French-Canadian inhabitants with their quaint old customs.

Great Driveway

Mr. Roy drove his car over the little-known Perron boulevard, a broad gravel road, with an excellent surface and well-marked with signs, which skirts the coastline of Gaspe. Athough the road traced its way over rugged mountains, Mr. Roy stated that there is not a foot of it which any good driver wih a reasonably good car can not traverse without difficulty. Along the coastline, Mr. Roy took pictures of the fishing hamlets and at the famous Perce rock he secured some marvelous shots.

One of the highlights of the trip was a visit to Bonaventure Island, famed bird sanctuary of all the sea birds of the North Atlantic coast. Mr. Roy secured photographs of the hundreds of thousands of birds which nest and swarm about this rocky island.

Famous Bay Visited

Continuing his tour, Mr. Roy visited the Bay of Chaleurs, then reached the Restigouche River, one of the great salmon rivers of the world, and he returned along another broad highway through the Matapedia Valley, with frowning mountains on both sides.

"It was just like a foreign tour in our own country," explained Mr. Roy in speaking of his experience along the way. "The courtesy and hospitality of the people can not be praised too highly. They are absolutely unspoiled and can not do too much for the visitor. We saw them using their oxen in farm work, heir wooden windmills and their clean little cabins. They do not overcharge the tourist and everything we need, even to C.P.C. bacon, we could buy at no higher cost than in Peterborough."

Mr. Roy stated that many Ontario people are but discovering the beauties of Gaspe, which he said was not surpassed by the Alps, the mountains of Scotland or the Canadian Rockies, and he believes that Gaspe may soon become a regular holiday drive for motorists of this province.

Winter Fuel

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., August 23 (C.P.). — Ball'e Avenue is—or was—paved with wooden blocks. The recent storm brought an eight-inch rainfall which worked underneath the base of the blocks and thousands of them floated away.

Residents donned bathing suits and worked all night in the storm, laying in next winter's fuel supply. It will cost $10,000 to repave the street.

SPORT OF KINGS

By ART MURRAY
(Special to Examiner.)

THE SECOND Kenilworth meeting is indefinitely postponed so it looks from this angle as if with the closing of Devonshire on this Saturday that the Windsor season will be all washed up for this year. Detroit are opening a meeting on Saturday, September 2nd at the Fair grounds in that city and as the state of Michigan has now legalized race track wagering it looks like the end of one Windsor track as they depended on Detroit city patronage customers for ninety per cent of their patronage. It will be too bad as Windsor is a good racing centre but not large enough to support two tracks without outside help.

* * *

WE WOULD like to remind you that Corbeau has not won a purse yet since coming to Canada so govern yourself accordingly, he will drop from the skies totally unexpected. He is in the pink and just waiting for them to put his running shoes on. One mile or over is his distance. Partisan is another that is fooling around and the big day will come soon. This hide possesses a lot of class. Hayfire is coming around nicely and as he has not won a purse at all this year he will account for three or four before the Canadian curtain is rung down. Jockey Mattioli is back in the saddle after his suspension and is plying his trade at Devonshire. Will probably lead the jockeys at this track too as he has lone nearly all season.

* * *

LOMMERN IS working up to a winning effort which will not be long now as he is a real good plater. Lady Hockberger and Rollin In took a trip to Chicago about two weeks ago and came back to Devonshire and each won a race on Tuesday. The air in the Windy city must have done them some good. Live One is back in form and will retain his good condition for the balance of the season as he runs better in the fall than at any other time of year. George E. Miller is also strictly a fall horse and last autumn won seven consecutive races, bear this in mind for a few weeks.

N.R.A. PROTECTS LABOR IN PLANS

spending, broadening of markets, lies the bogey of inflation.

With the rise in prices and in cost of production under the N.R.A. there comes to the attention of Washington the question of protecting home industries against foreign competition. To-day the Administration is considering the problem of tariff boosts in order to take care of an obvious result of its domestic policy. Experts are continually working on all these technical difficulties— the controversy over the open shop, the question of inflation, the further tariff protection of stimulated industry— and meantime the President and his advisers take care to keep before the mass of the people the fact that something is being tried. No sensible observer in the United States would disagree with the proposition that so far as the common man is concerned he is behind Mr. Roosevelt, whether blindly or with his eyes open, in whatever experiment he may choose to make.

Predictions as to what is to be expected are as varied as the schools. Some observers believe the world depression has reached bottom and with the added impetus of the N. R. A. drive in the United States, it is foreseen quick success will wait upon Mr. Roosevelt's efforts.

Socialists hope for State Socialism; Communists chortle whenever the Administration encounters trouble and pray for a chaotic state, but the mass of the American people undoubtedly believe in Mr. Roosevelt and his quarter-back football tactics of which the N.R.A. is a big play. They are confident he will not only prevent disaster but make them once again a prosperous nation.

PACKERS TIE C.G.E. OUTFIT

Soccer Teams Play Exhibition in Aid of St. John's Ambulance Corps.

FINAL COUNT 2-2.

The inclemency of the weather last night prevented the usual crowd of soccer fans from appearing to witness the Packers and C.G.E. battle a two-all soccer tie in the exhibition game on behalf of the St. John's Ambulance Association.

FIRST HALF.

Opening exchanges continued on an even basis with the forwards endeavoring to make an opening that resulted in custodians clearing their charges. After a well planned attack by Buchan, he sent the ball right acros sthe goal where N. Downer missed an open goal. Play from end to end, with individual efforts holding forth, until fight near the interval period, when Ben McMaster was upset as in act of shooting. From the resultant kick, he tested Green in goal, but he was rewarded later when a feint move by his inside man let him slip the ball over to his left that found the inside of the upright. C. G. E. 1, Canada Packers 0.

SECOND HALF.

On resuming, both custodians were kept busy handling shots ranged at them, with the halves being compelled to do a lot of running to stop the fast combination of the forwards. On a pass from Clark on the right, Adkinson tallied for the C.G.E. to make it two to none. From the centre kick, the Packers confined the play to the C.G.E. half, with G. Blowers and H. Hotston punting and spoiling the attacking force when in a good position to score. After ten minutes of play, a combination movement by the Downer Brothers resulted in the opening tally when Art reduced the lead. With five minutes to go, the Packers pressed the C. G. E. hard to get the equalizer after the whole front line had a try at goal. C.G.E. 2, Packers 2.

Goal scorers—C.G.E.: McMaster and Adkinson. Packers: Art Downer and N. Downer.

C.G.E.—J. Bolton, goal; G. Blowers and H. Hotston, full-backs; B. Bolam E. Jones and G. Jobe, halives; S. Clark, L. Earl, B. McMaster, B. Corduroy and E. Adkinson, forwards.

Packers — D. Green, goal; A. Downer and E. Jakit., full-backs; H. O'Toole, J. Buchan and A. Bromley, halves; J. Mayette, Art Downer, N. Downer, T. Foster and G. Downer, forwards.

BARBERS TO PASS EXAMINING BOARD

New Legislation Comes Into Effect Sept. 31.

Officials of the Registered Hairdressers' and Barbers' of Ontario addressed a meeting of the local branch of the organization in the Council Chamber here last evening, and outlined the recent legislation passed, in an effort to increase the standard of the hairdressing profesison throughout Ontario.

Under the new legislation all barbers and hairdressers, seeking membership in the organization, it was stated, after September 31 next, would be required to go before an examining board and to pass certain qualifying tests.

The speakers included D. J. Gillies, president of the Registered Hairdressers and Barbers of Ontario; Nelson Day, vice-president; J. E. Taylor, Registrar, and J. Allen, provisional organizer.

Great interest was taken in the meeting and several local hairdressers applied for certificates of membership, it was stated, by Miss B. Woods, secretary of the local organization.

No Action Planned Against Starlings

Chris Graham, secretary-treasurer of Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, does not anticipate any immediate action of the organization to combat the starling menace in this district. The matter would probably be taken up at the next meeting of the Association early next month, he thought.

Aske, if there was any likelihood of shooting parties being organized to destroy the large flocks of starlings that are causing extensive damage to crops throughout the county, Mr. Graham thought not. "The imposition of the gun license," he said, "along with the high cost of shells, makes it too expensive a proposition for the average man.

CHIEF'S NEW CAR ARRIVES

The Fire Chief's new car—a late model 4-cylinder Ford, recently purchased by the City Council, through the local Ford dealer, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon direct from the factory at Toronto. The trim body is painted red, of a shade probably a little lighter than that generally used on Fire Department vehicles, but of a color that is quite distinguishable at a considerable distance.

Alderman J. A. McNabb, chairman of the Fire, Water and Ligh. Commiittee, and the Chief, expressed entire satisfaction with the performance of the car, after returning from a drive in it.

AT LIBERAL PICNIC

Three Liberals of Peterborough—Hon. G. N. Gordon, J. J. Duffus, president of the local Liberal Association, and W. F. Huycke, the association's secretary—are attending the picnic and luncheon to-day at Colonel W. P. Mulock's home in Rosedale, Toronto. Mr. Duffus and Mr. Gordon will both briefly address the gathering.

STOVE NEEDED.

The Examiner is anxious to get a small cooking stove for an old lady who has no means to buy one, and is much in need of this necessity. Please telephone and we will call.

OFF TO A POOR START

Two more of the carrier pigeons released by city police for a flight to their home roosts in Ottawa last Saturday, have been found by local residents. Bewildered and exhausted, one of the birds was picked up this afternoon by Melville Legros in the back yard at 338 Water street. Tags on the bird's leg bore the inscriptions "R.P.C. Ottawa 33 E 3969".

Cecil Williamson, 56 Sophia street, picked up one of the birds yesterday at his home, releasing it when it had rested itself.

Peterborough was treated to an unusual aerial spectacle last evening when one of the most vivid double rainbows ever witnessed here appeared in the eastern sky around six o'clock. The appearance of a rainbow generally follows a rain storm but yesterday's proved a herald of approaching rain due to lowness of the setting sun in the sky.

At times, each colour of the spectrum—red, orange, yellow, green, blue and violet—stood out strikingly in the main arc with a secondary arc appearing at times within the main one.

SEVEN-POUND BASS HOOKED, CHEMONG

Biggest of Season Caught by Toronto Man.

What old time fishermen claim to be the largest bass taken in Chemong Lake was caught to-day by D. J. Perdue, Toronto. Actual measurements of the fish showed length 23 inches, girth 17 inches and it weighed almost seven and one half pounds.

Mr. Perdue is spending his summer holidays at Chemong Park and reports fishing to be excellent during the past few days. He gives no small amount of credit to the Game and Fisheries Protective Association for game fish again becoming plentiful in these waters. Many visitors from distant parts of Canada and United States have expressed keen appreciation of their results in their fishing activities.

COMRADES OF 2ND BATTALION PLAN REUNION EARLY IN SEPT.

Men Will Parade Here On Sept. 2 and Hold Service At War Memorial.

DINNER IN EVENING.

Proud memories will be revived through the reunion in this city, on Saturday, September 2, of the 2nd Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary Force ("The Iron Seconds") — memories of those early days in August, 1914, when Canada's offer of an army division to Great Britain was gratefully accepted.

Hearts swell with pride at remembrance that the subsequent call for 20,000 volunteers was answered with an enthusiasm unequalled in the history of the world; at remembrance of the noble response of Peterborough and district; at recollection of the departure of the first contingent of volunteers from the 57th Regiment and the Prince of Wales' Dragoons, who were destined to become units of the 2nd Battalion mainly recruited from Central Ontario.

Second Reunion Here

The gathering here of old comrades of the famous fighting unit along with the old Officer Commanding, Colonel L. T. McLaughlin, C.M.G., D.S.O., now of Bowmanville—the second reunion in this city within three years, will also recall the days of preliminary training at Valcartier Camp among the blue Laurentian Hills; the departure of the great modern armada of 33 transports which carried the First Division C.E.F., across the Atlantic without a hitch; and the subsequent period of intensive training for warfare in the quagmires of Salisbury Plain, which was but a prelude to the bitter fighting in France and Flanders, where the Battalion won its proud distinction as "The Iron Second."

When war was declared, there were activities of preparedness at the Armouries just at the time when the 57th Regiment had planned a trip to Windsor. This peace jaunt suddenly cancelled, the men were expectantly waiting the call to the colors, and on August 7th, Colonel E. B. Clegg, the officer commanding the regiment, received authorization from the Militia Department to accept recruits for service overseas for the duration of the war. In five days the company allotted to Peterborough was complete, and these first recruits were nearly all members of the 57th Militia Regiment. On August 12th, the list for volunteers was closed, and the company of four officers and 124 men was introduced to "hikes" and squad drill that proved at least a pleasant memory in the strenuous training that began at Valcartier.

Followed a brief two weeks of feverish waiting for the orders to depart, and on the evening of August 21st, the order was telegraphed to Colonel Clegg. The next morning the company as a unit bade farewell to the old town and stepped off on the first stage of the great adventure which was destined to become a seemingly endless Gethsemane.

The volunteers wore the old red coats of the local regiment when they paraded at Central Park, where Major Davidson (now deceased), conducted a short service of intercession, praying for the safety of the nation and of the soldiers. The men repeated with him the Lord's Prayer and sang a verse of the National Anthem. Mayor Buller gave the company a final message and extended the city's formal good-bye, promising the soldiers that the city would protect and care for their families. The tense, dramatic scene and poignant emotions were quickly relieved by the realignment of the men into marching formation and the command that called them away.

That was a lovely summer morning. The sky was soft and blue, and the sun warmed the fresh morning air, which seemed to sparkle with a strange brightness as the volunteers swung down George street to the regimental tune of "The Lass of Gowrie."

Tender Memories

Such was the departure, and the faces that did not return are still fresh impressions on the memories of many as their proud but tender thoughts go back over the years that are gone, on this memorable occasion.

Following the departure of the first contingent of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, "The Iron Second" was continually reinforced with men from other battalions and units, and many other men from Peterborough and district were destined to see active service in its ranks, and to find a last resting place beside their heroic comrades who lie buried in the glorious fields of France and Flanders.

The first reinforcements of the 2nd Battalion were drawn from the 11th Battalion, and after the Second Battle of Ypres, in which the "Iron Second" sustained severe losses, they were reinforced by a company from the 32nd Battalion (Alberta). Likewise at Givenchy the 2nd Battalion suffered such enormous casualties that it was necessary to draw two companies as reinforcements from the 38th Battalion (Ottawa).

Large Numbers Expected

The veterans of the 2nd Battalion are expected to arrive here on September 2nd, in large numbers, from all quarters of the continent. In the evening they will gather at the Canadian Legion Hall for dinner.

During the course of that day, the men will parade for a march through the principal thoroughfares of the city. A pause will be made at Confederation Square, where a service of commemoration will be held and a wreath deposited on the War Memorial, to the sacred memory of the many members of the Battalion who paid the supreme sacrifice, and who found their last rest on the fields of France and Flanders.

The occasion will doubtless be the means of bringing forth a lavish display of bunting, as was the case on the occasion of the previous reunion here in November, 1930, when the merchants and private residents sought to convey to the men something of the warmth and feeling of respect in which they are commonly regarded.

Lieut.-Colonel G. C. Winterbottom, M.C., D.C.M., heads the committee having charge of local arrangements. He intimated to The Examiner that he is expecting members of the 2nd Battalion to rally for the reunion from points as far separated as New York and the Saulte; and Quebec and Windsor. Colonel Winterbottom, it will be recalled, successfully handled arrangements for the former reunion of the Battalion here.

LOCAL TOMATO CROP LESS THAN AVERAGE

Canning Under Way at C.P.C. Plant.

The cannery at the Canada Packers' plant here began canning tomatoes last Saturday, but the real canning of tomatoes will not start until the end of the week, G. S. Matthews, plant manager, said. The tomato crop in this district this year will be about 60 to 70 per cent. of average, Mr. Matthews stated. This decrease is due to the heat of July and early August which has resulted in small tomatoes.

Weddings

LANCASTER—OLIN

A pretty house wedding took place at ten o'clock this morning at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. Olin, McDonnell street, when their second daughter, Sadie May, became the bride of Mr. George W. Lancaster, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Lancaster, Crescent street.

The Rev. C. D. Daniel, pastor of Mark street United Church, was the officiating clergyman.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with flowers and pink and white streamers, and the ceremony took place beneath an arch from which a large white bell was suspended.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely white crepe ensemble, the little jacket trimmed with white coney fur. Her small turban of white velvet had a little white veil, she wore white gloves and slippers and a crystal necklace. Her bouquet was of pink and white roses and carnations, with gypsophila.

The bridesmaid, Miss Edith Marshall, was in pink crepe, with beige hat, slippers and gloves, and bouquet of roses and carnations.

Little Mildred Winterbottom was the dainty ring-bearer, frocked in yellow organdie, with a yellow band in her hair, and carrying the ring concealed in a single rose in a tiny basket.

Mr. Mossom Lane acted as best man.

The wedding music was played by Miss Isabel Olin.

After the ceremony, a reception was held and buffet refreshments were served from a table centered by the bride's cake and decorated in pink and white roses in silver bud vases.

Mr. and Mrs. Lancaster left later by motor for a trip to Montreal, the bride travelling in brown crepe trimmed with white, with brown hat and accessories.

The young people, who received many handsome gifts from a large circle of friends, will reside on Kenneth avenue on their return to Peterborough.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bridesmaid was a silver slave bracelet, and to the best man a tie pin.

CHIEF ANNOUNCE D.A.F.C. PROGRAM

Three Hundred Fire Chiefs To Gather Here Next Week.

MANY ARRANGEMENTS

An ambitious program has been prepared by Fire Chief George Gimblett and the various local committees that promises to make the forthcoming 25th annual convention of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs, not only one of the outstanding local events of the year, but an event that will eclipse its predecessors that have been held in other parts of the Dominion during the last quarter of a century.

From Halifax to Vancouver delegates will gather here on Tuesday morning, next, for the opening ceremonies of the convention. Already each of the hotels in the city have made reservations for the visitors, who are expected to nmber about 250-300 strong.

The business sessions of the convention are to be held in the Duffus Building, and will be opened at ten o'clock Tuesday morning, with the address of Retiring President Chief H. Guerin of Kitchener.

Civic Welcome

The Rev. J. Douglas Paterson, rector of All Saints' Church, will lead the assembly in prayer, after which a civic welcome will be tendered by His Worship Mayor Roland Denne; Alderman J. A. McNabb, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee; John R. Marshall, president Peterborough Chamber of Commerce; and Chief George Gimblett, convention host.

Responses to the welcome will be voiced by Chief A. S. Kapple of Stratford, and by the Hon. George Challies, Provincial Secretary. The latter will be introduced to the gathering by J. F. Strickland, K.C., M.P.P.

His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke, who is at present out of town on his vacation is requested to be present in the capacity of guest speaker at the Memorial Service, to be held immediately prior to the luncheon adjournment. Afterwards an official convention photograph will be taken outside the City Fire Hall on Aylmer Street.

While the business sessions proceed during the afternoon in the Duffus Building, the ladies will assemble at the Empress Hotel, prior to a drive around the city and a tea at the private grounds of F. D. Kerr, K.C., on Rubidge street.

A civic banquet will be held in the evening of the first day at the Legion Hall, followed by a dance at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club.

Business and Pleasure

The highlight of the sessions on the second day of the convention, will be a trip over the famous Lift Lock in the steamer Stoney Lake, an a sail to Lakefield and Clear Lake. Business sessions will be held on the boat, and on arrival at South Beach luncheon will be followed by sports and dancing.

Ample opportunity will be afforded for delegates to the convention to visit some of the chief industrial plants in the city. These will include the Canadian General Electric Company, the Quaker Oats Ltd. The sightseeing trip also includes a visit to the City Filtration Works.

Chief A. H. Clarke of Lakefield, who is chairman of the Committee on Exhibits has already lined up a large number of exhibitors, who will feature displays of fire fighting and prevention equipment in the Duffus Building.

Chief Gimblett pointed out that the sessions of the convention were to be open to the general public, as also were the show of exhibits, and stated that he extended a cordial invitation to all who were interested to be present.

Co-operation of the citizens and merchants is requested by the Mayor, in making the stay of the delegates in this city pleasant and memorable. He suggests the display of flags and bunting, which will be in keeping with the decorations to be displayed at the fire hall.

"Home-Made" Gas Is Used In Speed Test

ALGONAC, Mich, Aug. 23 (CP)—Hubert Scott-Paine's Harmsworth challenger, the Miss Briton III, will take to the water for a trial run Thursday with its tanks filled with "home made" fuel.

Due to a delay in the shipment to the United States of the special British gasoline used in the craft's high compression power plant, Scott-Paine to-day had secured the formula for the fuel and prepared to mix it from available American brands.

The fuel for the British challenger is on a boat en route to the United States and is not expected to arrive at Algonac until the second day of the race. Faced with this dilemma, Scott-Paine yesterday cabled the British oil company for the formula.

"Gossip and Such"

THE GREAT deeds of modern pitchers continue to multiply until it seems we are existing in the times of Cy Young, Christy Mathewson, Rube Waddell and Amos Rusie, not to mention Old Hoss Radbourne!

So far this season no less than six games have gone into extra innings with the score tied at nothing all. Add to that Carl Hubbell's new National League shutout record and Dizzy Dean's magnificent series of strikeouts over the Chicago Cubs.

However, the other players are trying to keep pace with to-day's amazing moundsmen—and some of them are succeeding.

Jimmy Foxx bats in nine runs against Cleveland for a new league record, and Lou Gehrig has just set a new consecutive game record. And more than one fielder has gone over a month or so between errors.

* * *

HOWEVER, the one department of baseball play in which the current crew of major leaguers do not appear to be striving for records is base stealing.

Maybe the job looks too tough. Ty Cobb, in the American league and Max Carey in the National, set marks that apparently are beyond the fondest dreams of to-day's speedy base runners.

It is hardly believable that another player will steal as many sacks as Cobb did—892. Or as many in one season as Cobb—96. Nor can we expect the National League to produce a man fast enough to win more base theft titles than Max Carey.

The Pittsburgh plunderer led 'em all in his loop for 10 years!

* * *

TO-DAY'S BEST base bandit is Ben Chapman. The Yankee star is fast enough on the sacks but he looks slow when compared to some of the old timers, such as Cobb and Carey.

However, it isn't Chapman's fault. The ball is still lively enough that wise managers figure it better policy to stay near the original sack and take a chance on the next batter splitting the bleachers apart with a home run slam.

Just to show you how tough it would be to set a new mark, in base thievery, here are some records, not already mentioned:

Seven in one game—George Gore, Chicago Nationals, 1881.

Four in one inning—John Devore, New York Nationals, 1912.

Caught stealing bases, game, three—Rabbit Maranville, Boston Nationals, 1913.

Caught stealing bases, season, 38—Ty Cobb, Detroit, 1915.

You may some day pat your great-great-great grand children on the noodle but you probably won't live to see those marks passed.

Major Leaders

CLUBMEN BEAT ELECTRICS 6-4 IN FIFTH GAME

Winners Secure Five Run Lead Off Offerings of Ralph in First Innings.

WILL MEET HAVELOCK.

Cognawagas won the championship of the East Peterborough League at Exhibition Park last evening by defeating C.G.E., 6-4, in five innings. In the league's championship series four games had been played previous to yesterday's contest, Cogs winning two, the Electrics one, and the other being a tie. To decide the issue, the teams were prepared to play two five-inning games last evening; but Cogs ended the series by taking the first game, and are the newly-crowned champs.

Cogs will meet Havelock, winners of the Deloro-Havelock series, in the first round of the Intermediate "B" section playdowns of the O.B.A.A.

A lead of five runs secured in the first innings off the offerings of Ralph gave Cogs their final victory. Ralph was wild from the outset. He issued three walks and was clouted for four hits. An error also assisting Cogs in cashing in on their early rush.

Count Again in Fourth.

"Lefty" Dunkerley was sent in to relieve Ralph. He showed enough stuff to hold Cogs for two innings, but in the fourth an error and a hit paved the way for another counter by the clubmen.

Although facing the big deficit, the battling Electricians never lost heart. Aided by errors, they got one back in their first. In the second, C. Corbett getting on with a hit, pilfered second, was advanced to third, and then, with two out, stole home. C.G.E. began to hit Vannest, Cogs' hurler, hard in the third, and Masterson took up the mound duty. Again in the fourth, C.G.E. opened opportunities, but failed to counter. They threatened to pull the game out of the fire in the last frame, scoring two runs on infield errors, but Masterson whiffed Hollingsworth for the third out.

Makes Spectacular Catch.

The feature of the game was Hatton's catch of Vannest's foul fly and then his fast throw to third to get Padgett as he tried to advance.

Keene Playoff Tilt Is Declared No Game

The second game of the playoffs in the Ladies' City and District Loop which was scheduled to be played at Keene last night between the Westclox and the Lakeshore Lasses was declared no contest by the league umpire-in-chief, Dick Galbraith when the battle was halted in the sixth innings on account of darkness, the entire six innings having been played in a steady drizzle of rain which made playing conditions very unfavorable.

The Westclox, accompanied by more than 200 fans and strengthened by the re-appearance of Hilda Joyes and Belle Thirnbeck on the line-up, started the game with plenty of pep. They ran into a shower of base hits in the first three frames when Doctor Wright's sluggers pasted the horsehide for twelve solid clouts and thirteen runs. At the end of the fifth the score stood nineteen to nine in favor of the Rurals and after the Westelox had batted in their half of the sixth securing three more counters the game was called on account of darkness.

This game will be replayed in Keene on Thursday of this week starting at 6.30 o'clock, city time, and no doubt just as many fans will make the trip to see these two fighting aggregations tangle. The teams:

Australian Trick Shot Golfer Wins Open

JOE KIRKWOOD

LEX ROBSON

Joe Kirkwood, Australian trick-shot golfer, didn't need to equal the course record for the Royal York golf course in the last round of the Canadian open championship, to enable him to win the title. He had it won before he started by eight strokes, over Lex Robson, who finished in a tie with Harry Cooper, last year's champion. Young Bobby Alston, 24 year old pro. from Ottawa, furnished the features of the first two days' play by leading the field with two par-breaking rounds. But the nerve-wracking 36-hole final, and the fact that he was paired with Kirkwood proved to much for him and he finished about sixth. Canadian golfers made a real bid for the title and covered themselves with glory battling against their more experienced U.S. opponents. The win by Kirkwood was his first major golf victory in the many years he has been playing, both on this continent and in Europe. He broke par three times and equalled it once during the play.

Leafs Staging Dog Fight With Bisons for Northern Division.

GAMES RAINED OUT.

(By Orlo Robertson, A. P. Sports Writer)

When Frank Shaughnessy of Montreal, father of the play-off system that will send four teams into a series of post season games, sold his idea to the International League directors last winter his main talking point was that the two divisions, north and south, would be equally represented among the four leading clubs during the regular season.

"It has only failed to happen once in the last 30 years," said Shaughnessy.

Now with less than two weeks to play, the order of finish is just as Shaughnessy predicted. In the southern section, Newark and Baltimore are practically in, although Albany still rates an outside chance to crowd the Orioles out. In the northern division, Rochester apparently has one position all but won while Toronto and Buffalo are staging a dog fight for the other place, Today the Leafs held a 2½ game margin.

All of the games yesterday including the first of a three-game series between Toronto and Buffalo, were washed out.

With yesterday's contest rained out, Toronto and Buffalo were scheduled for a doubleheader today, playing one as a twilight game and the other at night. Labor Day, the Bisons open a four-game series at Toronto that may go a long way towards deciding which team will meet the second-place club in the southern division.

Dog Pack Runs Down Horse Near Foxboro

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 23.—(C.P.)—The district of Foxboro has been victimized by dogs running amok in the sheep pastures. Many sheep have been killed, with heavy losses to their owners.

Yesterday Lew Johns reported his horse had been chasen until it fell from exhaustion, breaking its leg. It was torn by fangs while helpless on the ground. The leader of the pack, a large police dog, was shot and killed, but two other dogs escaped.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

ALEX MORRISON says:

Nearly every player has mastered at least one club in his bag.

He can play some shot consistently well.

Few players, however, are able to play all clubs well.

The chief reason for this is the failure generally to recognize the essentials of a successful swing.

The fundamentals of the proper swing with iron clubs are the same as those in the correct swing with wood clubs.

Therefore, if a player can hit good iron shots he should be able to hit just as good wood shots.

All the player need do is to recognize the essentials which afford him success with one club and apply them with every club.

LOCALS STAGE NINTH INNING RALLY FOR TIE

Errors Have Much to do With Big Score in First O.A.S.A. Playdown.

BOWLMEN OUTHIT 22-18.

Sugar Bowl and Smith-Baldwins battled to an exciting 14-all tie in Lindsay last night in the first game of their O.A.S.A. playdown round before seven hundred fans. The Bowl, after relinquishing their early lead in a Lindsay seventh-inning rally, came on in the ninth to tie it up. It was raining heavily then and the game was called. The next fixture between these teams will be at Stevenson Park Thursday.

Both sides booted the ball around a lot, errors having much to do with the scoring. Four twirlers were used, two to a side, and the Peterborough crew locked much better till late in the game. Then the Lindsay sluggers began to hammer the big pellet out of the lot and it was anybody's affair at the last.

Simmons Called to Relief.

Sturgeon hurled good ball till the fifth, but they were getting to him from then on, and Simmons was called in the eighth when the homesters went on a hitting spree. The veteran finally halted them, but not before four more runs tallied. McByren, starting Lindsay twirler, proved no mystery to the Sugar Bowlers and lasted but two frames. Gamble went in then and threw a fine game, though his teammates didn't give him the best of support.

Sturgeon topped the Dormer hitters with four in six, while Smith and Russell got three apiece. Balfour led the home crew with the willow, clouting out four in six times, and the Campbell brothers, Fever and Brown all got three safeties. J. Campbell banged out two homers. C. Campbell and Balfour getting one each. A total of fifteen extra-base blows rattled off the delivery of the different flingers.

Classy Field Work.

Playford and Weir pulled in some classy catches in the visitors' outfield, with the infield clicking only fair. Fever and Shaw went best on the defensive for the homesters. The Smith-Baldwin crew came through with two fast double-plays.

The Bowlmen ran in three runs in the second and three in the third. They added two in the fourth and four in the next canto. That finished them till the ninth when the tying two markers were shoved across, the winners being left on third. Lindsay could get but one in the first and no more till the fifth when four were chalked up. A pair came in in the sixth and then seven in the big eighth frame. They threatened in the ninth but failed to counter.

NEW TORONTO TAKES HONORS

Defeats Oshawa for Third Straight Championship By 8-3 Score.

CALLED IN EIGHTH.

TORONTO, Aug. 23 — Constable Weatherup's New Toronto squad retained possession of their laurels last night at the Goodyear Field by defeating Oshawa Dukes, 8 to 3, to claim their third straight West Toronto Senior League title, and the right to meet either Kingston or Peterborough in the first round of the O.B.A.A. playdowns and Arlingtons in the Toronto play-offs.

A heavy downpour of rain in the first of the eighth with the visitors at bat terminated the game. Despite the inclement weather some 2,000 fans turned out to view the proceedings.

The Motor City representatives fought to stay in the running, but could not measure up to the calibre of the Lake Shore men, who outhit them 12 to 7, in addition to providing a stonewall defence which the Dukes failed to penetrate.

BRAVES GAIN SECOND PLACE NATIONAL LOOP

Berger's 22nd Homer Gives Boston 5-4 Victory Over Pirates.

YANKEES WIN 4-3.

Tigers Snap 13-game Winning Streak of Senators With 10-8 Triumph.

(By Herbert W. Barker, A. P. Sports Writer)

Lightning seldoms strikes twice in the same spot but National League contenders, harking back to 1914 are casting an apprehensive eye on the exploits of Boston Braves.

There's still a long hard struggle ahead of Bill McKechnie's hopefuls before they can rival the feat of the Braves of 10 years ago who climbed from last place on July 4 to win the pennant and then the world series in successive games from Philadelphia Athletics. But it's not impossible.

Their fourth straight triumph over Pittsburgh Pirates and their 17-victory in 21 games yesterday sent the Braves flying into second place, seven games behind New York Giants. McKechnie's crew was in fifth place when their winning streak began 24 days ago.

Wally Berger's 22nd homer in the 14th inning gave the Braves their 5-4 decision over the Pirates yesterday and ruined what otherwise was an all but perfect job of relief pitching by the veteran Waite Hoyt. Going to the mound in the fourth after Young Hal Smith had given way to a pinch hitter, Hoyt walked Al Spohrer, first man to face him. Then he set down 25 batsmen in order before Hal Lee singled with one down in the 12th. Hoyt then got the next five men in succession but Berger broke up the ball game with none out in the 14th. Fred Frankhouse went the route for the Braves and allowed only 10 hits, blanking the Corsairs over the last nine frames.

Sharing the headlines with the Braves were Detroit Tigers who snapped the 13 - game winning streak of Washington Senators with a thrilling 10-8 triumph. Washington twice overcame Tiger leads but Detroit finally won out in the ninth when Hank Greenberg, big first baseman, clouted a homer with one on and two men out. The Senators' defeat, coupled with the New York Yankees' victory over Cleveland Indians, clipped Washington's American league lead to 7½ games.

Nose Out Indians 4-3

A triple by Bill Dickey in the ninth followed by a single by pinch hitter Joe Sewell enabled the Yankees to nose out the Indians 4-3. Vernon Gomez allowed only four hits and fanned 10 and should have had an easy victory over Mel Harder except for his own wildness.

Home runs by McNair, Higgins and Finney helped the Athletics turn back St. Louis Browns 7-6 while Chicago White Sox took two games from Boston, 8-1 and 4-0. Ted Lyons allowed seven hits in the opener and Joe Heving only six in the shutout.

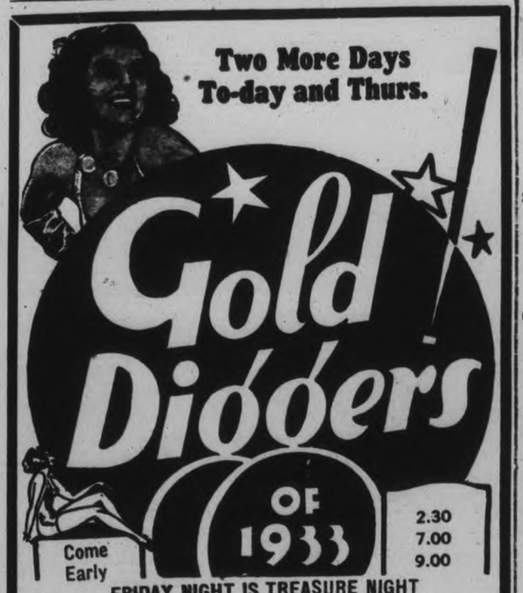
Yanks Slipping From Top Pinnacle of Baseball



7 Horsemen Released On Bail Of a Million

CHICAGO, Aug. 23. — Posting nearly $1,000,000 worth of real estate as surety for their bonds, seven of the ten racehorse owners, managers and track employees who were indicted last week by a Federal Grand Jury for illegal possession of narcotics, were released yesterday.

Jack Howard, of Lexington, Ky., prominent turf man and manager for a stable of horses owned by his wife, was the first to surrender yesterday and obtain his release. Others freed on bonds were A. A. Baroni, stable owner; Benjamin Greech, manager of a stable owned by his wife; Hal Price Headley, owner; Dr. Nelson Edward Southard, Louisville, veterinarian; Ivan Parke, former jockey, and John Porter Mitchell, negro exercise boy for Howard. Each bond was placed at $5,000.

"I never shot a horse with dope in my life, and I never instructed one of my employees to do so" said Howard. "If on any occasion narcotics were given to any of my horses, it was on the prescription of a licensed veterinarian for an ailment from which the horse was suffering."

The Babe is going.

So are the Yanks.

George Herman Ruth is treading the last mile of his magnificent career as a player. And with him, slipping into the shadows is that great old Yankee machine which for 14 years with occasional time out for repairs or adjustments, dominated baseball.

The great Yankee ball club sprang into being with Babe Ruth's arrival in New York in 1920. So it is fitting that they should pass from the picture together.

Early this season it became apparent that Ruth was near the end of his rope as an active athlete. Within the last several weeks it became equally apparent that the old championship outfit was on its way out, too.

* * *

THE COLLAPSE of the Yankees on their current road trip was unexpected, but it might have been foreseen.

Only his popularity and the effect he has on the team's morale, has kept Ruth off the bench, according to close observers of the Yankees. Several other old timers have slowed down badly. The whole machine has been creaking since late spring and is now falling apart.

Even should the Yankees, by some miracle, manage to stagger through to another pennant they would need rebuilding before the 1934 season. However, it borders on the ridiculous to suggest Washington may go into a terrible slump of such proportions that the Yankees could pass them.

* * *

THERE HAVE been great ball teams before the Yanks, but none which equalled them in capturing so many pennants and remaining a great power for so long a time.

In the 14 years since Ruth and the Yankees rose to power, the team has won seven pennants and four world championships. Since the Yanks, even in their present wobbly state, can hardly finish less than runner-up to Washington, the end of the season will see the New Yorkers finishing second for the fourth time in 14 years. Twice they finished third.

Only once in the last 14 years have the Yankees been in the second division. They finished seventh in 1925, but came back the following season to win the pennant.

The Yankee morale was shot to pieces in 1925. Babe Ruth's troubles with Miller Huggins came to a climax that year.

* * *

IT MAY BE argued that this Yankee team, falling apart in the closing days of the 1933 race, is not the same machine which roared to three straight pennants in the early twenties since Babe Ruth is the only player who has been a part of both teams.

However, Babe was a very great part of the old championship outfit and he has been a very large section of the current Yankee club.

In the last 14 years the Yankee lineup changes have been gradual so that from year to year the makeup of the club showed only one or two replacements. This time, however, there must be a new deal. And there will be.

OMEMEE WINS FIRST BATTLE

Millbrook Tuxis Boys Beaten 20-11 But Tie Second Game 7-7.

PLAY IN EMILY VILLAGE.

OMEMEE, Aug. 23 (Examiner Correspondence). — The athletic grounds were the scene of two softball encounters on Monday afternoon and evening, when teams from Millbrook and Lindsay tangled with the locals. Omemee won the afternoon game against Tuxis Boys of Millbrook by the score of 20-11, but had to be content with a tie game at night against Lindsay, and they were mighty lucky to get a tie game at that, because in the sixth innings Lindsay scored 5 runs with nobody out, but when the umpire, ... McNeill, called the game on account of darkness, the score reverted to the fifth innings, which was all tied up 7-7. Some nice fielding was provided by the Omemee infield, two double plays helping Brooks out of the hole. In the afternoon game, Rehill and B. Weir were wielding potent bats, each hitting safely four times and scoring three apiece. Line ups:

Omemee.—C. Reed, ss; Stephenson, p; Pogue, cf; Jamieson, 1b; Tripp, 3b; H. Rehill, c; Weir, lf; Earl, 2b.

TENNIS

Rain forced the postponing of a number of the scheduled City Open Tournament matches yesterday, and these should be run off as soon as possible. D. McPherson took the Junior men's singles, second round, from Gordon Kirkwood, 6-2, 5-7, and 6-2. The ladies' doubles, first round, went to Mrs. Dewart and Miss I. Davidson over Peggy Scott and Jeanette Allin, 6-1 and 6-3. In the mixed doubles, Miss Donaldson and H. Macdonald defeated Miss Lachuer and J. Huffman, in the first round play; and the second round saw Mrs. Dewart and G. Scott win, 6-1 and 6-4, from Miss G. Caddy and Jack Kirkwood.

BOWLING NOTES

(By Herb Martin)

Under conditions that were hardly favorable to good bowling, J. Cullen defeated J. J. Howden in Group No. 2 play-off. Both teams had won and lost the same number of games, thereby creating a tie. The game commenced in fair weather, but the further the game went the worse the rain came down. However, the game was finally finished in a heavy drizzle. Cullen now meets Cairns Thursday night at 7 p.m.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball—Softball—Lacrosse
Soccer—Wrestling, and Others

(By C. J. P.)

Knotty Lee and his Petes got away early this morning for Kingston and they're hoping to clean up the C.O.B.L. series tonight. If they should lose this game today, the team will stop off in Belleville tonight and play there tomorrow—not coming home till tomorrow night. That's the best idea in such a crucial case, and not having the boys going around next day when they're supposed to be in top form with their tongues hanging out a foot and as much spring to their steps as that found in some of those sea-going hacks they used to call cars.

* * * * * *

Cogs are the new E.P.L. champions. By beating C.G.E., 6 to 4, in the first game of a scheduled double-header last night, the Clubmen hoisted the crown to their heads for the first time since 1929. If prosperity which flew out the window that same year would just come jogging back some of these days, we'd all doubtless feel as happy as Dorsey Davis' boys did last gloaming. They meet Havelock next. C.G.E. put up a game battle, and they sure hated to lose that pennant which they seemed to hold a mortgage on for the past three seasons, but life is like that. Everything must come to an end some time.

* * * * * *

Up in Lindsay last eve, Sugar Bowl and Smith-Baldwins finished up in a rainy ninth-inning with the count sewed up and hemstitched at 14-14. The guy on the score-board, with true Lindsay loyalty, marked it up as 15 to 14 for the homesters, and many of the crowd ankled away chuckling merrily. But the scorers had it jotted down differently, and the game was called off as a tie. It may be fun to sing in the rain, but softball and rain—like likker and gasoline—don't mix worth a hoot. Big crowd took in the fracas.

* * * * * *

They'll do their stuff over at Stevenson Park tomorrow p.m., it being the second game of their O.A.S.A. playdown round. And fans should be kept back a couple of yards from the base-lines. Some dope in the Lindsay mob yester eve reached out and plucked off a foul fly, just like picking an apple, right out of Pat Calladine's mitt. It was funny to see, but Patrick didn't like it nohow, nor his teammates, nor the umpires. Just the Lindsay crowd, and this writer—and the latter is noted for laughing at the wrong time.

* * * * * *

The game itself was plenty close and exciting. Some good and bad pitching was dished up by both sides, and the same might be said of the fielding. The Dormer clan had a sizeable early lead but several Ruthian wallops, plus some shorter but just as safe hits in the stormy eighth stanza, nearly ruined the day for Sugar Bowl. They had enough left, though, to tie it up in the ninth. It'll be quite a series before the two "S.B." outfits wind it up.

* * * * * *

Gals' softball second titular tilt in Keene yesterday ended in the sixth inning when darkness forced the calling of it, and it was no contest, as seven innings of a softball game must be played to constitute a fixture. The managers waited fifteen minutes to start it, rain coming down, but old Jupe Pluvius wasn't letting up long enough for folks to turn down their collars again. They had quite a crowd and a nice layout of benches, etc. Some forty cars chugchugged down from here. This game will be played down there on Thursday night, the next one being back here on Saturday evening.

* * * * * *

One week from to-morrow sees August, last summer month, hit the trail of yester-year. And then autumn is practically upon us. The various local summer leagues are all finished up, except for play-offs in some cases, and by September 1st, just a few of those will be left. The weather is getting uncertain now, so when a good play-off contest is lined up and the night is fine, folks better hop to it and take a look-see while the fanning is okay. Won't be long till there's not a thing stirring 'round here but football and maybe the odd boxing match. Do your sports shopping early.

* * * * * *

Among our diamond souvenirs, that's what Lindsay fans can say when a team of old Greybirds—once a classy senior outfit—will dig the faded old uniforms out of the moth-balls and tackle an All-Star Scugog squad of young ball tossers. The idea, which emanated from here though nothing has come of it so far, was worked out successfully in Belleville Civic Holiday, and may go over big in Lindsay. On the one hand you find a bunch of nervous youngsters playing their heads off to beat the bewhiskered gentry; and on the other mitt, there is a flock of ex-ball players, most of 'em travelling now on their reps and experience. Should youth be served? Well, it will eventually, but sometimes the old-timers postpone the serving for a bit. We'd like to see the Ancients and the Moderns try it out here this fall.

* * * * * *

Shufflin' around: Understand C.G.E. gals lost here last night to Port Hope by some score or other.....Lindsay soccer team plays a league match at King Edward Park to-night 'gainst Caleys at 6.15.....If that Kingston senior tap-dance is played to-night (it will be unless it's raining heavily), it'll start at 5.30 D.S.T., and we'll wire back the score every three innings.....Frank Scully's knee, hurt in last Saturday's spasm, is bothering him a little, but not bad.....The Sugar Bowl vs. Smith-Baldwins' softball play-off at Riverside on Thursday will start at 6.15 o'clock.....New Toronto beat Oshawa for the W. Toronto loop title, and we just heard today that if the Petes win the C.O.B.L. series, first inter-series game will be in Toronto next Wednesday, whereas if Kingston wins, they'll play the first inter-series one in the Limestone town on Wednesday .....So if to-night's game in Kingston is rained out, they'll stay right there and play to-morrow, a fifth game (if necessary) being staged in Belleville on Saturday; and that's a break.

Scientists have long known that the basic health factor of limes and lemons is Vitamin C.

Kuntz's Lime Rickey combines the fresh juices of sun-ripened California limes and lemons—sweetened slightly with pure cane sugar—reduced to drinking strength by pure, sparkling, filtered water—and carbonated.

To this delicious thirst-quenching beverage, owing to recent discoveries, we are now able to add in concentrated form an extra quantity of Vitamin C, one of the vitamins essential to good health, a supply of which you should have every day.

THE DEVIL'S BOWLING ALLEY
By HERSCHEL DEUTCH
Central Press Canadian Writer

AN ENDLESS procession of wooden balls keeps rolling down the inclined trough. Each ball has a number on a concealed slide. "No planks!" shouts the grifter. "Everybody wins!" On the sign are listed the numbers which call for the beautiful big prizes displayed around the booth. They are all between 10 and 20. The other, higher numbers, win small prizes, worth a few pennies each. "Let me show you," said the grifter to the sucker. "Point to any ball. No charge—this is for demonstration only."

He picks up the rolling ball to which the sucker has pointed, pushes out the metal number slide and shows No. 12. "See," he says, "if you had been playing, this would have won you a big prize."

The sucker's eyes gleam and he lunges forward to pay his money and make his choice of the balls rolling down the alley. He plucks one out and hands it over, but, when the slide is pushed out, it shows No. 138, winning a small prize.

The insert shows how the grifter does it. There are no low numbers on the alley at all. The high ones are merely pushed out part way when the sucker is being tempted.

Next: "Pop in the bucket."

ALL OF US

By MARSHALL MASLIN

ALWAYS THE tail goes with the hide, and there's no avoiding it.

If you lose your temper and slash out at people, you'll pile up ridicule for yourself and gain no great profit in admiration.

If you do the bold, brave thing, even though the many may be against you, you'll have a warm feeling within you.

If you pretend falsely to yourself, you'll know a cheapness in your heart.

If you would have a boy strong and independent you must let him make many a mistake.

If you would climb high, you must stand where all may see your faults as well as your virtues.

If you prefer to sacrifice everything else for money, you must lose what money cannot buy.

If you would live in books, you must lose what you might get from homely contact with living people.

If you would live long, you must be content to grow old.

Sleep early and miss the midnight beauty, go to bed late and miss the rising sun.

Dream and you lose the joys of action, act boldly and you shall not taste the pleasures of contemplation.

Ride fast and the landscape is a blur, ride slowly and come late to your destination or choose a goal that is not far.

Drink deep and intoxicate yourself with life; sip and savor the taste of the quiet hours.

Choose and accept the reward of your choice; or delay and regret forever your procrastination.

The tail, as always, goes with the hide—and this is the last of these sage aphorisms.

BACK TO GOLD, PLEA AT PROBE

Saskatchewan Professor Claims Former Policy Will Restore Confidence.

FARMERS' PLIGHT TOLD.

(By Ray Brown, C.P. Staff Writer.)

SASKATOON, Aug. 23 (CP)—Return to the gold standard to-day had been urged upon the Royal Commision on Banking by Professor W. W. Swanson, head of the Department of Economics of Saskatchewan University. It should be Canada's fixed banking policy to restore confidence and stability, he said, and this could only be done by restoring the gold standard. "Disastrous effects 'on Canada's export trade had followed its abandonment.

Canada's banking system came in for praise from the Western economist. "It is nothing short of a great achievement that the Canadian banking system has come intact through the greatest financial hurricane the world has ever known," he asserted. Four thousand banks had crashed in the United States with their customers caught in the wreckage.

He claimed it entirely unfair to judge the Canadian banking system in a time of acute depression. The long view over a period of years was the only safe estimate.

Frank Eliosan, secretary of the Saskatchewan Branch, United Farmers of Canada, provided some practical detail. The homes of 75 per cent of Saskatchewan farmers were depleted of clothing, he said. Farm machinery had depreciated to the point of uselessness for lack of cash to keep it in repair. Roasted grain had become a substitute for tea and coffee in many homes.

The Commission left last night for Regina where it will hold sittings to-day. If it is found possible to conclude at Regina this evening, Winnipeg sittings will open to-morrow. If not, they will go over until Friday.

CANON BRAITHWAITE

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 23 (Examiner Correspondence)—Those who remember the visit of Rev. Canon R. B. P. Braithwaite of Winchester, England, and his daughter to Lakefield about seven years ago, when they were guests of Rev. Walter and Mrs. Cox, will learn with regret of the death of the venerable gentleman on July 25th in his eighty-fourth year. Canon Braithwaite graduated from Jesus College, Cambridge, in 1873, and was ordained to the priesthood at Salisbury in 1874. He was for years at Abbotsford, Devon, and was also Vicar of St. Luke's, Jersey, and of Andover, Hants, leaving there to go to Winchester Cathedral. He was a bold and eloquent preacher and a strong advocate of total abstinence. His wife predeceased him a few years ago and his only son was killed on active service in the Great War. His daughter survives him. The funeral service was held in Winchester Cathedral on July 27th.

During his visit to Lakefield, Canon Braithwaite gave a very interesting illustrated address to the pupils and friends of The Grove, and also officiated as preacher at the Sunday services, and his delightful personality won him many friends who will regret his passing and will join in heartfelt sympathy to Miss Braithwaite in her bereavement.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN

TORONTO, Aug. 23. — Ontario grain, approximate prices track shipping point—Wheat, 64c to 65c; oats, 33c to 35c; barley, 38c to 40c; rye, 45c to 46c.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23. — A sharp advance in rye gave wheat a firmer tone late yesterday and turned prices higher.

Buying by millers and elevators, chiefly removal of hedges, found rye vulnerable, and the price quickly shot up five cents a bushel. May going to 82¾ cents, the maximum permitted in one day. This also carried wheat up, the December delivery touching 97 cents before profit-taking wiped out almost 1½ cents of the gain. Corn failed to follow and was easy at the close.

Wheat followed firmer, ⅝c to 1⅝c higher than Monday's close and somewhat under the day's peak. Corn easy, ⅜c to ⅝c lower. Oats, ⅛c to ¼c higher. Rye, 4½c to 4⅝c up, and provisions steady to 15c advance.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Aug. 23.—Prices of fresh eggs continued to advance on the Montreal Dairy and Produce Market yesterday with extras bringing 22c to 23c a dozen, firsts at 17c to 18c, and seconds 14c to 15c, for graded shipments, in carlots or less. These prices were unchanged to 1c higher than yesterday. Receipts totalled 2,838 cases.

On the butter market, quotations continued mostly at 18¾c a pound for No. 1 butter in carlots or less, unchanged from Monday, but the tone of the market was not strong. Announcement of increased butter production in Canada as compared with last year had a bearish effect on the market and the feeling is growing among dealers that Canada will have to export the surplus of butter. With export prices netting only between 16c and 17c a pound, speculative holders are loath to sell so low. Receipts today were 212 boxes.

Ontario and Quebec white and colored cheese eased ¼c less. Arrivals amounted to 6,725 boxes.

New Quebec potatoes held unchanged at 80c to 90c per 80-pound bag.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, August 23. — With a minimum of wheat for sale on the Grain Exchange, wheat prices took heart yesterday and advanced under the slight impetus of a little scattered buying from local houses. Maximum gains of about 1 cent were not held, however, and the close left wheat futures with gains of ⅜c to ½c over Monday's finish

Values were firm most of the morning, and at the close October option was quoted at 71⅝c, December at 73⅝c, and May at 78½c. Outside news was generally bullish. Chicago was quite strong, and the Liverpool market showed fractional gains at the close.

Overnight export sales were estimated at between 300,000 and 400,000 bushels, including a full cargo from Vancouver to United Kingdom buyers. Lack of rain in the Argentine is apparently very serious, while European harvesting operations are being delayed by unfavorable weather.

Offerings were light in the cash grain department, and spreads were unimproved at the close. Coarse grains were firm in sympathy with wheat, the main factor being lack of selling pressure.

McKAGUE—RUNNELS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, August 23. — Amid color of pink and white, on the porch at 12 o'clock noon, on Wednesday, August the 16th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Runnels, Dartford was the scene of a very pretty wedding when their youngest daughter, Helen Julia was united in marriage to John Clarence McKague, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McKague, Castleton. Rev. Dr. Edwin Smith, of Warkworth, officiated.

The bride, lovely in an ankle-length white silk chiffon organdie dress and carrying a bouquet of Sweetheart roses, Baby Breath and fern, entered the porch with her father, to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Mrs. Harry Wilson, Norham, sister of the bride, who also sang "All Joy be Thine," accompanied by Miss Leila McKague, sister of the groom, during the signing of the register.

After the ceremony a dainty buffet luncheon was served on the lawn to about 45 guests by Misses Ina Bowen, Nellie Greenly, Evelyn Partridge, Marion Wilson and Mildred Nelson.

The groom's gift to the bride was a cheque, to Mrs Wilson a purse and to Miss McKague a purse.

Amid showers of confetti and best wishes the happy couple left for a motor trip to Ottawa, via Toronto and Orillia. The bride travelled in a grey crepe dress with blue Swiss embroidery, a grey coat with squirrel trimming, with shoes, hose and hat to match. On their return Mr. and Mrs. McKague will reside at Oak Heights.

Previous to the wedding a trousseau tea was given by the bride to about thirty ladies and also a presentation was given them at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McKague, Castleton.

The many beautiful gifts show the high esteem in which the young couple are held.

GRANDY—WHITTINGTON

SPRINGVILLE, August 23 (Examiner Correspondence). — A pretty wedding was solemnized in Springville United Church on Tuesday morning, when Helen Margaret, second daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Whittington, of North Monaghan, was united in marriage to John Stanford Grandy, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grandy of Brooklyn. Rev. S. H. Moyer officiated.

The church was beautifully decorated with phlox and gladioli in shades of pink and white with a background of asparagus fern. Gladioli and phlox banked the altar and mingled with the ferns to form an arch under which the ceremony was performed. To the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March the bridal party entered the church. The bride was attired in a cocoa brown ribbed sheer crepe ensemble with matching accessories and corsage bouquet of Talisman roses. She was given in marriage by her brother Vincent of Peterborough. She was attended by her sister, Miss Ethel Whittington, Reg N., of New York, who wore a beige and brown crepe ensemble with accessories of brown. She wore a corsage bouquet of roses in matching shades. The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Russel Earl of Fairmount. Ushers were Mr. Walter Brown and Mr. Kenneth Moyer of Springville.

The wedding music was played by Mr Clairemont Morgan, organist of the church. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Mars Westington of Chicago sang sweetly, "I Love You Truly."

Mr and Mrs Grandy left by motor for points East. They will visit the Thousand Islands, and on their return will reside at Brooklyn.

RELIEF ENQUIRY IS PETITIONED BY UNEMPLOYED

Decision By U. W. F. Asks For Probe Into Finances.

PRESIDENT UPHELD.

William Smyth's Resignation From Fraternity Demanded by Vote.

Asking for a government probe into the administration of relief in this city, a petition was, to-day, put into circulation among the municipal electors by the Unemploye Workers' Fraternity.

Decision to petition the Provincial Government was made at a meeting of approximately sixty members of the Fraternity, held last evening under the chairmanship of A. Laws, at the organization headquarters.

It followed upon a stormy session during which first president and organizer Charles W. Holland and vice-president W. Childs, had laid their resignations before the meeting, in protest against inclusion in the membership of W. Smyth, who was termed "a stool pigeon" who was working against the interests of the unemployed." The resignations did not become effective.

In the harangue which followed bitter invective was hurled across the floor of the meeting and resulted in a unanimous demand for Smythes' resignation from the organization.

When order was restored, Holland urged the need of the U.W.F. presenting a united front and having its membership working together in harmony. The purpose of the organization, he said, was to "fight for the bread and butter of the unemployed, and a higher standard of relief."

Charging that relief was not being equitably administered in Peterborough, he urged his hearers, "Let us get together to fight for the whole of the unemployed, by fair means, for uniform relief."

"Is there any man here satisfied with the relief he is getting" Holland demanded.

"No" hellowed a deep-throated chorus.

"Do you think you are all getting enough to eat?"

STORE WINDOWS SHOW BARGAINS

Public Reminded That Primary Markets Are Advancing.

VALUES ARE GREATER.

Did you know that prices of most commodities are advancing more or less rapidly?

Those little index fingers of trade that mark increasing prices, mark also increasing employment and better times all 'round. When prices go up, prosperity steps around that long-lost corner, the wheels in factories start moving and the cash registers tinkle more frequently.

Dollar Days are here again, with all the opportunities they bring for bargain purchases at low cost. Just now, with increase in prices looming up all over the map, it is more advantageous than ever to shop on these two days—Friday and Saturday of this week.

And you can indulge in that entertaining and very economical pastime of window-shopping in preparation for buying what you need. The store windows to-night and to-morrow will offer many inducements for investment of money in household necessities and in purchasing clothing for the autumn and winter months.

It is predicted as a luxurious winter for women's wear. Furs, laces and costly materials are in the offing. Buy on Dollar Days and find yourself just a jump ahead of those advancing prices that mean good times are here again. The twin bargain days—Friday and Saturday—reveal better values for shoppers than ever before.

TRUSTING.

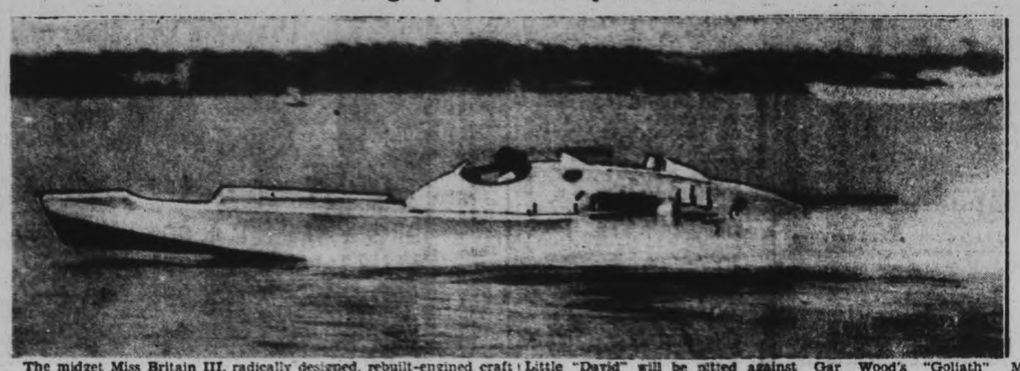
Henry is still waiting.

Warming Up For The Speed Title



The midget Miss Britain III, radically designed, rebuilt-engined craft of Hubert Scott-Paine, British sportsman in action in a recent test. Little "David" will be pitted against Gar Wood's "Goliath" Miss America X September 2, 4 and 5 for the Harmsworth Cup honors.

Trail of a Rat

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (C.P.).—The rat that emerged from his hole in the Eighth Avenue subway one night while the line was being constructed and scurried 51 feet along the platform didn't realize it, but he was leaving his footprints to posterity.

For the cement of the platform was newly-laid, and now scientists of the American Museum of Natural History have prepared, more or less for fun, an article about this pseudo-geological record.

They found that the footprints now hardened and immortal, are those of the ratus-norsecious or just plain rat.

CUBA ATTEMPTS GUN ROUND-UP

Officials Consider Ordering All Civilians to Surrender Weapons.

MOB VOLENCE GOES ON.

By John P. McKnight

HAVANA, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Alarmed by outbreaks of lawlessness throughout Cuba, the provisional government and military officials today considered how they could best disarm civilians.

Authorities studied the possibility of issuing military orders that all non-military persons turn in the weapons they collected in three years of bloody struggles against the recently-ended regime of Gerardo Machado, in order to prevent a repetition of mob violence such as that in Santiago when two men were taken from soldiers and shot.

It was understood that the A.B.C. secret society, which in the 12 days since Machado's downfall has taken a leading role in tracking down and imprisoning or killing Machadistas, is willing to turn over its guns and leave the pursuit of Machado's followers to soldiers and police.

In Havana, Santiago, and other cities violent acts occurred yesterday and early today.

In Santiago, more than 1,000 men seized two men from guards, killed them, and dragged the bodies through the streets. The victims, Victor Viscay, former mayor of San Luis, and Joaquin Ramos, former army sergeant, were accused of having been Machadistas.

Bishop Asks Clergy Abandon "My Lord"

BRISTOL, England, Aug. 24.—(CP Cable)—The Bishop of Bristol, Rt. Rev. Dr. Salisbury Woodward, today asked his clergy to cease calling him "my lord."

"In the old days, when bishops were amicable scholars living in dignified east apart from the clergy, such titles were perhaps not inappropriate, but thank God things are different now," he said.

Bishop Woodward has appointed a woman as diocesan director of religious drama. Nativity plays were recently presented in Bristol cathedral. No one participating in religious plays in churches, he believes, can share the fear that they entail a loss of reverence, though he admits indifferent plays, indifferently presented, can do more harm than good.

SPEND LAST PENNY TO REGAIN HARMSWORTH CUP FOR BRITAIN

Scott-Paine Sends Challenger Over First Trial Run.

NOVEL SPEED BOAT.

ALGONAC, Mich., Aug. 24 (AP)—Hubert Scott-Paine has let it be known he is going to keep trying until he wins the Harmsworth Trophy. "If it takes the last penny I've got."

The British challenger thus expressed himself as he and his mechanics made final adjustments on the Miss Britain III prior to the first trial run of the craft over the waters of Lake St. Clair to-day.

For five years I have waited to get into the Harmsworth, but something always came up to prevent my competing," he said. "Now things are entirely different and I am in it to stay until the task of bringing the trophy back home is finished.

Luck Might Help

"It may not be my fortune to win from Gar this year, but who knows? With a bit of luck it might be accomplished."

The red-haired British sportsman then explained why he crossed the Atlantic this year to race Gar Wood and his Miss America X in the 1933 edition of the speed boat classic.

"Briefly my plans are these," he said. "I have a novel boat with many interesting features and it might accomplish more than I hope. A bit of luck, you know, may change the picture entirely.

"But my sole purpose in coming over this year was to keep the race alive, and win if possible. I am in the Harmsworth picture to stay so long as I have a penny to spend for a boat, until I win the trophy."

First Trial To-day

Miss Britain III will make its trial run to-day, its tanks filled with "home brewed" gasoline. The fuel, a special brand, is made from a formula rushed to Scott-Paine Tuesday when it became apparent his supply of British fuel would not reach the United States until some time late this week and would not arrive at Algonac until after the first day of the race, which starts Sept. 2.

Pigeon From Ottawa Found At Ennismore

Several of the pigeons released here last Saturday by the city police for the Ottawa Pigeon Club, appear to have lost their bearings and to have become lost or stranded in this district.

Six instances of lost pigeons belonging to Ottawa, including one dead bird, have so far come to the attention of The Examiner. The latest report is received from Ennismore, where Maurice O'Connor is caring for a pigeon which came into his yard and which was loath to take its departure.

In a letter to The Examiner, Mr. O'Connor states: "A pigeon came into my back-yard yesterday, seemingly very hungry. I fed it and let it go, but it returned in the evening. The leg band indicates the bird is from Ottawa, and the owner may claim the bird at my address."

UNEMPLOYED PLAN CONCERT.

Announcement was made at a meeting of the Unemployed Workers' Fraternity last night, that a concert is to be presented in the U. W. F. Hall on Friday evening, with the proceeds of a silver collection to be devoted to the treasury of the organization. The effort directed by Mrs. Charles Hill of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the U.W.F. is to commence at 7.45 o'clock.

MINER TRAPPED, BLAZING SHAFT

50 Companions Battle Desperately at Cobalt Pit Head to Reach Victim.

ONE BADLY BURNED.

COBALT.—John Kennedy, West Cobalt, was trapped underground at the Yorkshire Cobalt mine when fire swept through surface buildings early today. Grave fears are entertained for his safety.

Adelard Leonard, Cobalt, was also below but escaped from the shaft. He was taken to hospital seriously burned.

About 50 men were working desperately around the pit head but little hope was held they could reach Kennedy in time. Weeping quietly, the mother and sisters of the trapped man were watching anxiously the rescue efforts.

Comparatively new mine, with six or seven buildings, there were only about eight employees on the spot when fire broke out, destroying the shaft house and power plant. One ran for aid while the others began rescue work as well as they could.

Fire broke out near the gasoline compressor just as the night shift was coming off and there were only two men underground at the time. Leonard climbed up and burst his way through the blazing shaft-house to safety but suffered severe head burns and congestion of the lungs.

Six Chicagoans Overdue On Flight

DAWSON CREEK, B.C., Aug. 24 (CP)—Fears for the safety of six Chicagoans, overdue in a flight to the upper Halfway country, grew to-day as hours sped by without word of the missing party. They left here Monday in a wheel-equipped plane, intending to return before nightfall, but have not been heard from.

Their route leads over rough country in which there are few areas suitable for landing fields. It is believed here they have been forced down and their machine damaged in landing.

NEW PREMIER SEEKS REST.

HALIFAX, Aug. 24.— (CP.) — Premier-elect Angus L. Macdonald left his political worries behind to-day and left for the countryside for a few brief days of rest. He was accompanied by Mrs. Macdonald.

GREENFIELD, Miss., Aug. 24.—(C.P.)—The three men who comprise the Board of Selectmen of Wendell departed for home to-day after running the town's affairs from the county jail here since July 3, when they began sentences of three months each for illegally leaving the names of voters off the franchise list. Yesterday Governor Joseph B. Ely signed pardons for the three men.

YAWL IS MISSING ON LAKE ONTARIO

All Shipping Clings to Ports as 50 Mile Gale Sweeps in From Coast.

RIVERS IN FLOOD.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., August 24 (C.P.). — The missing yawl Ontario was beached two miles west of Olcott Beach this morning with her crew of three safe and the boat undamaged, it is reported this afternoon by Mrs. Arthur Fisher, wife of the owner of the Toronto-bound craft.

CATSKILL, N.Y., Aug. 24.— (C.P.)—The big eastern storm moved into New York State and the region bordering the Great Lakes to-day as a 50 mile gale and driving rain drove all shipping on Lake Ontario to shelter and hid the fate of the 45-foot yawl Ontario, only craft to leave Rochester since the storm set in.

The Ontario, reported to be heading for Toronto, was unreported. Toronto advices said that in view of weather conditions prevailing last night, the yawl had probably put in at Olcott, N.Y. This report could not be confirmed immediately.

The yawl is owned by Carl Fisher, Rochester High school teacher, who is believed to be aboard her with his wife and another couple.

The Ontario was formerly owned by C. Hyde of the Crescent Club, Watertown, N.Y., and raced under the Rochester Yact Club colors.

From Rochester, aid was despatched for the Canadian fishing boat Doris K., of Wellington, Ont., reported aground in shoal water between Sea Breeze and Summerville.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad car ferry Ontario II abandoned an attempt to reach Rochester during the night and turned back to Cobourg, Ont.

Five in Danger.

Meanwhile at Mount Tremper, in the heart of the Catskills, swollen Esopus creek whirled about the feet of the three women and two children, whose names were known, while the fire departmnt from Poughkeepsie, 90 miles away, rushed to their rescue with a gun and life line.

The five drenched figures, pitifully watching attempts to rescue them, had stood since early morning on a narrow strip of land, the water only a few feet away.

Twenty miles away, on the west slope of the mountains, the half-flooded village of Fleischmann turned anxious eyes toward the dam which holds back Switzerland lake. When men arose in a heavy storm at 2 a.m. to open the emergency flood gates, they found the water already rushing three feet deep over the machinery. It was not certain whether the gates were opened or closed.

NEW COMMISSIONER

OTTAWA, Aug. 23 (CP)—A new Trade Commissioner is to be appointed to represent Canada in Britain it was announced here to-day. His special duties will be to develop trade in Canadian fruit in the United Kingdom, and will receive an initial salary of $4,380 and full living allowance. The Department of Trade and Commerce expects to secure an expert in Canadian fruit growing for the position.

TWO ENGINEMEN DEAD IN WRECK OF CRACK TRAIN

Derailment on Bridge Near Washington—Engine Plunges Through.

13 IN HOSPITALS.

Couplings Save Coaches From Toppling Into Stream.

WASHINGTON, August 24 (C.P.).— The Crescent Limited, crack Southern Railway train en route from New York to New Orleans, carried two enginemen to instant death and sent 13 passengers and members of its crew to hospitals when it was derailed over a swollen stream near here at 3.45 this morning.

A weakened bridge over the eastern branch of the Anacostia River, just outside the capital, caused the disastrous, before-daylight wreck.

The engine left the rails, plunging into a mudbank with its operating cab submerged in the stream.

A. H. Bride, of Washington, engineer, and J. H. Faye, fireman of Perryville, Maryland, were killed.

A mail car and a coach were hurled ahead of the engine, diagonally across the tracks. A deadhead car was thrown into the stream and almost completely submerged.

Cars Partly Submerged.

Four other cars hung precariously to the roadbed, saved from a worse crash only by their coupling, two cars, off the track, swung directly over the stream, partially submerged, and only the pull of the cars in front and behind saved them from toppling into the water.

Ben Johnson, railroad employee, who had been riding in the engine cab, was pulled out of the sunken compartment. Those at the wreck said he probably had been fatally injured, but at the hospital doctors said none of their wreck patients were in any immediate danger.

There were conflicting reports as to the speed of the train. Officials of the road said it had been proceeding under reduced speed orders.

Making Up Time.

Several of those on board the train said it was their impression that it had been moving at a high rate of speed in order to make up part of the hour it was behind schedule.

All of the cars, however, were badly smashed, showing they had hit with considerable force.

A doctor kicked in the window of the mail car to get out the mail clerks, and there found two clerks calmly sorting mail, even though badly shaken up by the wreck.

Slept Through Crash.

One man, whose name was not ascertained, told the doctor after he had been pulled from his berth that he had slept through the wreck which tore the cars apart and knew nothing of it until awakened by the rescuers.

The derailment happened along a desolate stretch of track where water poured along both sides of the Pennsylvania railroad's double track right-of-way.

Rain Over District Heaviest For Year

Welcome rain fell over all of Southern Ontario to-day. Peterborough and district received its share of the rain which was swept along on a strong northwest wind. The downpour started here about midnight and up to noon to-day Walter Peters, official weather recorder here, reported there had been a fall during the twelve hours of 1.15 inches.

"It's the heaviest rain we have had here in more than a year," Mr. Peters commented, "and it is probable that we will get a lot more before it is over."

Flower gardens appeared desolate so-day by the beating of the rain and wind. Gladioli and other tall-growing flowers were bent down, but the damage will be slight.

The rain was heartily welcomed by farmers, although in some cases it may have interrupted late harvesting. "It came too late to help the grain, but it will certainly improve the root crop, pasturage and the fall plowing," one agriculturist stated. "It is the first real rain we have had in months, and will do a lot of good generally."

Towns Are Flooded Shipping Shattered Millions of Damage

Crippled Liner Madison, 109 Aboard, Limps Into Port With 2 Seamen Missing—Two Other Vessels Unreported — Beach Resorts Wrecked, Highways Washed Out.

100 MAROONED FAMILIES IN MARYLAND IN DEADLY PERIL—POWER LINES ARE BROKEN.

NEW YORK, August 24 (C.P.). — A mad storm—born in the Caribbean and raging strangely into the North Atlantic—still tore at the eastern seaboard to-day after a night of fury.

Striking with hurricane or whole gale force, it killed at least a dozen people on land and sea, and inflicted damage running into many millions of dollars.

Smashed shore resorts, marooned communities, and the wreckage of small craft dotted the coast. At sea, shipping shuddered in the grip of tremendous waves.

A partly crippled passenger liner, the Madison, with 109 persons aboard, fought her way into Norfolk, Va., to-day after sounding two SOS calls yesterday. Reaching port in the early hours of the morning, she reported two men missing, one of them a Newfoundland seaman. At least two other large vessels were missing, and no one knew their fate.

The City of Norfolk, a Chesapeake Bay Line steamer carrying 40 passengers from Baltimore, was more then 24 hours overdue at Norfolk.

At New York the Tidewater Oil Company appealed to the coast-guard to find its 220-foot tanker, Veedol, bound from Dallas to New York with seven men aboard. No one has heard from it in three days.

Fear that the death list might mount swiftly grew as calls for aid came from communities beset by raging waves or floods resulting from record-breaking rains. Frantic calls for coast guard aid reached Washington from half a dozen Maryland towns where 100 families were marooned and reported in deadly peril.

2 BANK BANDITS RUN TO EARTH IN QUEBEC BUSH

Manager Trussed in Cellar Breaks Bonds and Raises Alarm.

VILLAGERS FORM POSSE.

$2,000 Loot and Hold-up Guns Are Recovered After Confession.

STE. ANNE DES PLAINES, Que., August 24. — Within less than an hour after two armed bandits entered the branch here of the Banque Provinciale du Canada, trussed up the manager, removed his trousers, and helped themselves to $2,000 from the cashier's till, a posse of villagers had captured the bandits and recovered the money.

The bandits made their appearance yesterday through a back door during the lunch interval when the bank is closed to customers. R. Lavoie, manager, was alone in the building eating lunch. One of the bandits ordered Lavoie to "Stick 'em up!" nad when he hesitated the gunman struck him on the head with the butt-end of a revolver.

Dazed by the blow, the manager was then piloted to the cellar where he was trussed up with binder twine. His trousers were removed and placed in the far corner of the cellar. The gunmen then returned to the upper part of the building, stuffed their pockets with money, and fled. Mr. Lavoie succeeded in freeing himself, dressed, and raised the alarm.

Armed with rifles and revolvers a hastily organized posse of villagers started "down the tracks" where the bandits were reported to have gone. Several shots were fired as the men were sighted. Surrounding the woods where the suspects took refuge, the posse succeeded in capturing the two men. Triumphant villagers returned with their captives as an automobile full of policemen from Quebec Provincial Police headquarters in Montreal arrived in the village square.

Lengthy questioning by police resulted in the men revealing where they had hidden the money and their revolvers. The bandits were then taken to police headquarters in Montreal.

BRIGADIER STORM VICTIM.

WRIGHTSTOWN, N.J.—Brigadier-General Cornelius Vanderbilt suffered a broken nose in the storm which swept over Camp Dix last night.

More than 350 tents occupied by reservists were destroyed and scores of windows in permanent buildings were smashed.

General Vanderbilt was struck by a door swung open by the wind.

Senior Game Will Be Played Monday

Word was received here this afternoon that the C. O. B. L. play-off game, supposed to have been played this evening, had been postponed owing to continued rain. It will be staged at five o'clock in Kingston Monday evening, daylight saving time. The Peterborough team, which stayed overnight in Kingston, returned home to-day.

SECRECY VEILS LONDON PROBE

Commissioners Decide Evidence on Hospital Administration to be in Camera.

Veterans Protest in Vain.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 24 (C.P.).—A veil of secrecy was cast over the investigation into the administration of Westminster Hospital as the sittings were transferred from the City Hall to hospital quarters to-day.

Despite vigorous protests on the part of veterans' organizations last night, Commissioners B. T. McGhie and Charles McMane refused to change their decision to hear evidence at to-day's session in camera.

The probe is a sequel to the death of Albert Buttery, aged inmate of the institution. Buttery was attacked and fatally injured by an insane patient in the mental ward last June.

It was intimated, however, that public hearings would be resumed at the City Hall either Friday or Monday morning.

WINDSOR MAYOR BACKS BOYCOTT ON CITY FIRMS

Resolution Barring Low Wage Plants Sent to All Civic Bodies.

PROBE UNDER WAY.

Aimed Chiefly at U.S. Branches Whose Profits Are Sent Over Border.

WINDSOR, Ont., August 24 (C. P.). — Steps were under way today to investigate wage and working conditions of concerns receiving business from the city to ascertain if they conformed to the standard set by the Windsor City Council.

To escape the boycott, a measure adopted by the Council in their war on low wage conditions which Mayor Davis Croll declares exist in the city, firms to qualify as city customers must "pay a fair rate of wages and provide sufficient hours of work to assure employees a decent living."

Yesterday Mayor Croll forwarded copies of the "fair wage or boycott" resolution to the Essex Border Utilities Commission, Windsor Board of Education, the Parks Board, Water Board, Hydro Commission, and the Welfare Board, with the rider that it be applied 100 per cent. to the purchases of these bodies.

Commissioner Lines Up.

Commissioner Curry, head of the Welfare Board, and one of the two dissenters when the resolution was voted upon by the Council, yesterday promised the co-operation of his organization in carrying out the aim of the resolution.

The move, according to Mayor Croll, is aimed primarily at the subsidiaries of United States firms, whose head offices have increased the wages of their employes under the N.I.R.A. plan, but still maintain the same scale of salaries in Canada.

In a recent speech when he first made public his charges again at existing conditions, Mayor Croll declared gasoline station attendants were receiving as low as $5.00 per week, while the company was making "huge profits which are sent to the parent company in the United States."

Engineer's Flirting Blamed For Crash

BURLINGTON, N.C., Aug. 24 (CP)—The allegation that the engineer of a freight train which struck their automobile was busy flirting with a girl by the roadside and neglected to sound a warning signal was contained in a suit for damages filed here by G. L. Michael and G. W. Shepherd.

The complainants ask $5,000 each of the Southern Railway for injuries and damages.

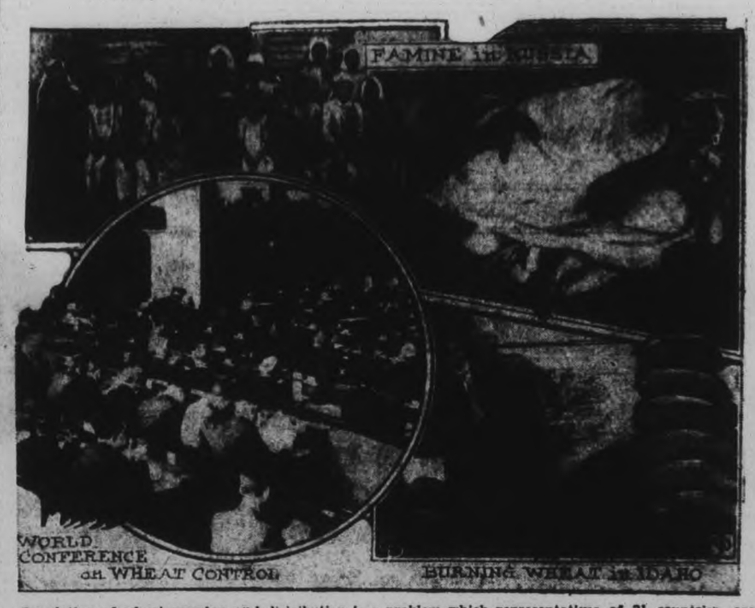
World Glut Of Wheat While Millions Starve



Regulation of wheat growing and distribution is a problem which representatives of 31 countries are trying to solve in a world conference in London under chairmanship of Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of Canada. While the delegates meet, reports from Russia tell of 100,000 Soviet children being organized to guard against grain thefts and to retrieve stray kernels dropped by harvesters in the North Caucasus field. Despite reports, Soviet officials deny there is a food shortage. Although droughts seriously cut the wheat crops of the United States, Canada and Argentina this year, holdover crops continue to mount, due to lack of consumption. Total unused wheat in North America alone amounts to 425,000,000 bushels. And Europe, exclusive of Russia, has produced 100,000,000 bushels this year. At a period when there are millions of hungry people in every country in the world, the grain crops carried over are the largest in the world's history. The United States is beginning to subsidize exports to the Orient as one outlet. In the meantime, the grain farmer fears the depressing effect on prices of larger surpluses.

DOUBTS STARLINGS AT RICE LAKE MAY BE RED WING BLACKBIRDS

Herb Routly Believes Starlings Stay in Grain Fields.

NO ACTION HERE.

Although no action is contemplated this year, an organized drive to exterminate the starling in this district may become necessary if their numbers increase next year, Chris. Graham, secretary-treasurer of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, said to-day. The damage which has been done by the bird has not yet been great enough to create a serious situation but apparently the district is due for the same trouble which has been experienced in the Niagara district, he said.

A. D. Runions, agricultural representatives for Peterborough County, declined to make any estimate of the crop damage which has been done by starlings this year when approached to-day. He stated that complaints have been made but that the ravages of the bird have not been extensive enough to offer a serious menace.

The complaints of destruction by the bird were heard from several different sections of the county, Mr. Runions said, but principally from farms along the Otonabee River. Although the Department of Agriculture might find it wise to take action against the menace if it became serious, no action is contemplated at present, he said.

T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P. of Havelock, who served on the Ontario Government's special committee which recently made its report on the conservation of wild life in the province, said to-day that the Government's removal of restrictions on the shooting of the starling left the way open for control of the bird. He expressed the opinion, however, that the only effective means of combatting the menace is by trapping.

The starling has not yet shown up in serious numbers in the southern part of Peterborough County as yet, Mr. Lancaster said. If the menace becomes serious, it can be checked with the baited traps by which Jack Miner in Western Ontario is catching the birds by the thousands, he said.

Although the bird is undoubtedly becoming more plentiful in this section, farmers in Central Ontario have no conception of the situation with which farmers in the Niagara district are faced, he declared.

Herb Routly expresses doubt about starlings being seen in rice beds. He thinks L. P. Campbell may have mistaken them for red-wing blackbirds.

No Thirsting Here

ULM, Germany, Aug. 24 (AP)—A beer vat, claimed to be the biggest in the world, with a capacity of 250 hundredweight of malt, has been made by a local firm of coppersmiths for shipment to California. It is 12 feet tall, has a diameter of more than 28 feet and weighs 32 tons.

TOWNS FLOODED BY COAST STORM

as northward, but Virginia was perhaps hardest hit.

Eight persons are known to have died in Virginia alone yesterday and last night as waves like mighty hammers wrecked beach resorts, luxurious homes and cottages.

Waterfronts were inundated, hundreds of miles of highways flooded, communities cut off by floods or communications failure, traffic paralyzed and crops ruined.

Early to-day the storm, still sweeping north, whipped parts of New England with gales that crippled shipping and menaced shore communities.

Large numbers of men in Salisbury, Md., a city of 11,000, were called upon, a witness said, to dig a ditch to divert the Wicomico River and save the business section from floods. Many other towns on the lower Demava peninsula were reported flooded and hundreds of small craft washed away.

The coast guard reported the four-masted schooner Kohler washed ashore and wrecked, somewhere near Virginia Beach, but its crew was saved.

Guards Rescue 100.

Other coast guard boats saved 100 people at Willoughby Spit, near Norfolk, while still another prepared to assist a barge in distress off Cape Henry.

The seas inundated Norfolk waterfront yesterday, shattered a pavilion at Wildwood, N.J., and sent wealthy summer residents of Cape May, N.J., fleeing from their homes. Marines patrolled the latter town, where fallen electric wires in pitch dark streets, menaced lives. A 300-foot pier was swept away.

A 72-mile gale at Fort Monroe, Va., shattered many cottages occupied by non-commissioned officers' families and only swift rescue work directed by army officesr prevented loss of life. The old artillery reservation was strewn with wreckage.

In North Carolina, where the beach highway between Kitty Hawk and Nag's Head suffered heavy damage, 400 dwellers on the Albemarle Sound mainland were removed by bus to escape the storm's fury.

The gale destroyed three hangars and an airplane near Easton, Md., overturned a coast guard cutter in Long Island Sound and capsized a surf boat in which a dozen cost guard cadets were drilling near Montauk, Long Island. The cadets were saved.

On Maryland's lower eastern shore overflowing rivers marooned hundreds of people on their second floors. Crops were levelled there and eleswhere.

A lumber shanty and a telegraph pole, blown across the Erie tracks near Belleville, N. J., almost wrecked the train, but two boys flagged it in time. A man was electrocuted at Atlantic City, N. J., when he stepped on a fallen wire. At Sea Girt, N. J., 1,000 national guardsmen spent a sleepless night in their encampment, struggling to keep tents over their heads.

Heavy Rains in New York

In New York and other parts of the coast, the storm took the form of a northeaster, but weather bureau officials said it was due to the tropical hurricane nevertheless.

New York with a three-day rainfall that exceeded the normal fall for the whole of August, faced serious traffic jams because of flooded highways and railroad tracks. Fallen trees strewed streets. Nearly every community in Nassau County, Long Island, was plunged into darkness last night as power lines fell.

Barnegat Light, on the New Jersey coast, was endangered by the waves while off Stone Harbor, N.J., Coast Guardsmen were trying to penetrate the fog to an unidentified vessel believed in distress.

A barge went down in Chesapeake Bay but its crew of 27 were saved. The famous Dupont highway in Delaware was closed from Dover to Salisbury when three bridges were torn away. In many places communication wires snapped like threads.

Windows all over New York city were shattered as the wind, as measured at the top of the Empire State Building, reached a velocity of 90 miles an hour last night.

TRAMPS 150 MILES ON VACATION TRIP

58-Year-Old Woman Packs Up Her Troubles and Takes Vacation.

AMHERST, N.S., Aug. 24 (CP)—Things are pretty dull in Amherst these summer days, and Miss Elsie Gouthro, 58, thought a vacation trip might relieve the monotony. There was the question of money, to be sure, but that didn't matter much.

She just threw her belongings together in an old black sweater; swung the bundle over her shoulder and set out afoot for Halifax, 150 miles away.

She reached the Capital several days later, footsore and weary, after tramping every mile of the way. Kindly officers of the Halifax police force lent a helping hand after her arrival and provided her with meals until she set out again for home.

Back at work again, she said she had greatly enjoyed her "vacation."

DREAD SICKNESS SPREADING FAST OVER 3 STATES

Fatalities Reported From St. Louis Now Total Nineteen.

200 SUFFERERS.

Federal Aid Sent as Doctors Attempt to Trace Germ Carrier.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 24—Physicians marshalled under three U. S. health department experts last night sought the evasive carrier of encephalitis, a form of sleeping sickness which is sweeping this community, as the disease became more widespread hourly

The question of what is acting as the carrier for the malady is mystifying health experts and is hampering their offence.

While experts sought the source and others attempted to prepare a combative serum, additional victims were admitted to a dozen hospitals, bringing the total sufferers to near 200 mark.

An additional death yesterday brought the total of fatalities to 19, or approximately 10 per cent of the total number attacked

Dr. L. L. Williams, Jr, federal expert on disease bearing insects, prepared to conduct research among flies and mosquitoes in the hope of finding the carrier there

Several monkeys which physicians sought to inoculate have failed to respond, thus hampering experts in attempting to isolate the germ. Additional monkeys are to be subjected to further experiments

In the meantime, Washington University bacteriologists are seeking a serum to be used in combatting the malady

60 Men, 4 Yoke Oxen Do Engine's Work

NUEVITAS, Cuba, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Sixty men and four yoke of oxen substituted for one locomotive, and so Nuevitas still had electric lights tonight.

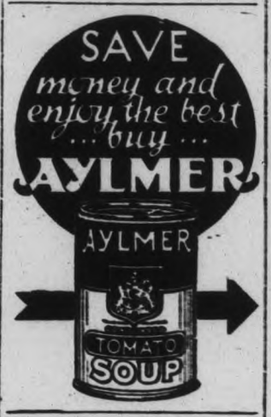
The strike of the Cuba railway caused oil supplies at the Cuban Electric Company's plant to run low and the town faced the prospect of darkness.

Today, however, men and oxen working together pushing and pulling a tank car of oil more than four miles from the oil company's terminal to the power plant.

$200 Worth Of Seed Is Stolen From Barn

EAST EMILY, Aug. 24—(Examiner Correspondence).—William Darling had the misfortune to have about $230 worth of red clover seed stolen out of his barn on the Peterborough-Lindsay highway one night last week.

Mr. Darling had just finished threshing his seed and had five and a half bags and the thieves took four of them.



RADIO AIDS BURGLAR

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 24.—(CP)—Burglars who attempted to loot a motor company's safe here turned a short wave wireless set they found there to their own use. Hooking up the apparatus before starting on the safe, they heard the report sending a squad car to the store to investigate a watchman's report of a broken window.

They were gone when police arrived leaving a battered safe but with its contents still intact.

Certain sweet, non-intoxicating drinks containing carbon dioxide were named pop because when the bottles were opened the corks were expelled with a pop or quick, explosive noise.

Warkworth Pastor Is Rotary Speaker

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 24. (Examiner Staff Correspondent)—Rev. Dr. Edwin Smith of Warkworth, was guest speaker at the Rotary luncheon here this week, and provided an interesting and informative address, based on a recent visit he made to the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago.

Dr. Smith contrasted the present exposition with the World's Fair held in Chicago in 1893, and which he also attended. He spoke particularly of the growth of science and the dependance of industry upon scientific research.

At the Fair one sees countless exhibits showing where science spans the gap between laboratory and factory. One will see the complete process of obtaining gasolene, its distillation, cracking, refining; at the same time you will see the results of the latest research into cosmic rays that may prove the source of new power that may be taken from space; also you will see how sound is carried on a beam of light.

The swiftness with which science has moved is shown in the way the 1893 Fair was opened. At that moment, forty years ago ago the star Arcturus blinked down upon the Fair and the idea was conceived of opening A Century of Progress with the rays of this star, and this was done, it being a simple matter now for science to catch the feeble beam at it reached the earth, and as it struck the telescope of Yerks Observatory in Wisconsin, transformed into electric energy by means of a photo-electric cell, amplify it by the methods of radio and speed it to Chicago to start the night life of the big show. The 1893 fair was illuminated by 93,000 incandescent lights and 5,000 arc lights.

To-day the exposition is also lighted by incandescent bulbs, 15,000 of them for exterior illumination, and it is impossible to even guess the number within the buildings as few of them have any windows and depend altogether on artificial lighting. One battery of arc lights alone, 24 powerful searchlights at the south end of the grounds has a light outout of 1,920,000,000 candle power; the illumination of the fair grounds at night is the most wonderful display of massed lighting ever seen on earth beautiful in coloring and dazzling in effect.

Obituary

Find 7 Skeletons Buried 4,000 Years

LONDON, Aug. 24 (CP Cable) — Burials which took place 4,000 years ago are being unearthed near the village of Cassington, a few miles from Oxford, where a by-pass road is being constructed to divert traffice from the University city.

Seven skeletons, in the "crouched" position, which denotes that their burial took place in the Bronze Age, have already come to light.

Two earthenware pots in a good state of preservation were found with the latest skeletons, and a notable feature in each case was that the bodies had been buried facing the setting sun.

Aerial photographs showed the presence of numerous green rings in several fields of standing wheat nearby, which to experts indicated possibilities of further discoveries.

Although the framework of the skeletons in some instances crumbled on being handled, the teeth in every instance were found to be in a wonderful state of preservation.

GIFTS PRESENTED SPRINGVILLE GIRL

Over 100 Friends Gather at Churc hto Honor Miss Helen Whittington.

SPRINGVILLE, Aug. 24 (Examiner Correspondence).—Miss Helen Whittington was honored on Friday evening by her friends at Springville, when they presented her with a lovely gift of silverware, consisting of a pyrex casserole and pie plate, each set in a silver stand, also a half dozen knives of community plate.

The presentation was made in the church by three of the elders: Messrs. Fairbairn, Johnston and Tully, while the address was read by Miss A. Brown. Miss Whittington replied gracefully.

Rev. S. H. Moyer, pastor of the church, acted as chairman for the evening, opening the program by a few kindly words of good cheer to the audience and the bride-elect. An instrumental solo was given by Clairemont Morgan, readings by Miss Jean Fairbairn and S. Fairbairn, solos by Bruce Herron and B. Preston, also a harmonica selection by Percy Johnston. Community singing was led by Mrs. M. Westington and Mrs. V. Whittington. Accompanists for the evening were Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Westington and C. Morgan.

Dainty lunch was served in the basement of the church and a social hour enjoyed. In closing all present, numbering over one hundred, joined hands and sang "Auld Lang Syne."

Pile Sufferers

Your itching, bleeding or protruding piles will go and not come back when you actually remove the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel—and not one minute before. Salves or suppositories can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. HEM-ROID prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation drives out the thick, impure blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record of success in even the most stubborn cases that McDermid & Jurney Bond's Drug Store and druggists everywhere urge every sufferer to get a bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets today. They must end your pile misery or money back.

ROSENEATH

There will be no service in the United Church on Sunday morning owing to the special service and celebration at Merrill's Church at 10.30 a.m. Rev. Smith of Warkworth will take charge, along with Rev. R. W. Paton.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Braithwaite and daughter Jean are spending a holiday with friends in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Mounsey and little Addie visited friends at Stirling for over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Dunn and family of Trent River spent Tuesday with her mother, Mrs. George Hogg.

Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson and family of Hastings spent Sunday in the village as guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Brown.

Sunday School as usual on Sunday morning at 10 a.m. The president requests all to be on time so those who wish may afterwards attend the special services at Merrill's Church.

THE STARLING PEST.

Starling hunts have been launched in several sections of the province in an effort to get rid of those voracious pests which in the last few years have descended upon Ontario in ever-increasing numbers and it begins to look as if similar action will have to be taken in this district.

It is disconcerting to learn that flocks of starlings are not only cleaning out the rice crop which is responsible for bringing myriads of ducks to this part of the province every autumn, but that they also inflict material damage upon grain crops in several townships.

There seems every reason to expect that this destruction will grow worse year by year as the flocks of starlings increase and unless energetic steps are taken to deal with this condition the situation will speedily get out of hand.

The matter is one that should engage the attention of the provincial government.

MR. FERGUSON'S AMBITION.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson has disclosed his pet ambition to the press.

In an interview the other day he declared that if he returned to Canada his chief desire would be to create a model farm at his home in Kemptville.

Mr. Ferguson as a working farmer hardly fits into the picture his fellow citizens in Ontario have of him.

His desire to achieve success in agriculture may be sincere enough, but there is not a great deal of slack time for the man who aims to triumph as a farmer, and the ex-Premier would seem to be much too fond of public functions to give up the joy he finds in them for farm life.

Whenever he is home, Mr. Ferguson and his cigar are a feature at all kinds of public gatherings, race meetings, athletic events, receptions, everywhere there is something going on for the Hon. Howard loves to mingle with his fellowmen and to be on hand whenever anything important is on foot.

If he really aims to make good as a model farmer he'll have to say good-bye to that kind of thing, contenting himself with a day or two at the Canadian Exhibition, an afternoon at the neighboring fall fair and perhaps a brief visit to the Royal Winter Fair.

Will that menu of functions satisfy a man who has been so much in the public eye as has Mr. Ferguson?

It is doubtful.

TIMELY ACTION.

In issuing orders to crown attorneys throughout the province to prosecute in all cases where it is clear that tourists have been unduly charged for meals the Attorney-General's Department has taken a step that will be backed by public approval.

If there are those in Ontario who have not the wit to desist from a course that will do infinite harm to the reputation of this province as a tourist centre it is well that the law should step in and deal with the situation.

The Department's instruction are definite.

"Complaints have been received by this department," reads the circular, "that chicken dinners are advertised at a certain price and that some restaurateurs make charges for extras so that the total bill greatly exceeds the sum mentioned. This is a practice which should be thoroughly discountenaced and I have come to the conclusion that it is covered by Section 406 (2) of the criminal code. If complaints are made to you please bear this action in mind. In my mind, if there is any doubt it should be resolved where the facts are clear in favor of a prosecution because this sort of thing, especially to visiting tourists, brings great discredit on the province."

Certainly any attempt at exploiting tourists is so certain to provide harmful results that the Attorney-General's department is completely justified in setting the machinery of the law to lead with flagrant cases.

The good name of Ontario must be protected against those who would turn the tourist business into a racket and this city and district seems to be singularly free of this offence.

THOSE BATHING COSTUMES.

Various mayors of Canadian cities are quoted as expressing alarm over the scanty bathing costumes worn this season and over what they term the immodest street garb of some of the fair sex.

There is no disguising the fact that modern bathing costume is frank in its revelations, but then swimming today is a much different thing from the bathing of a generation ago and the 1933 garb lends itself to ease and comfort in the water and a greater proficiency on the part of the thousands of young bathers.

Women swimmers were a novelty 25 years ago, and no wonder, for the girl of that period was expected to wear more clothes in the water than her daughter wears today on the street.

Heavy costumes of bloomers and long skirts, with stockings added, formed the conveniental garb for swimmer and it is not remarkable therefore that only one girl in a hundred learned the art.

Today girl swimmers perhaps outnumber the male exponents, a development greatly to be desired and encouraged.

The modern bathing suit has been the greatest factor in this change, which is ample justification for its existence; incidentally there is no reason for believing that morals have suffered from the frankness of the costume of the 1933 water nymph for desire to be truthful compels the admission that the chief excitement over the abbreviated garb now worn seems to centre among the older generation, and to leave the young people untouched.

A BOULDER IN THE ROAD.

According to reports from Washington there is uneasiness because the automobile industry has not accepted the policy laid down for the National Industrial Recovery Act. The administrator of the Act, Hugh S. Johnson, said at the conclusion of a meeting where he met some of the automobile makers:

"It is a matter of regret to me that the industry as here represented does not include 100 per. of automobile manufacturers. I hope that the condition will not long be continued, because certain it is that in the administration of this law and in the placing of the insignia of co-operation on the products and the merchandise of every manufacturer whether he is large or whether he is small. We are going to execute this law without exception and without fear and without favor."

It is plain as a pikestaff that all this talk about co-operation is just half the story. If firms do not see their way to co-operate then they are forced into it, and right there it ceases to be co-operation and turns into coercion.

Henry Ford has not yet signed the code showing that he is prepared to subscribe to the conditions laid down by the government. Automobile manufacturers have been for years exponents of the open shop, and the new NRA proposals contains a clause which provides for collective bargaining and collective bargaining is the basis on which labor unions work.

There is nothing at this writing to indicate what Mr. Ford and others will do. If he refuses to sign the NRA code, then what does the government propose to do about it? The government could proceed by requiring him to take out a license to manufacture, and threaten to suspend that if he failed to comply with the demands. If Mr. Ford refused absolutely to do as he is being told, would the government go to the extreme limit of asking him to close his shop? Closing the shop would put thousands out of work, and that in itself would serve to defeat the purpose of the NRA. It looks like a boulder in the road—and a big one.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

THE N.R.A.

It might help to stop a lot of futile debate if some of those who are urging President Roosevelt's National Industrial Recovery policies for Canada, would try to find out what the National Industrial Recoveries policies are about. They might, for example, look into the matter of cost.

President Roosevelt, putting his policies into effect, is spending or preparing to spend, billions. Banks, farms, mortgage holders, industries, railways—all are to be pouliticed with cash. People are to be paid to do things or to not do things, to produce or not to produce, and so on and so forth, through a multiplicity of circumstances. Finally, but not least in importance, there is a vast public works program; the spending of hundreds of millions upon land reclamation, the conversion of the Tennessee valley into a great pastoral area, the building of great power projects, the construction of battleships.

* * * * * * *

Will those good people who are all for Canada copying Roosevelt be so obliging as to tell us whence would come our money to do the copying? Should we have to borrow it; or impose more taxation, or just start the printing presses?

* * * * * * *

Canada's net public debt is approximately $2,400,000,000. In addition there are the debts of the provinces, the debts of the municipalities, the debts of corporations. Combined together, they mean that the Canadian public must pay out each year hundreds of millions of dollars for interest. That being so, what or who would be the source of all the extra hundreds of millions we should need for an Industrial Recovery Act?

* * * * * * *

There is something else. Several of our basic products, such as wheat and forest products, including newsprint, must find export markets. In the United States, where they have a home market of 120,000,000 people, and where they consume the bulk of their own production (their foreign trade is but ten per cent. of their total) it is a reasonably simple matter to plow under and reduce acreage. They don't have to depend or to depend in a vital way, upon selling abroad.

It is different with Canada. In the case of wheat and newsprint and a great many natural products this country must sell abroad or not sell at all. The export market is vital.

That being so, will the advocates of a Roosevelt plan for Canada explain how we are going to reduce our wheat acreage and cut down our newsprint production, and so on and so forth, without going broke?

* * * * * * *

Under President Roosevelt's plan they are providing for shorter working hours, for higher wages. The result—it is a part of the plan—is that with a higher cost of production goods will cost more. That, in the case of the United States, which can consume its production at home, doesn't mean much. Or isn't serious. But in the case of Canada, which has to sell abroad and in competition with the producers of other countries, wouldn't it be different? Wouldn't it mean that we just couldn't sell abroad; that after a time, our national industrial recovery plan would go on the rocks?

* * * * * * *

One of the great troubles with the world, Galsworthy once wrote, is that people jump at conclusions without sufficient data. One of the obvious troubles with the advocates of the Roosevelt plan for Canada is that they haven't taken the trouble to study the Roosevelt plan.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Strip tickets for the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition will not be sold after September 1st. Better make sure of your supply now.

The visit of H.M. Scots' Guards' band to the Peterborough Exhibition is a big boost for the annual event. This famous British musical ensemble will be an outstanding feature.

At least the electors in Nova Scotia have the satisfaction of knowing that they are through with provincial political campaigns for a few years. They have that much advantage over the people of Ontario.

Mr. Henry's claim that Ontario is not ripe for an election will probably lead opposition speakers to declare that the Henry Government is over-ripe.

VACATION ESCAPADE

By ARTHUR SHUMWAY

READ THIS FIRST:

Sally Gwynne is headed south from Chicago to take a job as secretary to a Florida millionaire, John Kemble Proctor, at Daytona Beach. She spends her first night on the train. The next day she makes friends with a young man who is sitting opposite. He is also Florida bound. She learns his name, Ted Chandler, and they become friends. At Atlanta, Ted buys a newspaper and reads the startling news that Proctor has been found dead, apparently a suicide. Sally's heart sinks. Sally worries but continues the trip. Meanwhile Ted becomes very fond of her. At Daytona Beach she leaves him to go to the Proctor estate, agreeing to keep in touch with Ted, who thinks the death of old Proctor mysterious. Fred Proctor, suave and polished, greets Sally, and assures her she is to stay on anyway.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

Chapter 4

Ted had hardly gone when Sally heard a powerful car swing up to the station. It was a long yellow roadster of exotic origin and a tall, black-haired, mahogany-skinned man was getting out. He wore white flannels and a blue and white tennis sweater, and as he approached the station, Sally noticed that he walked with an aggressive, almost pugnacious gait. He approached her.

"Miss Gwynne?" Sally recognized the voice of the telephone.

She noticed now as she rose that a thin line of blue-black hair skirted the top of his upper lip. On anyone else it wouldn't have been a mustache, but with hair so dark it served quite well.

"Fred Proctor, Miss Gwynne. May I take your bag?"

"I'm both delighted and distressed, Miss Gwynne," he said as he held open the door of the car. "Delighted to see you and to see you're so charming. Distressed when I think of the worry you must have been undergoing."

The car moved away with an impressive purr. "You've never been to Daytona Beach before?" he asked.

"No, this is my first trip to Florida, Mr. Proctor," Sally replied politely. She tried to catch a better glimpse of the houses and the huge, mossy old oaks and beds of brilliant tropical flowers as they swept down the street. Ahead she saw the sparkle of blue water.

"It's a lovely little place," Fred Proctor said. "Uncle Jack has had a home here for years, you know." He didn't seem ready to talk business.

"I'm sure it's delightful," Sally said.

They swept out onto a narrow bridge and soon were on the peninsula which was thickly covered with trees and from the water had looked like an impenetrable jungle. In a few minutes they drove down onto a broad, hard-packed sand beach and the ocean lay before them, dull blue and green by turns and close to the shore white and clamorous with surf.

Soon, they swung up of the beach, onto a narrow, paved road considerably south of what seemed the city proper. There were little sand dunes covered sparsely by clumps of palmetto and a few real palms. At first no houses were in view. Very much like a movie Sahara scene. Sally thought.

But as they reached the top of the rise she saw to the left a rambling, low, Spanish style house of weather-beaten tan stucco. It stood on the dunes surrounded by taller palms. Fred Proctor turned into the driveway. "Here we are," he said.

He led her into the house and seated her in the timbered living room. "Lunch will be ready in a moment. "And if you'll wait a second, the girl will show you to your room."

Evidently the question in her mind shone from her eyes as she looked up when he said "your room," for he smiled and said, "You're going to stay with us, you know. It's a miserable shame this had to happen to you and I want you to know I'm your friend. Will you excuse me?"

CHAPTER 5

The little negro maid showed Sally to a large pleasant room on the second floor directly overlooking the ocean. The rhythmic sound of the surf came in continually through the open Spanish windows. The view was of endless blue-green miles of ocean. A strong breeze whipped the curtains.

Sally loved the house. While from the outside it had looked large, but rambling and low, it seemed now to be a tremendously spacious place, a castle almost. It couldn't really be old, yet it seemed to have weathered slow centuries there by the sea. All the old-fashioned hardware seemed to be hand-wrought and pocked and stained with age. Worm-holes coursed through the cypress beams and doors, and the walls had been hand stippled, it appeared, hundreds of years ago when the Spanish flag flapped in the salt breeze over old Fort Marion at St. Augustine.

Sally's mind was full of questions when she went down the stairs, a gay young figure in her white sport dress with a blue ribbon about her yellow hair.

Fred Proctor was waiting for her in the library. He had changed the tennis sweater for a dark brown flannel sport coat and he made a striking picture, his blue-black hair and deeply tanned face outlined against the old ivory background of the antiqued wall.

"Now you look quite cool and summery, Miss Gwynne," he said, surveying her studiously with those deep-set black eyes of his. His voice was deep, soft and reassuring, but there was an intensity in his none too subtle inspection that made the girl uncomfortable.

"I've had lunch set on the rear balcony," he said, leading Sally out the back of the library to a stone-paved ledge, fenced with old wrought iron and looking down upon the sloping dune that flowed into the smooth beach below. The ocean breeze swept across the cheerful little table and sent soft, insistent fingers through Sally's hair. As she sat down, she was conscious of Fred Proctor's black eyes. She felt they were studying the firm young contours of her slender body which the pressure of the breeze brought into soft relief.

But the man was as polite as the Spanish grandee he resembled. Take off that sport coat, those white trousers, and clothe him in ruffles and lace and silken breeches, add a little tuft of hair to his chin and he might easily be one of the early overlords of Florida.

A bland little brown man in white came and went with dishes as silently as a wraith as they ate and talked.

"I know you must be upset," Fred Proctor said, "but I assure you that you needn't be. My late uncle was very pleased with your letter, Miss Gwynne. He selected it from a pile nearly a foot high. You'd be surprised how many girls applied for the position. But he didn't bother to look any farther when he had read yours. He pushed the rest of them into the basket and called me over to listen to yours. It was very nicely done, Miss Gwynne, allow me to say. I quite agreed with him on his choice—" He smiled and subtly his eyes followed the curve of her throat downward, downward, then upward again. "—And I agree now, more than ever."

"Thank you," Sally mumbled, self-consciously.

"It would be a shame," he continued, "to have brought you all the way down here for nothing. And so I'm going to ask you if you don't care to remain in the capacity for which you were engaged. I shall stay on here, you know, as I always have, for quite some time at least, and shall look after my uncle's interests. You have no idea, Miss Gwynne, what a busy and versatile man he was."

"I've often heard ——" she began.

"But really you have no idea," he insisted. "No one suspects how many activities he had," Fred Proctor said with a slight, reminiscent smile. "There's no end of work that can well be done here."

"First of all there are the funeral arrangements. I wish you could see the stack of correspondence. Telegrams have flooded in here from all over the world."

"Mr. Proctor was well known, I know," Sally said.

"Amazingly. That is, his reputation was well and widely known. Few people really knew my uncle, even his closest associates in business and in politics. He was a hard man, Miss Gwynne.

"So, Miss Gwynne, I'm going to ask you if you don't care to accept the same position at the same salary—that is, of course, to start," he added quickly with a shrewd smile.

In one way, Sally was so relieved that she almost blurted a grateful "Yes!" without further consideration, but she was uneasy. She remembered the questions that had been troubling her mind. Why had John Kemble Proctor brought her all the way from Chicago instead of engaging a local girl? Why had he, who had everything to live for, it seemed, shot himself to death in this splendid but vaguely eerie old house by the sea? And she remembered the way Fred Proctor, this severe, dynamic handsome Fred Proctor, had looked at her body. She wanted to pause, to say that she would think it over, that she was very grateful but hadn't made up her mind, yet she knew in an instant that it wouldn't be a wise reply. She realized, much more quickly than she could speak, that what she really wanted was to ask the advice of Ted Chandler.

Fred Proctor spoke again. "Of course, I know that you're tired and confused and haven't really decided how you like the place yet," he said. "But I'm sure you will. Within 24 hours you'll never want to leave Florida. It gets into your blood, you know. Suppose you merely consider yourself my guest, Miss Gwynne, and then in a day or so let me know definitely. Meanwhile, I shall conside your salary as in operation since you left Chicago and if you will be so kind as to help with the matters now at hand, I'll greatly appreciate it."

Sally drew a deep breath of relief.

"That's splendid of you, Mr. Proctor," she said. "I am tired and confused, but I shall be delighted to have a chance to become used to everything. It's all so new, you see, and you may be sure I'll take care of the correspondence. I'll begin immediately this afternoon."

"That won't be necessary, Miss Gwynne. I don't want you to think you have to do that. I'm no Simon Legree, you know." He smiled disarmingly, a really friendly, wholesome smile that renewed Sally's confidence.

"I shouldn't mind, Mr. Proctor," she replied.

"No. You mustn't think of it. After lunch now I want you to rest. Take a nap or read a little while, and then a little later get into your bathing suit and I'll make you acquainted with Daytona's famous surf. Did you ever bathe in the ocean?"

"No, I never have. I suppose I'm a dreadfully provincial sort of person, but I never saw the ocean before today and never had any idea how grand it was."

They rose from the table. Sally looked out over the unbelievably beautiful ocean sparkling in the mid-day sun. Perhaps the eye could see no more than it could on Lake Michigan, perhaps the feeling was a trick of the imagination, yet whatever it was, Sally was sure she had never seen anything that looked so vast and powerful.

After lunch she lay down on the bed in her room and finished her magazine story. While she lay reading, the telephone in her room tinkled. She answered it.

"Sally?" It was Ted.

"Yes, Ted."

"What's the dope?"

"I've been asked to stay on."

"That's fine—but don't do it," he added crisply.

"Why not, Ted?"

"When can I see you?"

"This evening, I suppose. I'll make an excuse to go over to town. What's the matter?" she asked anxiously.

"I can't tell you on the phone," he said, lowering his voice. "You never know. Meet me at 7:30 in the park by Casino Burgoyne. You'll find it. Will you?"

"Certainly, but ——"

"See you then, Sally. Goodby." And he hung up.

TAKE A CHANCE

I KNOW A CHILD who worries his parents.

He hasn't any fear, and that's why he worries his father and mother.

He walks right up to strange dogs and throws his arms about them, pats them with affectionate roughness and doesn't seem to know that that dog might be suspicious of strange children, might have been badly treated by them, and might take a bite at a little boy who rushes up and puts out an alien hand.

He shouldn't do that. He should be cautious. He should look before he leaps at strange dogs, be careful when he crosses a street, run home and put iodine on every cut, and save his father and mother from every slightest worry. He should, in fact, be a most dependable child whose parents know where he is every moment in the day—and then grow up to be a cautious, dependable man without any excitement in him at all.

* * *

So what are the parents doing? ....They are worrying a little and doing nothing. They've said a few words to him about watching his step and being a little careful about patting strange dogs. But they've refrained from telling him any gory tale about a little boy—a purely fictitious boy—who was badly bitten once upon a time by a bad, bad dog.

Their idea is that they do not want to fill him with fear. They do not want a timid, hysterical child who sees bugaboos around every dark corner and ghosts in every graveyard. They want him to be stalwart in life and unafraid of even the dangers that are a part of it. They risk their child reasonably because risk can be one of the encouraging, strengthening, character-making elements in life and they want him to have all that is coming to him.

Because you cannot save anybody from life. You cannot even save yourself. You must take your chances. You cannot be sure of a minute, an hour, a day. You cannot be sure of money. Nor of how long you'll live, nor where you'll die....You can take a fair amount of precaution and let it go at that. And the small boy who pats a strange dog MAY get a growl, or he may get a friendly wag of the tail ....

And the friendly wag is worth the risk of a growl.

Quotations For To-Day

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

THE RELIEF OF FORT GARRY

On this date, in 1870, Colonel Garnet Wolseley and his force of volunteers from Quebec and Ontario had been held by Louis Riel from November 25 previously.

The trip over the lakes and through the then wilderness from Lake Superior westward had been arduous, but the pluck of the volunteers, their willingness to do anything, their initiative, their skill in woodcraft, and especially the navigation and portaging of the voyageurs had much impressed Wolseley.

As soon as the relief expedition hove in sight, Riel and his followers took to their heels and went south as fas. as they could travel. Wolseley had appointed Captain Fred C. Denison, of Toronto, as his A.D.C., and it was he who was sent to reconnoitre. He rode to the fort and around it to the rear gate, out of which the last of the rebels were running, then into the fort, where he saw that there would be no resistance, and hurried back to Wolseley with the news. As he was the first man in Fort Garry, Wolseley ordered him, with Sir John McNeill, to raise once more the Union Jack to the top of the flagpole from which the rebel emblem had been flying for eight months.

Most people imagine that this expedition was the first military one to be sent to Fort Garry, but the records prove otherwise. In 1846, owing to dissatisfaction in the Red River settlement and to American intrigue, a body of regular troops was sent out from England, under command of Colonel J. F. Crofton, consisting of 383 all ranks including detachments from the 6th Foot, the Royal Artillery and the Royal Engineers. These troops returned to England in 1849 and were replaced by a volunteer garrison of 56. In 1857, 100 men of the Royal Canadian Rifles were sent to Fort Garry, they, like the previous expedition, travelling via Hudson Bay. This was naturally known to Wolseley and when the expedition of 1870 was mooted "some suggested (according to Wolseley himself) "that they should go round by way of the north pole, but it was decided to go from Canada."

Wolseley also wrote that as a result of the journey of 600 miles through the wilderness the clothes of the men got very disreputable and as the flour which they carried up was used up the bags were handed to the tailors with which to patch the seats of the men's breeches. From start to finish the only stimulant on this expedition was tea and not a man was lost. As a result when Wolseley went up the Nile with his Canadian voyageurs in 1885 he ordered that liquor and beer should be banned and only tea supplied. This somewhat annoyed Tommy Atkins, but it was readily acceded to by the Canadians who so cleverly navigated the rapids of the great river of the ages.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterborough's Leading Handwriting Analyst for the Readers of The Examiner.

William N. Patterson,
Millbrook.

The writing as indicated on your sample letter to me, suggests a happy go lucky disposition. You do not apear to worry about very much, and you are optimistic and friendly. Your talents run along an independent field, so you might find it more suitable to your individual type, if you were to execute some of your own intelligent ideas. I do not mean that you should be stubborn about things, but that you have the ability to conceive plans which really are worthwhile, though right now, you do not let yourself concentrate very long upon anything. You seem to like personal comfort, and to enjoy freedom. You detest being forced into doing something which is not of your own volition. You are fun loving, and dearly love a 'Good' time. You like change, and often get restless. You are generous at times, especially when you have the necessary where-with-all, and feel hurt when you have not. Your writing does not suggest maturity, and no doubt you are not really settled as to your future. You could do equally well in business or mechanics. BUT, and there is a big but. You would have to be absolutely sure that you are going to enjoy the work, if you expect to be successful, because if you are not, you will be 'Jack of all trades, and master of none.'

Phyllis F. Gardiner,
Puslinch, Ont.

This handwriting shows a cheerful disposition. You seem to be one of those happy-go-lucky people who bless the world with a smile and a good word. Happy is the man who claims you as his life partner. You are quite ambitious at times, but there are many instances when you say to yourself "Life is too short to worry about the future." Then you plod along as if nothing matters very much at all. You are really a steady worker, and fond of outdoor recreation. You are not the type to stay at home doing embroidery when the sun shines. Here again a characteristic is predominate. YOU COULD do the fancy work, if you thought it necessary.

Lois M. King,
R.R. 2, Havelock, Ont.

Your writing discerns you as one with a pleasant, fun loving disposition. You are not easily influenced by existing conditions. You express a love for all new things, birds, flowers, and animals. You are kind, sympathetic and understanding, but know where to 'draw the line' so that your good nature will not be imposed upon.

You are delightfully naive and try to 'fool' yourself into thinking that no one ever got the better of you. BUT they do, and quite often. One with your nature, abundant in its supply of goodness, couldn't refuse a favor. Do not let this fact deter you from future good works. Just keep on being your own lovable, natural self, and the community in which you reside will continue to be richly blessed.

Sometimes you long to make a change, but it is not at all necessary. You appear to be in your correct environment and should be very happy. You belong to the unobtrusive, logical type, and you are capable of 'turning your hand' to almost anything within reason.

Mildred Fowler,
R.R. 2, Peterborough.

This writing indicates generosity, friendliness and goodhearted genuine qualities. Your nature is spontaneous with good humor. The half finished small letter 'A' shows that quite often you undertake projects and then leave them incomplete, because you really allowed yourself to commence them without first thinking of the work from every possible angle. You see you are enthusiastic and rather too impulsive. This is because you want to do too much in the space of each twenty-four hours.

The tall upper portions of some of the letters reveal excellent imagination, but at present you do not make much use of it, unless to plan household goodies, for your type as a rule make pleasant homemakers. They usually 'Do up' too much cooking at a time, then do not want to cook for some time again.

Your sense of color, proportions and combinations is above the average, and you possess creative ability along this line. Your hands are clever, and you should succeed in an artistic field, through the medium of your artistic creations, even if your ability at first only prompted you to KNIT for your friends.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, August 24 (C.P.).—Trading dragged throughout the session to-day on the Toronto Stock Exchange with firmness, however, the predominant note. International Nickel was under good demand and the price at the close was up about 50 cents at $21.50, and the rest of the board was spotted with narrow losses and gains.

Action in the distillery shares was a little slower than usual, and Walker's Common closed down at 48½. Distillers Seagram up ¼ at 29½. Industrial Alcohol at 19½ unchanged, and Brewers and Distillers up 5 at 2.75.

Ford of Canada failed to hold an early gain, closing ¾ off at 16. C. P.R. gained ⅛, Brazilian ¼, and Smelters was inactive.

WINNIPEG EXCHANGE

WINNIPEG, Aug. 24 (CP)—Lack of buying interest and indifference at Liverpool turned wheat prices easier on the Grain Exchange today, but as Chicago firmed and offerings in the pit dried up, the market rallied and replaced losses of ⅜ cent with similar gains at mid-session.

Quotations showed October at 71, December at 72⅜ and May at 77⅛ cents. Trading was not very active, and with light offerings, the market maintained a firm tone. Strengthening at Chicago was attributed to further inflation there.

The Western Canada weather map, which showed very heavy general rains in areas now harvesting new crop and which will delay the movement for several days, was a further bullish influence. There was also a forecast of frost for the northern regions to-night.

Export business was practically at a standstill. Liverpool wheat, near the close, was 1⅛d. lower.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. — (AP) — Stocks quietly backed and filled today with prices generally above yesterday's close. Alcohols were inclined to sag at times, mining shares and various other industrials improved. The late tone was steady to firm. Homestake mining was up 13 points at one time. United States Smelting and Allied Chemical advanced more than 4 points each. American Can firmed 2. Issues up fractions to a point or so included United States Steel, Johns-Manville, Alaskso Juneau, Union Pacific, Cero de Pasco, Case, American Telephone and Santa Fe. Transfers approximated 1,750,000 shares.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Aug. 24.—(CP)—The Standard mining market was consistently firm today with good volume appearing in the higher priced shares, particularly, Nickel, Noranda, Dome, McIntyre and Teck Hughes. Gains in these issues ranged from a few cents to $1 and most of them closed around the day's best prices.

Several recent popular traders in the cheaper groups were under selling pressure today, notably Acme Oil, Reno, Oil Selections and Siscoe.

McIntyre was the best of the senior golds, showing a gain of $1 at 36.75 at the close. Dome closed up 50 cents at 34.25, Hollinger up 10 at 1.10, Pioneer up 35 at 13.50, Teck up 5 at 6.35, Hargreaves up 5 at 7.25 and Bralorne 50 cents higher at 9.75.

Rev. C. Coughlin Says Record Faked

DETROIT, Aug. 24 (AP)—Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, on the witness stand to-day, accused The Detroit Free Press of publishing a faked record to show he had engaged in a stock market transaction.

The priest later admitted, under questioning, however, the stock described had been purchased for an organization connected with his church.

The publication, which the crusading pastor of the Shrine of the Little Flower denounced, came during a controversy between him and The Free Press last winter, shortly after the Michigan bank holiday. He made his charge to-day while discussing before the one-man Grand Jury investigating the closing of two National Banks here, his knowledge of conditions in the Detroit Bank Company, holding company for the closed First National Bank, Detroit.

RELIEF ENQUIRY IS PETITIONED

"No" the gathering roared in unison.

Urges United Action

Amplifying his remarks about the need of united action on the part of the unemployed organization, Holland outlined the objects of the Canadian Labor Defence League. The majority of the unemployed of Toronto were members of that organization, he said. Stressing that in no sense was the C.L.D.L. a Bolchevistic organization, in spite of charges to the contrary, the speaker strongly advocated members of the U.W.F. to seek affiliation with it. The meeting receive the proposal favourably.

"Our Mayor is the man who is bucking you" remarked Childs, rising to amplify the previous speakers' remarks regarding the need of linking up with the Toronto unemployed. "We shall need the help of that organization" he added.

Reopening the question of an investigation of relief administration, which was first discussed by the U.W.F. at their meeting last week, Childs announced, "We already have a petition with thirty electors' names on it."

"Sturgeon Falls had a government investigation; Peterborough needs one he stated.

Smyth—"I object to that petition going to the government."

Childs—"Did Mayor Denne ask you to say that?"

"He did nothing of the kind" Smyth retorted. "I am doing it on my own initiative."

Holland stated the petition containing the signatures of thirty electors had been in his possession for three months past. All he had to do was to put it in an envelope and post it. He had not done so previously, he explained, because he had regarded it in the nature of reserve "ammunition."

Later Holland said he believed it would be advisable for the U.W.F. to draw up another petition as the original petition had become torn and soiled. He agreed with a suggestion that the original petition containing 31 signatures, should be sent to Queen's Park, along with the new petition.

On motion of Messrs. Cain and Harding it was resolved that a new petition asking the government probe, be put into immediate circulation, and that when completed, it be forwarded to Toronto.

Smythe—"I move an amendment that it be torn up and thrown out.

There was no seconder to the amendment, which was greeted with decisive booing.

John Quinlan, the only supporter of the organization who did not vote for the motion explained, "I am not in favor of this petition to the government." He felt it would result in a catastrophe for the U.W.F.

Besides offering severe criticism of the civic authorities, an attack against The Examiner was led by William Childs. Claiming that news, particularly that which emanated from the city hall, was distorted and coloured, he urged "a boycott" of the paper. "I have ceased to buy or read The Examiner" he stated, "and have decided that I will not even look at the bulletin board in future."

Mr. Holland believed that the action proposed by Childs was a little drastic in view of the fact that the grievance of the Unemployed was with a member of the reportorial staff.

Mr. Childs still expressed dissatisfaction, and demanded to know whether or not the reporter against whom the attack was directed, was to be allowed to continue covering meetings of the city council.

Holland said he would interview Mr. Glover, with a view of obtaining further information on that point.

One member of the Fraternity rose in defence of The Examiner, urging that no other paper could compete with The Examiner in the provision of local news.

Statement to Press

The following statement was receive to-day from Mr. Ashing, secretary of the U.W.P.:

"That the whole executive fully endorses President C. W. Holland's action in challenging O. A. Moore, Jr., bailiff, to prove his statements 'under the $10 wager'. Also that, at no time was the said W. Smyth ever a member of the executive, but was acting secretary for a short period 'protem' in which capacity he was acting when he was asked to resign, a considerabe time ago.

The executive is thoroughly satisfied that O. A. Moore, Jr., bailiff utterly failed to prove his statement re the eviction of Lawfords in the time limit alloted by the challenge."

Sylvanite.

Sylvanite Gold Mines has declared a special interim dividend of 2½ cents per share payable in U.S. funds, Sept. 30th to shareholders of record Aug. 31st.

Reno Gold.

Reno Gold Mines for the 14 month ended June 30th last, reports net profits of $38,707 after all charges. Net from mining operations during the 6 months operating period to June 30th was $32,237. Insurance $90,000 less shut down expenses. Operating profit of $71,582.

Eldorado.

On the basis of $16,000 for slightly less than one third of a gram of raduim Eldorado Mines first sale would be valued at $50,000 per gram. While a profit is expected, the company is not yet in position to define the actual cost of production as charged against the Port Hope refinery local charges and mining at Great Bear Lake.

Robb Montbray.

Robb Montbray Mines is reported with a prospecting party in the field again this year but with nothing new. The company's position and close to $100,000 remaining surplus is controlled through Nipissing Company which has been conserving the remaining assets.

Cons. Smelters.

Consolidated Smelter has a property next to Norgold Tahota group in Quebec on which about 20 men are reported working.

Manitoba Basin.

Manitoba Basin Mining Company yesterday adopted proposals for re-organizing. Only a handful of shareholders made the meeting tedious in getting motions put through. The company will cut down its capital from five million to one million shares and then in turn increase to three million shares. The new capital will allow raising of money to continue on properties which have been held and on new ground in Swayze and at Great Bear Lake. Shareholders will receive one new share for five old. Directors as named in the notice of meeting were elected.

Lake Shore.

Officially revised figures have now been received covering production of Lake Shore Mines Ltd. for the company's fiscal year ended June 30th, 1933. The buetin recovered during the fiscal year amounted to $11,306,308 plus recovery residues compared with $12,356,750 in preceding year. Average grade of ore treated in the final quarterly period was reduced substantially, the company evidently wishing to take advantage of the current high grade of premium on bullion.

After Machado

NASSAU, The Bahamas, Aug. 24.—(A.P.)—Reports that an airplane carrying men determined to assassinatae Gerardo Machado, exiled president of Cuba, had left Cuba for this city, to-day caused placing of guards armed with rifles about the hotel where Machado is living.

One policeman, without weapons other than a "night stick," guarded Machado and members of his party for several days after their arrival here, but was later removed.

Kitchener Favors Mayor Croll's Idea

KITCHENER, Ont., Aug. 24 (CP) —Kitchener planned to-day to follow the lead of Windsor and Mayor David Croll, setting a minimum wage for employees by companies with which the city will do business. "A fair wage or boycott" resolution will be presented to the City Council Monday night.

"Maximum hours and minimum wage regulations should be passed by the Dominion Government without any undue delay. Fair wages brought about by municipalities within their own limits merely leave municipalities open to 'chiselling' on the part of firms in municipalities not affected by minimum wage action.

"To be productive of large results minimum wage and maximum hour legislation must be nation-wide. Kitchener is backing a resolution of Provincial legislation along these lines at the coming convention of the Municipal Association, and there is every probability some action may be taken to organize to secure Federal legislation to bind all Canada to a fair wage code."

(C. P. Correspondent)

BANFF, Alta., Aug. 24. (C.P.)—China must get into the stream of modern progress, Dr. P. C. Chang, Professor of Philosophy at Nanking University, said at a dinner tendered Institute of Pacific Relations members by the Alberta government. Hon. E. Hoaley, Acting Premier of Alberta, presided and welcomed the visitors.

Sir Robert Falconer of Toronto University and president of the conference here, expressed the guests' appreciation for the honor tendered them by the Alberta government last night. Other speakers were Lord Snell of the British delegation, Dr. Tsurumi, Japanese journalist and author, and R. James T. Shotwell, of Columbia University, New York, former Canadian.

Necklines share the spotlight with shoulder and sleeve treatments in the new blouses and dresses. There is the draped up crossover, and the button-down line which is very high and covers the neck when worn up. Unbuttoned it falls into a neat club collar.

THE LATEST Seagram purchase is Mama's Choice from Saratoga. He won his last start there by some seven lengths and was just cantering at that. Among those he left behind were Kneehigh which shows he was not running with the poor hides. He will do business in a big way before long. Len Sweep is entered every now and then but we do not expect her to do any winning until they hit Dufferin Park late in October. Then she will show them why she is called the Queen of the half milers.

* * *

MAJOR GENERAL is in rare form and is headed for a string of victories. He is very consistent and honest, anyone who buys a ticket on him always gets a real run for their money. Bylona ran third his last start and we think about next time he will do the trick, as he seems to be back in the good form he was in last spring after tailing off a little during the hot weather. Stealingaway won on opening day at Devonshire and will be a dangerous factor in all handicap events from now on. Nat Ray owns and trains him so he does not need much further recommendation.

LITTLE GYP was just nosed out the other day by a good one like Charley, and she should be a sure fire winner on her next spurt. They say she is just crying to run and when she is there are very few sprinters who can measure strides with her. You already know she broke the track record at Thorncliffe about a year ago. Cut yourself a hunk of vanilla sweetbread and also ask for a second helping when you see Princeton in a six furlong event on a fast track. This one lost a close decision not long ago at Stamford Park in a peculiar manner. He was in a contending position, coming into the home stretch when a dog ran across the track in front of him and he stepped on the dog, killing it, instantly but his jockey pulled him up and he got out of stride. That is no alibi, but an actual fact.

* * *

MR. HATCH has a shifty pair of sprinters in his string in Dark War and Meany. They have not been overworked this summer and from now on should garner in a few shekels for their stable. Uppity is about due for a winning effort. He can sprint or go a distance, and if not spotted too high, should greet the judges from the winners' circle in the near future. Athol is one of the most consistent platers in training this year. Every time he runs there are three or four claims in for him, showing that the haltermen think highly of him.

Grandmother's Day Features of Meeting

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WESTWOOD, August 23. — A very successful 'grandmothers' day' featured the August meeting of the Westwood Women's Institute, held on Tuesday afternoon in the town hall.

A discussion on the appointment of convenors for various committees resulted in the decision to leave this matter over until the September meeting. It was decided to quilt quilts for anyone at a charge of $1.00 each.

Miss Jessie Davidson was appointed to purchase prizes for the best boy and the best girl in the Westwood school fair spelling match competition. It was also decided to give a prize to the Institute member with the most perfect attendance and best answer to the roll-call for the remainder of this year. Blocks for an autograph quilt were donated by Mrs. E. Birdsall and were distributed to the members to be worked and returned at the October meeting.

A paper of interesting current events was given by Mrs. Aubrey Wood.

The grandmothers were asked to take the front seats and community singing at their request of numbers was much enjoyed. Miss Lena Dickson presided at the piano. A parade of all in grandmother's costumes followed, and while on the platform they delighted the audience with the song "Smile Awhile."

Piano solos by Mrs. Northcott and Miss Ruby Horwood of Toronto were much appreciated. An address on "Grandmothers," by Mrs. R. E. Birdful was beautiful in thought, and portrayed the various stages of a girl's life from early infancy to grandmother days.

The following grandmothers were awarded prizes:

Mrs. Mortlock, the only grandmother member present.

Mrs. William Dickson, the grandmother with the most grandchildren.

Mrs. Clark, of Peterborough, the oldest grandmother present.

Mrs. Mortlock, the youngest grandmother present.

Mrs. John Lobb, the grandmother longest married.

"God Save the King' closed the meeting, after which refreshments were served and all enjoyed an old-time social half-hour.

SAPIRO LIKELY TO WIN BATTLE ON EXTRADITION

Former Wheat Control Expert Adviser Wanted in Chicago.

NOW IN NEW YORK.

Alleged Conspiration of Al Capone in Laundry Racket.

ALBANY, August 24. — Chicago appears to have lost its fight to extradite Aaron Sapiro, New York lawyer, to that city to face an indictment charging him with conspiracy with Al Capone and others in the laundry racket.

At the close of a three hour hearing Governor Lehman intimated he would deny the application by the Illinois authorities for Sapiro's extradition on the ground that the latter he was in New York State May 30, the date set forth in the indictment.

On the stand, Sapiro admitted he was in Chicago on May 12 and remained there until May 19. He said also he was there on June 3, but denied being in the city on May 20, insisting that he was at his Scarsdale home on that day.

Several witnesses were called to the stand by David P. Siegel, counsel for Sapiro, including Judge Harold Simandl, of Newark, who testified that they were with Sapiro in New York or at his home on May 30th.

Fact Admitted

Governor Lehman asked Niemeyer:

"Do you still contend that Sapiro was in Chicago on May 30?"

The Chicago prosecutor replied: "On the face of the evidence presented here, I would say no."

Jumping to his feet, Siegel said: "Now that they admit that Sapiro was not in Illinois on the date mentioned in the indictment it is your duty to dismiss the application for extradition."

The Governor said:

"I am going to reserve decision."

On one occasion Siegel intimated that E. J. Raber, Cook County prosecutor, who secured the indictment against Sapiro, was salaried at the rate of $100 a day by an anti labor faction but this was denied by Neimeyer.

SEYMOUR FARMERS ATTEND GATHERING

Seven Teams Take Part in Two-section Softball Tournament.

BURNBRAE, Aug. 23 (Examiner Correspondence). — Juniors of this district and Seymour Township were well represented at the Northumberland Junior Farmers' picnic held at Presqu'ile on Thursday afternoon. A softball tournament was the chief feature of the sports, with three girls' teams and four male aggregations entered. Castleton girls easily defeated Brighton 33 to 1, and then the Seymour maidens fell victim to the Castleton gang by a count of 17 to 7. The local girls were without practice, and were short some of their best players, but nevertheless held the star outfit from Castleton to a close count for the first half of the game. Laura Hay of Menie was the pitcher for the Seymour team, and hurled a nice game.

The boys' games were very keenly contested and were featured by good pitching good fielding and very close scores. In the opener Hilton won a 6 to 3 count over Wouler by finishing strong after spotting the losers a 2-run lead in the first stanza. Steenburg of Wooler looked about the best of the day's pitchers but didn't get too good support and his team-mates fell down in batting.

The Seymour boys met an all-star Brighton squad in the second encounter. Brighton rolled up an early lead and looked sure winners, but a homer by Ken Oddie with one on got the locals going, and they finished the seventh tied at five all. The southerners were out in order in the eighth, and with one out Roy Oddie duplicated the feat of his brother and slammed one over the right fielder's head for the winning counter. Kerr pitched a nice game, and Anderson's work in the field was good. The infielders worked well together, although picked from different teams.

In the final game the locals took it on the nose by a count of 11 to 7 from the Hilton gang. Both teams played smart ball, and the Seymour gang looked best after they got their batting eyes open. A raw decision on a neat double play in the sixth upset the morale of the team and seven Hilton runs were scored after the side should have been retired. Anderson and Kerr shared the box duties in the final game and both went well. Two double plays were pulled by the locals, with the infielders starring on the smooth diamond. The Hilton pitcher was the main cog in the winners' machine and kept the hits well scattered until the sixth, when well placed bunts by Milne and Anderson and a homer down the third base foul line by Barnum gave the locals a lead. Watson also connected for the circuit in the seventh.

The Seymour gang lined up as follows:

Art Petherick, c; D. Rannie, 2b; Watson, lf; K. Oddie, ss; G. Kerr, p, rf; Milne, cf; C. Anderson, rf, p; Barnum, 1b; R. Oddie, 3b.

PLANS OF BRITISH FASCISTS ARE ANNOUNCED BY MOSLEY TO RESPECT KING AND JEWS

Win Power By Ballot, Then Abolish Parliament— King to Reign at Head of State—Exterminate Communists.

HAS PLAN TO END ALL UNEMPLOYMENT.

(By Thomas C. Watson, Central Press Canadian Writer)

LONDON, Aug. 24—Although few Britons take the British Fascist movement seriously, its chieftain, the aristocratic and rich Sir Oswald Mosley, has just come out with a most ambitious program.

This program, he told Central Press Canadian and Examiner, is:

To abolish parliament as it exists to-day.

To raise wages, thus providing increased purchasing power.

To create a Fascist empire, with the King as head.

In all parts of the country, Universal Service was told various "Black Shirt" organization are springing up, but they have nothing whatever to do with Sir Oswald's party. Mosley said:

"For the most part they are small independent organizations, confining themselves to anti-Jewish propaganda. Our organization is not anti-Jewish. It is anti-Communist, and in the east end a good many of the Communists are Jewish, but the average law-abiding English Jew is respected by our branches as every law-abiding person is."

Sir Oswald said his followers are of all classes and all creeds, but he definitely declined to reveal either their names or numbers.

SIR OSWALD MOSLEY

They receive no pay and they work with fanatical zeal, he said. He declined to call them his "Black Shirt army," adding:

"They are not an army, neither are they constructed or organized on the 'Nazi' plan.

"The only section of our movement which is at all organized on anything approaching a military plan is our Fascist defence force, which is used to maintain order at our meetings. The strength of this 'force' is never revealed

"As we are engaged in a bitter struggle with our enemy the Socialist-Communist forces, it is therefore unwise to reveal our strength or even our personnel."

In answer to a very blunt question as to whether he and his Fascists would resort to force to gain power, Sir Oswald replied candidly:

"Our attitude on this question has often been defined with precision. We seek to attain power by legal, peaceful and constitutional means. In the first instance, we seek to establish Fascism throughout the land. At a later stage we will seek to capture power through a parliamentary election.

"We shall use power to confer on a Fascist government absolute power of action. We have always frankly stated that it is possible something like collapse may come to this country before democracy makes up its mind to act.

"In that case the Communist party and other forces which seek to use that situation to overthrow the state will attempt an armed revolution against the state; in that case we shall meet force with force and will crush Communism.

"In any event, Fascism will come to power by legal and constitutional means."

Sir Oswald was emphatic that the Fascists would remain loyal to the throne and the present dynasty but equally vehement as to his intention to do away with parliament as it at present exists.

"Will you drive out the Jews?" was the next query. Sir Oswald replied: "We are not anti-Semitic. We raise no sectarian issue of any kind. We concentrate on Fascism.

"Jews will not be persecuted under Fascism, as such racial and religious persecutions are alien to the British character."

As to the abolition of trade union, Sir Oswald said:

"Trade unions on the one hand and employers' federations on the other will be employed in the corporate state which we desire to build.

"Class war would be abolished, strikes and lockouts made illegal. In place of being the instruments of class war, trade unions would be together with employers' organizations the joint directors of national enterprise."

"Have you a plan to cure unemployment?" was the final question. Emphatically Mosley answered:

"Yes. In short, we believe the only way to cure unemployment is to provide purchasing power."

Prince Of Wales' Gay Togs Brighten Up British Courses

(By Thomas C. Watson, Central Press Canadian Writer.)

LONDON, August 24. — The Prince of Wales, ordinarily one of the most conservative of dressers, either on the golf course or elsewhere, has broken away from his old custom, and now favors sporting checks of gay and pronounced designs when playing his favorite game.

The Prince's new golfing kit has meant nearly a half million dollars in new business to London's happy haberdashers. Most men golfers are copying the sartorial vogue set up by the Prince.

Orders are pouring in from everywhere, many of them from the United States.

In his latest golf matches, both against Lady Astor and in the final of the parliamentary golf handicap, "plus four" breeches and a brightly checked shirt to match. Had it been anybody but the Prince dared to invade the old links so attired, there would have been groans and moans from the old-fashioned 'hickory swingers.' But the new costume has the royal cachet and it stands. The links are all the brighter in consequence.

Old-timers who used to putter around the course in an old pair of flannel trousers and a tweed coat are now conspicuous and gradually they are falling for the new outfits.

Apart from the golf links, the Prince's dressing example is still closely followed. It is the Prince who keeps the derby hat in popularity.

The reason the Prince is so faithful to the little 'ard 'at is because it is easy to raise in answer to the salutes he receives wherever he goes.

The fashion for suede shoes was set by him. Since he first appeared in a blue scarf with white spots hundreds of thousands of these have been exported from London and Manchester to all parts of the world—before then no men's outfitter could sell a dozen in a year.

The Raglan coat was made a good seller through its adoption by the Prince, and the Scottish woollen industry has been stimulated in consequence.

80 RICHMOND ST. WEST LIMITED

NOTICE OF MEETING OF HOLDERS OF FIRST MORTGAGE (CLOSED) TWENTY YEAR SINKING FUND BONDS.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That The Royal Trust Company (hereinafter called the "Trustee") as Trustee for the Holders of the First Mortgage (Closed) Twenty Year Sinking Fund Bonds issued under Mortgage Deed of Trust dated as of May 1st, 1929, made between 80 Richmond Street West Limited (hereinafter called the "Company") and The Royal Trust Company, has called a Meeting of the Holders of the said Bonds to be held at Dining Room No. 10, Royal York Hotel, Toronto, on Wednesday, the 13th Day of September, 1933, at the hour of 11 o'clock in the Forenoon, for the purpose of considering and if deemed advisable passing an extraordinary resolution or resolutions:

(a) To confirm and ratify generally actions theretofore taken by the Trustee and in particular the action of the Trustee in negotiating an option to buy in all mechanics' liens against the Mortgaged Premises for a total purchase price of $25,000.00 as of June 29th, 1933, plus interest on such amount at the rate of Six per cent. per annum from that date up to the date of exercise of the option;

(b) To consider and if thought fit to sanction the payment by the Trustee of the sum of $912.62 to the agent who negotiated the said option for expenses incurred and services rendered in the obtaining of such option, such payment to be made only out of the proceeds of any sale of the Mortgaged Premises but irrespective of whether or not the option is exercised;

(c) To consider and if thought fit to sanction the payment by the Trustee of a further commission of $7,500.00 to the said agent for his services in securing the same, such commission to be payable only out of the proceeds of any sale of the Mortgaged Premises, and then only in the event of the exercise by the Trustee of such option;

(d) To consider any offers to purchase the Mortgaged Premises received by the Trustee and if thought fit to authorize the Trustee to accept any of such offers;

(e) To authorize the Trustee to enter into an agreement with the Company to give effect to the modification of the Trust Deed proposed by the Company whereby the provisions as to giving notice of Meetings of Bondholders by advertisement are altered so as to require publication of such notice once only in a daily newspaper of general circulation published in the City of Toronto;

(f) Generally to instruct the Trustee with regard to its further actions in the premises.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN, That pursuant to the powers contained in the said Mortgage Deed of Trust, the following regulations have been made for the purpose of enabling the holders of Bearer Bonds to be present and vote at the Meeting, without producing their Bonds and enabling them to be present and vote by proxy:

A holder of Bearer Bonds desiring to be present and vote without production of such Bonds shall first deposit such Bonds with any Trust Company or Chartered Bank or Department of a Provincial or the Dominion Government or any other depositary satisfactory to the Trustee, and a certificate of such deposit, signed by the Depositary and stating the amount and distinguishing numbers of the Bonds and that the same will remain so deposited during two calendar months ensuing from the date of such certificate or until the final adjournment of the said Meeting whichever shall be longer shall be produced at the Meeting by a holder of Bearer Bonds desiring to vote in person without production of such Bonds at the Meeting, or be attached to or produced with any proxy executed by the holder of Bearer Bonds. Any such certificate shall be satisfactory evidence for the purpose of action by the Trustee on the faith thereof.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN, That the said Mortgage Deed of Trust provides in substance as follows:

That holders of registered Bonds may, by instrument in writing under their hands, and stating the numbers of the Bonds regarding which they are entitled to vote, appoint any person as their proxy to vote at the Meeting for them, and that save as aforesaid and as provided by the above regulations, the only persons who shall be recognized at the Meeting as the holders of Bonds or as entitled to vote or be present at the Meeting in respect thereof, shall be the persons who produce unregistered Bonds at the Meeting and the registered Bondholders.

Bondholders are requested to make every effort to attend the Meeting in person or by proxy as the questions to be considered thereat are of great importance to the Bondholders, and it is necessary that Bonds to the face value of Two Hundred and Seventy-Three Thousand Five Hundred Dollars be represented thereat in order to constitute a quorum.

DATED at Toronto the 14th Day of August, 1933.

Star Gazing

Bebe Daniels, the American singing screen star, who left Hollywood with a long-term British film contract tucked under one shapely arm, has just completed "The Song You Gave Me" and will start work immediately on "The Southern Maid," two British music-comedy flickers. Husband Ben Lyon, on a neighboring set, is hard at work on "I Spy," an espionage film. Supporting Mr. Lyon is Sally Eilers, another Hollywood expatriate.

HOLLYWOOD

Sense and Nonsense

Sex pictures make money but a good comedy team lines a producer's pockets with gold.

Edna May Oliver

Universal is launching another one soon in Edna May Oliver and Edward Everett Horton.

The two players were signed yesterday by Carl Laemmle Jr. to make a series of three feature pictures, the first to go into production early in October. These films will be the same homey type of comedies that ZaSu Pitts and Slim Summerville have co-starred in so successfully at Universal for the past two years.

Here's a bit of irony. One of the authors assigned to write the first story is John Bright who, with Kubec Glasmon, turned out those blisteringly realistic underworld stories for James Cagney.

When Major Ernst Udet returns to Germany, he'll carry a medal to the mother of Hans Uhl, a young German aviator shot down in the war. The medal was taken from the flyer's body by Leroy Prinz, Paramount's dance director, who brought Uhl down and landed to make the necessary identification. The dead aviator was in Udet's command, and the German ace is a friend of his family.

• • •

The famous starring team of James Dunn and Sally Eilers will be seen in their fifth picture together, "Hold Me Tight," starting at the Regent Theatre, Wednesday to Friday.

Ever since "Bad Girl" startled cinema-goers with two characterizations as natural and effective as any the screen had presented to date, Fox has continued the combination successfully. "Dance Team," "Over the Hill," "Sailor's Luck" and now "Hold Me Tight" entitle the hyphenated name of Dunn-Eilers to a place in the filmic Hall of Fame.

With much of the story centered in one of the largest department stores of New York, an incidental feature of the production is a view of the latest fashions in every branch of women's apparel. There is a slight underworld motif running through the film that is reported as one of the most thrilling screen elements in recent films.

"Little Orphan Annie" playing a return engagement is the second feature on the same program.

• • •

All offers for the talkie rights to "Stella Dallas" and "Dark Angel" are being turned down by producer Samuel Goldwyn. He insists he will re-make them, and in the not too distant future . . . . Matsui, well known Japanese actor, will play the role of Newa ("Polly and Her Pals") in Paramount's "Funny Page."

• • •

Here's a hot one for the gossips. Gary Cooper beaued Sandra Shaw to the Miramar on Sunday evening. . . . Peggy Joyce swept in late to this popular dance spot, inspected and turned down the only two tables left and swept out again without pausing. Though orchidless, La Joyce was stunning in a blue gown and a large, drooping hat.

Another eyebrow lifter is that several of the most famous local football stars have been acting as bodyguards to studio technicians who did not walk out in the strike.

Marion Davies will have Raoul Walsh for her director in her new picture, "Going Hollywood." The star is very busy these days rehearsing and having fittings in preparation for the film.

Robert the Bruce, chief author of Scottish independence and king of Scotland from 1315 until his death, was a leper and he died of leprosy at Cardross on the Clyde.

"Now our clothes after washing still look like new clothes," says young Mother of these five charmers

Here's an interesting thing. When Mrs. L. H. Roche had only three children, her washings were a problem. Now, with five lively youngsters to wash for, she doesn't worry a bit. She's using a different laundry soap—CHIPSO!

"Would you like to know how I got started with Chipso?" Mrs. Roche asked. "It was seven years ago. I was fussing about how quickly the children's clothes got shabby-looking, how hard the laundering was to do, how sore and dry the soap made my hands. My mother said, 'Why don't you try Chipso?' Well, I did try it—and since then I've used nothing else.

"No matter how dirty the children's play clothes get, I don't need to wear them out with hard rubbing. Chipso soaks the dirt out easily. Yet Chipso suds are perfectly safe for dainty organdies and printed silks, and for my silk underwear and stockings. Chipso is marvellous for blankets, too—makes them so soft and fluffy—and for the children's woollen stockings. And, believe me, my hands have known new comfort since I've used Chipso regularly for washing clothes and for doing the dishes three times a day."

Chipso's kindness to your hands proves that it is not adulterated with the harsh "dirt-cutting" ingredients that weaken materials and injure colours. Chipso makes an easy job of the dirtiest clothes, yet is SAFE for lovely, dainty things, because Chipso is SOAPIER. It makes RICHER SUDS.

Its richer suds go farther, too. That big box of Chipso now offers greater value than ever. It costs so little, does so much work and does it so safely. Your grocer has your box of Chipso waiting for your order.

Chipso makes clothes wear longer

Daughter of Rev. M. L. Hinton of Castleton Extolled By Church.

GIFTS PRESENTED.

WARKWORTH, Aug. 24.—On Tuesday evening, August 15, a large congregation assembled in Castleton United Church under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society to bid good-bye and Godspeed to Miss Lillian Hinton, who is soon to depart for Chengtu, China. Besides friends of the Castleton circuit, there were representatives from the other auxiliaries of the Cobourg Presbyterial.

Owing to the illness of Mrs. Ashton, president of the Missionary Society of the Cobourg Presbyterial, Mrs. Mears opened the meeting.

Rev. Dr. Smith, of Warkworth, took charge of the worship service.

Rev. Honey, of Welcome, president of the Cobourg Presbyterial, was called upon to speak. He said though it was a solemn meeting it was an hour of triumph for Rev. and Mrs. Hinton to know they had so lived to influence their daughter to become a missionary—an honor which was to be coveted. For Miss Hinton, in the days to come, as she remembered this hour, it would be an inspiration, and for the people whenever they heard o' Chengtu they would recall this hour.

Minister's Advice.

Rev. Mr. Honey's task was to deliver a charge, suggestions which might be helpful in the work and his remarks were directed to Miss Hinton. "The effectiveness of your work will be in proportion to your communion with Christ. The work is very exhausting and therefore it is necessary to seek a means to recharge with energy for service. It is difficult to keep the spiritual life vigorous when surrounded by a vast mass of paganism. It will be necessary to have regular periods of devotion and retirement. Become refreshed for renewed strength. Early in the morning find contact with your God. Rest is most likely to be forgotten in the face of pressing needs but heed the words of the Master, 'Come ye apart and rest awhile.' We would say in the name of the Presbyterial, Good-bye and Godspeed."

A vocal solo, "He Knows the Way That Leads to Glory," was rendered by Mrs. Harry Isaac of Castleton.

Mrs. (Dr.) Kelly.

Mrs. (Dr.) Kelly, of Port Hope, was the second speaker of the evening. Mrs. Kelly had spent fourteen years in China as a missionary. "In the early days the missionaries wore the dress of the Chinese so as to be less conspicuous but nowadays they wear the dress of their native land. You do not have to send to Canada for your clothes for if you show a picture of the dress you wish to have, the Chinese girls can make it, and you can get beautiful silk in China and woollen goods are imported from England. The seasons are much the same as they are here. In the summer there is a very hot spell for a week or ten days, the temperature remaining high during the night. In winter the snow doesn't remain long on the ground. The climate is very damp. They seldom have a fire except at night in the grate. The hospital perhaps will not be heated so it will be necessary to have warm clothing. The houses are made of brick or a sort of stucco and are very well furnished by home-made furniture. Two years will be spent in studying the language. It will become rather monotonous. There are five different inflections for each syllable, signifying five different words, and unless one has a keen ear it would take some time to distinguish them. Many mistakes will be made at first which will cause much humor. The mission circle is not isolated and you will find a group of missionaries on a foreign field very friendly."

Mrs. Kelly related humorous experiences which revealed that the missionary's life wasn't always gloomy.

Mrs. Mears called upon Miss Hinton and in her remarks Miss Hinton stated that it was the influence of her home training which helped her to decide to become a missionary. She believed that the hospital was complementary to the church and it would give her joy to serve in the capacity of a nurse.

Address of Farewell.

Mrs. Lorne Evans, of Norham, read the following address:

Dear Lillian: Knowing that you are leaving us so soon for foreign shores, we have gathered here to-night to say farewell and God bless you.

It is not often we have the honor of having a missionary go forth from our Cobourg Presbyterial or even from our Conference Branch. We congratulate you on the fact that you have been accepted and appointed to China. So many young women, whose ambition it has been, have been unable to go, through some physical disability or from lack of education.

We are also proud that again it is a daughter of the parsonage we are sending forth. We are greatly indebted to the manse and parsonage for our splendid workers. We are thinking of Mr. and Mrs. Hinton to-night and we are sure that it will be with a mingling of gladness and sadness that they will in a few days say good-bye to you for a time.

You will, no doubt, have strenuous work as you endeavor to relieve the sufferings of those unfortunate people, but let us assure you, you will have the earnest prayers of your home presbyterial and that we shall be pleased to hear from you at any time.

May God's richest blessing attend you on your long journey and during your term of service until we see you again.

As a slight token of our love and appreciation of your service in our beloved cause we ask you to accept this little gift and as you look upon it kindly remember that we are constantly remembering you before the throne of grace.

Signed on behalf of the Cobourg Presbyterial:

N. E. Ashton, President.

On behalf of the Women's Auxiliaries of the Cobourg Presbyterial, Mrs. Fields presented Miss Hinton with a beautiful steamer rug and travelling clock. On behalf of the Castleton auxiliary, Mrs. Gaffield presented her with a linen luncheon cloth and serviettes. Miss Hinton was the recipient also of a large basket of beautiful gladioli, presented by little Mildred Welton.

Lady Clients Are Most Troublesome Stock Broker Says

If Stock Broker's Hair is Turning Prematurely Grey It Is Not Unsettled Economic Conditions, But Troubles With His Lady Clients.

NO MATTER HOW MUCH YOU DO, HE DECLARES, SHE WILL MAKE A COMPLAINT AT SOMETHING

Tells of Some of His Experiences With Both His Men and Lady Clients—Find Some Queer Specimens Among the Male Section.

"If you notice your stock broker's hair turning prematurely gray, don't jump at the conclusion that the unsettled world economic situation is the cause. It is likely that nothing more than his troubles with his lady clients is at the bottom of it."

This was one of the interesting inside lights on the business of buying and selling stocks for the general public given in a chatty interview with an Examiner reporter by a member of the staff of one of the city's brokers' offices today. For obvious reasons he insisted on anonymity as he related his observations made in the course of a number of years experience in bokerage houses in Canada and the United States. Through his work, he has excellent opportunities to acquaint himself with the psychology of the humans who deal in the stock market.

Always Has a Kick

"You can depend on it—no matter how much you do for a woman she'll have a kick to make at some time or other," he confided. "In one of the offices where I was employed we had dealings with one woman which will illustrate what I mean.

"This particular old lady bought a block of stock on speculation and, as she didn't know much about the market, I was keeping an eye on things for her," he explained. "One day her stock took a spurt up about twenty points. I was sure it was just a temporary improvement so I sold her out near the high of the day. My diagnosis proved right and the stock sank back to its previous level before the close of the trading, so I bought her in again.

"Unknown to myself and unknown to each other, two others in the office had also been 'looking after the old lady and had done the same thing I had done. Through the mistake, we made her several hundred dollars more than she could possibly have expected and at no risk to herself for we would have been responsible for any loss. She came in the next day and instead of thanking us all for the nice nest egg we had secured her, she gave us a terrible scolding because the prices at which we had sold the stock before buying it in again had not been at the exact high for the day. What can you do with a client like that?

"Heres another illustration how a woman reacts when she gets into the stock market" he continued. "One morning before the 1929 crash a rather determined-looking lady came in and gave me an order to buy a large block of a certain mine stock at 70. I was pretty sure the stock was due for a big tumble soon and, as she didn't look any too prosperous and I hated to see her lose her life savings, I tried to hint delicately that we had heard bad news on the stock. She told me to mind my business, so I followed orders and bought.

Stock Tobogganed

"The next day her stock hit the toboggan, dropping from 70 to 15. She came in and demanded in great wrath why I had bought it for her. She declared that she was the victim of a fiendish plot on our part. To have reminded that brokers merely obey orders, and, much more so, to have reminded her that I had advised against the stock, would have been fruitless. Is that what you would call gratitude?"

Know Little About Market

A surprising number of women play the stock market without knowing the first thing about what they are doing, he went on to say Many seem to think that a brokerage office is one of Santa Clau's branch dispensaries. That kind think that all they have to do is to turn over a couple of hundred to a stock broker and he will turn it into a million with no obligations involved and no strings attached. Many women traders are always ready to take the credit themselves when they profit, but wish to put the blame on their mere servant, the broker, for losses, he said. He told of encountering one woman, who knew so little about stock market affairs that she came into an office where he was and asked him to show her the shelves where they kept their "stock".

"Some time ago a woman came in here and ordered a block of stock at 23. We secured it for her at that figure, but by the time we got the certificates from Toronto a few days later and she came to accept delivery, the stock had eased off to 22½. She insisted that she only owed us 22½a share for the stock and it took an hour of persuasive arguments to show her that she must pay the $23 a share at which she had ordered it.

"Yes, on the whole, women are poor sports," he confided. "At the same time, if there is any instinct which drives on to speculate, it is the woman who has it. A woman is a born gambler. A woman will gamble on odds that a drowning man wouldn't take.

"When I say that women are as a rule poor sports and gamblers on long odds, I must hasten to say that we have a number of female clients to which neither description would apply. Some women are, of course, as intelligent, cool and reasonable in their market dealings as any man you ever traded with."

"What about men?" the broker was asked. "Are they always good sports and do they always act intelligently when they get inside a brokerage office?"

"Men are generally pretty good sports and take their wins and losses quietly. Most of them make sure they know what it is all about before they undertake to invest in any of the stocks. But then, you run into some peculiar ducks."

Some Queer Men

The broker tilted back his chair and scratched his ear reminiscently. "One day a fellow telephoned me an order to sell a block of ten thousand shares of stock he owned at 31 cents a share. The price of his stock was climbing fast at the time he put his order in and, although our floor man received the order to sell at 31, he managed to sell it at 41.

"Well, you'd think that chap would have been tickled pink with the nice work of our trader on the floor, wouldn't you? But was he? Not much. When he came in to turn over his stock and was handed a check for $1,000 more than he expected, he refused to take it. It may have been against his religious principles or something of that sort, but anyway, he said it couldn't be right if somebody sold his stock at 41 cents a share when he ordered it sold at 31. He insisted that there was something shady about the transaction and, for half an hour, stubbornly refused to accept the cheque. Our manager finally convinced him that it was rightfully his money and that he would have to accept it as nobody else had a right to take it. He went away still grumbling.

"But the funniest experience with a male client in any office I've been in was with a foreigner who couldn't read or write English," he went on. "In the days when everything was booming, in 1929, this fellow used to come into the office regularly with a wad of money in his hand each time. He was unable to read the names of the stocks above the quotation columns so he would walk up and down the quotation board and put his finger on one of the columns at random.

"'Buy me some,' he would say, showing the amount of cash he had in his hand on the understanding that he wanted as much of the stock as the money would buy."

"Did he ever make anything?" the interviewer asked.

"Certainly. For a while he made more money in the market that way than a lot of the fellows that sat around all day pouring over the financial news and studying the tip sheets. I think he lost out finally in the crash; but who didn't?"

NO BOYCOTT HERE

Mayor Denne contemplates no boycott against Peterborough manufacturers such as Mayor Grell, of Windsor, is reported to have planned to adopt in Windsor. "Let Windsor fight its own battles," he said. EDMONTON.—Absolved by his father from blame in the shooting of Walter Pansile, Mannville farmer, W. McLean to-day hoped for repeal of a death sentence. In a statement to police, Kenneth McLean, former resident of Tennessee and father of William, is alleged to have declared his son sought to prevent the shooting and subsequent robbery. Both are under sentence to hang on October 6.

Satisfied

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Aug. 24 (CP)—H. J. Burke of Chicago wanted some excitement here. He got it, but was hailed into court charged with passing a stop sign at 40 miles an hour and with being disorderly on the street.

He paid $15 fine.

"I was just after a little excitement here and I guess I found it," he said, when told he had been pursued by a motor policeman for six blocks.

He asked permission to remain in court after his case had been disposed of, to see how the law functioned in Canada, and was surprised to discover his was the only case on the docket.

"Most peculiar," he remarked.

STONEY LAKE STORM HALTS NAVIGATION

Cottagers Temporarily Isolated by High Wives.

STONEY LAKE, August 24.—The highest waves in a number of years swept Stoney Lake to-day as the winds which have been sweeping in from the Atlantic coast taking a toll of lives and ships blew over the region. Cottagers living on islands were cut off from supplies and residents on the mainlands were shorebound, fearing to venture forth on the storm-tossed waters in any of the more open areas.

Fearing difficulty in navigating the narrow shoal-strewn channels of Upper and Lower Stoney Lake, Pat Young, veteran captain of the Stoney Lake Navigation Company's steamboat, "Islanda," decided not to put out on his regular trip from Lakefield up to Crowe's Landing this morning. It was one of the few times in the past fifteen years that the company's service has been interrupted by storms.

Despite the gale with driving rain, no reports of serious property damage have been heard from the lake. Several canoes and skiffs were blown adrift but recovered.

To Be Canonized

French ecclesiastical circles were informed recently that the canonization of Bernadette Soubirous (above), the peasant girl of Lourdes whose visions of the virgin resulted in the creation of the world's greatest pilgrimage, will take place during the current holy year which ends April 2, 1934. Seventy-five years ago the peasant girl saw the vision in the grotto of what was then an unknown village. Since that time a huge basilica has been built above the grotto and Lourdes has become a thriving city. The above picture of Bernadette was taken after she had retired to the Convent of Nevers, after seeing the visions. The Pope himself, assisted by the entire pontifical court, will conduct the canonization Mass.

Your Health

by DR LOGAN CLENDENING

THE BABY obeys the rule of all young and vigorous organisms—it is prostrated comparatively easily, but shows comparatively remarkable powers of recovery.

Dr. Clendenins

In the matter of hot weather, for instance comparing the baby to a person of 70, the baby will wilt under much less heat than the older organism. But once the older person is prostrated there is very little ability to come back. The baby, on the other hand, perks up on the slightest provocation and is soon as lively as ever.

Heat itself is not particularly hard on most small babies, provided they get good food and remain free from intestinal disturbances. That is why the paramount rule for the care of the baby during the summer is to boil the milk three minutes.

The sovereign remedy for excessive heat is water. Inside and outside. The treatment for sunstroke is a cool (not cold) bath and prevention is accomplished in the same way.

The baby's skin is its most active heat conductor. That, of course, is true with older people also, but the baby has the advantage over us that its bare skin is more freely exposed to the air during the hot weather. See to it that the eliminating powers of the skin are not obstructed. Two or three spongings a day with lukewarm water with a little baking soda (teaspoon or less to a pint) will not be too much, and will keep the skin in good condition and help the heat loss. After drying, the baby should be powdered liberally with ordinary cornstarch.

It is emphasized that the water should be lukewarm. Not cold! In the treatment of sunstroke the employment of ice or ice cold water results in shock more severe than the prostration itself—it adds shock to shock. The best results are obtained when the water is not too chilled, and also when the water is thrown on the body with some force, as from a hose. This latter fact may be imitated in the case of the baby, by pouring the bath water over it from a small garden watering can with fine perforations in the nozzle.

The rule about cold water is applicable to sea or lake bathing of very young children. Children under five years of age should never become immersed in water under a temperature of 65 degrees Fahrenheit. Nor should children under ten be allowed to go in and out of the water all day long. Along the warmer beaches an hour or two at the water's edge in the morning or afternoon is quite enough. It is distinctly dangerous to allow a child to remain in the water until the lips and finger nails are blue.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

A NUMBER of my alleged Constant Readers have been moanin' low about prickly heat of late. As one disgusted girlie puts it, the sensation can only be compared to wearing a pair of grandpa's scratchy red flannels in the steam room of a Turkish bath. And let me tell you, the gal's not exaggerating one bit. For prickly heat is an especially uncomfortable condition. It manifests itself by a rash of fine, red eruptions that is most unattractive. And it is accompanied usually by an annoying itchy, burning sensation.

Gladys Glad

Prickly heat is basically due to an inflammation of the sweat glands under the skin. In order to eliminate bodily poisons and to cool the body surface, these sweat glands become very active during the hot weather. The acid sweat, with the friction of articles of clothing, irritate the sensitive skin, and cause the appearance of the prickly heat rash.

Fortunately, there is a great deal that can be done to remedy prickly heat. In the first place, woolen articles of clothing should be discarded entirely. All garments should be light and cool, so that they will in no way irritate the tender skin.

In the second place, the skin must be kept scrupulously clean. In addition to the nightly cleansing bath, the skin should be given cool sponge baths as often as possible during the day. These sponge baths may consist of a variety of solutions. An especially effective solution for this purpose can be made of bicarbonate of soda. Two tablespoons of the bicarbonate of soda should be used in a gallon of water. This solution will have a cooling effect on the body, and will help to counteract the burning sensation caused by the rash. Witch hazel may also be used to soothe the irritated skin, as may bran baths, made by placing a cup of bran in the bath water.

It is sometimes advised that the skin be generously powdered after the sponges or baths. But as the powder may cake and prove a further source of irritation, I think it far better to rub a bit of olive oil into the skin. For the oil will keep the skin soft and smooth, and will help to protect it against the acid perspiration.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Legs

Maria: My method of developing and shaping thin legs and thighs is too long to print in this limited space. However, it is fully outlined in my article on "Care of the Feet and Legs."

Sage Tea

T. E. L.: Sage tea covers and tones down gray hair, but does not restore the color to it. Shampoo and dry your hair, and then brush a strong solution of sage tea through it. Do not rinse the tea out of your hair after you have applied it.

Skin Specialist

James: The only advice that I can give you is that you consult a competent skin specialist about the tattoo mark on your arm. You couldn't possibly remove it yourself.

Motoring in comfort is essential if an auto trip is to be enjoyed.

• • • • • • •

If one has a touring car there must be enough wraps taken along so that a change of temperature will not mar the pleasure should the day turn cool or the evening chilly.

• • • • • • •

Starting off on a hot day sometimes makes autoists forgetful of cool times to come. This care is more important in open cars than in closed, but preparations should be made as needed for the style of the car in which one is travelling.

• • • • • • •

Take along a jar of cold cream and some cleansing tissue. By rubbing a little of the cream on the face, neck, hands and arms, and then rubbing it off with the cleansing tissue, it will not be necessary to use water either to refresh the skin or keep it clean.

• • • • • • •

The hair should be so arranged that it will not blow into the eyes, nor wisps continually brush the face. This is anything but comfortable. It is positively annoying. It can be prevented, and has to be, if riding in comfort is to be enjoyed.

• • • • • • •

If the eyes get burned with the wind, wear protecting glasses, the kind with side shields as well as glass lenses. The latter should be amber or some color if the light is dazzling.

• • • • • • •

It is wise to put a tiny bit of cotton in the ears if the wind blows hard, or at least in the ear which gets the wind.

• • • • • • •

Be sure to have plenty of good fresh air in the car alwyas. Those who drive closed cars often do so with every window shut, even the one at the left of the driver will be open only enough for signalling.

• • • • • • •

So accustomed are persons to having windows shut that they seem unaware of the poor air in the car, especially in the back seat.

• • • • • • •

And this reminds me about having heard a woman laughingly tell about being asked to go motoring to get the fresh air, and all the time the men were smoking cigars and the women cigarettes and no window was open.

• • • • • • •

The oxygen was so burned out in the car that it was only when getting out that she succeeded in having the luxury of pure fresh air so necessary for comfort.

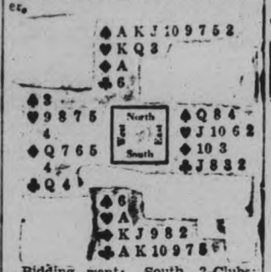
TAKING THE BIT

A HORSE TAKING the bit in its teeth and bolting is hard enough to manage, but a partner who insists upon hogging the bidding may be worse, as North knew when she finally had to give up bidding, and allow her partner to become declarer.



Bidding went: South, 2-Clubs; North, 2-Spades; South, 3-Diamonds; North, 3-Spades; South, 6-Clubs, offering partner a chance to shift to other minor suit, but as North well knew meaning that if North bid 6-Spades, as should have been done that South either would bid 7-Clubs or 6-No Trumps. South never would stop bidding as long as the laws gave her an opportunity. Under the circumstances North felt obliged to pass, although she readily could have made a small slam at spades, even with the crudest sort of strategy.

The opening lead was the 5 of hearts. The declarer's lone Ace won. Almost any player past the awkward squad stage could have fulfilled the smal slam contract. All South had to do was to proceed in the following manner: Take two rounds of winning clubs. The Q will fall, leaving out only a single winning trump in East's hand. To avoid having East trump with a low club, and then win with the J, South could lead her 10, obliging East to win with the J. No matter what East led back another trick need not be lost. The declaring side could win the first two diamond tricks with the Ace and K. Two diamonds could be discarded upon dummy's two good hearts and the last possible loser in diamonds could be discarded upon a top spade in dummy.

Here is what South actually did. She led a diamond to put dummy in the lead. Upon dummy's K and Q of hearts two low diamonds were discarded. Dummy's lone trump was led, and a finesse of the declarer's 9 enabled West to win a trick with the Q. West led a single ton spade. Dummy won the trick. The declarer led a winning spade from dummy and discarded thereon a low diamond. West trumped the trick.

As if that was not bad enough, another trick still had to be lost to the J-8-3 of trumps still held by East, putting the contract down two tricks. As neither side was vulnerable going down two tricks cost only 100 points undoubled, but making the small slam at spades would have yielded 180 plus 100 honors plus 500 for the small slam, a difference of 880 points.

Little women like side buttons across one shoulder line, finishing a turtle neck in a blouse.

Cape Goes Lopsided

By Mme. Lisbith.

The most distinctive thing about this new dress of black satin is the fact that the cape has gone lopsided and covers only one arm.

The gown is designed for afternoon wear and is cut with a long skirt with fullness placed low in circular cut.

By the way, cartridge pleats and rolled necklines are details of the latest autumn dresses.

PATTON-WOOD

On Wednesday, August 23rd, at 4 p.m. at Woodholme cottage, South Monaghan, a pretty summer wedding took place, when Mary Corallie Smithson Wood, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wood of South Monaghan, became the bride of Mr. David Herbert Patton, only son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Patton of Millbrook, the Rev. E. M. Cook of Fraserville officiating.

The home was beautifully decorated with pink gladioli, pink and white asters and ferns. The wedding music was played very expressively by Mrs. Cook and during the signing of the register Mrs. J. L. Wood, sister-in-law of the bride, sang "O Perfect Love" with Miss E. Waterman as accompanist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charmingly gowned in pearl gray georgette with lace trimming. She carried an arm bouquet of Joanna roses and valley lilies. Her only ornament was a white gold necklace. There were no attendants. The witnesses being Miss Lareta Sedgewick of Peterborough and Willan Wood, brother of the bride.

Following the reception and luncheon, the young people left amid showers of confetti and good wishes for a motor trip to Montreal and the Thousand Islands. The bride travelling in an ensemble suit of Scotch tweed in shades of brown and fawn with matching accessories. On their return they will reside at the bridegroom's farm near Millbrook.

Autumn Styles Come To Fore

Left, tweed coat with badger collar; center, black and white satin suit; right, navy and white crepe dress.

By Mme. Lisbeth

Just as we were all set to concentrate our interest on shoulders, sleeves and waistlines for the winter, Paris stirs us up again by leaping from shoulder to knee, and focusing the attention there. Is there no rest for the style conscious?

The very latest from Paris informs us that excited discussions are rife anent the length and width of the skirt—whether milady will again consent to be hobbled about the knees, and how much tunic, peplum, hem ruffling, paneling and rippling she will stand.

At first thought I would say woman never, never will consent again to go tottering about in a hobble skirt—but, there, you never know! She has suffered from fashion so many times before; she lets out a moan now and then, even in these comparatively free days, at the necessity of keeping her hiplines from curving too generously, and she may meekly accept any dictum if it comes from Paris.

The first autumn showings are not extreme in any way, however We may thank our lucky stars for that. And maybe they can be persuaded to stay that way for all the activities of life, and possibly we will consent to mince our way to the formal functions we attend, if Paris decrees.

The group of costumes above is as simple and practical, as well as smart as any feminine heart could wish. At the left is a coat such as any busy young matron or business woman could use. It is a brown and beige coat, with badger collar. It is accompanied by neat dark brown kid oxfords with tiny pipings of beige, and a new peak hat which is inspired by Agnes' dunce caps.

Everyone now is perfectly acquainted with the fact that satin is very, very smart. This black and white satin suit is a sight for sore eyes. Notice the drawstring neckline of the white blouse, and its diamond points where it meets the skirt. Also the white lining of the jacket. A finely stitched black kid T-strap sandal is a smart model to wear with it, also the stitched satin cartwheel hat.

The sleeves of the navy and white crepe jumper dress at the right are of particular significance. Also the peaked effect of the blue and white tuban. The shoes are navy blue step-in pumps with touches of white.

SIDELIGHTS ON OIL; SOMETHING DRIVERS CARS SHOULD KNOW

A Column Written by W. G. Ritchie for The Examiner, Giving an Outline on Oils and How They Should be Used in Cars.

DOPED OILS

Oils that contain some ingredient other than mineral oil have been marketed from time to time, with some degree of success. Wonderful claims have been made for them, such as elimination of carbon, resistance to crank case dilution ability to withstand abuse in a motor car for a much longer distance than 500 miles etc.

The success that these oils have met with have been only temporary, the claims made for them in many cases have been very largely imaginary and one by one they have gone off the market.

Most of the large refiners maintain a research department whose business it is to endeavour to constantly improve the lubricants manufactured by them or their company. All of these "dopes" have been matters of experimentation for years and there is no doubt but that any real virtue possessed by them would have been recognised and adopted long ago.

The truth is that in practice nothing in the world will give better satisfaction as an automotive lubricant than a high grade mineral oil.

The use of the proper grade for each car is of course essential, and it is also essential, in spite of claims to the contrary, that the oil be changed at least every 500 miles.

Oil filters, crank case ventilation and air cleaners have done much to improve conditions under which the oil functions but even so deterioration is very rapid and it is as necessary to-day as it was 5 years ago to renew the oil. The cheapest item in operating a car is the oil and it is false economy to save a few cents running the risk of many dollars worth of repairs and lost efficiency.

FLASH AND FIRE

Flash and fire points of an oil are the measures of its ability to resist heat. All oils whether wholly distilled or blended contain what are known in the trade as "light ends" and "heavy ends"; the light ends are the components parts of oil easily vaporized under heat and the heavy ends are those which require very high heat application before they will be vaporized or burned.

So that all oils will be measured for their flash and fire by the same process, the American Petroleum Institute and the American Society for Testing Materials have adopted what is called the "open cup test."

The method of testing is as follows:

A cup containing the oil to be tested is placed above a bunsen burner shielded from all drafts and heated slowly at the rate of approximately 30 degrees per minute until within say 50 degrees of the probable flash point of the oil and then it is heated more slowly still—about 10 degrees per minute and at each 10 degree rise in temperature an open flame is passed over the cup of heated oil until the vapors which rise from the surface of the oil ignite. The temperature of the oil at this point is recorded as its flash point.

What really has happened is this: The "light ends" of the oil have been released through the application of heat, they have vaporized and coming in contact with a flame and mixed with the open air, have become ignited.

By continuing to apply heat at the rate of 5 to 10 degrees per minute the flame which has been hovering about, above the oil, will travel down and the oil itself will catch fire. The temperature at which this action takes place is recorded as the "fire point."

It will be readily seen that an oil which has a high flash is composed of materials which are not so volatile or in other words it does not contain as high a proportion of "light ends" as one which has a low flash point.

We have seen that a paraffinic oil cannot be distilled beyond 250 seconds viscosity at 100 degrees. In simple language, beyond this point no vapors arise from the heated mass of oil that can be collected and condensed into oil. For this same reason paraffinic oils have a higher flash point than napthanic oils, which, no matter how heavy in viscosity they may be, always contain a fairly high percentage of volatile matter.

By their flash point it is easy to distinguish between paraffinic, napthanic, and compounded oils.

The higher the flash point, generally speaking, the better the oil will resist the breaking down process brought about by heat. As a result paraffine oils are superior for certain purposes, especially where the lubricating system supplies a continuous flow of new oil to the bearings.

In automobile lubrication, however, the flash point of an oil has practically no bearing on its suitability for the work.

No species of spider has wings and therefore no member of this insect-like family of creatures can fly.

SALES DRIVE BY FORD COMPANY

New Advertising Campaign to be Launched at Once.

USE NEWSPAPERS.

EAST WINDSOR, Aug. 24—Newspapers to-day constitute probably the most effective means of presenting to the public the merits of a manufacturer's product, Wallace R. Campbell, president of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, declared to-day in announcing plans for a new Ford advertising campaign.

The campaign, which will begin immediately, is scheduled to run almost wholly in newspapers, more than 80 per cent of the total appropriation being evoted to that end, Mr. Campbell said.

In a message to Ford dealers throughout Canada announcing the new campaign, Mr. Campbell added:

"Three months ago I said 'We are convinced that at the moment there is definite evidence that improved conditions are in the making.' We have all seen those improved conditions develop and we hope for further steady gains. All indications point to better-than-usual sales for the balance of this year.

"The Ford has shown a gratifying increase in sales—but that is only a start. Thousands and thousands more motorists will buy it when they know the true facts about its quality, comfort, performance and economy.

"To help you get your full share of this business we have started another aggressive advertising campaign."

BANISTER—HALL

A mild afternoon with a sky whose drifting clouds failed to fulfill their hint of rain, smiled on a lovely wedding yesterday, when Dorothea Elizabeth Hall, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Stewart Hall of Millbrook, became the bride of the Rev. William Franklin Banister, Th.B., B.D., of Canton, Ontario, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Banister of Campbellcroft.

The ceremony was performed at twelve o'clock noon (Standard Time), by the Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A., in the Presbyterian Church at Centerville, where a pretty setting was afforded by a profusion of summer flowers and ferns. Asters, cosmos and phlox were used in abundance in pastel tints; the white pillars were twined with ivy and myrtle, and white ribbons, tied with blossoms, marked off the guest pews.

The winsome bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a long, graceful frock of ivory white satin, draped to the figure. The long sleeves puffed to the elbow fitted the arm tightly to the wrist, ending in a tiny cuff. The neck was shaped in cowl fashion.

The long tulle veil, daintily embroidered, was caught about the head in cap style with a narrow circlet of seed pearls and waxed orange blossoms. White crepe slippers with white silk hose, and short white kid gloves, were worn, the only ornament being the gift of the bridegroom, a diamond lavalliere.

The bride's bouquet was a shower of mauve orchids, lily of the valley and maidenhair fern, tied with mauve tulle.

The bridesmaid, Miss Mary Louise White, of Hamilton, daughter of Mrs. P. S. White of Peterborough, was in an exquisite gown of forget-me-not blue chiffon, with a ruffled cape caught by two crystal ornaments and a skirt ruffled deeply in silk net. Her hat was a large model of black slipper satin, her slippers were of forget-me-not blue crepe and her long mittens of cream lace. She carried the gift of the bridegroom, a French beaded bag, and a large arm bouquet of crimson Premier roses and fern, tied with pink tulle.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Weston Banister of Campbellcroft, and ushers, with rose boutonnieres brightening their dark suits, were the Rev. Ralph Spencer of Smithfield and Mr. Willis Hall, brother of the bride.

The wedding music was played by Miss Grace Johnston, A.T.C.M., of Bailieboro, wearing pink and yellow figured chiffon and a white hat.

During the entrance of the bridal party, at the request of the bridegroom, the wedding hymn, "O Perfect Love" was sung by Mrs. W. McKee Bingham of Gore's Landing, who also sang "Love's Coronation," during the signing of the register. Mrs. Bingham wore a dainty frock of white chiffon, patterned in a blue leaf, with white shoes and smart hat of sky-blue velours.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the bridal party receiving with the parents of the bride and bridegroom. Mrs. Hall was in Eleanor blue patterned chiffon, with hat of dark blue satin, grey shoes, hose and gloves, and corsage bouquet of crimson roses. Mrs. Banister wore a gown of figured poudre blue and white, a hat of blue satin, blue shoes, gloves and hose of linen shade, and corsage bouquet of white roses and pink sweet peas.

The lovely grounds made a perfect setting for the reception, which was held on the lawn under the large mulberry tree, with its long dark red fruit. Tall standards were filled with rich red, cream and pink gladioli and ferns, and the cedar hedge and balcony were wreathed in pink and white streamers and bells. Quantities of gladioli and asters decorated the rooms, while the staircase and newel post were wreathed with phlox and green trailing vines. In the dining-room, where buffet refreshments were served, catered for by Hooper and Sons, of Peterborough, the table was done with a cloth of Madeira embroidery centered by a mirror and a marble stand holding the three-tier wedding cake, wreathed in white tulle. Silver specimen vases held dark red asters and ivory candles were lighted in silver holders. Assisting in serving were six girl friends of the bride: Miss Edith Deyell, B.A., of Bailieboro, Miss Jean Russell, B.A., of Bailieboro, Miss Kathleen Isbister of Peterborough, Miss Jean Burnham, Miss Lila White and Miss Gwen Hutchinson, all of Millbrook.

After the bride had cut the cake, brief speeches of congratulation were made by the Rev. H. R. Williams of Millbrook, the Rev. D. A. Mackenzie of Centreville, the Rev. J. F. Lane of the United Church at Frankford and the Rev. Ralph Spencer of the United Church at Smithfield. Then, after singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows" the guests adjourned to the lawn, where the bride's bouquet, thrown from an overhead balcony, was caught by the sister of the bridegroom, Miss Emmiline Banister of Campbellcroft.

Later, the Rev. Mr. Banister and his bride left by motor for a trip through Western Ontario and to Wasaga Beach. On their return, they will live at the parsonage at Canton, Ontario, the bridegroom having charge of the United Churches at Canton, Garden Hill and Elizabethville.

The bride travelled in an ensemble of marron brown English flecked tweed, with three-quarter length swagger coat, hat of brown satin and brown accessories.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was an Aeropack (travelling case) of brown leather, to the organist a circular French compact of white and silver, to the soloist a copy of Isabella Valancy Crawford's poems, and to the best man and ushers, leather belts.

Guests were present at the wedding from Toronto, Hamilton, Weston, Peterborough, Port Hope, Frankford, Burnbrae, Centreville, Smithfield Campbellcroft Bensfort, Keene, Millbrook, Bailieboro and Gore's Landing.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN

TORONTO, Aug. 24 — Ontario grain, approximate prices track shipping point: Wheat, 64c to 65c; oats, 32c to 34c; barley, 38c to 41c; rye, 45c to 46c.

MONTREAL, Aug. 24.—Continued easiness in the cheese market marked yesterday's trading on the Montreal Dairy and Produce Market, as other lines held unchanged from Tuesday. Prices eased ¼c to ¼c per pound, with Ontarios becoming mostly 9⅝c to 9⅞c per pound, and Quebecs holding at ½c less. Receipts totalled 396 boxes. At the weekly auction yesterday cheese bids were considered too low, and no stock was sold.

The butter market remained at 18¼c per pound for No. 1 butter in carlots or less, with arrivals amounting to only 66 boxes. At the auction 770 boxes sold for 18¼c a pound.

Quotations on the egg market ruled steady at the week's advances. Ontarios sold for 22c to 23c a dozen for extras, and Westerns for 21c to 22c. Firsts continued to bring 17c to 18c, and seconds 14c to 15c for graded shipments in carlots or less. A total of 394 cases was received.

New Quebec potatoes were steady at 80c to 90c per 80-pound bag.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Grains were driven to cover yesterday by late profit-taking and uneasy selling after early advances.

Wheat pushed up 2c a bushel in a couple of rallies generated by purchasing from Eastern commission houses which found pressure slack, but the advance was wiped out at the end by general uneasiness.

Early rallies in wheat had carried all grains higher and all except wheat and corn retained some of the gains.

Wheat closed about steady and unchanged to ⅝c lower; corn, unsettled, ¼c to ⅝c down; oats, ¼c to ½c up; rye, ⅞c to 1¼c higher, and provisions steady to 20c advanced.

Shortly after a steady opening, wheat encountered scattered buying from Eastern sources and with offerings scarce prices moved up about 1¼c a bushel before the rally spent itself. Another upswing later carried prices up another ½c to the best levels of the day, with May reaching a peak of 97⅞c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, August 24. — An unexpected burst of selling, which developed near the close and took the market by surprise, sent the wheat prices down for net losses of ⅞c to 1⅛c on the Grain Exchange yesterday.

Values had previously marked up a gain of ⅝c, but the late selling pressure, believed to be based on a bearish Broomhall estimate of European crops, quickly erased the gain. October delivery closed at 70⅝c, December at 72½c, and May at 77½c.

Export business counteracted easier Liverpool cables in the early dealings and prices were steady until mid-session. Pit operations were not heavy and hedging pressure was small.

It was believed at least 500,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been sold for export. Liverpool wheat finished ½d lower. Chicago held gains for most of the morning, but was not a factor in sustaining local values. Harvesting operations in both Europe and Canada are being delayed by rainy weather.

Cash grains trading was dull, with only Nos. 1 and 2 Northern grades in any demand. Coarse grains were not very active. Values closed a little lower.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (CP)—Thomas J Burke's suspicions of the sleuth his wife set on his trail stood justified to-day by a court's decree.

Burke said he decided to do a little sleuthing himself when his wife, Elizabeth, hired Harry P. McKee, a private detective in her plan to obtain evidence for a divorce.

"So" he told the court, "I followed McKee and my wife and jumped up and poked him when I saw them embrace."

Burke left the court room triumphant when the judge fined the detective $50 for disorderly conduct.

Bull's Sudden Attack Breaks Farmer's Back

LONDON, Aug. 24 (C.P.) — His back broken when attacked by a bull he was leading, Howard Eppelett, 28, of Blanshard Township yesterday was in hospital here in a critical condition.

The bull, which hitherto had never shown signs of viciousness, broke out of a field. Eppelett had captured it and was leading it by a rope attached to a ring through the animal's nose when suddenly the bull charged the young farmer, knocking him down and trampling him with his fore feet, and butting him.

Anxious when his brother failed to return Hartwell Eppelett went in search of him. He found Howard lying in the ditch off a side road, almost unconscious and paralyzed from his injuries. Neighbors subdued the bull and tied it up in a barn.

Chemong Contingent Leads Wallace Point Winners

NORTHERN SQUAD REPRESENTED IN MAJOR PRIZES ON PROGRAM

Indian Contestants Save Day for Rice Lake Association With Partial Success.

CLOSE COMPETITION.

(By Staff Reporter).

WALLACE POINT, Aug. 23. — Chemong Park's contingent of wandering paddlers stole one more regatta from under the noses of local contestants as the events of the Wallace Point Canoe Club's annual aquatic day were run yesterday afternoon. At least one or other member of the delegation was represented in the prize list for every major item on the program.

The Jopling boys, Frank, Perry and Ralph, Art Wood, Ross Pulkinghorn, Ted Hiland and Doug. McPherson were the headliners of the Chemong group. A group of Indian contestants, including Zack Smoke, Alfie Crowe, Bill Smoke, Mrs. Selby, Ossie Crowe and Bill Muskrat, struggled valiantly to save the day for the Rice Lake Aquatic Association with at least partial success, and a considerable portion of the remaining prizes were captured by Pat and Lillian McClellan of Rice Lake, Nelson Stanger, Hector McLeod and Bill Taylor of Peterborough, Audry Jones and Charles Cocker of Bowmanville, and Roger Amys of Rice Lake.

Novelty Events.

A considerable number of novelty events featured the afternoon. Events were run off quickly and efficiently, and an unusual standard of competition prevailed. Rain threatened throughout the afternoon but did not materialize.

The duck hunt was one of the features of the afternoon. A dozen swimmers raced about the water in wild confusion bent on catching the two ducks released in midstream by the official starter. The ducks proved decidedly elusive, skimming out of reach each time that a capture seemed certain.

Doug. Mortimer, of Wallace Point, caught the first duck when he managed to corner it between two canoes on the course. Allan Holmes caught the second a moment later as the bird was about to take refuge on the shore.

Nelson Stanger triumphed in the fancy diving competition with 24½ points out of a possible 30. The event provided one of the best spectacles on the card, staged from the ten-foot diving board anchored across from the judges' stand. A breath-taking assortment of back jack-knives, back somersaults, double forward somersaults and handstand dives were displayed.

Wins Second Award.

Audrey Jones won the second award with 24 points, one-half a point behind Stanger. With 23 points, Max Dunlop placed third. Points were awarded on a basis of approach, announcement of dive, dive and return. Each contestant was allowed three dives of their own choice.

Fourteen competed in the open gunwale race. The race was unusually well contsted, Drake Jopling, Art Wood, and Ward Wright placed first, second, and third, but only a few inches separated the three.

An event which seems to have lost popularity at regattas during the past few years was revived with great success. It was the "greasy pole" A number of different procedures were tried, but the half-dozen contestants in endeavoring to reach the end of the slippery pole and snatch the handkerchief. A couple tried to reach the end by stepping carefully and others tried running. But Hector McLeod displayed an entirely novel technique, taking a long run and sliding right to the end. The others adopted McLeod's spectacular method immediately, but McLeod captured first prize, securing the handkerchief twice in the three rounds. Bill Taylor took second award, and Nels Stanger and Ward Wright were tied for third prize in the competition.

Open Pie-plate Race.

Two heats were required to accommodate the eleven boats entered in the open pie-plate race. Both heats and the final race provided a good demonstration of speed despite the fact that the paddlers had only pie-plates with which to propel themselves. Art Wood with Ralph Perry and Frank Jopling, nosed out Ted and Babe Hiland, Bill McPherrson and Barclay McKone in the first heat. Doug McPherson, Ross Pulkinghorn, Harry Kingdon, and Ward Wright won the second heat. In the final, Art Wood's canoe crossed the line two feet ahead of the Hiland crew for a win

The crab race drew one of the largest entries of the regatta, with fifteen competing. Art Wood, a crab racing champion of many earlier regattas this season, took an easy victory, four boat lengths ahead of Ross Pulkinghorn. Despite the bow-heavy condition of his canoe, Wood kept a straight line over the entire course. Ralph Jopling paddled a good third.

Capable Judges.

The regatta was staged under the auspices of the Wallace Point Canoe Club. Judges were Rev. C D. Daniel of Peterborough, W. W. Jones of Millbrook, and William Dixon of Bewdley. Arthur Perrin of Toronto handled the megaphone, and Jack Deyell of Millbrook served as starter. Clerks of the course were Nellie Boorman, Peterborough, and Mrs. Herbert Cardwell, Wallace Point.

"DRAKE" JOPLING AQUATIC CHAMP

Awarded Rice Lake Association Cup as Regatta Champion of District.

WALLACE'S POINT, Aug. 24 — Frank "Drake" Jopling of Bridgenorth was to-day announced the winner of the Rice Lake Aquatic Association Men's Cup as regatta champion of the Rice Lake district for this year. Winner of the trophy two years in succession, Jopling secured it on a basis of points won in competition at the Bewdley, Hiawatha, Wallace's Point, Serpent Mounds and Gore's Landing regattas during the past two months.

To Mrs. Flossie Salledy of Hiawatha will go the Rice Lake Aquatic Association Ladies' Cup, symbolic of the ladies' regatta championship for the year. The Rice Lake Aquatic Association Club Cup will be awarded to Hiawatha as the champion club in the Association.

Jopling led all contestants in the five regattas with a total of 74 points awarded on the basis of three points for a first in an event, two points for a second, and one for a third. Art Wood of Ottawa and Chemong Park was in second place for the cup, with 53 points; and Herb. Cardwell of Wallace's Point in third place with 41 points.

A total of 38 points won Mrs. Salledy, an Indian paddler of no mean talent, the ladies' championship. Runners up were Patricia McClellan of Peterborough and Hiawatha with 33 points, and her sister, Lillian McClellan, with 27 points. Hiawatha stood out as the club champion in the Association by a great margin. Paddlers from Hiawatha won a total of 140 points during the season. Wallace's Point was runner-up club with 88 points and Bewdley in third place for the championship with 18. The other point totals were 10 for Serpent Mounds and 5 for Gores' Landing.

BRAVES TRAILING NEW YORKERS BY 6 1-2 GAMES IN LOOP RACE

Chalk Up 5th Successive Win By Defeating Cardinals 4-3.

WHILE GIANTS IDLE.

(By Orlo Robertson, A.P. Sports Writer.)

Rapidly getting into a position where their six-game series to be played in four days with New York Giants a week hence can rightfully be called "crucial," Boston Braves to-day trailed the league leaders by only 6½ games.

While the Giants, together with other teams of the National League, were being rained out for the third straight day, the Braves yesterday chalked up their fifth successive victory at the expense of St. Louis Cardinals, winning 4-3. The triumph also was the 18th in the 22 starts won by the Tribe.

Berger Again Stars.

The half-game advance was largely the result of the efforts of Wally Berger, 23-year-old outfielder. He blasted out two circuit blows, his 23rd and 24th of the season, to account for all of the Braves' runs. Th blows sent him one up on Chuck Klein in the battle for home run honors in the National League.

The washout at the Polo Grounds added another double-header to the many already on the Giants' schedule. The Terrymen now are scheduled to play six twin bills and 18 games altogether against their principal rivals during the next 12 days.

Senators Increase Margin Over Yanks

(By Canadian Press.)

In the American League, Washington Senators gained a half-game on New York Yankees increasing their margin to eight full games. While the Senators were dividing a double-header with Detroit Tigers, the world champions dropped a close decision to Cleveland Indians. Tommy Bridges, the Tigers' brilliant right-hander, pitched and batted Detroit to a 2-1 decision in the first game, but in the nightcap the Senators slugged their former teammate, Fred Marberry, and his successors, often and hard to win 9-5. Clint Brown outpitched Charlie Ruffing to give the Indians their 2-1 victory over the Yankees.

Two great pitching performances on the part of Sam Jones and Ed. Durham gave the White Sox two victories over the Red Sox, and extended Boston's losing streak to 9 games. Jones held the Sox to three hits for a 3-1 win in the opener, while Durham pitched four-hit ball in the second affair, and Chicago won 12-1.

BOWLING NOTES

(By Herb Martin)

Up at Lindsay yesterday Geo. Coleman's rink from Peterborough was successful in walking away with first honors. There were 18 entries from Lindsay, Peterborough, Port Hope and Oshawa. Peterborough, as usual, had the largest number of entries, namely, five. The final game was played with our old friend Hank Rosevear, and only by the clever bowling of Coleman himself was he able to pull out a win.

FEMALE NATATORS ARE SET FOR 10-MILE GRIND FRIDAY

EVELYN ARMSTRONG

Ruth Tower-Corsan of Toronto Favored by Experts to Win.

Under Examination To-day.

TORONTO, Aug. 24 (CP)—Considering the rigorous training schedule they have adhered to during the past few month, entrants in the Canadian National Exhibition 10-mile swim for women enjoyed somewhat of a holiday to-day.

Last night the training grind ended. To-day the female natators underwent the usual physical inspection and took things easy in preparation for the big event tomorrow. The last minute entry of Julia Makoski of Niagara Falls raised the number of competitors to 38. The 18-year-old lass from the Big Roar town arrived in town yesterday to find her name among the men swimmers, and a change was made promptly.

While this year's field does not measure up to previous years with regard to numbers, officials predict a race that will overshadow those of former season. Absence of Mrs. Margaret Ravoir Young, winner for the past three years, from the line-up tends to make the affair a wide-open one in which some six or eight stand an even chance of finishing on top.

Under Young Coaching

Winner of second money last year, Mrs. Evelyn Armstrong, Detroit matron, will again be forced to watch Mrs. Young, even though the latter is not a competitor. Mrs. Young, with the assistance of her husband, George Young, has supervised the Detroit entrant's training and will be in her boat to coach her during the grind.

Even though she finished behind Mrs. Armstrong last year, experts place Ruth Tower-Corsan of Toronto first among the favorites for Friday's race. The red-haired Ruth, always among the leaders, showed better form than ever in her workouts this year. Other veterans expected to be among the leaders are Lucy Spence, Toronto; Leah Riley, Keansburg, N.J.; Jewel Cheatwood, formerly of Terra Haute, Ind., but now of Toronto; Liza Commanda, Indian lass from French River, Ont., and Anne Benoit, one of the originals who took part in the first marathon.

GUELPH-ST. THOMAS GAME CALLED ON ACCOUNT RAIN

The Guelph-St. Thomas game in the intercounty circuit was set back until Saturday because of the inclement weather. Guelph needed only another victory to clinch matters.

Goldsmith, in addition to fanning 15 and restricting the opposition to two hits, hammered out a homer. Schilling also had a four-bagger for the winners.

"Gossip and Such"

YOU'D THINK a fellow would feel that he has more than done his share by bagging six national golf titles—especially if those titles were won on battle grounds spotted on the northern hemisphere from the middle west of America to the lake-studded interior of Scotland.

But Gene Sarazen, who has garnered six national crowns, isn't satisfied, they say. Gene would like to make it 12, at least.

Walter Hagen, the veteran of the links who has been more or less feuding with the New York Italian in recent years, has won 11 national crowns—and Gene hopes to beat Walter's mark.

• • •

OF COURSE, both Walter and Gene fall short of Bobby Jones' 13 national wins. However, Bobby's wins include amateur championships and Hagen and Sarazen as professionals have always been barred from amateur meets.

Aside from Jones and Hagen only three other players in golf history have bettered Sarazen's mark of six. And all are British. The trio—John Ball, nine, and Harry Hilton and Harry Vardon, seven each.

Ball's titles were remarkable in that they were all British crowns and eight of them British amateur championships, to boot. You'll remember that Bobby Jones won but one British amateur title and that in his final year of competition.

• • •

HERE'S THE WAY the six most successful golfers compiled their championships:

Bobby Jones—American amateur—1924, 1925, 1927, 1928, 1930; American open — 1923, 1926, 1929, 1930; British amateur — 1930; British open—1926, 1927, 1930.

Walter Hagen—American open—1914, 1919; American P.G.A.—1921, 1924, 1925, 1926, 1927; British open—1922, 1924, 1928, 1929.

John Ball—British amateur—1888, 1890, 1892, 1894, 1899, 1907, 1910, 1912; British open—1890.

Harry Hilton—American amateur—1911; British amateur—1900, 1901, 1911, 1913; British open—1892, 1897.

Harry Vardon — American open 1900; British open—1896, 1898, 1899, 1903, 1911, 1914.

REALIZING THE mountainous obstacles every player faces in his quest of a national title, one is, at first thought, inclined to figure Gene Sarazen's chances of catching up and passing Hagen as being almost infinitesimal.

However, Gene is just now approaching the prime of his career. Barring accident or illness Sarazen has many years of top notch golf ahead of him. He is nearly 10 years younger than Hagen and so may be expected to last about 10 years longer, everything else being even.

Unless our guess is wide Sarazen will win more national titles—when and which ones depending solely on in what tournaments of the near future the New Yorker gets hot—as he did last summer in the American and British open meets and this year in the P.G.A. shindig.

SENIORS SCORE TWO COUNTERS IN SIXTH FRAME FOR TIE TALLY; GAME IS CALLED IN 9TH INNING

Both Outfits Turn in Fine Fielding Performance Behind Calladine and Fournier.

SMITH HITS CIRCUIT.

Finalists Pass Up Several Scoring Chances—Hollingsworth Leads Lee Hitters.

Coming from behind in the sixth inning of a close game, the Petes scored two runs to tie up the fourth C.O.B.L. playoff contest in Kingston last evening, and it ended 4-4 when the umpire called it on account of darkness at the end of the ninth. It was agreed that the game would be re-played in Kingston tonight. About seven hundred fans watched the well-matched finalists battle through an even tilt.

Both sides passed up several good scoring chances, and both outfits turned in some fine fielding to back up steady pitching by Bill Calladine and Lefty Fournier. Five of the fifteen hits gained off these twirlers were of the extra-base type, one being a homer by Smith. The Ponies had more errors but also showed some classy defensive play. The Petes earned their four runs, and Kingston earned three. No disputes marked a fine ball game.

Good Mound Display

Bill Calladine, on the visitors' hilltop, fanned four, walked three and allowed but seven hits, mostly scattered, in a good exhibition of flinging. He worked out of several holes in classy style and gave but two hits in the last five frames. Lefty Fournier surprised the Petes by dishing up good ball to give but eight bingles and fan three, although his opponents threatened to counter in nearly every stanza.

The Petes' infield again flashed some smart work to get everything that came their way. Whatley cut off three base-stealers, and the outfield clicked well except for one long fly that got away from Foley. Compeau, despite three errors on easy chances, played a bangup game to grab all kinds of hard ones and throw them out. Vince, McQuaide and Smith also went good.

Leads Lee Hitters

Hollingsworth led the Lee team at bat with a mighty triple and double in four times up. Burton hit a double to start the game. McQuaide was the top clouter for Kingston with two singles in four. Vince came through with a double, and Smith a clean homer to deep centre with none on in the fourth.

The visiting crew got a run in the opener, Burton doubling to left, being sacrificed by Batten and coming in on Scully's single. The Ponies shoved two across in the second to take the lead. McQuaide led off with an infield hit, stole and went around on two outs, while Smith, who walked, pilfered second, took third on one of those outs and scored on a scratchy hit to short. They added one more in the third, Vince doubling and tallying on Foley's error.

Score Again in 4th

The Petes got one back in the fourth when Foley singled and Hollingsworth tripled, the latter being hung up on third. In the Kingston half, Smith led off with a homer but the next three went out in order. Peterborough threatened hard in the fifth, but could not score till the sixth when they tied it up with two markers. Ash walked and raced madly around to home on Hollingsworth's double to left, the latter getting around as Whatley grounded out and Graham flied out to deep centre.

Both teams had runners on in the eighth but could not push them home, and following the final out in the ninth, Umpire-in-Chief Sheppard called the game on account of darkness.

COGNAWAGAS TAKE 9-5 VICTORY FROM HAVELOCK CLUB IN FIRST OF INTERMEDIATE B PLAYDOWNS

Winners Take Advantage of Homester's Miscues in Early Game to Run Up Lead.

Mein Leads Cogs' Hitters.

Billingsley, Backed by Smart Support, Holds Valley Champs to Ten Hits.

Cognawagas secured the jump on Havelock by defeating the railroaders 9-5 yesterday afternoon in Havelock in the first game of their series in the initial round of the O.B.A.A. intermediate B playdowns. The second game will be played here Saturday afternoon.

Havelock had difficulty in shaking down their usual fielding form in the opening innings, and Cogs took advantage of their misplays to run up an early lead. The homesters improved as the game progressed and gave the East Peterborough League champs a smart argument in the later frames.

Backed by smart support, "Lefty" Billingsley, who hurled the whole game with a sore arm, a momento of the Cogs tough series with C.G.E., managed to hold the Havelock sluggers to ten hits. Cogs had no trouble connecting with the slants of Sexsmith, on the rubber for the Trent Valley champs, collecting a total of 15 bingles.

Leads Cogs Hitters

Mein led the Cogs' hitters with four safeties in the same number of official appearances, but "Casey" Masterson counted the big hit of the day when he poled one over the right field fence for a home run, scoring two in front of him. Not only did Masterson turn in the hitting feature of the game, but he also gave a star performance in left field to catch four flies after long chases.

McLaughlin, at second base for the railroaders, had a great fielding day. He accepted nine hard chances on the rough diamond with only one misplay, and was the means of the only double play of the game. Card at third also played headsup ball.

Cogs opened the scoring in the second when they chased three runs across. Billingsley started it when his fly to right field was missed and he made second base, to score on an overthrow to third base. Vannest singled, and Masterson fouled out to the catcher. Mein singled and both runners advanced on a wild pitch. McLaughlin took Davis' grounder to throw out Vannest smartly at the plate. Davis stole second and Wilson singled to score both runners. Padget grounded to second.

Count Three in Third

In the third the Cogs again countered a trio of runs. With Rooke out, Moore drew a walk. Billingsley got a life on Sexsmith's error. Vannest whiffed. Masterson hit a home run. Mein singled, but Davis was out trying to make second on his single to right field.

Havelock secured their first run in the third. Kennedy making first on Mein's error and stealing second and third to score on Sexsmith's hit. The railroaders scored again in the fourth, J. Hooper getting on with a hit and scoring on singles by Wrightly and Kennedy.

Cogs boosted their count again in the seventh. Billingsley singled. Vannest flied out to Sexsmith. Masterson doubled to score Billingsley. Mein singled and stole second. Davis rolled out to Card. Wilson singled to score Masterson. Padget did likewise to send Mein across. Rooke's roller was taken by McLaughlin for the third out.

Havelock scored one in the seventh when Sexsmith got on on a fielder's choice, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and countered on a pass ball. However, in the eighth they countered two more. Campney singled and J. Hooper doubled. Both crossed the plate on Kennedy's single into left.

Bethany Nine Wins From Maple Leafs

Bethany's classy girl softballers proved too strong for the local Maple Leafs in an exhibition tilt at the Bowl last night when the two teams tangled before a large crowd and when the game was called on account of darkness at the end of the sixth the visitors were holding the big end of a 17 to 13 count.

I. Sisson, third sacker for the winners led that team at bat with a homer and two singles while every one of her teammates helped themselves to at least one clean single apiece. Hannah pitched for Bethany, showing plenty of speed and control, and fanned three of the opposition. G. Mann and E. Gates divided the pitching duties for the Leafs but both of them were hit hard. Mann being the better of the two. Betty Goldie and Hazel Mann were the pick of the losers, the former having a homer and a double.

AMBITIOUS PROGRAM OUTLINED BY NEW MADISON GARDEN HEAD

Tentative Schedule of Bouts Penned for McLarnin and Lou Brouillard.

FORMER TO MEET CORBETT

NEW YORK, August 24 (C.P.)—Canada's two wearers of world fistic crowns, Jimmy McLarnin and Lou Brouillard, will have small opportunity to pack their gloves in moth balls if they follow a tentative schedule of bouts penned by the hand that now rules Madison Square Garden.

Under the program released today by Col. John Reed Kilpatrick, new president of the Garden, McLarnin would defend his welterweight title against the fists of four leading contenders. The nardy Brouillard will pit his newly won middleweight honors against three topnotchers of that class in addition to stepping into the light-heavyweight division for a crack at its champion, "Slapsy Maxie" Rosenbloom.

Do Away With Set-ups

In the billings the ambitious Colonel says he would do away with ring "set-ups." Brouillard would meet Marcel Thil, recognized by the National Boxing Commission as the middleweight ruler. Brouillard, a native of St. Eugenes, Que., won New York State recognition as the champion by whacking Ben Jebby into submission recently. Teddy Yarosz, Pennsylvanian who out-decisioned Vince Dundee this week and veteran Dundee himself are named as other likely opponents for the French-Canadian.

Kilpatrick would pit McLarnin against young Corbett 3rd, the Italian who lost the welterweight diadem to Vancouver's Irish dynamiter in less than a round.

Billy Petrolle, who has whipped Jimmy and in turn been whipped by the Canadian; Andy Callahan and Bep Van Klaveren are the others picked by the Garden mentor for shots at Jimmy's crown.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

ALEX MORRISON says:

Attempts to avoid hurrying the backswing don't mean a thing. They simply can't be successful, as long as the right hand pulls the club away from the ball.

Of course, a slower backswing can be made by suppressing the right hand but this does not help in the long run.

The only way the club can be taken back, that is the backswing made at the proper pace, and at the same time perform the proper moves during the wind-up, is to have the left hand control the club as it starts away from the ball.

The tendency of the right hand is to act hurriedly, to respond to the slightest impulse. The left hand acts slowly and smoothly.

STAN LEGGETT MARKSMAN FOR LOCAL ELEVEN

Registers Four Counters to Give Caleys League Points Over Scugog 11.

NEW PLAYERS ON ROSTER.

Lindsay soccer team left the city minus two league points after the Caledonians had defeated them by five goals to two, before a good attendance of spectators, on King Edward Park, last night. The losers were lacking some of their regular players who were on their holidays.

Score Fast Goals

In the opening stages, the Scots forced the play into the Lindsay territory to keep the custodian busy holding his charge intact. Rankin distributed the ball to his wing men to get the opposing defense off their guard when Dyer intercepted a clearance by the full backs to beat the goalie at close range. A little later, after the visitors had pressed the Scots in their own goal, Adkinson broke away fast on the wing to centre into goal where Leggett bulged the net. Lindsay carried their efforts right close upon the Scotsmen's goal to be repulsed when a goal looked promising. Quickly the ball was at the other end to find Leggatt working havoc upon the backs, to rattle the third counter past P. Wilson, Lindsay's new custodian. From this period until the interval, the visitors had the best of the argument but failed to register at the logical moment. Reid repeatedly broke through to find the full backs blocking his parting shots for fruitless flag kicks. Caledonians 3, Lindsay 0.

Re-arranged Team

On resuming, Lindsay re-arranged their team to advantage and travelled fast down the wings to place the ball in front of goal. The Scots' full backs, Denisen and Agnew, allowed no latitude while they were in possession of the ball. Exchanges continued even for a while, with the halves dominating the situation, more particularly Latham and Dobie repulsing dangerous raids on the wings. A break away by the Scots brought them another counter when Leggett sent a low grounder into the corner of the near post. Lindsay replied with nice combination to find Reid picking the vacant spot in below the crossbar. Leggatt went back to the other end where he made the count stand five to one. Five minutes before the finish, Dobie dribbled his way through the halves and full backs to give Curtis no chance to save. Caledonians 5, Lindsay 2.

GLOVER'S CIRCUIT WINS FOR NEWSIES

Pressmen Take First Victory From Buehler's By 12-9 Count.

A long home run by Max Glover in the ninth inning, which scored two ahead of him, gave The Examiner a 12-9 win over Buehlers. The game was well played and included three double-plays and an unassisted triple play. Dick Caccavelli made the triple play, but was largely assisted by some dumb base-running. With runners on second and third, Scates popped a high fly to the third baseman. On the hit Cullen dashed for home and Johnson for third. Caccavelli took the fly, stepped on third, doubling Cullen and completed the triple play by tagging Johnson.

Vitarelli and Scates were the opposing twirlers and both coasted along in good style, and received fair support from their teammates.

Hitting honors went to Glover, Board and Pat Cullen, the latter getting three hits. McDougall with a homer and a triple. Carter with a triple and two singles were the heavy stickers for the Butchers.

Fielding honors for the Newspaper boys went to Dugan, Glover, Board and Pat Cullen, while McDougall, Caccavelli, R. Vitarelli and Murry looked the best for Buehlers.

Weather permitting, Sugar Bowl and Smith-Baldwins of Lindsay clash in their second O.A.S.A. playdown round tonight at 6.15 over at Stevenson Park. The first one ended night before last in the Scugog town in a 14-all draw, and this one here this e'en ought to be just about as close and classy. They'll be on better grounds over there and the admission charge is small, fifteen cents, whereas they soak you two bits up in Lindsay. Once a team hits the Ontario playdown trail they can't possibly operate on the few dollars picked up in hat collections.

* * * * * *

And, also if the weather is okay, the Petes and Kingston meet again tonight, this time at five bells in the Limestone burg. It's a re-play of their 4-4 tie of last night and the earlier start should mean it'll be settled tonight. If the Petes win, they're the new C.O.B.I. champs. If they lose, they have one more chance in Belleville on Saturday. They stayed overnight in Kingston and will be in the pink for the go this p.m. Probably Kitchen and Jamieson will be the twirlers. A few telegrams sent to them during the game might do a bit of good.

* * * * * *

To tell the truth, we were rather surprised to see Lefty Fournier hold the Petes as he did. The frail southpaw, who isn't rated any great shucks, pitched a fine game and saved Yammy Jamieson, midget iron-man of the Ponies. Bill Calladine twirled ball ordinarily good enough to win, giving but seven scattered hits and fanning four—but the almost-equally good hurling of Fournier, plus some man-sized clouting when they did connect by his buddies, finished it up with the teams tied as tight as a stamp to a letter.

* * * * * *

In case you don't realize it, folks, this is turning out to be quite a baseball series. While we're ahead of Kingston, having won two and tied one of the four games, still it's not over yet. Those battling Ponies are proving stiff opposition and may cop tonight's contest and then Knotty Lee and his boys—to say nothing of half the town—will be up to their ears in a nice warm stew. We've got two chances to take a game and the title, but we wouldn't be surprised to see it go the limit with the issue a toss-up.

* * * * * *

Stars of the game are hard to pick out in this case. They all played heads-up ball and had to, every minute. The work of the battery was good, the infield played perfectly, and the outfielders roamed a mile or two to rope in some nifties. The one that got away from Foley wasn't exactly duck-soup but a long high one that made him step with those long loping strides. Burton and Ash drew reluctant, and not very loud hands (this was in Kingston, y'know) for extra-fancy catches. Hollingsworth, who is hitting fine in the pinches in this series, again topped the local clouters. Let's hope they wind it up tonight.

* * * * * *

Cogs grabbed an early lead in Havelock last night and carried home a 9-5 win in their first O.B.A.A. playdown series game. The villagers were improving right along and might have made it a close struggle in a few more spasms. Lefty Billingsley pitched better ball than his opponent and received better support at bat and afield. Mein and Masterson were the hitting heroes. Casey roamed far and wide to take some nice catches, too. Hagerman, McLaughlin and Card, Havelock infielders, looked pretty smooth on ground balls—particularly in view of the fact that their grounds would never, never do to shoot a game of billiards on.

* * * * * *

Their next fixture will be back here on Saturday, and the Cogs are hoping to make it two straight and not have the expense of another trip in this round. But, as a matter of fact, those Havelock lads will likely have a lot to say on that point, and may trounce the Clubmen right handily here. We'd like to see the new E.P.L. champs go somewhere this season. They have the pitching staff and a pretty fair bunch of hitters and fielders. The intermediate teams in Eastern and Central Ontario this year are pretty strong as a whole.

* * * * * *

The local Open Tennis Tournament, which has a big entry and some classy netters, has been running into stormy weather which is sort of holding back part of the play. Still, they're running off matches whenever possible and dishing up good racquet play, at that. The semi-final men's doubles last evening was a peach, Jack and Gord Kirkwood teaming up to take a whiz from Max Cotton and Herb Wilson, 8-6, 6-1, 5-7, 5-7 and 6-3! They had a flock of spectators around and the play was fast and furious, as well as classy. Young Gord supplied the necessary punch with his overhand smashes and the brothers played steady throughout to gradually forge ahead in the fifth and final set.

BUFFALO GAINS HOWLEY LEAFS PLAY-OFF RACE

Run Winning Streak to Eight by Defeating Toronto in Double-header.

BY 4-2, 7-6 SCORES.

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The rain that has been pouring down on eastern baseball has failed to dampen the ardor of Buffalo Bisons in their bid for a berth in the International League play-offs.

Nestled down in fifth place, with the first two positions already conceded to Newark and Rochester respectively, the Bisons have launched a belated drive to overtake Toronto Maple Leafs and edge into fourth place behind Baltimore.

The Bisons were but a half-game from the coveted fourth spot today after opening a three-game series with the Leafs in Buffalo last night by winning both halves of a doubleheader. The twin victories ran Buffalo's string to eight wins in their last nine games.

A 4-2 Victory

Ray Lucas turned in the first victory 4-2 in a game played partially under lights, while Gallivan and Milstead lasted through a driving rain storm to lead the Bisons through to a 7-4 triumph in the second. Mulleavy's homer with two on in the first inning of the second encounter sent the Bisons off to a flying start.

Lucas was a trible wild in the first game, walking five, but he tightened with men on bases as Buffalo spread out six hits off Hamlin and Collier where they would do the most good.

Brubaker was responsible for three runs with a homer in the second but Toronto could never catch up after Mulleavy's wallop set off the Bison's four-run cluster in the first.

TENNIS

All the quarter-finals in the men's singles of the local Open Tennis Tournament were completed last night, and the semi-finals must be completed by to-morrow night if at all possible. Some of the men's doubles will be run off also, if possible. The finals in the men's singles are expected to be put on Saturday before or after the Cobourg games here.

The highlight of the evening was the men's semi-final doubles, captured by the Kirkwood brothers, Jack and Gord, who were celebrating the passing of their exams yesterday. Three deuce sets were played between this pair and Max Cotton and H. A. Wilson, the two brothers having the match point several times and losing, till their steadiness finally pushed them through in the final set. It was thrilling tennis to the large gallery, and featured Gordon Kirkwood's driving overhand smashes. The scores were 8-6, 6-1, 5-7, 5-7, and 6-3.

Max Cotton defeated L. Freemantle in the men's singles, 6-1 and 6-3; J. Kirkwood took his match with J. Patte, 7-5 and 7-5; G. Scott won from J. Donaldson, 7-5 and 6-3; and G. Nicholls defeated Ted Rigby, 6-2 and 6-4. The ladies' singles saw Miss B. Pickering win from Miss V. Davidson, a match continued from the previous night, 6-0 and 6-1. In the second round of the mixed doubles, Miss Ruth Sutton and J. Cowling playing Miss Tuna Hart and B. Swartz did not complete their match, each pair taking a set.

GAME CALLED OFF

To-night's scheduled girls' softball game in Keene has been postponed because of rain.

TREASURE NIGHT FRIDAY

JOINT MEETING AT TRENT RIVER

West Seymour Members Are Guests of Women's Institute.

TRENT RIVER, Aug. 24. (Examiner Correspondence) — The joint meeting of the Women's Institutes of West Seymour and Trent River met Thursday afternoon on the lawn of Mrs. John Armstrong's "Hillview Farm" with the splendid attendance of 125. The members of the Seymour West Branch held their regular business meeting with their president, Mrs. Howard Clark in charge and Miss Mary McArthur acting for the secretary.

Business discussed as follows: Annual prize of $ voted for annual rural school fair for the six best ways of preparing eggs for the table. The draw for prizes to increase membership was made by Miss Enid McCulloch with 1st prize going to Mrs. Dobschea and second prize to Mrs. Henry McKelvie. The first prize was 16 spice cans, and second prize a fancy glass plate. Birthday remembrances went to Mrs. Cecil McCulloch and Mrs. E. Glenn. Prizes for the best bouquet went to Mrs. Harold Shaw, first, and Mrs. George Brooks, second. The judges were Mrs. Rev. Glover of "Restholme" and Miss Jennie Ballantyne of Toronto.

An oral "cake sale" contest was in charge of Mrs. Thos. J. Brown and Miss B. French. Miss Jennie Ballantyne and Mrs. Thos. W. Brown (West Seymour) tieing for first place but in the draw Miss Ballantyne won, receiving a fancy china plate from the Trent River members.

Miss Jennie Ballantyne gave a paper on "Our value to others." A recitation "Now will yor be good" was given by Miss Marion Forsythe (of Havelock); vocal solo, "Keep on hoping" by Mrs. (Rev.) Glover, with Miss B. French playing the accompaniment.

Sandwiches, cake and tea was served. A silver collection was taken up and nearly ten dollars was realized, the two Institutes receiving an equal share. The National Anthem brought the meeting to a close.

Alberta Marksman Wins Coveted Shooting Honors

Coming from behind, and making every shot count, Sergt. T. A. Jensen, of Innisfail, Alberta, won the coveted Governor-General's Gold Medal and $200 cash prize in the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association meet at Ottawa on August 19. Jensen's victory was hard won, three marksmen having tied for first place. In the shoot-off at the 900 yard range, Jensen defeated a fellow-Albertan, Lieut. Stephen Johnson, and Sergt. R. Kiddie of Toronto. In the above layout, upper left, shows Sir George Perley, Acting Prime Minister, pinning the gold medal on Jensen. Upper right, a close-up of the Swedish-Canadian, who earned the title of Canada's best shot by his victory. Lower left, shows the traditional "chairing" of the winner after the custom of the King's Prize at Bisley, England. Lower right shows Jensen set to plug four bull's eyes and one inner to win the shoot-off.

Don't be a Sucker.

POP IT IN THE BUCKET
By HERSCHEL DEUTSCH
Central Press Canadian Writer

(The operator of a crooked carnival game is called a "grifter". Although the sucker—the paying customer—doesn't know it, practically every game of skill and chance at the average travelling carnival or resort can be fixed by the operator so that the player can't win.

This is not usually true, however, of legitimate amusement parks, which have large investments in permanent equipment and are interested in keeping the good will of their patrons. Such places places do not permit grifters. But beware the fly-by-night joint!)

"HERE 'YA, boys; pop 'em in the bucket and take home a box of candy!"

The grifter offers three balls for a nickel. If the sucker can toss them into the bucket in such a way that they won't bounce out, he will win the prize. He watches while the shill (confederate) steps up and takes the balls.

Well, that certainly looks easy enough. All that is necessary is a little science. For a clever fellow this game must be a cinch.

"Here," says the sucker. "I'll try it."

Well, what do you know about that? This isn't as easy as it looks. However, he thinks he's got the knack now. "Let me have three more," he says. But no matter how many different kinds of shots he tries, they keep bouncing right out.

And no wonder. The sucker doesn't suspect that the tub has a false, double bottom, operated by a disguised foot lever. When the grifter steps on one side of that innocent looking bar across the front of the framework, the bottom of the tub is soft and the balls stay in when the shill tosses them. Pressure on the other end tightens up the bottom so that the sucker's balls bounce out. In addition, to make his failure absolutely sure, the sucker gets rubber centered lively balls, while the shill uses dead ones, without any bounce.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, August 25

A DAY OF sudden and possibly disruptive influences is the augury made from the aspects of the moon to the major afflicting planets, Mars and Uranus. Both are disposed to work without warning, precipitating untoward manifestations with abrupt and passionate force. It would be well to be poised in calm and steady attitudes lest violence or disintegration upset plans and projects. Make changes and undertake journeys with deliberation and have plans well laid before making important moves. Likewise be on guard against strife and physical accident.

Those whose birthday it is should be ready for a year of hastily precipitated if not disruptive and violent visitations. Well-laid plans, calm demeanor and well-governed tongue and temper may prove offsetting to disintegration and danger, to projects as well as to physical welfare.

A child born on this day may be disposed to be rash, impulsive, restless and "temperamental," although skillfull, energetic and constructive.

The salutation "hello" first appeared in the English language as "hollow" or "hollo", being usually pronounced with the stress on the last syllable.

DEATH PENALTY MAY BE APPLIED

Bill Passes New York Senate as Blow to Kidnappers.

NEW TEETH FOR LAW.

ALBANY, August 23. — Juries are empowered to impose the death penalty in kidnapping cases where the victim has not been returned alive at the time of trial, under a bill passed unanimously by the Senate. The presumption in such a case would be that the victim had been murdered.

The measure provides other new sharp teeth for the State's penal law in an effort to stamp out kidnapping and also gives juries the right to impose life sentences.

Intermediates who refuse to cooperate with the authorities in a kidnapping case would be guilty of a felony.

The minimum sentence in kidnapping cases would be twenty years as compared to the present penalties of from 10 to 50 years.

Governor Lehman recommended the enactment of drastic changes in the penal law the day after John J. O'Connell, Albany youth, had been ransomed by his powerful political uncles, Ed. and Dan O'Connell, for $40,000.

The Governor urged that members of a family who deal with the kidnappers be punished as felons, but the Senate codes committee struck out that section.

Originally the bill was sponsored by Senator Byrne, Albany Democrat, but it was passed as a committee measure. Its adoption by the Assembly is assured

PIONEER OF MURRAY TOWNSHIP MRS. S. WELLMAN ACTIVE AT 90

Recalls Vividly Hard Working Days of the Log Shanty, Ox Cart and Bake Kettles.

MANY HAPPY PARTIES.

MARMORA, August 23 (Examiner Correspondence). — Marmora has an interesting visitor at this time in the person of Mrs. Samuel Wellman, of Murray Township, mother of Thomas E. Potts, proprietor of the Royal Hotel. This delightful old lady is the wonder of those who make her acquaintance for her brightness of perception and her agility of person are not usually connected with those who have seen ninety summers. Mrs. Wellman whose maiden name was Mary Ann Elizabeth Barnum (a very long name she thinks), was born in the 1st Concession of Rawdon Township about a mile north of the village of Stirling. She resides for the greater part of her time with her daughter, Mrs. Alice Nancarrow, of Murray Township. Her parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Barnum. As far as she could recall, and being away from home, she had no documental evidence to refer to, she was first married to the late William Potts on her twenty-ninth birthday, January 4, 1869. She was, after his death, married to the late Samuel Wellman, who passed away about eight years ago.

On Monday, the day after her arrival in the village, she felt disposed to make the acquaintance of her newest great-granddaughter, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Bedore, and so she walked the distance of two blocks from the hotel to that residence and also returned without assistance. She confessed being a little tired after her effort. In the kitchen of the hotel she finds it difficult to keep to her chair, and so unlike many of the younger folk to-day enjoys taking a hand in the dish washing.

Money-making Days.

Her cheery talk with The Examiner representative inevitably reverted to the days of the log shanties. "That was just the time that people made their money," she triumphantly asserted. "There were no cars or other expensive things to take it away from them, and what was more, everybody was alike." This philosopher of the old school next stated that the little schooling she had received was imparted to her in a school two miles from her home away in the woods. The teachers boarded at the various homes in the school section for two weeks at a stretch. She clearly described the making of the home-made ox carts of those days and mentioned that she had kept an ox shoe for a long time "till somebody hooked it."

"What do you think of the cakes of to-day? Do they compare with those of your girlhood days?" she was asked.

"The cakes and bread of to-day are not so good as they used to be when the bake kettles were used," she replied.

"How long would a bake kettle last?" was the next question addressed to her. This seemed a real joke to her. "About 14 generations I guess," she answered with a real hearty laugh.

Continuing the subject she said: "There was no baking powder in those days. Only soda was used, but sometimes when we ran out of soda, we would use potash from which soda is extracted. I have often watched my father running the leach off his potash. Our children don't know how their forefathers worked and toiled."

"How comes it then, when everyone was so industrious, that the lazy folk later came along?" was the next poser put to this vivacious great-grandmother. No lawyer ever gave a readier answer.

The Answer.

"I'll tell you how. After the land was cleared some of them found time to pet their children, and then machinery came and then there were more schools and more education, and then laziness crept in."

"What were your happiest days in those hard-working times?"

"My happiest days were when I could get off to a good party. After barn building and husking bees and other big jobs where neighbors would turn out, we would always finish up with a party and a dance. My father would be awful sick, too, if he could not go to the 12th of July celebration. I guess I have been to very nearly every celebration since my mother first carried me to one in her arms. I was to Brighton this year for the celebration there."

One of the earliest incidents of her life that she can remember was the visit to the home of her mother's cousin, who resided in Stirling, the late Dr. MacLean. She described the doctor as being a very large man who kept a pair of parrots as pets. These parrots would sometimes steal away from the house and perch on the fence to call the passers-by some frightful names. The doctor kept a stick with a crook handle and would use the crook around the legs of the birds to get them back to their proper quarters. Mrs. Wellman and a young relative of her own age had an interesting time on one occasion trying to duplicate the doctor's actions. The birds, in going towards the house, screeched, "If we get hold of you, we'll pound you."

The days when the volunteers did their week's training in each section attired in white shirts, white pants with red stripes, and oat straw hats, are not forgotten by her in time's passage. "I have sewed the oat straw hats," she said, "but have not made them from start to finish. I never learnt to weave but I have spun many a yard of cloth," and with a real note of optimism, "I believe I could spin yet."

"That you could, mother," replied her daughter-in-law, Mrs. T. E. Potts. Tender and subdued were the tones of this remarkable woman as she spoke of the lads who went overseas. "One of my boys went, and I will always stick up for the soldiers. Why should I have done different than to knit many and many a pair of socks to be sent to our soldiers in that war."

Thus ended a very pleasant interview.

FRANCISCO DE PINEDO.
Determined to take no chances of falling asleep while trying to smash a long distance flying record, Gen. Francisco de Pinedo, poised at Floyd Bennett Airport for a solo flight to Rome and onward as far as his plane will take him, has made careful preparations. The first method the Italian flyer has devised to keep him awake involves a siren that streams automatically when his plane varies from its course; the second consists of a gadget that will squirt water on his face if he's still dozing.

NEWSPAPERMEN GET SWASTIKA WARNING NOTES

Orillia Reporter Told to Keep Away From Certain Part of City, Saturday.

"BEWARE" IN RED.

Letters Seen as Reprisals for Publicity Given Earlier Missives.

ORILLIA, Aug. 25 (CP)—Warning letters, similar to those recently sent to Orillia Hebrews, ordering them to remain away from the waterfront, were received through the mail here yesterday by newspapermen deemed responsible for publicizing the activities of the mysterious Swastika organization.

A large black Swastika, enclosed in a red circle, adorned each of the upper corners of the missives. At the top of the page, printed in blood-red letters an inch high, was the word "Beware" The message was: "You are hereby warned not to make an appearance on the business section of Mississauga street on Saturday, August 26th, Signed, O.S.C."

The message was typewritten, and the two Swastikas, as well as the word "Beware" were inscribed with mathematical precision. The Swastikas, it was observed, differed slightly from the official Hitler emblem. Their fins pointed in a counter-clockwise direction, while the illustrations of Nazis wearing the armband insignia of their order invariably show the Swastika with its arms pointing clockwise.

"More Foolishness"

George Curran and C. H. Hale, editors of the two local newspapers, denied they had received warning letters, and described the incident as "just some more foolishness." Employees of both these papers also denied receipt of Swastika letters.

Members of the local Jewish community said they had heard no more from the anti-Semitic organization, and affirmed they were not at all alarmed about the situation. Several examined this correspondent's letter, but declined to comment. A number of them admitted they had turned their own earlier letters over to Chief Constable Louis Church. They said he had sent the missivs to Ottawa for examination by fingerprint experts of the Federal authorities.

Acting Chief Constable Louis Carr, when informed of the incident, attached no importance to it. He had no knowledge, he said, of the steps being taken in the matter by his superior, Chief Church, now absent on holidays.

Mirage of Calm Island-Studded Lake Unique Spectacle Viewed in Marmora

MARMORA, Aug. 25.—(Examiner Correspondence)—A wonderful mirage which only a few residents were privileged to view, was seen from the top of the hill upon which the Free Methodist Church stands, on Wednesday evening as darkness was ushered in.

The sunset had been beautiful and pink tints were lingering in the sky as the optical illusion occurred. The mirage was two-fold. Crowe Lake's environs looked to be much closer and then there came into the scene, a vision of a larger lake with one island in the centre and a cluster studding the furthest end of this phantom lake.

The Examiner representative upon close enquiry, failed to hear of any mirage having been previously seen in this district. Some wonder if it was a reflection of Rice Lake that was reproduced by nature for Marmora residents to see. The mirage was unlike so many that have been seen in Western Canada in that nothing was upside down in its creation.

THIRTY-SIX FEMALE NATATORS START IN C.N.E. 10-MILE SWIM

A Tough Spot

PHILADELPHIA, August 25 (C.P.). — With two bathing beauty contest "winners" ruled out because it developed they had been married, a magistrate was called upon to determine eligibility of the remaining aspirants. There was a prosecutor, cross-examinations, and all but when the attorney proved Mary Drummond had appeared in a vaudeville act—also taken police had to break up the hair-pulling match. "Too hot for me," murmured Magistrate Coward, as he scurried for cover.

Weather is Ideal With Water Temperature at 76 Degrees at Commencement.

Faster Swimmers in Lead.

LAKESHORE, Toronto, Aug. 25 (C.P.).—Exactly thirty-five swimmers plunged into Lake Ontario at two o'clock this afternoon to start the Canadian National Exhibition's 10-mile feminine marathon swim. The weather was ideal but for a slight chop on the water. The wind was blowing from the west, and the water temperature was 76 degrees, unusually warm.

There was the usual scramble of arms and legs as the swimmers took the plunge from the barge. They were all grouped within an area of 50 yards. A few of the faster swimmers pulled away into comparatively clear water several minutes from the start.

A minute's delay was caused when the gun failed to fire within the alloted ten seconds after the announcer had shouted "Ready."

Thirty minutes after the start, Ruth Tower Corsan, Titian-haired favorite from Toronto, had crept into a 50-yard lead over Evelyn Armstrong of Detroit. Leah Riley, Keansburg, N.J., was next, while May Looney, Lucy Spence and Dorothy Nalavaiko were fighting for fourth position.

The six ended the first mile in the same position.

Daisy King Shaw of Shawinigan Falls, Que., was the first to be taken from the water.

She had covered less than a half mile when she was taken out.

"What's the use of staying in there?" asked Agnes. "I was too far behind anyway," she said. With that she hurried on to the dressing tent.

Shortly after completing the first mile, Agnes Neilsen, Toronto, was taken out.

Ruth Tower Corsan increased her lead considerably at the end of second mile and was swimming a steady two-mile-an-hour gait without apparent difficulty. Armstrong, Nalaivasko, Downing, Riley and Looney were following, although Mrs. Corsan was 300 yards in front.

SLEEPING DEATH TOLL HITS 28

Sickness Takes Victims Across Union to State of California.

ALL WITHIN MONTH.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 25 (AP)—The outbreak of "sleeping sickness," with its focal point on this city and its suburbs, has resulted in deaths in an area from Ohio to California.

Dr. Harold K. Knapp, Cleveland City Health Commissioner, reported six deaths from enbephalitis during the last month and numerous other cases. The death of a Richmond, Calif., draftsman from the disease was announced by the State Board of Health at Berkeley. Fatalities in Kansas and Oklahoma have been attributed to the virus disease during the last week.

Three deaths reported here in the last day and a re-check by St. Louis County authorities, revealed several hitherto unreported deaths, bringing the total in this immediate vicinity to 28 since the outbreak of the disease July 30.

Every possible method or procedure which might stop the spread of the epidemic is being studied here by three experts of the United States Public Health Service and St. Louis physicians.

The Weather

The rainfall yesterday gave a total of 1.45, or almost 1½ inches. Even with the generous downpour of yesterday, the total for the month is still short. Yesterday's rain did not extend west of Woodstock, and even in Toronto the rainfall was light. In this section the fall was the heaviest since July 20, 1931.—W.P.

HIS POINT OF VIEW

The Smythes were very proud of their baby.

"Which side of our house do you think he most resembles?" Smythe demanded of their bachelor neighbor.

The other was anxious to say the right thing.

"I don't know, old chap," he answered, haltingly. "I can't see that he looks so very much like the side of a house!"

MACHADO WILL BE PERMITTED ENTER CANADA

Government Forwards Permission on Request From Bahama' Governor.

STAY 2 OR 3 MONTHS.

Nothing in Ex-Governor's Record to Bar Him Entry is Opinion Given.

OTTAWA, Aug. 25. — (AP) — A cable went forward today from the government to the governor of the Bahamas Islands stating that the entry into Canada of General Gerardo Machado, former president of Cuba and three of his associates would be arranged. General Machado plans to stay from two to three months in Montreal.

The cable from the governor of the Bahamas explained that the former president was to be accompanied by Dr. Eugenio Molinet, Octavio Averhoff and C. Moreno who desired to proceed to Montreal for a temporary visit of two or three months. The government replied that the entry for "the temporary visit" would be arranged.

Expected to Sail Saturday

The department of external affairs here will probably be informed later of the date Gen. Machado will sail but it is understood to be tomorrow from Nassau capital of the Bahamas Islands to which city he fled during the revolution in Cuba.

No further official information was given as to the attitude of the government. Opinions expressed unofficially was that nothing in the records of the former president were of a nature to barr him from coming to Canada for a temporary visit. Any political acts of which he might be accused would not constitute cause for excluding him.

KIWANIS VISIT PARK CHILDREN

Sponsoring Health Camp at Jackson Park—In Last Week.

GIFTS APPRECIATED.

Dispensing with their usual post luncheon address, the members of the Kiwanis Club paid an official visit to Jackson Park, where along with the under-privileged children at the Kiwanis Health Camp, a group photograph was taken.

Sponsored by the Kiwanians, the camp has operated most successfully throughout the summer, and has provided numerous children with a beneficial and healthful holiday. The members of the club were highly satisfied with all they saw at the camp, both as regards the health of the children, and the manner in which the camp was being conducted.

The ladies' committee of the Kiwanis Camp wish to thank the following people for their kind donations: Miss A. Wood, ice cream; Miss C. Dickson, ice cream; Miss Dora Lidgate, ice cream; Miss L. Davidson, $2; Mrs. Henry apples; Mr. Kitney, generous amount of vegetables; Silverwood's Dairy, water melon; A. B. Gates, apples; Mr. Dutton, $2.66.

This is the last week in which the Camp will be maintained. It has been open for eight weeks and children totalling nearly two hundred have been looked after at the big Camp, in a very successful season. The children appear to have benefited greatly from the stay under the pines at the Park.

Young Lawyer To Practice Here

T. J. Carley, B.A., popular Fenelon Falls lawyer, who is leaving that village in September to enter into partnership with his uncle, R. R. Hall, K.C., in this city. Mr. Carley, who is well known locally, will take up residence here.

T. J. CARLEY WITH R. R. HALL, K.C. MOVING FROM FENELON FALLS

Coming to Peterborough September 1st—Began Law Studies Here.

HAS MANY INTERESTS.

Thomas J. Carley, barrister, Fenelon Falls, who has for a number of years been very active in community matters, as well as in his own profession, is moving to this city on the first of next month in order to become associated with his uncle R. R. Hall, K.C.

Mr. Hall is considered as one of the outstanding counsel in Eastern Ontario, and the association of Mr. Carley with his uncle should make an exceedingly strong combination, having in mind the long experience of Mr. Hall and the youthful vigor and energy of Mr. Carley.

Thomas J. Carley was born at Woodville on August 3, 1896, the son of Alexander Carley and Catherine A. Hall. His father was born in Mariposa Township, and was a grandson of William Campbell one of the first Presbyterian ministers in Eldon Township. His mother is the daughter of the late William Hall, of Fenelon Township for many years a Councillor and Reeve of that township.

When a small boy Mr. Carley moved with his parents to the Village of Fenelon Falls. He received his primary education in the Public and High Schools there. Later he attended the University of Toronto, and is an honor graduate of Arts (Political Science Course) and Law of that institution. After graduating from the University of Toronto Mr. Carley attended Osgoode Hall being articled with his uncle R. R. Hall, K.C. of Peterborough, a former member of Parliament for West Peterborough. He also read law with the firm of Messrs. McCarthy & McCarthy, of Toronto.

After graduating from Osgoode Hall and being called to the Bar with honors Mr. Carley practised law for one year in Toronto and one year in Norwood. He then moved to his home town where he has conducted a successful practice for the last eight years.

Mr. Carley is Presbyterian in religion. He has taken an active part in all community work having been president of the Fenelon Falls Board of Trade for many years a member of the School Board a member of the Library Board and other institutions. He is an ardent curler, and has always taken a keen interest in sports.

In leaving Fenelon Falls Mr. Carley has made arrangements with the firm of McLaughlin, Fulton, Stinson & Anderson, whereby his practice will be taken over by them, the law office in Fenelon Falls kept open, and all current matters given adequate attention. Undoubtedly the citizens of Fenelon Falls and vicinity will very much miss Mr. Carley and regret his departure from their midst. The community is fortunate, however, that an arrangement has been made as outlined above whereby the practice that Mr. Carley has succeeded in establishing will not be disintegrated, but will be carried on with no loss of conveniences to the community and the clients.

Wheat Conference Sets Export Total 560,000,000 Bus.

Tentative Average World Price More Than 20 Cents Above Present Canadian Level—Russia Signs Export Agreement.

DOMESTIC PRODUCTION LIMITED BY MOST OF WHEAT GROWING NATIONS

World Price Worked Out By Food Research Institute of Stamford University.

(By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 25.—(C. P. Cable)—The world wheat conference after many weeks' negotiations today finally reached an agreement. It sets a maximum of 560,000,000 bushels for export from the chief exporting nations, including Canada, and fixed a tentative four-month average world price at which the chief importing nations will undertake to reduce their customs duties.

This world price level to be attained before the importing countries are asked to revise tariffs is roughly 91½ cents a bushel in Canadian funds, more than 20 cents above the prevailing price. Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of Canada observed it is a higher figure than some of the exporting countries like.

In addition to setting a maximum for exports from the big overseas producers, the Danubian Basin exporters and Soviet Russia, and fixing the world price level to measure customs reductions, the agreement calls for guarantees against increased domestic production in the importing countries. They also undertake to maintain the quality of their bread stuffs.

15% Crop Reduction

For the year 1933-34 the exporting countries agree that the export maximum alloted between them should be 560,000,000 bushels. For the following year, 1934-35, the exporting countries, with the exception of the Soviet Union, agree to reduce their production by 15 per cent.

The representative of Russia stated that while the Soviet would sign the agreement, the Soviet was not entering into the agreement to limit production. It was entering into the agreement as between the exporting countries to limits its export to certain figures. The Danubian States, chief European exporters, made declarations in the same sense.

Agreement on the world price level held up the Conference for some days until a compromise was effected to-day. The figure was fixed at 12 gold francs per quintal, equivalent to 63.6 gold cents per bushel or 91½ cents in Canadian funds. This is the international price at which the importing countries will be prepared to reduce their tariffs on wheat.

This price will be the four-month average price of all parcels of wheat of all grades, sold at all ports in the United Kingdom. On these terms the present price, 64 cents a bushel (Canadian) although the best grade of Manitoba wheat, highest grade of any imported by the United Kingdom, is ruling just under 80 cents.

Estimated by Experts

This method of determining a world price was worked out by the Food Research Institute of Sanford University, California, authority on world wheat markets. The four-month average clause means the price, once it is reached, will have to be maintained for four months before the duty-revision undertaking can be invoked.

45 FOUND DEAD IN STORM'S WAKE LOSS EXCESSIVE

Hurricane Raged From Tropics to St. Lawrence Valley.

$10,000,000 LOSS.

Rivers Receding and Threat to Communities Has Lifted.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25. (AP) — Floods still imperilled parts of the eastern United States to-day as at least 45 dead were counted in the path of a runaway hurricane that raged up from the tropics and whistled away into the St. Lawrence valley.

A washed out dam and rising waters marooned 190 persons, mostly boys and girls, at Camp Achvach, Godefferty, N.Y.

At dawn to-day the Port Jervis police said that the water of the Neversink River, which surrounded the camp, was receding.

In Pennsylvania one of the last states to feel the fury of the wind and rain, hundreds of families fled their homes yesterday. Schools and hospitals were thrown open to care for refugees. Estimates said 2500 persons left their houses in and around Reading alone. Property damage probably never will be known accurately. Some published estimates said $10,000,000.

The Catskill Mountain village of Fleischman's N.Y., menaced for a time by a weakened dam, was believed saved as waters of Lake Switzerland receded slowly. A New York priest, Rev. James Healey, was drowned in trying to save five marooned persons at Mount Tremper, N.Y.

DETROIT, Aug. 25 (CP) — The Harmsworth Trophy races this year will take place at 3 p.m. E.S.T., September 2, 4, and, if a third race is necessary, Sept. 5.

Other years the racers were tuned up in the dark and started off at dawn, but there were a lot of difficulties, including traffic of spectators.

Miss Britain III. Furns Up 95 In Test; Rail Birds' Gloom Brightens Into Hope

ALGONAC, Mich., Aug. 25.— (A.P.)—Hubert Scott-Paine's Miss Britain III was the talk of the Algonac Boat Wells to day.

Granted only an outside chance by speed boat enthusiasts to win the Harmsworth trophy from Gar Wood and his speedy Miss America X, the revolutionary craft from England won many adherents yesterday when Scott-Paine sent it sweeping over the waters of Lake St. Clair at a speed unofficially estimated at between 90 and 95 miles an hour.

Veteran Harmsworth observers who have watched the trial runs of Kaye Don and Betty Carstairs, challengers of other years, were frankly admitting to-day that no challenger for the coveted trophy had ever given such an imposing show as that put on by the British sportsman.

The Miss Britain III, they said, was particularly impressive on the turns, negotiating the sharpest angles without any difficulty.

Scott-Paine, although reporting that his boat "performed beautifully" refused to reveal what average speed he attained. He did remark, however, that the Miss Britain III was turning about 150 revolutions per minute slower yesterday than she did on her trial runs in England.

Rattlers Driven From Dried-Up Marshes Invade Welland Homes—Farmers Kill 50

WELLAND, Ont., Aug. 25—(CP)—Fifty rattlesnakes ranging from between one and three feet in length have been reported killed here by W. G. Howting and R. Heard, young farmers of the Wainfleet Marsh district.

The venemous reptiles equipped with rows of from three to 10 rattles have come from the dried up swamps in the district and even infested the homes of the farmers, reports say.

Howting and Heard, several days ago, awakened to find an 11-inch rattler coiled up on the floor of their kitchen. It had apparently entered the building through cracks between loose boards.

More than in any previous year the serpents have infested district farms and most farmers have killed more than half a dozen of them.

Even on the higher ground surrounding Welland the reptiles have made their appearance. Harry Graybiel, whose farm is situated on land above the town level, reports killing more than half a dozen.

In former years rattlers have been almost unknown here.

CESPEDES SETS CUBAN ELECTION ON FEBRUARY 24

Issues Decree Wiping Out Last Vestiges of Machado Regime.

DISSOLVES CONGRESS.

Action Taken Over Opposition of United States' Ambassador.

(By John P. McKnight)

HAVANA, Aug. 25. (AP)—Taking a firm grip on power, provisional President De Cespedes to-day issued a decree wiping out all vestiges of the ousted Machado regime dissolving Congress and calling new elections for Feb. 24 1934.

The measure, signed with the cabinets' approval and made effective immediately, declared unconstitutional the Machado administration and its acts since May 20, 1929, when Gerardo Machado was inaugurated President for a second term.

All international obligations are to be observed, however, even though contracted since that date.

The new administration's action followed a widespread clamor for inaugurating a complete revolutionary program for a thorough house cleaning of the regime that fell two weeks ago.

It was taken over the opposition of United States Ambassador Sumner Welles who, in his capacity as mediator in the Cuban political situation, has maintained that it is necessary to continue constitutional forms.

Cespedes' Proposals

The decree, which Dr. De Cespedes signed after an extraordinary cabinet session at which a commission of Havana university professors made a number of proposals for reforms, contained eight points, as follows:

1. There will be a return to the constitution of 1901, adopted during the "military" rule of the United States, which included the Platt amendment giving the United States right to intervene in island affairs if necessary, and which contained several administrative educational and civil service reforms.

The 1928 reforms are derogated. These modified the 1901 constitution by extending the presidential term from four to six years. Machado was elected in 1928 for a four-year term and later ran again after the 1928 changes.

2—The administration of Machado was declared ended.

3—Congress was dissolved.

4—Three Justices of the Supreme Court appointed after May 20, 1929, were removed.

5—All other provincial and municipal officials under Machado were removed.

6—General elections will be conducted on February 24, 1934, to fill effective offices; those elected will take office May 20, 1934.

7—A Consultation Commission is to be appointed to carry out terms of the decree.

8—All international obligations are to be observed, even though contracted since May 20, 1929.

"I have given up, as you see, one year of the presidency," said de Cespedes, referring to the fact that Machado's term would have run until 1936.

"I do not want to occupy this position a single moment more than is absolutely necessary for the welfare of my people."

All hens that have stopped laying at the latter part of August should be culled.

Small Waistline At Middle Age Is Key To Success In Man's Race For Health

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(CP)—The man who keeps his waistline small when he reaches middle-age is the most likely to win the race for health, is the conclusion drawn from a new study of the relegation of weight to physical defects, published by the public health service.

"By the time that middle-age is reached, these figures indicate, it is a definite advantage to be under the average weight for height," says the report.

Overweight people have the worst of it an analysis of the death rate from 15 causes among men classified as 25 pounds or more underweight; "standard lives" or "normal" men, and those 50 pounds or more overweight.

In this analysis, says the report, tuberculosis is the only disease "showing any marked excess mortality among underweight persons. On the other hand, a large number of causes of death, primarily degenerative in nature, show an excess among overweight persons."

WESTERN MAYOR BACKS UP CROLL

Winnipeg Chief Magistrate Claims City Only Dealing With Fair Wage Firms.

OPINIONS VARY.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 25 (C.P.).—At least one Western Canada chief magistrate to-day had aligned himself with Ontario mayors who wish to stop firms paying unfair wages, and another said he agreed many business concerns were providing "starvation wages," but a "fair-wage-or-boycott" policy would be hard to enforce without some means of determining what wages were paid.

The policy of the City of Winnipeg now is only to do business with firms paying fair wages, said Mayor Ralph Webb. He urged enactment of Dominion-wide legislation to ensure municipalities would only deal with "fair-wage" firms. "Lack of centralized legislation," he said, "hampered efforts of cities at present."

"Firms paying less than living wages in outside cities could compete against those in Winnipeg or elsewhere which maintained a fair scale," he said.

Mayor Andrew Davison, of Calgary, agreed with the Mayors of Kitchener and Windsor "starvation wages" are being paid to employees by many business concerns. However, he declared, a "fair-wage-or-boycott" policy as proposed by the eastern officials would be hard to enforce here because of the difficulty in obtaining reliable information as to wages paid.

"I will have to consider the matter before I make a definite statement," Mayor Davison said. "I believe though, the Windsor resolution is a step in the right direction."

FREE FAIR TRIP FOR 500 KIDDIES

Manufacturing Firm Leaves Choice to Mayors of Various Towns.

8 FROM PETERBORO'.

TORONTO, Aug. 25 (CP)—In order to give 500 Ontario children who have never seen the Canadian National Exhibition a chance to wander through the big Fair, a large Canadian manufacturing concern has announced that number will be given a free trip to Toronto on Sept. 8 and 9. Piloted by Denton Massey, Toronto, as master of ceremonies, the youngsters are to see all that is to be seen—and nurses will prevent them from drinking too much lemonade or eating too many hot dogs.

From 112 towns, the 500 boys and girls are to be chozen by the Mayor or chief officer of the municipality. And the firm has pointed out only those children who have never seen the Exhibition are eligible for the free trip.

The allotments include: Belleville 2; Brantford 4; Brockville 4; Burlington 2; Cobourg 2; Chatham 4; Goderich 4; Grimsby 2; Guelph 6; Hamilton 40; Ingersoll 4; Kincardine 2; Kingston 6; Kingsville 2; Kitchener 8; Leamington 2; London 12; Niagara Falls 6; North Bay, 4; Ottawa 19; Owen Sound 4; Paris 2; Peterborough 8; Petrolia 2; Port Hope 4; Sarnia 6; St. Catharines 8; Sault Ste. GOLD IS FOUND NEAR TIMMINS

Details of Strike Are Lacking, But Several Claims Known to be Filed.

RUSH EXPECTED.

TORONTO, Aug. 25.—Gold has been discovered in the south-west section of Carscallen township, approximately 18 miles from Timmins, and a like distance from the Ontario Government's Abitibi Canyon power transmission line.

Details of the strike are still few, but Thomas F. Sutherland, acting Deputy Minister of Mines, announced that a number of claims have already been filed with the Department, and that one find, 30 feet in width, has been made. A sample of ore, bearing considerable free gold of high quality, has already reached Queen's Park from the scene of the activity, but has still to be assayed.

It is expected that the Department will send a man in to make a thorough study of the field. News of the find has spread like wildfire in the North, it is reported, and a rush of some proportions is about to develop.

Plane Crashes In B.C. 4 Chicagoans Safe

DAWSON CREEK, B.C., August 25 (C.P.). — Four Chicago adventurers to-day were marooned in the upper Halfway country, 200 miles north of here, without means of getting back to transportation lines, but thankful they were not injured when their plane crashed.

The nature of the terrain, it is said, would make it almost impossible to send a relief plane to bring the party out, and they will be forced to walk or secure saddle horses from some settler homesteading nearby. They carry emergency rations and firearms.

Composed of Captain C. A Simons, John Donnell, Herman Hatfield, and Alton Semans, the party had been missing since Monday on a flight which took them over some of the most dangerous flying country in British Columbia.

TWO ENGINEMEN DEAD IN WRECK OF CRACK TRAIN

Derailment on Bridge Near Washington—Engine Plunges Through.

13 IN HOSPITALS.

Couplings Save Coaches From Toppling Into Stream.

WASHINGTON, August 24 (C. P.).— The Crescent Limited, crack Southern Railway train en route from New York to New Orleans, carried two enginemen to instant death and sent 13 passengers and members of its crew to hospitals when it was derailed over a swollen stream near here at 3.45 this morning.

A weakened bridge over the eastern branch of the Anacostia River just outside the capital, caused the disastrous, before-daylight wreck.

The engine left the rails, plunging into a mudbank with its operating cab submerged in the stream.

A. H. Bride, of Washington, engineer, and J. H. Faye, fireman of Perryville, Maryland, were killed.

A mail car and a coach were hurled ahead of the engine, diagonally across the tracks. A deadhead car was thrown into the stream and almost completely submerged.

Cars Partly Submerged.

Four other cars hung precariously to the roadbed, saved from a worse crash only by their coupling, two cars, off the track, swung directly over the stream, partially submerged, and only the pull of the cars in front and behind saved them from toppling into the water.

Ben Johnson, railroad employee, who had been riding in the engine cab, was pulled out of the sunken compartment. Those at the wreck said he probably had been fatally injured, but at the hospital doctors said none of their wreck patients were in any immediate danger.

There were conflicting reports as to the speed of the train. Officials of the road said it had been proceeding under reduced speed orders.

Making Up Time.

Several of those on board the train said it was their impression that it had been moving at a high rate of speed in order to make up part of the hour it was behind schedule.

All of the cars, however, were badly smashed, showing they had hit with considerable force.

A doctor kicked in the window of the mail car to get out the mail clerks, and there found two clerks calmly sorting mail, even though badly shaken up by the wreck.

Slept Through Crash.

One man, whose name was not ascertained, told the doctor after he had been pulled from his berth that he had slept through the wreck which tore the cars apart and knew nothing of it until awakened by the rescuers.

The derailment happened along a desolate stretch of track where water poured along both sides of the Pennsylvania railroad's double track right-of-way.

WHEAT CONFERENCE SETS EXPORT TOTAL

The chief exporting nations held out for some time for a world price level of about 94 cents, while the importers wanted the price fixed between 94 and 99 cents, so the price finally agreed upon is about halfway between the two.

Interpretative Clause

At the instance of the importing countries a new interpretative clause was inserted in the agreement. It reads as follows:

"The obligations of the importing countries under this agreement are to be interpreted in the light of the following declaration: 'It is recognized that measures affecting the area of wheat grown and the degree of protection adopted are primarily dependent upon the domestic conditions within each country, and that any change in these measures must often require the sanction of the legislature.

"The intention of this agreement nevertheless is that the importing countries will not take advantage of a voluntary reduction of exports on the part of the exporting countries by developing their domestic policies in such a way as to frustrate the efforts which the exporting countries are making in the common interest to restore the price of wheat to a remunerative level'."

When the conference came to discuss the international price at which the importing countries agree to adjust their tariffs, Paul Devinat of France said his Government was prepared to give proof of its desire to spare no effort to reach an agreement by accepting the figure of 12 gold francs per quintal.

The Italian representative explained that his Government desired to be able to protect itself against any disturbance of the Italian market through measures which might be taken by countries not parties to the agreement. As to price, he thought the question might be taken up after in the international advisory committee which is to be established. He would, however, refer the question to his Government.

Premier Bennett Accepts

Prime Minister Bennett, chairman of the conference, replied the exporting countries would accept 12 gold francs as the measure, although it was higher than some of them liked. But in view of the evident desire of all to arrive at an agreement, he added, he was authorized on the part of the exporting countries to accept this level.

Service, Please

LINCOLN, Neb., August 25 (C.P.). — Harry Swanson, Nebraska's young Secretary of State, is glad to be of service, and the folks know it.

But he thought Otto Fallbeck, a Hemingford farmer, was carrying it just a little bit too far.

Fallbeck wrote for the obliging official to 'watch for a cow missing from my herd. The neighbors have not seen her, so we thought we would notify you to be on the lookout."

He was rushed to Campbellford by a passing motorist, where first aid was rendered by Dr. H. B. Longmore. His condition is not serious. The injured man was taken to his home in Trenton by friends visiting in the district. The car was a complete wreck.

FRESH CAMPAIGN OPENED AGAINST GOLD HOARDERS

U. S. Seeks $500,000,000 Still Hidden—Plans Legal Recovery.

5,629 ON LIST.

Over $800,000,000 Already Been Returned Since Ban Laid Down.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—A plan to search for thousands of unlisted hoarders, to bring about $500,000,000 of gold into the United States Treasury, has been submitted to President Roosevelt by Attorney-General Cummings.

Department Investigates

The proposal was made on the basis of the Justice Department's investigation of 5,629 persons known to have withheld gold after the President ordered it impounded during the bank holiday in March.

A "broad and determined manner" was the way Cummings yesterday described to newspapermen his plan recommended to the President.

Since the use of gold as a medium of exchange was banned in the United States more than $800,000,000 has flowed into the Treasury and Federal Reserve Banks.

Others Unlisted

Cummings estimated about $500,000,000 still was being retained by persons whose names were not found on lists of those who withdrew metal gold certificates and gold bullion during and before the bank panic of last winter.

Cummings said defiant gold holders would be prosecuted, but that it would require two weeks for a final check of forty persons "who were outright objectors," holding $373,000 in gold.

POLICE SCOUT KIDNAP STORY

Believe Lady Heard Screaming Was Recalcitrant Companion of Men in Car.

CAMPERS AROUSED.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 25. (C.P.)—After a thorough probe of the incident, police to-day are of the opinion the young woman reported assaulted and kidnapped by a trio of men near Vauxhall Bridge in Westminster Township, was a recalcitrant companion of the men.

Neither city nor provincial police are in receipt of information which would substantiate the rumor that the young women had been ruthlessly assaulted before being carried off in an automobile.

The rumor was current following the early morning rousing of residents on the brow of Vauxhall hill by a woman's screams intermingled with the threatening voices of men.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Wood, living in a tent on the hill top, were awakened by the commotion and came from their abode to bear the glass of one of the car windows broken. Loud oaths from the men were followed by the starting of the motor and the car sped past the tent toward the city.

TULLY—COLLINS

TWEED, Aug. 26. (Examiner Correspondence). St. Edmund's Church Stoco, beautifully decorated with gladioli and fern was the scene of a pretty wedding on Monday morning, August 21, when Ursula Bridget, daughter of the late William Collins and of Mrs. Collins, Moira, became the bride of Joseph Timothy Tully, Lindsay, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Tully. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father D. Cullinane at nine o'clock.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. William Collins, wore a lovely frock of shell pink triple sheer, fashioned on long fitted lines with large picture hat of pink mohair, with trimming of pale green ribbon. Accessories were in green and the bride's bouquet was of Premier roses.

Miss Priscilla Collins was her sister's briesmaid and was attired in a pretty frock of apple green silk organdy with crepe sleeves and sash of pink. Her hat was a picture model of green with trimmings of pink ribbon. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Little Agnes Fobert, niece of the bride, was flower girl and wore a dainty frock of Alice blue organdy and carried a basket of summer flowers.

Mr. Peter Tully, brother of the groom, was groomsman, while Mr. Vincent Tully and Mr. Leo Collins acted as ushers.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. D. McGrath and at the offertory Miss Priscilla McAvoy sang Rosewig's "Ave Maria."

After the ceremony the wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, forty guests being present.

The rooms were prettily decorated in pink and white. The table was charming with streamers of these shades hung from a large white bell to a smaller one in rose petal shape.

Mrs. P. Collins, mother of the bride, was gowned in navy embrossed crepe, while Mrs. Tully, mother of the groom, wore black crepe satin.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Tully left on a wedding trip to Chicago and Flint, Mich., the bride travelling in a smart costume of brown figured crepe with matching hat and accessories. On their return they will reside near Lindsay.

Havelock

The Ladies' Aid of Knox Presbyterian Church here held a very successful field day and afternoon tea, Wednesday, August 23, at the beautiful summer home of Mr. A. Spencer at Trent River. A ball game and small sports made up a very interesting program, and a nice hot supper was served at the supper hour. Many of the young people took advantage of the lovely afternoon to bathe in the placid waters in front of the cottage, and the older ones enjoyed a launch ride down the river.

The annual Decoration Day of the local Oddfellows will be held on Sunday afternoon next, August 27, at Maple Grove Cemetery.

Mr. Abe. Fillion, a resident of Havelock, has had more success with cucumbers than any other resident of the village so far as can be learned. Mr. Fillion states that he never sows cucumber seed until the 13th of June. He says that his father could always produce an abundance of the prickly fruit and that no one could ever persuade him to plant a cucumber seed until St. Anthony's feast day, which falls on June 13.

The fact remains that while others are complaining of a short crop in the cucumber field, Mr. Fillion has been able to supply a number of the housewives in this vicinity with the necessary fruit to make the delectable pickles for their winter store.

McGEE—HENNESSY

HASTINGS, Aug. 25 (Examiner Correspondence) — A quiet and pretty wedding was solemnized in Morgan's Memorial Chapel, Queen's University, Kingston, on Saturday, August 19, when Margaret Gertrude Hennessy of Codrington was united in marriage to Garnet Wynter McGee of Wooler by Rev. George Brown, D.D.

The bridal couple were attended by Miss Florence Dickson of Brighton, and Mr. James Hennessy, brother of the bride.

The bride wore a dress of white net, deeply ruffled below the knees, large white straw hat, and carried a white muff to match; her bouquet was pink roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Dickson wore blue point d-esprit and white hat, shoes and gloves, and carried pink roses.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome white gold necklace; to the bridesmaid, white gold bracelet; and to groomsman a set of military brushes.

The young couple left by motor for the Atlantic Coast, and upon their return will reside in Wooler.

Gordon Hinkle, catcher, from the Rochester, International league club, and Bill Meyers, shortstop, also from Rochester, will join the St. Louis Cardinals next spring.

PRIZES AWARDED TO GARDENERS GEO. GREGORY HEADS THE LIST

Report of Judges, Jos. S. Bell and T. E. Sargent is Announced.

EXCELLENT WORK DONE.

The award of prizes in the community gardening campaign conducted this season by the Central Relief Board is announced to-day by the judges, Joseph S. Bell and Thomas E. Sargent, in the following report:

Judges' Report.

We have just completed the judging of the relief gardens, and the task has been unusually difficult on account of the very high average of excellence attained in every section of the city.

We consider that over 90 per cent. of the gardens are in excellent condition, and none of the remaining 10 per cent. a failure. This is a fine tribute to the industry, skill, and co-operative spirit of the workers.

We have been agreeably surprised to see the excellent work done on the 200 sod lots, many of them outclassing the pre-cultivated garden, despite the unusually hot, dry season.

The quality of the garden products is excellent, and will be a boon to the industrious workers who worthily merit the fruits of their skill and toil. We are also impressed with the fine results attained by those who have tried gardening for the first time, and the spirit they have shown in a new attainment.

While the hot, dry season has undoubtedly reduced the returns in quantity, considering the higher prices especially of potatoes, the financial return will probably be equal to that of a normal season.

In view of the unqualified success of this Social Service experiment we would strongly recommend its continuance another season.

With the experience gained this year the success for another season would be assured.

Joseph S. Bell, Thomas E. Sargent, Judges.

Total of 26 Prizes.

In judging the gardens, 100 points were allotted as follows:

For cultivation, freedom from grass, weeds, etc., 60 points.

For good layout, spacing, and straightness of rows, 15 points.

For state of growth, health and vigor of plants, 15 points.

For variety of plants, 10 points.

Total, 100, for a perfect plot.

MAYOR CROLL'S CAMPAIGN

Mayor Croll of Windsor may be thoroughly sincere in his campaign against manufacturers in that city whom he claims are not paying adequate wages, but at this distance it does not seem likely that anything concrete will be accomplished except the gaining of a lot of advertising for His Worship.

We are not familiar with conditions in Windsor; it may be that Mayor Croll's charges of low wages are justified and that employees are being unfairly treated—but in any case it does not seem a matter in which a city council has any jurisdiction or one in which much can be done by interference on the part of the civic authorities.

The boycott plan of Windsor's mayor goes no further than a gesture for it is not likely that the total of municipal purchases of Windsor-made articles reaches a very large total.

However, Mayor Croll, who is said to have political ambitions, is following a course that is likely to popularize himself with large numbers of voters, and that in itself is a result not to be despised by anybody who may be contemplating seeking the favor of the people in a larger arena of politics.

WHY MR. FERGUSON?

There is considerable criticism over the fact that Hon. G. Howard Ferguson made the annouucement in a newspaper interview the other day that there would not be a political election in Ontario this year, and the fault-finding is undoubtedly justified.

Mr. Ferguson is Canada's High Commissioner to London, a post of honor and responsibility that should have no connection with the intricacies of party politics and is surprising to find him acting in the role of an announcer for the Conservative party in Ontario.

Certainly if statements are to be issued in regard to provincial election dates the person to make them is Premier Henry, not Canada's Commissioner to London, and the fact that Mr. Ferguson has been induced to announce the improbability of an election until next year is out of joint with his usual aptitude for saying the right thing at the right time.

It may be claimed, of course, that the High Commissioner was caught off his guard by an astute interviewer, but then Mr. Ferguson is no novice in the art of dealing with newspaper men.

He has been interviewed on innumerable occasions and has always proved himself capable of avoiding utterances that might cause trouble, which makes his announcement on this occasion all the more difficult to explain.

THE C.C.F. WILL BE A FACTOR

The Co-operative Commonwealth Federation's entry into the Nova Scotia election failed to cause even a ripple in the political pool.

The new organization started only two candidates and they were left at the post, losing their deposits.

The result, however, should not cause an undervaluation of the C.C.F. strength over the whole country for Nova Scotia has always been faithful to the two-party system and new parties have never succeeded in attaining a foothold in the province.

Even when the Progressive movement was at its peak in the West and had attained great strength in Ontario the Maritimes were totall unaffected by the development of Progressive organization which made no headway down by the sea.

The sad showing of the C.C.F. in Tuesday's election should not therefore be misinterpreted.

The Co-operative Commonwealth party may not be much of a factor in the Maritimes or in Quebec but it is certain to make itself felt from the Ottawa river westward to the Pacific.

It already has numerous candidates in the British Columbia "dog-fight" and it may be taken for granted that when at last Premier George S. Henry gets through shivering at the end of the spring board and finally takes the plunge, the Woodsworth-led organization will be well represented in the line-up of candidates in the Ontario constituencies.

THE PROPER SPIRIT.

The statement issued by Premier Harrington of Nova Scotia after it was evident that his government had sustained a crushing defeat in the provincial election on Tuesday will do much to confirm the impression that Canadians in general have held of the government leader.

Mr. Harrington accepted the decision of the electors in true sportsmanlike fashion.

"Changes of government are often good for a country and I sincerely hope this one will be," declared the defeated Premier. The new government will have difficulties to face and I trust the people of this province will give all the assistance possible to it."

That shows a spirit that would be well were it general in the public life of this country and it is to be hoped that Mr. Harrington will give form to it by refraining from undue criticism as leader of the opposition and in according the new government co-operation in movements that promise to promote the welfare of the people.

In times like these more can be accomplished by such a reasonable course than through the criticism and fault-finding with which oppositions seem to think necessary to greet governments on every possible occasion.

The attitude shown by Mr. Harrington should be more often found in Canadian politics which have consistently suffered from too ardent an application of the theory that the duty of opposition is to oppose.

Bachelors miss a lot of happiness and escape a lot of misery.—Detroit News.

"UNENLIGHTENED, BUT EFFECTIVE."

Great Britain had its first robbery with sawed-off shotguns recently.

The two bandits, each 20 years old, were caught.

One was sentenced this week to four years' imprisonment and 12 strokes with the "cat"; the other to five years and 18 strokes.

Flogging, as authorized by British law, is not enlightened penology.

It takes no account of the heredity of the offender, his early environment, his lack of education and other things which, we are told, should be considered before punishing a criminal.

But—and this, after all, has its importance—there will not be many more robberies with sawed-off shotguns in Great Britain.—Detroit Times.

THE BASIC REASON.

A Calgary despatch notes that the United Farmers of Alberta has submitted a brief to the Royal Commission on Banking asking for the creation of a nationally-owned bank. The document states that only this type of financial institution can meet the present situation. Cited as reasons are the following:

Effective control of currency and credit.

Stability of the price level.

Regularity of production, consumption and employment.

Control of foreign exchange.

The maintenance of proper relationship between consumers' purchasing power and the goods and services available.

A bankers' central bank could not meet the situation.

Back of all these demands for changes in the Canadian banking law one can usually find this purpose: Easy credit. It may not be expressed that way every time, but that is the meaning. There is a belief on the part of many persons that the existing banks are "hard-hearted" and not nearly generous enough in loaning money. Accordingly, there is a demand for a change in the law, even to the extent of socialization of the present units or the establishment of a brand new Government bank.

The whole process of reasoning in this matter is as simple as A.B.C. If the Government owns the bank, that means politicians will control it. If John Jones wants a loan—a loan he couldn't get at a privately-owned bank, because he is unable to offer security—he hopes to be able to bring sufficient political pressure to bear, if needed, to get the loan from the Government. And if the thing worked out just as John Jones hoped, a bank of this kind would get the Government into a fearful financial mess in no time at all.

We wonder, also, how many persons with money to deposit would be interested in placing it in a bank of this kind—even if the Government did sponsor the institution?

No, the more one looks into the various angles of the situation the more he must be convinced that the banking system Canada enjoys today is a mighty dependable affair and that we should move slowly, very slowly indeed, when we talk of changing it.—Border Cities Star.

HARD TIMES FOR TEACHERS.

Teachers in the United States have not been having a pleasant time during the depression. In Chicago, where the Century of Progress Exposition is being held, the teachers have had no pay since the first of the year. It is said that four hundred of them are in asylums and sanatoriums because of the strain. The directors of the research division of the National Education Association say that 2,278 teachers in 263 Chicago schools have been unable to meet payments on $7,800,567 of life insurance, and 759 have been unable to meet obligations on their homes. Large numbers have borrowed to the limit of their insurance policies, and some are in the hands of loan sharks. More than 500, only a part of those who applied, have been assisted by one teachers' charitable foundation.

The situation in the City of Chicago is disgraceful from every point of view. The citizens should be ashamed to hold a world exposition while such a state of affairs exists. If some of the money spent on this affair had been used to pay the teachers it would have brought more credit to the city. It is said that education in the United States in many areas is threatened with an absolute breakdown. Alabama owes its teachers $7,000,000, and 85 per cent. of its elementary and secondary schools were closed in April, with the rest running on part time. In Georgia, teachers in rural counties have been unpaid for months and many are camping in school houses and cooking their meals in domestic science rooms.

In Michigan a seven per cent. increase in the number of students in high schools has been accompanied by a three per cent. reduction in the number of teachers and salary cuts up to forty per cent. Detroit has cut its night school services in half, increased the size of classes and eliminated the free summer schools. In New York the school budget for 1933 was reduced by $20,600,000, though normally there is an annual increase of $5,00,000. Training schools have been abolished and sick pay has been withdrawn from teachers. It is stated that by the end of the year kindergartens will be reduced or eliminated in at least 170 cities, night schools in 120, schools for handicapped children in 170, art instruction in 100, musical instruction in 160, school nurses in 135, domestic science or manual training, or both, in 145, and physical education in 160. This reveals a shocking condition in the schools of the United States. Canadians may well rejoice over the fact that the worst that has happened in their schools has been reductions in appropriations that have not impaired the efficiency of the educational system.—Brantford Expositor.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

There are times when we think that the editor of the Vancouver Sun does not like Premier R. B. Bennett.

White River, which usually monopolizes the headlines in winter cold snaps, had a temperature of 80 on Tuesday morning and Wednesday the mercury was below the freezing point. What a place!

Advance tickets for the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition will not be on sale after September 1st. Wise citizens will make sure of their supply before that time.

"Casey" Baldwin, old time rugby star, managed to win a seat for the Conservatives in the Nova Scotia election by a very small margin. A case of crashing over for a touchdown in the last few seconds of play, evidently.

VACATION ESCAPADE

By ARTHUR SHUMWAY

READ THIS FIRST:

Sally Gwynne is headed south from Chicago to take a job as secretary to a Florida millionaire, John Kemble Proctor, at Daytona Beach. She spends her first night on the train. The next day she makes friends with a young man who is sitting opposite. He is also Florida bound. She learns his name, Ted Chandler, and they become friends. At Atlanta, Ted buys a newspaper and reads the startling news that Proctor has been found dead, apparently a suicide. Sally's heart sinks. Sally worries but continues the trip. Meanwhile Ted becomes very fond of her. At Daytona Beach she leaves him to go to the Proctor estate, agreeing to keep in touch with Ted, who thinks the death of old Proctor mysterious. Fred Proctor, suave and polished, greets Sally, and assures her she is to stay on anyway. Sally is impressed with the Proctor home, but doesn't like Fred Proctor's manner. Later in the day Ted calls her on the phone and tells her not to agree to remain. She arranged to meet him in town that evening.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 6.

After leaving Sally at the station, Ted Chandler had walked directly over to the two-story Spanish stucco building of a Daytona Beach newspaper. There he found the city editor, a dark, husky young southerner named Herb Hall, about to go out for lunch. Ted liked this curt, forceful chap and saw that he was easily approachable and perfectly candid. So he decided to risk a little expenditure from his small supply of cash and take him to lunch. When Ted had introduced himself as an old newspaperman who might bear word of some distant mutual friend, Hall agreed, and they went together to a little cafe halfway down the block toward Beach street and the river.

After they had finished eating and were sitting back, comfortable and satisfied, to smoke a cigaret, Ted decided that the psychological moment had come.

"What's the dope on the Daytona racket in Daytona?" he asked. "Look as if there may be any opening this winter?"

Hall looked at him quickly, shrewdly, pursing his black-mustached lips.

"You lookin' for work?" he shot.

Ted nodded. "I may be," he said. "I just dropped in to town this noon with a friend. I hadn't especially picked on Daytona, but I am looking for a connection somewhere in the state."

Hall shook his head slowly. "I don't know," he said, considering the issue. "Looks like we're goin' to be full up unless the big boss wants to take on somebody extra and he hasn't said anything about it to me yet. Be glad to give you a shot at something, Chandler, if it came up, but I can't hold out any hope right now."

"Sure, I know how it is," Ted said. "I'll be around town for a few days at least, though. Say—that reminds me, you've had quite a story break here just this week, haven't you?"

"What's that? Oh—old Black Jack Proctor, yes."

"He had a pretty sinister reputation up in Chicago," Ted said. "What did people think of him around here?"

"Same thing, in a way. Nobody really knew him. He never went in for anything local. Had his big place over on the ocean, a couple of cars and his own boat and never even so much as showed up to play golf at the country club. Funny old dodger, Old Man Proctor." Hall lowered his voice. "Something kind of funny about his kickin' off, too, if you ask me."

Ted nodded. Hall looked at him suspiciously.

"I just had a hunch," Ted explained. "I can't exactly explain it, except that there's kind of a coincidence involved, but when I read about that suicide on the way coming down I figured it might bear investigation. They haven't got around to an inquest yet, have they?"

"Tomorrow mornin'," Hall replied. "You know, I had the same feelin' you did. I couldn't figure that old scoundrel bumpin' himself off. No, sir! He wasn't that kind. Tough ole baby, seemed to be in good health, and everybody knows he had plenty of what it takes."

"Anybody in mind?" Ted asked.

"Well, there's his nephew, Fred Proctor, and a whole flock of servants over there, and one old roughneck that's kind of a hanger-on. Gus Vitelli, name is."

At mention of Fred Proctor, Ted thought again of Sally's predicament. "Tell me," he said, "this nephew, what kind of an apple is he?"

Hall shrugged. "Pretty popular around town, but not what you'd call congenial. He seems to just kind of live off the old man and I reckon he stands to profit by his death, but he never seemed to be in any trouble as long as I been here. He's about 35, husky as they make 'em and an all around sportsman. Does a lot of sailin' and deep sea fishin'. I swear that man is always foolin' around with a boat and is out on some trip. Fact is, he's sailin' as much as he's around town."

Ted was nodding slowly, and turning over all this information in his mind.

"They say he's a mean one with the women," Hall added. "Man, with that yellow roadster of his, and his boat and everything, I shouldn't wonder. Handsome kind of an A-rab, too."

"I see," said Ted. And he wondered just what and how much he saw.

"Listen," he said to Hall in a quick burst of enthusiasm. "Listen, I got it."

"What?"

"I have a way of finding out some things over in that place of Proctor's. What do you say I work on this mess a few days at least and see if I can't dig something up. If I do, I'll give you the break here. Of course I'll want to sell it back to my old sheet in Chicago, because Proctor was a big guy up there. What do you say?"

"Sold," Hall snapped. "What's this way you have of findin' out things?"

"I have a little friend," Ted explained, "who's come down here to work for old man Proctor. She's over there now finding out what happens to her job now that the old boy's dead. She was to be his secretary. If she can attach herself to that household, we may be able to dig something up. And I'm going to see if I can't get on the scene myself. I'm experienced around boats, you know, and for that matter, I'd just as soon chauff or putter around as gardener. When I get a hunch like this one I like to see it through."

Hall was pursing his lips again.

"You say this new secretary is a friend of yours," he said. "How good?"

"Well—I've only known her a couple of days, but she's the Number One Girl, if that's what you want to know."

"Then I don't know," Hall said, 'I don't know as I'd want any gal of mine workin' in that place. It's kind of a screwy joint anyway, and from what I hear, the reason the last three secretaries all left was our friend, Mr. Fred Proctor, the head sultan over there. He's a mean one like that, they tell me. Aren't any hometown gals who want to work over there anymore. They're all onto him."

"Then that's it!" Ted snapped. He knew now why John Kemble Proctor had advertised in the Chicago newspapers. He evidently had wanted a good, efficient girl who had no idea of the situation and who wanted work badly enough and would be far enough from home so that she wouldn't be likely to resign just when he had her well trained.

Hall was looking at him closely.

"I think I'll hit this Proctor for a job myself, then," Ted said. 'This little girl is too good for that. She's got all the nerve in the world, but she isn't any shrewd campaigner and I don't want to see her get into anything. She's just a kid, really."

Ted told Sally all this as they sat in the little park overlooking the river that evening. 'That's why I don't think you had better take the job," he said. 'A day or two, maybe, and keep your ears open, but don't get yourself into anything over there."

Sally considered the situation from every angle. "But, Ted," she said. "All the money I have is what's in my purse. Seventeen dollars. I have to have that salary at least until I get another job."

"Never mind about that," he said, patting her hand. "What am I here for?"

"But I couldn't ——"

"Don't be old-fashioned, Sally. This is just plain friendship. I only wish it could be more, but that's all it is for the present. I've still got a little roll and I'm going to try to get to work before too long. What I want to do is get myself a job over there running a lawnmower or a yacht or something."

"I know, Ted, but I already have a chance to work there and think how I could help you. If there's anything suspicious I ought to hear about it somehow, being the secretary. Men tell women things, you know."

"I know—and I know what this Proctor guy usually tells them," Ted said grimly. "I'm not going to have you in that house," he added.

Strangely enough, Sally felt a slight, but growing resentment. This, after all, was her battle, and it was her welfare that she was risking.

"I think I'll see how it looks after a few days," she said.

"I'm warning you," Ted said resentfully.

She rose. "Let's don't argue about it here," she suggested. "Suppose you walk me about and show me the town."

Ted took her arm grudgingly and led her out into the light, to the sidewalk. As they passed the Casino Sally caught a glimpse of a pugnacious face, illuminated partly by the street light, partly by the glow of a cigar. She gripped Ted's arm. "That man back there," she said. "He hangs around the Proctor house!"

THAT LITTLE GIRL

I WROTE something about a little girl who bit her fingernails and could not seem to stop it—and immediately many a letter came to me. Many a letter from people who wanted to help, telling their own experiences, giving advice.

One woman, who had bitten her fingernails for a fairly long lifetime, said she had stopped through drinking lemon juice....Another was shamed into stopping....Several gave me names of physicians who had helped other children stop biting their nails. All these thoughtful people wanted to help that little girl. And all of them, I assume, have wondered whether their advice did any good.

* * *

So, perhaps, I should make a report.

* * *

The little girl has stopped. She doesn't do it any more and she's very proud of her long nails, and when they are just a little longer, she will be taken down town and given a real professional manicure with a dull polish....She could have had one last week, but she wanted to wait a little longer.

She did it all by herself. Shaming wasn't the right method because she had already been shamed more than enough. Taking away her allowance didn't work, because money didn't mean much to her. Lemon juice didn't seem quite the thing, because she liked lemons anyway and had always been willing to suck one. She'd already been suggestionized to the saturation point.

But after a few days her parents observed that she was wearing mittens nearly all the time—to school, around the house and even to bed—and in a day or two she came around and admitted that she was wearing mittens because she wanted her nails to be long and after they were long, she wanted a cowboy suit, and could she have one?

In addition she had put a big button on a string which she wore around her neck and when she felt like biting she put that button in her mouth.

And she was very proud of her long—well, longer, anyway—nails.

* * *

Already this little girl can pick up a pin from the floor and she hasn't been able to do that for years....

In a few weeks she'll have that cowboy suit—and who can say she hasn't earned it?

A Thought

You are waiting to do some great thing; you are waiting to pull down some great evil. Do the small things that are unseen, greater things for you to do. Do the small things, the first one that comes to you, and a second will immediately come.

Quotations For To-Day

I thank God that if I am gifted with little of the spirit which is said to be able to raise mortals to the skies, I have yet none, as I trust, of that other spirit, which would drag angels down.

—Daniel Webster.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

A FAR FLUNG VICTORY

On this date, in 1760, General Jeffrey Amherst captured Fort Levis, not far from the present day city of Ogdensburg, N.Y., and completed the last link in the chain which was to surround the French and compel the capitulation of Montreal and the surrender of Canada. The expedition had left Albany June 19th and reached Oswego July 10. The summer had been a very dry one; like this year everything was parched, the streams were low and the lake much below the usual level, which, of course, delayed transport.

On August 7th a detachment of Grenadiers, Light Infantry, Highlanders and Rangers started down the lake, passed a good many rapids not marked on their maps and finally reached a point 24 miles from Cataraqui (Kingston) and close to Oswegatchi (Ogdensburg). By the 17th, Oswegatchi was captured and the next job was to reduce the French fort, just below, named after the great Levis. It was not a long task, only taking a week, but it involved some stiff fighting. Finally, on the 25th (quoting from the Diary of William Amherst.): "The garrison beat a parley and afterwards surrendered as prisoners of war. They would soon have become very formidable here, for it commands the lake and access to the Mohawk river."

Most important, it gave safe access down the St. Lawrence to Montreal, for which the expedition set forth August 31. The various rapids were navigated, but not without casualties many being lost in the rapids Le Perrot was reached September 4, Lachine on the 6th and on the 8th Montreal surrendered.

William Amherst comments: "It is worthy of observation that the principal army under General Amherst, with the two inferior ones, under Murray and Haviland, should set out from places so distant as Oswego, Quebec and Crown Point, each meeting with obstruction from the enemy, and from the natural difficulties of a country unknown to them especially the principal army, from the peculiar and formidable passage of the rapids—I say it is very remarkable that these armies should all meet within the space of 48 hours at the destined point, Montreal, so as to hem the enemy in on all sides and leave them no choice (except a very desperate one indeed) but to surrender." And he adds: "Mons. Vaudreuil, Governor General of Canada, surrendered to the British crown more than was ever given to any crown before."

He might have added that it was fitting that the man who began the downfall of the French by the capture of Louisbourg should have been the one to complete it by forcing the surrender of Canada at Montreal, which would not have been possible had it not been for that victory at Fort Levis on August 25, 1760.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterborough's Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner.

Kathleen Gray,
Sherbrooke Street, City.

This handwriting expresses a critical nature, or perhaps it is better termed analytical because as a rule the writer desire to have an absolute knowledge of what is to be done, before undertaking anything. She is reserved, yet at times delightfully frank and open-hearted. Again there are times when she is very secretive and uncommunicative. She is conscientious and lives strictly according to her code of honor. She is usually afraid to undertake on a large scale. She is inspired by the spiritual. She is affectionate and demonstrative, but not over ambitious, but seems to be able to deal easily with the public, though public opinion has a tendency to disturb her mental vibrations to such an extent that she becomes nervous and irritable, especially if the opinion offered is contrary to her own. She does not bear up well under disappointment, but yet soon finds new outlets for her versatile emotions, and becomes vivacious and cheerful.

Mrs. K. M. Aitchson,
Havelock.

This writing portrays a determined nature. You seem to want to do so much, but you find that time passes all too quickly. You are energetic. Yet, there are tasks which seem to gall you to such an extent that all your energy seems to be exhausted before you complete the project, and quite often the distastefulness of a question at stake which you do not like, will sap your strength before you even begin. This characteristic is because you are a rather keen mental person, and should really only endeavor to undertake such propositions which appeal naturally to you. You are kindhearted and eager to please, ready at any moment to change your mind if by doing so you feel that happiness will ensue. Sometimes, you are apt to let your tongue become sharp and perhaps a little sarcastic, but this characteristic can easily be overcome as you learn to judge people correctly, and not just from the outward appearance.

Kathleen Murray,
Lindsay, Ont.

Your handwriting shows that you have a changeable disposition, and that you derive much pleasure from change of environment whenever possible to satisfy your natural impulse to seek relief from monotony. One of your type and temperament would stifle under strict supervision or discipline. You have rather a well expressed imagination, but at present do not seem to know what to do with it. It could be developed into something really worth while if you exert your will power, and try to be determined to accomplish an objective. However, I think you are too young yet to have definitely set a goal for yourself, but the last capital of yours shows me that when you do, you will strive daily for success. You are humorous and good natured, provided people do not argue with you, but you detest being made to concede a point when you feel that the question is not right according to your way of thinking. All out of doors should interest you, but I am afraid that you often find it is too much trouble to dress up in order to go out.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN

TORONTO, Aug. 25. — Ontario grain, approximate prices track shipping point—Wheat, 64c to 65c; oats, 32c to 34c; barley, 38c to 41c; rye, 45c to 46c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 25—Grains turned sharply downward in late dealings yesterday, led by wheat with a tumble of more than 3c a bushel from early levels.

There was nothing to account for the late selling wave except that that market was thin and easily influenced. Much of the session found the pits idle.

Wheat closed weak, approximately the lowest level reached, and 2⅝c to 2¾c lower than yesterday's finish; corn also weak and 1⅞c to 2⅛c down; oats, ⅝c to ⅞c off, and provisions 5c to 22c lower.

Wheat was erratic and rather weak from the start. Liquidation of September contracts late in the session dragged all deliveries down, the December declining from above 92c to below 89c. The Winnipeg market finished at the pegged bottom on October wheat.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Aug. 25.—Receipts of butter dropped to the lowest point it has held in many months on the Montreal Dairy and Produce Market yesterday, despite reports of heavy butter production in Canada. Only a single box was put up for sale on the local market during today's trading. Prices remained at 18¼c a pound for No. 1 grade in carlots or less.

The cheese market continued to be quoted generally at 9¼c to 9¾c a pound for Ontario cheese, while Quebec white and colored cheese remained ½c less than Ontarios. Demand continued unsatisfactory and a total of 2,936 boxes was received.

Egg receipts totalled 281 cases and prices remained unchanged. Graded shipments in carlots or less sold for 22c to 23c a dozen for Ontario extras and 21c to 22c for Westerns, while firsts brought 17c to 18c and seconds 14c to 15c.

No change was recorded by new Quebec potatoes, an 80-pound bag bringing 80c to 90c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, August 25. — Prices sagged in the dying minutes of yesterday's session on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and the close saw one future resting on the "pegged" price, with losses ranging from ⅛ to ⅝ cents.

Absence of buying power and a little belated selling which included hedges from elevator companies proved too much for the market in the last quarter hour. October option closed at the minimum level of 70⅛c, and December at 71⅞c, and May at 77c were only slightly removed from the "peg" established on August 15.

Light hedging sales, a little export business, and general rains in Western Canada had a steady effect in the early trade, but support was lacking near the finish. Export sales did not exceed 400,000 bushels, this total including a cargo of 260,000 bushels sold at Vancouver.

Liverpool offered no encouragement, being influenced by light rains in Argentina. The English market closed 1¼d to 1½d lower.

Russia contributed 168,000 bushels to world wheat shipments this week, 80,000 bushels less than last week. Argentine shipments, however, despite unfavorable conditions surrounding the new wheat crop, are expected to total 4,041,000 bushels this week.

Demand for cash wheat was limited and coarse grains trading was rather dull.

Here is a picture in which all the action is implied. It shows, at left, Hubert Scott-Paine, British speed-boat racer and Mrs. Scott-Paine (2nd from left), and at right, Gar Wood and Mrs. Wood (2nd from right), just before the battle for world's speed-boat supremacy, in which the Britisher is the challenger for the Harmsworth trophy. The races will take place on September 2 and 4th, with the third on the 5th, if necessary.

Mining Items

Furnished by Hiland Rudkins & Co., Correspondents of J. H. Crang & Co.

Crown Reserve announcement is made that Canadian Reserve Mines has started dewatering the shaft on the Crown reserve property in the Larder Lake area in preparation for renewed mining efforts. The water will be removed down to the 500 foot level at this time and lateral work will be started down to this horizon before the mine has been thoroughly pumped out to the bottom at 1200 feet. A crew has been engaged for some time and it is stated that buildings and equipment have been put in shape for early operations. Officials state that new finances are in sight and most of the outstanding debts have been cleaned up.

McMillan Gold Mines

McMillan Gold property is now completely dewatered to the 525 foot level and work is starting in further sinking with the next level to be opened at the 625. Four channel assays taken from the lake shore vein after the water was pumped out, over 4 to 5 foot widths gives $61.40 values and the management announces plans towards bagging 20 tons or more of this high grade for test purposes.

Central Patricia

Central Patricia Mines is reported as possible going to receive power from Kagami, Hydro Electric engineers having left to make a report on the project. It is hoped to have the mill in operation early in 1934.

McINTYRE.

McIntyre Porcupine has holdings in Red Lake and rumor is something in the way of active operations may be started. McIntyre's field engineer Bob Ribinson has just come out.

CHURCHILL.

Churchill Mines and Milling Co. is resuming operations on claims in Cadillac township, Quebec. A strong vein is reported at 15 feet width is to be explored. The company is also working actively on the original property in the Shining Tree area with machinery and supplies to go in upon completion of a road.

TECK HUGHES.

Teck Hughes ended its year Aug. 31st. During the year a total $2,848,00 dividend was paid.

RENO GOLD MINES.

Reno Gold's annual report was not the best of reading after the elaborate statements made recently. 14 months profit of $37,707 placed the operation in a class hardly comparable to an A1 property.

The production at Reno of course, has only been really reached in recent months of 1933. The recovery, however, is $3.20 per ton below the recovery when the mine formally produced on 1930 and 1931. The lack of estimated ore reserves has caused comment.

MAYLAND.

Mayland Oil holders will have to send their shares to Calgary for transferring to share in the recent Royalite dividend of 50 cents a share.

SPORT OF KINGS

By ART MURRAY

(Special to Examiner.)

IN TO-DAY'S column we are passing on to you a story as told us by Skeets Garner, a well known jockey of a few years ago and a brother of Mac Garner, a top rider of today. Skeets was one of the leading jockeys of America at the time but for some minor infraction of the rules he was ruled off all mile tracks, so naturally having the horse racing instinct he drifted to the "leaky roof" or what they call the half mile circuit. One day he met a friend who told him he could buy a horse for $500 and Skeets knew the nag could beat anything on four legs on the smaller circuit.

* * *

AS HE ONLY possessed $250 in cash himself he looked up an old pal and got him to put up a like amount and as partners they purchased the horse. They took him to the Akron, Ohio half-mile track and Skeets proceeded to put him in shape and after a few weeks he had him where he knew he could just do a cake walk. He then entered him in two or three races and ran him last or second last just waiting for a big killing. At last the big day arrived and Skeets and his partner scraped and borrowed all the money they could, namely $2,000 and wagered the whole works on his nose. They got a price of twenty to one and were just laughing up their sleeves at what they believed were turf suckers.

* * *

THE RACE started and their horse broke in front and went into a commanding lead. It was a mile and a sixteenth event and on a half-mile track that means a little over twice around. The first time past the grandstand, Garner was just sitting still in the saddle and leading by some fifteen lengths. Now at this track there was an opening to the infield for cars to go through and all of a sudden, Skeet's horse bolted through this gate and before the rider could get him turned around and out on the track again he was hopelessly out of it and as Skeets says he and his partner are still paying back the money they borrowed to be on this race and that was easily ten years ago.

* * *

AND JUST a few reminders before we close off this column for the vacation period watch Song Hit in a six furlong dash and Corbeau in a distance event. Both are in the proverbial pink and if you happen to notice Isostay on a muddy racing strip, hock the family plate and climb aboard.

SAN JOSE, Calif., Aug. 25. (AP) The public prosecutor invokes the aid of medical science to-day at the outset of its effort to prove David A. Lamson beat his wife to death in their Stanford University campus home last Memorial Day, bringing to a tragic end an apparent idyllic love romance.

SECOND SENATOR TO BE WITNESS AT BANK PROBE

Echoes of Father Coughlin's Attack Still Reverberate To-day.

CLAIMS NAME FAKED.

Free Press Terms Charges Too Absurd to be Taken Seriously.

DETROIT, August 25 (C.P.). — Another United States Senator was called to the witness stand to-day to tell Detroit's one-man bank investigating jury what he knew of the events leading up to the Michigan banking holiday of last February and the subsequent closing of the city's two big National Banks.

The witness was Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Grand Rapids, Mich., who, with Senator James Couzens, conferred in Washington with high governmental officials when the Detroit banking crisis was impending. Senator Couzens completed the telling of his version of the situation earlier this week.

Echoes of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin's attack on the First National Bank, Detroit, and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce, the two closed banks, still reverberated to-day. During his testimony yesterday, Father Coughlin reiterated many of the charges he made in public utterances last winter, including an attack on the Detroit Free Press, whose publisher, E. D. Stair, is a former president of the Detroit Bankers' Company, the ho'ding company of which the First National was an affiliate.

Says Name Faked

Father Coughlin's charge that the Free Press had faked his name on published reproductions of stock purchase statements purporting to show he had speculated with funds belonging to his church was termed by that newspaper in a front page editorial today as "too absurd to take seriously." The priest charged before the jury yesterday that Mr. Stair "took the report of the brokerage concern, wiped out the nameof the real person to whom it had been sent and put my name in." Father Coughlin admitted, however, that the stock described had been purchased for an organization connected with his church.

In its editorial replys to the Ontario-born priest, the Free Press said that there was "nothing new" in Father Coughlin's attacks on Mr. Stair and that Mr. Stair "has delayed suit for criminal libel and slander" against Father Coughlin and the medium through which Father Coughlin made his first charges last winter, pending a settlement of the Detroit banking problems. The editorial added that developments of the past two days "have brought something else to be considered."

Mr. Stair is to appear before the bank jury as a witness at a later date.

Death Toll And Damage Mount In Storm Area

These pictures show part of the destruction wrought by the most violent storm in 25 years which swept the Atlantic seaboard states, bringing death to at least 20 persons, injuring countless others and causing damage estimated at millions of dollars. In the photo at the top a home at Seabright, N.J., is shown as it was tossed and battered about by the north-eastern gale as it struck the section. The wreckage of a $50,000 home at Seabright, which was torn in two by the force of the storm is pictured in the background of the scene at the right. Travelling northward, the terrific gale struck with violence at Hempstead, L.I., hurling a large tree upon an automobile in front of the post office building. The resulting wreckage is seen in the photo left, below.

PROBING CRASH

A third occupant of the car, Garnet Thompson, of the Lac Pelletier district of Saskatchewan, escaped with minor hurts.

22 TO 25 MILES PER GALLON IN NEW FORD V-8

"THE use of eight cylinders does not mean the addition of two or four extra fuel consumers. It is not, for example, a 4-cylinder engine multiplied by two. Our 8-cylinder engine takes the fuel supply of an ordinary 4-cylinder engine and divides it eight ways. And why?

"By reducing four larger explosions into eight smaller ones, we get engine smoothness and quietness. Eight cylinders indicate the way the gas is used, not the amount. It is just the difference between going upstairs in four long jumps or in eight ordinary steps.

"Our 1933 V-8 develops more power on a gallon of gasoline than any car we have made."

Henry Ford

The Ford V-8 is economical on oil too. Oil is changed only once every 1000 miles.

Ford reliability saves you many dollars in up-keep costs.

THE economy of the Ford V-8 does not stop with low gasoline and oil consumption. It goes beyond that and saves you considerable money every year in up-keep costs. There's no use saving pennies on gasoline if you pay out extra dollars for service and repairs.

Here's something else to think about when you buy a car: Genuine Ford replacement parts cost you less. And Ford flat labor rates are more than 30% less.

In addition to all this there is an important saving on the first cost of the Ford V-8. It may be $50, $100 or even $200. You can buy enough gasoline with that to run your car for a year or two.

Sense and Nonsense

Remember the New York recluse who was found to have more than $1,000,000 hidden in her room at the time of her death? This news item has inspired a screen original which RKO has purchased for Irene Dunne's next starring picture.

Irene Dunne

Author Alvin Smith calls his story "The Hermit of Times Square." His heroine is an opera singer and much of the action takes place in New York around 1900.

As this was the same period of "Frivolous Sal," another vehicle planned for the singing star, RKO will try to combine the two stories.

Irene is due a vacation after she completes her current film, "Ann Vickers." Work starts on the new picture upon her return to the studio. It will be Howard Green's first assignment as associate producer.

A Los Angeles theatre wanted to hire a stilt-walker for an advertising stunt. It offered $5 a day. The man they approached said that the stilt-walkers had a code calling for not less than $7.50 a day. The humor of the thing is that the code was adopted by this city's grand total of two stilt-walkers.

Before the ink was dry on her Reno divorce decree, Carole Lombard was whisked back to Hollywood in a special airplane piloted by Colonel Roscoe Turner. The studio had to get her fitted with clothes and ready to start "White Woman."

MR. LAWFORD'S REJOINDER.

August 18 1933.

The Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—In your issue of August 17, there was a news article concerning my eviction from Charles Holland's house. I feel this article did not do full justice to my side of this case, and may give some citizens a false impression of my character.

I want to make my position clear. When I first rented the room in Mr. Holland's house I did so on the understanding that I was to pay him $8 per month, and if at any time I fell short of this amount he would not press me for the balance. I paid my rent on these terms until January this year, when I was forced to apply to the city for relief and payment of my rent.

My wife went to the relief office and got the rent form to fill out, which she brought home for Mr. Holland to sign. This was merely a form in which the landlord agreed to accept the percentage of rent permitted under the relief program of payments. Mr. Holland refused to sign this form until he had seen Mr Metheral. Mr Holland took this notice to Mr. Metheral and brought back a rent slip for $7, which I signed for him and he told me he had made arrangements with Mr. Metheral to collect the other dollar from me every month. I knew that he had no power to make any such agreement, but I paid him the dollar each month to avoid any trouble.

When the Unemployed Workers Fraternity was formed and Mr. Holland was away from the house looking after the Fraternity's business and Mrs. Holland was out working, my wife and I looked after the children at their request. He told us if they did not mind to use the strap if necessary. This we had to do on a few occasions.

At an open meeting of the Fraternity I made several attempts to state my case. They finally gave me permission to speak and I tried to explain the bad example Mr. Holland was setting to other landlords. I was then accused of trying to break the organization.

Two weeks later I tried to attend a meeting of the Fraternity, and was put out.

It was about this time I received my first written notice to vacate the premises. This notice was delivered to my wife by Mr. Moore, the bailiff, and appeared in Thursday's Examiner. This was the only written notice I received from Mr. Holland at any time.

To make things more unpleasant during the last few weeks of my tenancy, my lights were disconnected.

When I went to Mr. Metheral to arrange about relief rent for my present quarters, I inquired why Mr. Holland received $7 a month for one room. Mr. Metheral said the rent Mr. Holland had received was for half the house. I then reported that Mr. Holland had not been dealing fairly with the city by saying he had rented half the house to me when I really had only one room. This matter is still under consideration.

I don't want to suggest that Mr. Metheral knew of this. He did not know that I only had one room.

Mr. Holland claims we were "undesirable tenants," yet two weeks before our row he told a city official that he could not have finer tenants.

Stories have been spread that Mrs. Lawford and myself are not married, but I have a marriage certificate secured in Peterborough disproving such wild tales.

Mr. Holland also makes the statement in his notice that "in the interests of my wife and children, especially the latter," that he ordered me to vacate. My answer to this is that the police can say whether or not our living at Holland's had a bad influence on his children. The police know that after I refused to look after them the officers had to look for Billy Holland on several occasions, and on one occasion very late.

Thanking you for this space, and hoping that it has not taken too long,—

Yours sincerely,
(Signed) Wesley E. Lawford.

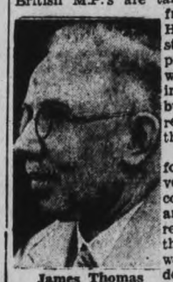
THOMAS FAVORS PLAN OF HITLER TO REPLACE WOMEN IN INDUSTRY

British Group Contend Unemployment Would Be Solved.

WOMEN INDIGNANT.

(By John B. Smithers)

LONDON, Aug. 25—A group of British M.P.'s are taking a lead from Adolph Hitler and starting a campaign to take women out of industry and business and return them to the home.



James Thomas

They have formed an investigation committee for an exhaustive research into the number of women workers doing jobs that could be filled by men.

This parliamentary group stated just before parliament adjourned that their investigations up to then had revealed there were more than a million jobs now held by women which before the war would have been filled by men. Their scheme is gradually to replace these women by men, with preferenc givn to married men.

With figures at their disposal, the group intends to press Prime Minister MacDonald into starting an inquiry among the big employers of labor, when parliament reconvenes.

On the front bench, James H. Thomas, Secretary for Dominions, is in sympathy with the movement, although being a member of the cabinet, he is not directly associated with it.

Thomas has repeatedly expressed his views in no uncertain manner on women who work for "pin money." He once said:

"It is not only uneconomic and unfair, but against the nation's interests. It deprives other people of legitimate work."

For years, ever since the soldiers returned home to find women in their jobs, a number of industrial leaders and economists have held that the one way out of the unemployment problem is the restoration of these jobs to men.

Hitler's plan for state-aided marriage in Germany, announced a few months ago, was the first concrete measure taken to line up business women and march them back to the fireside.

Leaders of British women's organizations express indignation at any attempt to drive their members from offices and workshops. Said one:

"What we have dreaded most is not the ballyhoo of a big national scheme, which we can more easily scheme, which we can more easily takes steps to oppose, but a silent revolution ousting the women and putting in the men."

Though the "fire - the - women" M.P.'s realize they will have to face the bitter opposition of feminist movements, they maintain that "the justice of the demands" will win the fight.

BODY OF CANADIAN LAD RESTS FAMOUS WINDSOR CATHEDRAL

Thousands of Sightseers Inquire as to Identity—Waits Removal to Vancouver.

VCTIM OF TRAIN WRECK.

WINCHESTER, England Aug. 24 (A.P.)—In famous Winchester Cathedral, the historic burial place of many kings and chancellors, lies the body of a boy who formerly lived in Vancouver. He was killed in an English railway disaster.

The body is that of Roderick Macdonald Duthie, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Duthie of Portland, Ore. Until recently the family had resided in Vancouver. The boy was killed in a disaster at Reynes Park last May, when several other lives were lost.

Thousands of sightseers have passed his resting place. Mrs. Duthie brought her son's body to rest in state in the beautiful Chapel of the Guardian Angel, where it will remain until taken home for burial near Portland at the end of this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Duthie, who have with them another son, Tommy, age 13, are on a business trip in England, and the Dean of Winchester granted them the privilege of remaining in this resting place of kings and princes until they are able to return with the body.

Prize-Winners

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, August 25 — The drawing for the prizes at St. Paul's social took place on Tuesday evening at the Lakefield Inn, being held inside owing to the inclement weather. The drawing was made by Mr. Lawless and Mr. W. G. Morrison, and was done alternately, with the Rev. J. J. Garvey, the parish priest being present and being in charge of the function.

The drawing was as follows:
$10, drawn by Mr. Morrison, won by E. J. Wolfe, Peterborough.
$10, drawn by Mr. Lawless, won by Veronica E. Johnston, Lakefield.
10, drawn by Mr. Morrison, won by Leo Allen, Detroit.
10, drawn by Mr. Lawless, won by R. G. Mulkins, Lakefield.
10, drawn by Mr. Morrison, won by John G. Ayotte, Young's Point.

The handsome fernery on which tickets were sold, was also drawn for, and when Mr. Morrison drew the lucky ticket, it was found to be his own, and the incident added the note of humor to the occasion, for no one was more surprised than Mr. Morrison at his luck.

All present were glad to see Father Garvey back in the parish looking much better for his holiday.

TO SELL AUSTIN CARS IN CANADA

Broad Sales Program Planned For All Models.

E. P. CLARKSON, Manager.

British-designed, altogether British-made motor cars have thus far been a rarity on Canadian roads. Famous makes of British cars are invariably leaders in popularity in other parts of the Empire—Australia, South Africa, India, etc.—where they have proved their advantages under conditions similar to those in Canada, or even much more difficult.

British industrial leaders often appear to the average Canadian to move slowly, but the actual reason for that appearance is that they wait until all is ready and then are sure that the effort will be right.

A policy of this kind has always guided Sir Herbert Austin. This leading figure in British industry has risen, by his own power as mechanic, designer, engineer and executive, to command the great business which bears his name—The Austin Motor Company Limited. At Longbridge works alone 14,000 people are employed. And Sir Herbert Austin himself belong to that class of British manufacturers who are able to go to work in their own factories and perform practically every operation—and who insist that these operations shall be well done and every part of their product well and truly made and capable of standing up under the most severe conditoins.

The Austin car—product of the ability of a man who is a sound and practical mechanic as well as a captain of industry—tested in every possible way, and embodying all practical improvements, is now being brought to Canada under a program which will develop the market in a large way. The Austin Company plans to market all Austin models in Canada, inbluding both passenger and delivery cars.

These cars will be the real British-made product, in a full range from the famous "seven" up to large six-cylinder models. Two vehicles that will appeal to busines smen for commercial purposes are the 7-4 and 10-4 Delivery Van, which are already the subject of enthusiasm among keen judges of transportation, for their dependability and almost unbelievable economy in operation.

A chain of sales and service agencies is being established, together with adequate parts stocked at strategic points throughout the Dominion; the organization work being under the direction of Mr. E. P. Clarkson, well-known to the Canadian automotive industry for many years as the head of Dodge Brothers in Canada from its inception in 1914, retiring from the managing directorship in 1929, upon absorption of Dodge interests by the Chrysler Corporation.

The flow of milk to the cheese factory has increased materially since the recent rains.

Crow Bay factory reports for July as follows: Lbs. milk, 221,064; lbs. cheese, 17,713; lbs. butter fat, 6,451; average price per lb. cheese, 10.2 cents; average milk per lb. cheese, 12.4 lbs.; average cheese per lb. butter fat, 2.74 lbs.; paid patrons per lb. butter fat, 24 cents. At this factory the patrons deliver their milk.

Youth Is Shot Down Raiding Chicken Pen

SAINTE CLOTILDE DE HORTON, Que., Aug. 25.—(C.P.)—While his companion, Arthur Gregoire, 20, lay dead as a result of a bullet fired by an irate farmer's son, Emile Lemay to-day was arrested and charged with an attempt to steal chickens from the hen house of Ferdenand Blanchette.

When Blanchette's son, Thomas, heard an automobil stop near the barnyard during the night, he seized a hunting rifle and went to investigate. According to the young mar's testimony at the inquest he ordered Greogoire and Lemay, who had emerged from the car, to stop, but they continued running and he fired.

Gregoire was picked up and taken to the Blanchette home and a physician was called. Later he was taken to hospital, where he died.

The coroner's jury exonerated Blanchette of any blame and Lemay was arrested and charged after. For preliminary hearing at Arthabaska, Que.

Obituary

MRS. EMMA GRAHAM
The death of Mrs. Emma Graham occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fred Sutcliffe in Toronto yesterday evening after an illness of several months. She is survived by two sons, William Graham of Montreal and Lawrence Graham of Vancouver, one daughter, Mrs. Fred Sutcliffe of Toronto. A brother, William E. Lech of this city and two sisters, Mrs. E. F. Walter of Montreal and Mrs. Fritz Gnaedinger of Valleyfield, Quebec, also remain.
The remains will arrive in the city by the C.P.R. from Toronto early to-morrow morning. Interment will take place in Little Lake Cemetery, the funeral proceeding from Belleghem's Funeral Home at 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon.

MISS OLIVE E. NEALS
The death occurred at Eveleth, Minnesota, on Thursday, August 24th of Olive E. Neals, daughter of Mr and Mrs. James Neals, Downer's Corners.
She leaves to mourn her loss, four brothers, Laverne, Clarence, Jack and Norman, one sister, Mrs. Fred Revoy.
The remains will arrive by the C.P.R. noon train, Sunday, and the funeral will be held from the family residence at Downer's Corners on Monday, August 28th, at 3.30 p.m. with interment in Little Lake cemetery, Rev. Scott of Bethany, officiating.

STARVATION ACT
HUNTINGTON, N.Y.—A skulker who chipped the heads of Louis Noski's 42 chickens has threatened a whole family with starvation. Noski, an unemployed carpenter, depended largely on the hens for the support of his family. Yesterday morning, he found them all slain in their coop. The only clues were footprints of a man, and a match box.

WHEAT NATIONS NOW ENGAGED IN FIXING QUOTES

No Serious Reductions in Canada's Exports Seen in London.

NO PRICE CUTTING.

Tariff Provision of Agreement Blow at Economic Nationalism.

LONDON, Aug. 25 (CP Cable).—"The agreement means the Canadian farmer will be assured of a reasonable price for his wheat." The Canadian Press was informed in authoritative circles to-day following conclusion of an agreement by the World Wheat conference.

"It means that Canadian interests will be well preserved in the world market."

Arranging Allotments
The exporting countries are now working out the allotment among themselves of the total of 560,000,000 bushels allowed the chief exporters for this year's crop. Their respective quotas have not yet been determined but it is not expected the Canadian quota will mean any serious reduction in what would have been Canada's share in any event.
The importing countries bought approximately 620,000,000 bushels last year from the exporting countries, but with the present crop prospects in European countries it is thought that this year's exports will not likely total more than 560,000,000 bushels, the figure stated in the agreement.

Orderly Marketing
The change made by the agreement, it is explained, is that orderly marketing will take the place of price cutting. An instance of present price cutting cited is in regard to German wheat. Canadian wheat is quoted in London at 24 shillings a quarter. German wheat is offered at 17 shillings.
The provision for tariff reductions by the importing nations when the international gold price of wheat has reached the defined level of 63.6 cents per bushel is regarded in Canadian circles as the first breach in the walls of economic nationalism, paving the way to wider markets for Canadian wheat. It is realized that while severe milling restrictions remain, as in France, a reduction of tariffs would of itself be of little effect.
"But its' the thin edge of the wedge," was the comment.

Washington Pleased
WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 (AP) — Farm administrators expressed delight to-day at word from London that a final agreement had been reached at the International Wheat Conference.
Informally, nevertheless, they expressed the opinion that it would be acceptable to them and in complete harmony with their program for adjusting American wheat acreage downward under the voluntary domestic allotment plan.
They will be guided by its provisions for curbing production in fixing the percentage of acreage reduction up to 20 per cent to be required of wheat farmers who join in the allotment plan and become eligible for cash benefits. This announcement is scheduled to be made by Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace to-morrow.

RYE'S PAVILION ORCHESTRA

BRIAN FARNON'S BAND

The dancing public have been unanimous in their approval of Brian Farnon's Orchestra as presented by Rye's Pavilion, this week. This youthful organization, although young in years, show the result of constant endeavor in catering to lovers of good dance music, and the style of rythm which is peculiarly their own appeals to all types of dancers. Fast, peppy numbers, together with slow, haunting melodies, and always that constant throbbing rythm that makes for enjoyable dancing.
The orchestra consists of Brian Farnon, sax and clarinet; Bob Farnon, trumpet, violin and trombone; Bill Isbister, pianist and arranger; Dick McLeod, sax, clarinet and violin; Paul McLeod, sax and clarinet; Eddie Renardson, guitar; Jack Bailey, bass and violin, and Les Abraham, drums.
As an added attraction, Rye's Pavilion also presents Miss Florence Cherrington singing popular songs of to-day.—Advt.

ARMSTRONG.—In loving remembrance of our dear father, Thos. S. Armstrong, who died one year to-day.
Soon will our Saviour from heaven appear,
Sweet is the hope and its power to cheer,
All will be changed by a glimpse of His face—
This is the goal at the end of our race.
Loneliness changed to reunion complete,
Absence exchanged for a place at His feet,
Sleeping ones raised in a moment of time,
Living ones changed to his image sublime.
Weakness will change to magnificent strength,
Failure will change to perfection at length,
Sorrow will change to unending delight,
Walking by faith changed to walking by sight.
—Sadly missed by his sons, William and Rolland, and his daughters, Mae and Luella.

JUST AMONG US GIRLS

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

A factor in every life that is well lived are the so-called failures that are turned to good account and made of value.

* * * * * * *

It might almost be said that failures well handled are the basis of success. Surely if anyone is so discouraged by one or two false starts or unfruitful ventures in the fulfillment of any ambition, that ambition may as well be abandoned at the outset.

* * * * * * *

Not everyone has as spectacular a sort of failure as one large manufacturer who witnessed the burning of the works which he had devoted years to build, but everyone can afford to study the manner in which this catastrophe was met.

* * * * * * *

Not allowing himself a moment to let the full force of the disaster overwhelm him, he bent every energy even while the flames were active, to the planning of a proposed new factory.

* * * * * * *

There were many things inadequately equipped in the old plant, and through knowledge of what these other failures were, and through the opportunity the present crisis afforded, he was able to set instantly to work in a consructive manner.

* * * * * * *

The new plant when built exceeded the old in every way.

* * * * * * *

While it is imperative and important that the fine morale prevail which the incident shows, an equally important feature of knowing how to progress under adverse circumstances is to be flexible in one's point of view as to the channel through which desired success is reached.

* * * * * * *

Only the study of the lives of those who have succeeded gives any idea of how large a part has been played by making use of the failures that beset every career and indeed every walk of life.

* * * * * * *

It is a curious fact that a life full of individual failures may be the more victorious and successful in the full estimate. Standing at the end of the road, "Success" anyone looking back can discover it well strewn with failures, each one of which had something good to offer, if rightly interpreted, or, in other words, regarded in a friendly manner.

LETTER TO MAYOR OFFERS FORTUNE

"Spanish Prisoner" Needs $2,500 to Pay Fine.

Who in Peterborough has $2,500 in cash that he might send to Spain to pay the fine of a Spanish grandee who is a prisoner in a vile dungeon at Barcelona. The prisoner, according to a letter received by Mayor Denne, has concealed about his person two cheques worth $250,000, and he promises to divide this sum with the person who kindly forwards the amount of his fine.

The letter setting forth these facts and the promise of rich reward was received yesterday by Mayor Denne. It was written in a small hand, as though it might be a woman writer, and except for a few misspelled words was in perfect English.

However, Mayor Denne is wholly disregarding the letter.

Such letters are known as "Spanish prisoner letters,' and crooks have been sending them out to unsuspecting Canadian and Americans for the past 30 years. Thousands of them leave Spain every year. Basically they are all the same. When the money is forwarded by mail order the prisoner quickly disappears and nothing more is heard of him and his rich fortune that lies concealed somewhere.

That the letters of the crooks are still successful in swindling some people despite the age of th trick, is well known. G. N. Gordon told The Examiner that less than a year ago a farmer in the district, who received a Spanish prisoner letter, wanted to mortgage his farm in order to raise the amount asked for in the l[illegible]er.

I AM 50
But My Friends Say I Look only 28

"Years slipped away from my face daily"

"I am fifty years of age yet there is not a soul who takes me for a day over thirty years; in fact many say twenty-eight.

It seems wonderful because only a few months ago I looked an old woman. I used Crème Tokalon Rose Skinfood with great regularity, and after two weeks I could see the years slipping away from my face daily. My friends now are astonished. When they compliment me on my youthful looks I think to myself: 'Yet I know I am older than you all!' "—Miss Margaret Buckland, Starvale House, Wylye, Wilts.

This amazing discovery which restores youth to the complexion was made by Prof. Dr. Stejskal of the University of Vienna. He proved that lines and wrinkles are caused by a lack of biocel in the skin. After thousands of experiments, Prof. Dr. Stejskal has at last succeeded in obtaining this precious extract from carefully selected young animals.

"Biocel" is now contained in Crème Tokalon Skinfood Rose Colour, and combined with other highly nourishing ingredients. Try Tokalon Skinfood Rose Colour today; lines and wrinkles disappear, an aged and faded skin is quickly rejuvenated. Successful results are guaranteed or money refunded.

More than 3,000,000 women, the world over, every day, use English-made Tokalon products.

An Indian, who has been living in a tent on Bog's Island, Young Stepping was forced to seek refuge in the branches when heavy rain sent Rancoc's Creek on a rampage. Police Chief Harry Goldy procured a motorboat and rescued him.

WIFE'S DELIGHT AT HUSBAND'S LOSS

30 Pounds of Fat!

Here is something all wives of fat men will be glad to know. It is the experience of a woman whose husband recently weighed 230 lbs. She writes:—

"I really feel I must write and tell you that, after taking Kruschen Salts for nearly 3 months, my husband has got his weight down from 230 lbs. to 200 lbs. This has been achieved by nothing else but Kruschen. I am too heavy also, and I started taking Kruschen only three weeks ago. Already I have got down from 153 lbs. to 144 lbs. We are delighted."—(Mrs.) C.

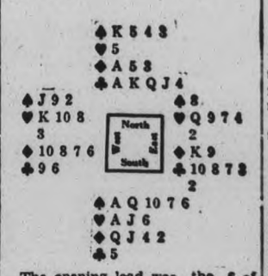
Kruschen combats the cause of fat by assisting the internal organs to perform their functions properly—to throw off each day those waste products and poisons which, if allowed to accumulate, will be converted by the body's chemistry into fatty tissue.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS
By E. V. SHEPARD

A KEEN OBSERVER'S COMMENT

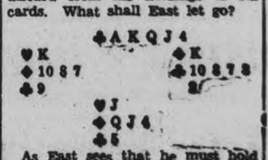
THE HAND shown was printed June 16. It was beautifully bid by two players who were students of feature showing. They bid to the safe maximum of 6-spades. South was the declarer. He played the hand well, making the following tricks; one heart with his Ace; one ruff of a heart with his Ace; one ruff of a heart by dummy; five trump tricks; one diamond trick with dummy's Ace; four club tricks, where he expected five; total 12 tricks, giving East 1 trick. A keen observer, Mr. W. Y. Penn, of San Antonio, Tex., at once wrote that South could have made a grand slam, by squeezing East. The play of the hand to provide for a squeeze in case clubs do not break is worthy of notice.



The opening lead was the 6 of diamonds. As the lead of a suit headed by a K is rarely made against a trump make, dummy's Ace won the first trick. East followed with the 9, confirming the opinion that West had made a fourth-best lead, and that East held the unguarded K.

Of course it seems that dummy probably will win five club tricks, but the odds in favor of that are not overwhelming (13 to 7), so that South might provide safely for a squeeze, in case East happened to hold both the K of diamonds and a blocking club.

To this end play the hand as follows: Lead the 3 of spades; win with declarer's Q; lead declarer's Ace of hearts; have dummy trump a low heart. As dummy cannot trump another heart without blocking the free run of trumps, lead dummy's K of spades. Have declarer win the sixth trick with his Ace of spades, dropping the last opposing trump. Win the seventh and eighth tricks in the declaring hand, with South's last trumps. At the end of the eighth trick the first three players will hold the cards shown below. East will have to discard from his holdings of six cards. What shall East let go?



As East sees that he must hold his five clubs, to stop dummy's run of that suit, he will be forced to let go his K of diamonds, trusting his partner for the Q. When the K is let go the declarer can run off the remaining trick, with one or two good diamonds and achieve the grand slam with dummy's top clubs.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

"DEAR MISS GLAD: I possess very pretty nails, and since they are lustrous naturally, I dislike covering them with a liquid polish. I usually use a dry polish, but was wondering if I couldn't make such a polish myself. Have you any formula for a dry nail polish?

KATHY."

If you have pretty nails that are lustrous, a dry polish should be most effective for your use. There are a good many such polishes now on the market, but if you really wish to make your own, you may do so. A good polish can be made by mixing a specific quantity of talc with an equal amount of tin oxide. A little carmine should be added to this mixture to tint it, and the three ingredients should be blended. When using this polish, however, be sure to buff your nails briskly, in order to bring out their natural luster and gloss.

* * *

"Dear Miss Glad: I've remained freckle-free all this summer so far, and it's all through the excellent advice in your 'Beauty Culture' booklet, too. The blackheads and pimples are almost all gone, and my skin has become much finer. However, my nose is rather badly shaped, due to some crookedness in the bone. I was wondering if a nose adjustor would really reshape it satisfactorily. Can you advise me?

DELLA."

I have never heard of a case in which a nose adjustor has proven successful when the bony structure of the nose has been the cause of its unattractive shape. Since, in your case, it is the bone that is affected, I am afraid that no amount of outside pressure would really change the shape of your nose. If your nasal feature is really as disfiguring as you think it, you might have it reshaped by plastic surgery. But in this case, you must be sure that you permit only a skilled and reliable surgeon to perform the operation.

"Dear Miss Glad: I've been told that a cucumber mask is one of the most cooling and refreshing facials that can be administered during the hot weather. I know, of course, that this mask also has bleaching properties, but that's okay with me. For I want to keep my lily-white skin this season anyway. Could you tell me how to administer a cucumber mask?

GERT."

The cucumber mask is indeed a refreshing one, and is also an excellent bleach. Take the peel of a cucumber and place it in a cup of water. Add a bit of the juice of the cucumber, and the juice of a lemon to the water. Before applying the mask, cleanse your face thoroughly. Then lie down, and arrange the cucumber peel on your face in the form of a mask. Next, take a soft cloth, and dip it into the solution in the cup. Wring out the cloth a bit, and place it over the face, patting it into contact with your skin. If you bind a bit of tape under your chin and over your head, it will help to hold the mask in position. This mask should be permitted to remain on for at least 20 minutes.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

THE FIRST year of life shows the greatest death rate. And the first summer is proverbially the most dangerous of all seasons.

How to guide the little newcomer through this hazardous period?

Dr. Clendenina

All the rules of health should, of course, be observed, but one above all others is paramount.

BOIL EVERY FEEDING OF MILK THREE MINUTES, AND BOIL THE NURSING BOTTLE AND NIPPLE.

The reason this is so fundamental is that the great destructive agent of infancy is intestinal infection which almost invariably comes from germs in the milk. It is true that pasteurization will kill off most of these germs. And true in certified milk, they are not supposed to be present. But milk is a splendid culture medium for germs. And the temperature of summer in North America is exactly the favorite temperature in which they choose to grow. So that even if the milk is clean in the first place, it may easily become contaminated in summer. It is, therefore, much safer to boil the milk than to depend on any other measure of safety. Pasteurization, anyway, is a very difficult procedure to carry out in the average home.

If the baby must be weaned, then, during or just before the summer months, boiled milk should be substituted for mother's milk. It is always desirable not to wean during the first summer if possible, but it certainly is not always possible.

Boiled milk is not exactly the same as raw milk, but boiling does no harm to the milk except to destroy the vitamins, and actually makes it more digestible.

The scum on the surface is part of the albumin, or protein of the milk, but as cow's milk contains 3.5 per cent of protein and human milk 1.5 per cent, this loss is not serious. It can be made up by other foods in the first year's diet, anyway. (Such as egg).

Boiled milk has a tendency to be constipating, but if so, this can easily be counteracted by adding a small amount of milk of magnesia, one-half to one teaspoon to the day's feeding.

The vitamins which are destroyed by boiling are added, or should be added, to the milk anyway, so their destruction is not serious. Vitamin C should be added in the form of orange juice or tomato juice, and vitamin D in the form of cod liver oil or halibut liver oil or viosterol.

The beginning mother should know that many of the baby's upsets that are ascribed to the milk are really due to lack of attention to trivial matters. One of these is to be sure the nipple of the bottle is filled with milk. Disregard of this results in the baby swallowing air, which produces distention of the stomach and resultant discomfort and even vomiting. The same result comes from allowing the baby to manage its own bottle. The bottle is first propped up and then falls over, and the baby, in attempting to get its meals, swallows a great stomachful of air.

"Gossip and Such"

WITH THE U.S. prohibition repeal but a dozen or so states away, the thirsty followers of golf may regard it as significant that C. Ross Somerville is going back to the American side from his native London hearth with a nice capricious cup. And the cup is the United States amateur trophy.

* * *

MR. SOMERVILLE or Sandy, as he is known to intimates, intends to take the cup away again. A courageous plan for, in order to do so, he must win for a second time the United States amateur golf championship.

However, golfers and golf followers are a superstitious lot and they see in the approaching doom of prohibition a great demand for cups and one of the cups Uncle Sam cherishes the most is that amateur trophy.

* * *

IT WILL BE, in a sense, Somerville against the field when the boys line up for the battle of Kenwood in Cincinnati which begins Sept. 11. It usually is the field against the champion, but this time all the more so for actuating most of the other entries in the tournament will be the thought that they must win the cup not only for themselves but for their Uncle Samuel.

* * *

SOMERVILLE WILL be no pushover. He's a good, tough opponent for any golfer and his victory last year was by no means a fluke. Sandy has been kingpin of Canadian golfers for a long time and he is as good as most any American amateur you can name—but the odds are great against any one man in a match play amateur meet.

Don't bet on Somerville to win. But, also, don't bet on him to lose. It wouldn't be safe either way.

* * *

LEADER OF Uncle Sam's forces which will attempt to wrest the title away from the Canadian's grasp will be Johnny Goodman, the new national open champion.

Not only does his 1933 victory in the battle with the pros make him the outstanding choice against Somerville, but it must also be remembered that Goodman came nearer stopping Sandy in his triumphal march last year than did any other American.

Another tough hurdle for Somerville may be Harrison Johnston, who not long ago held this same amateur championship—and that was in the days of Bobby Jones!

* * *

THERE IS a distinctly collegiate flavor to this tournament. One of the outstanding players is sure to be Johnny Fischer, the University of Michigan star. There are many who like the chances of the Wolverine ace as well as they do those of Goodman and Johnston.

Maurie McCarthy, Jr., now a Clevelander will also be heard from. Other famed names in the Kenwood lineup include Lawson Little, Gus Moreland, Frank Delp, Jack Westland and George Dunlap.

New faces but determined ones, will be presented by Tommy Goodwin, Rodney Bliss, Zell Eaton, Willie Turnesa and Scotty Campbell. They'll all bear watching.

Roger Peckinpaugh, deposed earlier this season as pilot of the Cleveland Indians, played under twelve managers — Jim Maguire, Walter McCreedie, Harry Davis, Joe Birmingham, Frank L. Chance, Bill Donovan, Miller Huggins, Everett Scott, Donie Bush, Clyde Milan, Bucky Harris and Ray Schalk.

Card Moundsman Holds Opponents to Six Hits But Allows 7 Walks.

YANKS DOWN INDIANS 10-1.

Senators Maintain Eight-game Lead by Trouncing Tigers 13-6.

(By Orlo Robertson, A.P. Sports Writer.)

Boston Braves, a team of opportunists much like the famous outfit of 1914, to-day had whittled New York Giants' lead to six games and threatened to shave still more off before the "crucial" series begins next Thursday if the Weather Man does not let the leaders get into action.

The schedule gave the Braves a day of rest to-day, but to-morrow they conclude their three-game series with the Cardinals and then entertain Cincinnati Reds for four days as a warm up for the Giants, who will be met six times in four days.

Win on Hallahan's Wildness

Wally Berger's home run bat was muffled yesterday for the first time in three days, but the Braves were quick to take advantage of Bill Hallahan's wildness and Pepper Martin's error, defeating the Cardinals by 4-3.

Chicago Cubs moved within one game of second place with a double win Behind Guy Bush's three-hit pitching, the league champions won the first contest 5-0, then slugged out a 9-6 decision in the nightcap. Bud Tinning received credit for winning the second affair, but Leroy Hermann was rushed in to quell an eighth inning uprising when Wes Schulmerich pounded out a homer with two mates on base.

Break Losing Streak

After Brooklyn Dodgers had won the first game, 2-0, with Van Mungo hurling seven-hit ball, Cincinnati Reds, with the veteran Larry Benton pitching, snapped their 11-game losing streak by taking the second game 3-2.

In the American League Washing Senators maintained their eight-game advantage over New York Yankees by slugging out a 13-6 victory over Detroit Tigers, while the champions were downing Cleveland Indians 10-1.

Led by Goose Goslin, who poled out two home runs, the Senators collected 17 hits off three Detroit pitchers. The Yankees got only 10 hits off Oral Hildebrand and his two successors, but they were aided by misplays by Harley Boss, Bill Kamm and Earl Averill.

Split With Browns

The Athletics and Browns split a double-header, St. Louis winning the opener 7-6 in 10 innings after getting to Bob Grove for six runs in the sixth, and Philadelphia the second frav, 4-3, in a pitching duel between Merrit Cain and Bump Hadley.

The victory moved the A's into a tie for third place, with the Indians while the Tigers dropped to fifth.

Another long losing streak was broken when Boston Red Sox trimmed Chicago White Sox 6-1 in the first game of a double-header. It was the first victory in their last ten starts. They dropped right back into their losing ways in the second game, however, dropping a 7-6 decision in 10 innings after coming from behind to tie the score with a three-run rally in the eighth.

Parmalee is New Pitcher This year

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Roy 'Tarzan' Parmelee, who had trouble locating home plate last season with his wild pitching, today stands out as one of the main reasons for the New York Giants success as leaders of the National League.

He hung up his third shutout and tenth victory of the season recently when he blanked the Phillies with two hits. It was the Giants 18th shutout victory of the year and the second time Parmelee came close to a no-hit victory. He had held the Phillies to one hit in April.

Kingston And Madoc Rinks Are Successful

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 25.—At the fifteenth annual Belleville Lawn Bowling Club tournament Kingston captured the W. B. Riggs Trophy, while Madoc took the Thomas Ritchie Cup after a hard game against Deseronto in a driving rain. Campbellford edged out Belleville for the hard luck event. Sixteen visiting rinks were present while ten local rinks also took part. Kingston won the Riggs Trophy for the second time since it was presented in 1919, but only after the hardest battle of the day against the Peterborough rink of B. Chesler, J. D. Fitzpatrick, H. Freeman and G. Cairns. Madoc disposed of Deseronto's rink, A. Randall, A. G. Bogart, J. Fairbain and I. Allum.

The Kingston team had the veteran bowler, Ted Greene, as skip, T. Milan, E. Walsh and J. Toppan, while Madoc had W. Fox, D. Pullman, C. Ross and P. Gunn. A. J. Meyers, C. Shepherd, L. Diamond and W. S. Wiggins composed the Campbellford rink, which won over L. E. McLean, W. Trask, H. A. Lennox and C. J. Symons, of Belleville. The tournament was the largest held by the local club in the last eight years.

The youthful aspirant is a sophomore at Sudulersville, Del., high school. He is a southpaw pitcher, is 15 years old, stands 5 feet 10½ inches, and weighs 160 pounds. Young Foxx may accompany the Athletics on their 1934 spring training trip.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

ALEX MORRISON says:

Most golfers seem to be optimists. They expect to play 18 holes without making mistakes that even the best of players know can't be avoided.

It's difficult enough to play just one hole without making any big mistakes, yet I've seen so many players step up to the ball figuring on a perfect shot.

No matter how many they've missed they keep right on expecting the next one to be perfect. Without becoming a pessimist you can figure on the mistakes you generally make and then allow for them.

This will at least cut down the number of mistakes you make.

Toronto Leafs Face A Tough Assignment

(By the Associated Press.)

Rain having prevented the completion of their three-game series with Toronto Maple Leafs, Buffalo Bisons to-day hoped to continue their advance toward a position in the International League play-offs at the expense of the Montreal Royals.

The Bisons went into to-day's contest, the first of five to be played in four days, trailing the Leafs by only one-half game, largely because of a double victory Wednesday night. The Leafs face a much harder assignment in meeting Rochester Red Wings on the second place team's home field. They are scheduled for four games in as many days.

In the 13 games played this year, the Bisons hold a slight edge over the Royals, having won seven.

All of the other games in the league were also rained out yesterday.

RED-THATCHED BRITON TO PIT SPEED, GUILE AGAINST GRAY FOX OF U.S.A. IN HARMSWORTH RACE

Hubert Scott-Paine As David, Challenges Goliath In Person Of Gar Wood—British Challenger Says Odds 4 to 1 Against Him.

BRITISH CHALLENGER HAS ONLY 43 MINUTES OF PRECIOUS LIFE LEFT.

By GEORGE T. LAWRENCE
Central Press Canadian Writer

WINDSOR, Aug. 25.—In the dim dawn of Saturday, Sept. 2, two super-powered motorboats are due to roar over the St. Clair river at a prodigious speed, the tiny metal-built Miss Britain III, seeking to wrest the Harmsworth Trophy from the mighty mahogany-hued Miss America X., while tens of thousands of spectators peer anxiously through mist and spray.

Hubert Scott-Paine, red-headed millionaire sportsman, will be at the wheel of the British boat, a 3,000-pound hull with one motor of 1,375 horsepower, depending upon hull design to gain the first victory over the brute power and force of Garfield Wood's 14,000-pound monster with four engines developing 8,000 horsepower. The odds, he says, are 4 to 1 against him but he promises the white-haired Wood "a real contest."

The new motor in Miss Britain has a top speed life of only 45 minutes. It has already been tested for two minutes, meaning that Scott-Paine has only 43 minutes at his disposal to race Gar Wood.

First Race for Mechanic

Accompanying Wood will be his veteran mechanic, Orlin Johnson, while in the British cockpit will be a 30-year-old, mild-mannered mechanic for whom the race holds life's greatest thrill—it will be his first speedboat race experience.

Never before has a Harmsworth contest contained so many pre-race ifs and maybes.

Miss America X. is proved and known; Miss Britain III. is a complete question mark. It was built this year by Scott-Paine in eight weeks' time, with only a few trial runs, and is powered by "second-hand" Napier-Schneider engines (the Rolls Royce firm declined to power the boat following the Kaye Don experience a year ago). The freak hull, designed to literally lift itself out of the water at high speed, may secure a great edge over its rival at the turns—and again it may not.

Last Only 45 Minutes

The British engines have a running life of only 45 minutes at top throttle. The Packard power plant of the defender has already seen through two Harmsworth races and, reconditioned this year, is ready, according to Wood, for the coming test.

Six laps of five miles each constitute the course, a distance of 30 miles.

Two years ago Kaye Don and Miss England II. travelled more than 92 miles per hour for four of the six laps of the first race, hitting 110 on the straightaway and averaging 89.913 for the 30 miles. The second race involved the now historic "lure" episode, following which Miss England II. sank and Miss America IX. was disqualified; a hollow and unsatisfactory victory going to Miss America VIII. Last year Kaye Don and his rebuilt challenger, Miss England III., was disabled and Wood coasted to an easy victory at an average speed of only 69.036 miles an hour. Later Wood made a speed test of 124.91 miles an hour to break Don's mark of 119.75 miles an hour, established earlier in July on Loch Lomond, Scotland.

Steady Speed Will Win

Even if Wood does achieve a top speed of 125 miles or better in the coming race, it does not necessarily mean another repulse—the eighth straight—for the British challengers. At a consistent average speed of 90 miles, Miss Britain III. might still be able to win two races, utilizing the ease of control and acceleration promised by her owner.

It is Goliath against David, of a good big man, in ring parlance, against what may prove to be a good little man and while the former should win yet a faulty nut or gadget can disable the engines of a big boat just as it can a little boat.

"It's 4 to 1 against me," smilingly reiterates Scott-Paine, who in 1922 won the Schneider Cup air race for Great Britain. "But I promise a real contest—I've got a perfect boat, without vices."

Here's hoping.

HAVELOCK HERE SATURDAY P.M.

Tangle With E.P.L. Winners, The Cogs in Second Game Of Playdowns.

FIXTURE STARTS AT 3.

Followers of the E.P.L. and of baseball generally have a good intermediate game to see this Saturday afternoon at three when Cogs, local E.P.L. winners, meet Havelock in the second game of their first O.B.A.A. playdown round. The Cogs captured the first one in Havelock Wednesday but the villagers are very likely to turn the tables up here and force a third game being played to settle the winner.

Manager Dorsey Davis will pitch either Casey Masterson or Percy Vannest, both speedball twirlers. He has his newly-crowned loop champions, fresh from a tough series with C.G.E., all set to go places and they hope to wind up this series here Saturday. It is unknown yet who the Havelock pitching selection will be, but the conquerors of Deloro are a smart bunch of intermediates, playing a particularly fine fielding game. They have steady hurling, too, and can lay into the ball.

With no senior game on the books here Saturday, many fans are expected to take in the intermediate one and help the local squad both vocally and financially, as Cogs will be representing Peterborough in the Ontario playdowns from now on.

Chuck Klein, 'tis said, is not so eager to leave the Phils for the Chicago Cubs, as one might expect. While the Phils do not rate with the Baby Bears in pennant potentialities, Chuck likes their little park for batting and fielding purposes.

ADULT CAN LEARN TO PLAY GOLF SAYS AUSTRALIAN SHOT MASTER

Getting Off to a Right Start is Essential for Beginner Over 45.

Naturally Ability Counts.

"Can an adult learn to play golf?"

This question was put to Joe Kirkwood, internationally famous as a teacher of golf and a tournament player, and Gene Sarazen, newly-crowned American professional champion recently. Their answers were interesting and decidedly encouraging to that class of golfers who find time to give attention to the game only after they have reached the late thirties and forties.

"Certainly an adult can learn to play golf," Kirkwood declared. "There is no reason why he can't unless he is a cripple. A number of pupils of mine who never saw a golf club until they were 45 are going around consistently in the 70's.

"I don't deny that a young fellow has a considerable advantage in picking up the game and that almost all great golfers began in their early 'teens. To a certain extent, both the muscles and the mind of youth are more open to training and instruction, but if a middle-aged man once gets the fundamentals there is no reason why he can't develop himself to play a creditable game. To a man of 45 the essential thing is to get off on the right start as he experiences greater difficulty in correcting himself later on."

Sarazen was less emphatic but held a similar view.

"Great golfers are born and not made," he maintained. "To take advantage of any natural aptitude for golf, a man has to start in at a very early age. However, an adult can learn to play a fair game if he has the right teacher.

"I know of no great golfer who picked up the game as an adult but I do know quite a few who took it up around middle age and are now right up with their club champions."

In the course of his demonstration lesson at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club last week and in an interview afterwards, Kirkwood summarized the secret of success in golf in a few words—relaxation and naturalness with a bit of common sense thrown in. Relaxation is important in almost all athletics but it is of especial importance in golf, he said. As for naturalness, unless a golfer starts from the first to assume the postures and go through the motions which are essentially natural to him as an individual, he can not hope to play a consistently good game, he asserted.

Kirkwood stressed the matter of applying common sense to the game. One of the greatest handicaps to the average golfer's game are the countless books of highly-involved instruction and the confusing array of articles which appear in the daily papers, he declared. When a man's mind is working at top speed trying to remember a thousand things he has read and trying to make his muscles react according to a thousand different rules, he cannot make a good shot. All he needs to keep in mind are the simple fundamentals. With the application of simple common sense to the fundamentals, it is only a matter of practice to secure success, he said.

Making his point with a touch of humor, he said, "You don't have to be crazy to play this game, but it helps."

BOWLING NOTES

(By Herb Martin)

It just seems like yesterday that we were announcing—through the columns of this paper—the opening tournament of the season—the 24th of May; and now here we are—through this same medium—advertising our last open tournament for the season of 1933.

True, there will be a lot more bowling, but this coming event on Wednesday, August 30, will be the last that the local bowlers will have to compete with their fellow bowlers from the different clubs in this district.

The Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club has been, and is still, looked upon in this centre as the outstanding club, the one which takes the lead; the one which steps out and tries something different and new, and that is just what they are doing in this coming tournament. It will be composed of mixed rinks, and everybody has the privilege of choosing their own, and there will be three competitions run on the elimination system; and here is where the new part comes in. Here is the idea:—

Every rink entered will have the privilege of playing for the beautiful "Ovaltine" Trophy, presented by A. Wander & Co., Peterborough; and in addition to this, if you loose out in the first competition you automatically fall back into the Consolation contest; and if you lose in that, you are entitled to play in the Hard Luck Competition; so you see everybody is assured of at least three games; and if you are bowling well enough, and are lucky enough you will go much farther. While this is called the "elimination" system, it does not mean that you are out as soon as you lose one game—it is just the name given in this particular kind of system.

There will be beautiful and useful prizes given to winners and runners-up in each event.

The committee is very anxious that this last one will be the biggest and the best, and is especially appealing to the men bowlers to go out and get a rink together and come along to enjoy the closing and main event of the season of 1933.

Now don't forget the big week-end games to-night. Benny has taken a solemn oath to deliver real No. 1 St. John peaches to-night—no Clingstones.

There are not many more Friday nights left—so come on out and BE ON TIME.

John McGraw, friends say, looks to be in the best health he has enjoyed in a decade. So old Jawn apparently isn't worrying because someone else is leading the Giants to what looks like a pennant.

C.G.E. CATCHER HITS FOR .413 POINT AVERAGE

Connects For Nineteen Safeties in Forty-six Times Up.

C.G.E. HIT BEST AS TEAM.

Though third in the standing for the batting averages of East Peterborough Baseball League players for 1933, Doug. Hatton, C.G.E. star catcher, is the actual loop leader in point of service. He took part in 12 games, batted 46 times, and came through with 19 safe hits for a fine average of .413. Jack Sweetman, who left the city after taking part in just four games, might have had a great year, as he compiled an average of .533 for the four contests. D. Wood hit .444, but took part in only three games. C.G.E. as a team hit best, with Cogs and Fosters bunched next, and Crescents well down in the list. These averages are composed from scheduled games (one box score being missing), and do not include any of the play-off games. Only players taking part in at least three games are listed here.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball—Softball—Lacrosse
Soccer—Wrestling, and Others

(By C. J. P.)

The only ball game here tomorrow is that intermediate O.B.A.A. playdown one between Havelock and Cogs. It being Saturday—if the weather is anyway fair—should mean a large crowd out to see the E.P.L. winners trying to make it two in a row and advance into the next round. This Havelock bunch can play better ball than they did the other night, and if they flash their true form, it should be a nifty struggle. Vannest or Masterson will do the locals' twirling. A lot of fans who haven't been following our intermediates this year should get a load of the fray tomorrow. The winner may meet the Lakeshore loop champions next.

• • • • • •

Batting averages of the E.P.L. for the season show up what we've been saying all summer—that the pitching down in that loop has been good. In fact, the batters as a rule found it tough to get more han half a dozen clean clouts a game off most of the flingers and two- and three-hit contests have been fairly common. Doug Hatton is the real regular-player leader this year with a mark of .413. The Electrics did some man-sized walloping all the way through, but were shoved out of the playoff picture at the last by fine Cognawaga pitching.

• • • • • •

The Peterborough Golf and Country Club tournament, open to Ontario, Saturday didn't draw enough entries so far to bother making a draw before play starts. Doubtless there will be a good field in at the last minute, so it's been decided to make out the list as the golfers tee-off Saturday, and not attempt to make any sort of draw the day before (to-day) as previously intended. A number of outsiders are expected to go after the prizes put up.

• • • • • •

Last night's gals' softball game in Keene had to be called off owing to rain—as was every other game around here. Keene and Westclox meet at the Bowl in their next contest at 6.15 Saturday e'en, and they play back in Keene then next Tuesday. The first fray ended in a ten-inning tie, and the second one failed to go seven frames and was declared "no contest." A large crowd of rooters should be parked around the Bowl Saturday in the gloaming.

• • • • • •

When we said above that the intermediate ball game would be the only one here to-morrow, we reckoned without the O.B.A.A., which makes so many sudden last-minute decisions. Now, we've just heard that Toronto Wellingtons, bantam champions who beat out Toronto Kiwanis, would be here to-morrow at Riverside at three bells to play the local Kiwanis Bantams in the first game of their O.B.A.A. playdown round. Jack Deannard has a fine bunch of kids lined up—the list appears elsewhere to-day—and fans are promised one of those classy Ontario playdown youngsters' battles. The kids need the support and they should draw five or six hundred. Too bad we weren't notified in time to help them with publicity and give them a chance to get out and sell tickets. It'll cost the team plenty to go back to Toronto next week.

• • • • • •

They finally got that senior baseball tangled ball of yarn in shape for knitting again. For a while, nobody knew for sure when, where, or if the next game would be played. But between the O.B.A.A. and the C.O.B.I., and the two clubs involved, it has been finally stated definitely that the Petes re-play their tie game in Kingston on Monday at five bells, daylight saving. And a fifth game, if necessary, will be staged in Napanee on Wednesday evening. The latter place was chosen when it was learned that the Belleville exhibition would have possession of their grounds that day.

• • • • • •

The Peterborough club felt it was gypped by not receiving expenses and mileage for staying overnight in Kingston when asked to Wednesday. However, outside of hotel expenses, they weren't robbed as they were notified approximately six hours, in accordance with league rules, before game time that the affair would not be held. Too bad to run up all that unnecessary expense, but it just couldn't be helped. When it rains, it just simply rains, regardless of ball games, picnics, or crops.

Phelan Cup Final Saturday afternoon

On Saturday afternoon the Father Phelan Cup final will be played on King Edward Park, between the Canadian General and the Packers. Kick off at three o'clock prompt. Linesmen: Jack McMaster and G. Nimmons. All the finances go to charity.

The Packers are anxious to win this trophy because they have not had their name engraved upon it. Port Hope carried off the cup last season. C.G.E. won it in 1931.

This piece of silverware stands 30 inches high, 15 inches wide at the top and 9 inches across at the base. One of the finest trophies in the city.

Caleys travel to Lindsay on Saturday afternoon to play the team of that town. All Scots players meet at the Market Square no later than 2.30.

Donie Bush, Cincinnati manager, apparently does not string along with other experts who think that either the Pirates or the Cubs have the best chance to beat out the Giants for the pennant. Bush likes the looks of the Cards and Braves as possibilities.

CRICKET

A return game has been arranged between the Combined Woollens' eleven and the Peterborough Cricket Club on Saturday afternoon at two. These players are asked to be hand: A. Radford, A. Hamilton, F. Jefferson, J. Stott, A. Walton, F. Smith, E. Dart, T. Montgomery, T. Hawthorne, H. Jackson, E. Barson, Wedlock and Gledhill.

City Tennis Tourney

The semi-finals of the men's singles in the local Open Tennis Tournament will be played this evening at 5.30 at the Bowling and Tennis club courts, Max Cotton playing Jack Kirkwood, and George Nicholls meeting George Scott, best three out of five sets. The finals are expecid to be played Saturday after the Cobourg-Peterborough matches. Tourney doubles have been set over till next week, owing to Postponements because of the weather conditions.

While Lionel Conacher Will Play Defense for Chicago Hawks.

DEAL NOT CONFIRMED.

MONTREAL, August 25 (C.P.)—Teddy Graham, sturdy defenceman of the Chicago Black Hawks will come to Maroons for Lionel Conacher in a deal which has been practically completed, it was learned last night. Although directors of the Maroon Club could not be reached, the Gazette learned through Chicago sources that the Graham-for-Conacher trade had been closed and that the final agreement may yet involve Charley Gardiner and Dave Kerr.

"The acquisition of Graham will bring together again the veteran defence combination of Marvin Wentworth and Teddy Graham for a long period, Chicago's stalwart outer guard."

O.B.A.A. BANTAM GAME SATURDAY

Wellingtons, Toronto Champions, Will Meet Locals at James Stevenson Park.

FIRST OF PLAYDOWNS.

Word was received from Toronto to-day that the Wellingtons, Toronto bantam champions, would be in Peterborough this Saturday (to-morrow) to play the local bantams, Kiwanis, at Stevenson Park at three o'clock. It will be the first game of their O.B.A.A. playdown round, the winner advancing into either the Ontario finals or semi-finals. Second game of their series will be in Toronto next Saturday.

The Wellingtons are rated a strong Queen City aggregation and will be expecting to knock off the local outfit. However, having seen the Peterborough Kiwanis' boys in action, we are of the opinion that this city was never represented by a stronger bantam team, this in spite of the fact that Peterborough has sent many great teams into the Ontario finals.

Jack Deannard has rounded up the best bunch of young ball stars in the city and they have been practising all summer. He has four fine twirlers in McIlmoyle, Phelan, Gardino and McCoy; two good catchers in O'Toole and Hardy; Ash (a brother of Fred's) on first, along with Bergenaw; Wright on second; Platt and Currie for short; Webb on third; and an outfield composed of Conley, Vitarelli, Brady and Lucas.

Every Fall a large crowd of fans attend the bantam playdown games both to see great battles and pitching performances by the star kids, and to help support them financially. They have not taken in a cent so far this year at the gate, and must raise plenty to make the trip to Toronto next week. It's bound to be a fine game and the local kids will go better with a large crowd cheering them on from the stands. Jack Deannard, energetic manager, has gathered the players together and kept them all summer in order to keep minor league baseball alive in the city.

DOWN TO FINALS IN TORONTO CUP

Final Game for Ontario Trophy Between Simpson and Miller to be Played To-day.

TORONTO, Aug. 25.—In spite of yesterday's rain, considerable progress was made in the Dominion lawn bowling tournament, and the finalists were declared in the late games in the Toronto Cup.

In one semi-final bracket Lorne Reburn's quartet from Runnymede club defeated Walter Dickinson of Canada 14 to 12 and in the other George Hatcher of Canada qualified to play for the cup with a 14-to-12 victory over A. A. Ellis of Withrow.

In the second round of the Willison doubles the Thamesford duo of Wade and Webster eked out a 16 to 15 victory over Crawford and Rae, of Wingham, while Dr. Morrow and McKay, of Victoria, pulled out an easy 19 to 12 win in their match with Mackellar and Winters, of Parkdale C.C.

Play started in the Rice singles competition, the first flight, first round, being completed. Of the twelve starters, H. Lindsay, of Granites, D. Growar, of Dentonia, and Bruce Wilson of Strathcona, were the four who survived and qualified for the semi-finals.

The final games for the Ontario Cup between T. J. Simpson of Balmy Beach and E. W. Miller of Rusholme, as well as the final Toronto Cup game, will be played at High Park at 3 o'clock, to-day. With favorable weather, all competitions, rinks, doubles and singles will be played to a conclusion to-day.

Lacrosse Notes

Following is the standing of the Inter-County Lacrosse League to date:

	W.	L.	T.	Pts
Cobourg	11	0	0	22
Dinty's Inn	4	5	2	10
Millbrook.	3	7	1	7
Port Hope	2	8	1	5

Two games will be played to complete the schedule, Dinty's Inn at Port Hope, August 25 and Cobourg at Millbrook August 30. Play-offs will be on September 6 and 11, home and home games, goals to count. It must be understood that referees are appointed by the president and are asked to act accordingly. If managers are not satisfied, they should notify the president. Play-off games will be refereed by V. Reynolds and Red Creighton. A. R. Near will attend to present the trophy.

V. Reynolds and P. Thebencher will handle the game in Port Hope to-night, and V. Reynolds and R. Creighton the one in Millbrook next Wednesday. Dinty's Inn and Cobourg look like the ultimate finalists. Bud Fisher has been appointed coach of the Inn team—known as the Petes' Juniors—and the abuse he received at a game recently will not be tolerated by the league, nor is there any excuse for the trouble between Millbrook and Cobourg two weeks ago. President Jack Creighton, who was back in Peterborough for a short time to-day made this clear. He also left instructions to the other league officials.

Lindsay Will Meet Sugar Bowl To-Night

Sugar Bowl and Smith-Baldwins of Lindsay, in the O.A.S.A. first round playdowns, meet in their second game to-night at 6.45 at Stevenson Park. The first tilt ended in a 14-all draw in Lindsay and the fixture this evening promises to be another fine close scramble between well-matche outfits. The next game will likely be held in Lindsay Monday, a re-play of that tie affair.

George Dormer and his Bowlmen are raring to get in there against the Scugog softballers, and promise to trounce them this time. The Smith-Baldwin gang are far from setups and in Gamble they have a real fast-ball hurler. They are confident they can beat the Peterborough aggregation and advance into the next round of the Ontario playdowns.

Ross Curry will probably do the flinging for Sugar Bowl this game, and may baffle the visitors who found Sturgeon and Bill Simmons for some man-sized clouts including hour home runs. A large crowd of softball rooters are expected out for this promising men's fixture.

French-Canadian Ball Players Meet

The only two French-Canadians in the International league have a chat and shake for the cameraman. "Doc" Gautreau of the Montreal Royals and Gus Dugas of the Albany Senators are shown after the game having a French conversation, thereby mystifying the uninitiated English-speaking cameraman.

THE NOVELTY SPINDLE
By HERSCHEL DEUTSCH

Written for Central Press

(The operator of a crooked carnival game is called a "grifter". Although the sucker—the paying customer—doesn't know it, practically every game of skill and chance at the average travelling carnival or resort can be fixed by the operator so that the player can't win.

This is not usually true, however, of legitimate amusement parks, which have large equipment and are interested in keeping the good will of their patrons. Such places do not permit grifters. But beware the fly-by-night joint!)

AROUND the circle of ornamental pins against which the whirling arrow's celluloid indicator strikes, are prizes of various kinds. Watches, silver cigaret lighters, fine binoculars, cameras and other costly articles, alternating with whistles, keyrings, collar buttons and similar items.

"Step right up and spin it yourself, folks," says the grifter. "It's all science and skill." He twirls the arrow to show the sucker how it goes.

The arrow slows down and stops at the lighter. "That's all there's to it," he says. "Spin the lucky arrow and take home a valuable prize for a dime! There are no blanks; everybody wins!"

"Oh, boy!" says the sucker. "Look at what I've been missing!" He pays his dime eagerly and gives the spindle a twirl. It ratchets against the pins and finally comes to rest ....at a keyring. He tries again, and again; collecting such stuff as penholders, kazoos, tin brooches, and toy horns, but not one watch or fishing reel or cigaret case.

Of course the spindle is controlled by the grifter, but the sucker would never suspect the fancy pins against which the indicator strikes as it swings around the circle. The arrow's shaft is fixed so that it can be raised or lowered slightly by a concealed lever, causing the pointer to strike certain pins and miss others, as desired by the operator.

THE ASTRAL influences for this day may be read as conflicting, with some advancement or favors in employment or with the co-operation of mergers, rings, or secret organizations. But also there is likely to be a tenacious obstacle, a delay or disappointment to dispose of before definite progress may be made. There is sign of some slight hazard to the finances, but likewise friends may intervene. Private affiliations would seem to have very pleasant and auspicious relations.

Those whose birthday it is if in employment of others may find themselves favored, honored or have promise of promotion. There are also benefits to be expected from corporations, combines or secret societies or through strategem or intrigue. But withal there are money hazards and obstacles or disappointments to be carefully manupulated. Private associations may be pleasant and lively.

PLANS DISCUSSED FOR ATHLETIC DAY

Softball Tournament Will Be Held At Omemee On Labor Day.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, August 25. — A meeting of the baseball teams was held in the council chamber on Wednesday evening to discuss arrangements for the softball tournament to be held on September 4th, Labor Day. It was decided to have two classes in the men's division, A and B, and one class in the girls' jump. The price of admission was fixed at a very low fee and committees were appointed to look after the grounds, the refreshments, the booths, etc. Entries are requested from all those desirous of participating in the last big softball event of the season.

A very pleasing social function took place on Wednesday evening in Coronation Hall when approximately 80 young people met to do honor to Campbell Mackey and his bride to be, Miss Essa Robinson of Haliburton. The evening started off with contests and games and then dancing was indulged in until time for the presentation. A huge basket filled with gifts was presented to the young couple, Miss Elda Overholt reading the address. Then a purse of money was given to Mr. MacKey, in this case the address being read by Wm. Stevenson, Jr. Mr. MacKey and Miss Robinson thanked the young people for their gifts and their good wishes, and the singing of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," kept the merriment at its height.

After the presentation was made supper was served, after which dancing was continued, and on the conclusion Mr. MacKey and Miss Robinson, who are to be married on Saturday, were showered with congratulations and best wishes for a life of happiness in Winnipeg, where they intend taking up their residence.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY EXAMINER

Madoc

At a recent meeting of the Madoc Women's Institute, an illustrated address was given by Mr. Reid of Belleville, on "Home Beautification and Perennial Borders," illustrated by beautiful lantern slides.

The speaker dwelt on the fact that the pioneers of the new country had been fully occupied in providing food, shelter and clothing for himself and his family, but with the coming of more leisurely life, the question of beauty of house and surroundings was coming more prominently to the fore. He stressed the fact that more particular attention to the beautification of farm homes and grounds and the providing of conveniences might do much to prevent the drift from farm homes to city life. Many of the plans for home beautification might be but castles in the air but it is often quite possible by careful planning to put foundations under them. He says, plan your garden on paper, then you can move your shrubs and plants many times without injury to them; not to do as one person he heard of, move your rosebushes seven times, and then wonder why the poor things would not grow. In your plan work to scale, and place in the plan the house and other buildings, then you can easily see the open spaces, and so it is much easier to plan.

Showing some plans drawn to scale and criticizing the arrangement, Mr. Reid went on to show some magnificent specimens of beautiful plants, shrubs and flowers, then showed several very beautiful views of grounds and gardens he had visited in France, England and Germany.

After the showing of the slides, many questions of local import were asked and very fully answered and a most instructive evening was much enjoyed.

CANADIAN SURPLUS OF WHEAT 212,000,000 BUSHELS JULY 31

Hon. H. H. Stevens Corrects Impressions From Unofficial Estimates.

DAMAGING TO CANADA.

OTTAWA, Aug. 25 (CP)—Classifying as most inaccurate and damaging to Canadian interests in the very delicate problem of marketing Canada's large wheat crop, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, took strong exception to-day to published statements that the Dominion had a surplus for export of 430,000,000 bushels. "The amount published is in excess of the actual facts by at least 115,000,000 bushels," the minister declared.

In a statement issued Mr. Stevens sets out:—

1.—"Canada has no carry-over from the 1931 crop. Such carry-over as we have is from the 1932 crop.

"2.—The Canadian carry-over on July 31, 1933, was 212,000,000 bushels try, always has a carry-over at the end of the year. A normal carry-over for Canada would be about 60,000,000 bushels and the published statements make no allowance for this item.

"7.—The surplus for export given as 430,000,000 bushels is at least 115,000,000 bushels too high, and perhaps more, depending on the volume of 1933 production."

The minister quote official statistics in support of his statements that the suggestion of a surplus for export of 430,000,000 bushels is "inaccurate and damaging."

Canada maintained her position in the British market during May, June and July, the minister stated.

"There is no evidence to show that the Argentine and Australia displaced Canada in the British market during the past three months," he asserted after quoting export figures for the three countries to Great Britain for May, June and July.

Russian Exports Light

He categorized as absurd a statement that "bumper crops of wheat are reported from Russia, the Balkan States, Germany and France, which are more than sufficient for requirements of Continental Europe." Dealing with this phase of the published statement, the minister declared:

"That statement is absolutely absurd. Reports from Russia indicate a somewhat better crop than last in Canada and 219,000,000 in all positions.

No 1933 Estimate Yet

"3.—There has been no official estimate of the 1933 wheat crop. The figure published of 430,000,000 bushels is an estimate made by a private grain firm and issued before harvesting was general in the good crop areas of Saskatchewan and Alberta. In some sections of the West, cutting has not yet commenced. Furthermore, many private opinions have been expressed in regard to the 1933 crop and considerably lower estimates have been suggested. The first official estimate will be made on September 11, 1933.

"4.—The article states that the total wheat in Canada amounts to 490,000,000 bushels. The actual visible supply of wheat is about 191,000,000 bushels and the balance is on farms; a great deal of it not even harvested to date and still subject to the hazards of a growing crop.

Consume 120,000,000 Bushels

"5.—The consumption of wheat in Canada amounts to about 120,000,000 bushels per year and not 60,000,000 as suggested.

"6.—Canada, like any other country, but Russia has experienced a serious food shortage in the past year. Russia will probably export some wheat for the reason that internal transportation conditions render it difficult to move wheat from the Black Sea area, northward. Consequently, some of the wheat produced in this area will be exported as it is the easiest way to handle such supplies. The Danubian countries have an average crop and some wheat will be exported, an entirely normal thing for these countries. A heavy movement from the Danube is not expected."

Contrary to a published statement, Mr. Stevens stated that France and Italy had smaller crops than last year.

NO "STOOL PIGEON" AVERS WM. SMYTH

U. W. F. Not Secret Soceity—Nothing to Circulate.

William Smyth, until recently secretary of the Unemployed Workers' Fraternity, stated to The Examiner to-day that he strongly objected to Chas. W. Holland's reference to him as a "stool pigeon" at Wednesday night's meeting of the U.W.F.

"This word stool pigeon is slang of special meaning," Mr. Smyth said. "No one knows better than Mr. Holland that nothing has taken place at the U.W.F. meetings during my membership that could not be repeated on the street. He has repeatedly said that the U.W.F. purposes were entirely law abiding and constitutional, and while I have been a member I have seen nothing contrary to that ideal. So what is there to be a "stool pigeon" about? The U.W.F. is not a secret society, and I am no exception to all the other members who have talked over U.W.F. affairs with non-members, some of whom I thought would join the Fraternity

At one time there were 768 members of the U.W.F., according to Mr. Asling's report. Wednesday night there were sixty-odd present, and the fact is that the great majority, about 90 per cent of those who used to go to the meetings no longer attend. Why? Because they were disgusted with the dictatorial tactics of Mr. Holland and changing his mind from week to week on such matters as joining the C.C.F., no politics in the U.W.F., his attitude toward Tom McMurray, and various other questions that have come up.

I want to repeat that I am no "stool pigeon," and that I have been a sincere member of the U.W.F., and my intention in trying to prevent Mr. Holland from staking the funds of the Fraternity in his row with the bailiff was to try to keep the money that is so hard to collect in dues.

I was regularly appointed secretary of the U.W.F. at Mr. Holland's suggestion at a regular meeting, but as soon as I objected to anything Mr. Holland did, he turned on me just the same way he turned on the majority of the members who have been on the executive since the Fraternity was formed. According to him they were also "stool pigeons." Mr. Holland praised "The Worker," published in Toronto, and advised all to buy it, until it turned on him and denounced him. The main fact about the U.W.F. under Holland's leadership is that in membership and standing in the community it is only a shadow of what it might have been."

N.R.A. REGARDS WAGE BARGAINS AS LABOR RIGHT

Coal and Motor Industries Hesitate Over Union Features.

MUST MAKE DECISION.

"Closed Shop" Phrase Not Recognized By N.R.A. Authorities.

(By James Cope, A.P. Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, August 25.—Two dominant industries, coal and automobile, to-day faced the necessity of accepting N.R.A. fair-practice codes stripped of phrasing designed to keep their workers non-union, or of trying to battle their way out of the industrial control fold.

Officila opinion, supported by first trade reactions, leaned to the view that both industries, like steel before them, would take the codes readily enough and then seek to work out their "open shop" policies with the employees at home. But the phrase "open shop" had been ejected by the N.R.A. together with the companion "closed shop" as words which "cannot be written into the law."

Right to Bargain.

This was done in an official statement from Hugh Johnson, which stated that the industrial law's grant to labor of the "right to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing" cannot be "circumscribed, affected or foreclosed by anyone writing his own interpretation into any code or agreement."

This statement was said to have the official approval of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Coal Trade Problems.

The interpretation brought expressions of satisfaction also from some employers, although there was no immediate promise that it would clear the road to immediate acceptance of codes. In coal, particularly, the minimum wage question remained acute; so was the demand of the United Workers for insertion of a "check-off" provision by which union dues are deducted from pay envelopes when the workers get them.

For automobiles the situation appeared smoother. There was a possibility that once the industrialists were reconciled the agreement could be hastened to President Roosevelt for promulgation.

Mount Julian

(Examiner Correspondence).

MOUNT JULIAN, August 25. — The Holy Trinity Anglican Church picnic, which was held on Wednesday of last week, was a great success, the weather conditions being perfect and W. Dunford's grounds being very easily transformed to an ideal setting for the picnic, the calm beauty of Stoney Lake making a very lovely background. Two long tables were erected under the beautiful shade trees, where meals were served at noon and evening to the large crowd present.

A well stocked booth provided a good variety of other refreshments throughout the day while the bazaar table displayed a great line of fancy work, plain sewing, home made candy and cooking. The fish pond was a great source of entertainment for the young folk.

The ball game between Mount Julian and Warsaw commenced at 2 p.m., and proved to be a lively and interesting one, making a score of 2-9 in favor of Warsaw at the finish.

The usual program of races was run off, each being keenly contested.

As the Buckhorn ball team failed to arrive on the scene for the game with Apsley in the evening, the Warsaw boys kindly consented to play the second game. During the early stages of the game the Warsaw team was well in the lead but as the game progressed it became closer but Warsaw held their own to the finish, winning by a score of 16-15, and also winning the splendid bat and ball donated by Mr. R. Stubbs as a prize to the victorious team of the day.

Mrs. W. Ianson kindly donated the use of the Viamede hall for dancing, as did Miss M. Jackman her services as pianist. Music was also provided for square dancing, and a jolly evening was spent by the large crowd which attended.

During the evening a hand crocheted floor mat, donated by Mrs. W. Thompson, and a handsome lemonade set, donated by Mrs. Stubbs were auctioned off, and the ticket drawn on the leather cushion that was given away. W. G. Stone held the lucky ticket on this, while Miss Florence Tedford held the lucky ticket or the hand-worked bed spread, the spread being donated by Mrs. W. G. Stone.

Rev. E. C. Moore and the members of the church very greatly appreciated the services of Miss L. Warner as palmist, and the kindness and generosity of all those who helped in any way to make the picnic the success it was, both socially and financially.

1933 HARVEST IS COMPLETED

Season's Work Is Finished Two weeks Ahead Of Last Year.

FAIR QUALITY GRAIN.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BAILIEBORO, August 25. — The 1933 harvest is now completed and the season is almost two weeks ahead of last year. It is generally thought the cause of the early harvest has been due to the lack of rain and the exceedingly warm weather with the high drying winds.

The quality of the grain throughout this district is considered fair, but the wield is far below last year's crop. Spring grain, such as oats, barley and buckwheat are exceptionally scarce and farmers will be forced to substitute with wheat, which fortunately yielded an average crop. The fine hay crop which the major portion of farmers harvested, is also going to help tide the crop over the winter months.

The root crops are almost a total failure. Corn is short and badly infested with corn-borer. Potatoes in almost every instance are a total failure, and other roots are likewise far below par. A blight has struck the potato crop and already the plants are dying.

Owing to the dry weather farmers are finding it extremely difficult to prepare their soil for fall wheat and without rain falls to a considerable extent within the next fortnight the acreage will be small this fall.

Perhaps the pasture being scarce is one of the greatest problems to the farmer this fall. A scarcity of fall pasture draws heavily upon the winter's supply of hay and fodder. In many instances farmers are absolutely without pasture and have been forced to sell their stock, while unfinished, at a sacrifice.

The majority, however, claim their crops have exceeded their expectations as the drought had been so extreme they feared there would be nothing worth while to harvest.

Up to date the winter apple crop is looking promising and hopes are held for apples of a good quality. The fall apples have been injured by the dry weather and those varieties will be scarce in this district.

NEW YORK GIRL SLAIN AT DOOR OF APARTMENT

Two Men Banged on Door Early This Morning.

ONE CAPTURED.

Waitress Shot as She Attempted to Slam Door Shut.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (A.P.)—Rose Grygill, 20, a young waitress who came here four days ago from Donora, Pa. was slain early to-day in a shooting in an apartment house on West 48th Street which threw the Broadway district into an uproar.

Jack Miller, 35, who was wounded in the left hand, was arrested on a charge of shooting the girl and charged with homicide. Police said a companion of Miller escaped. The girl lived with two other waitresses, Anna Perdok and Rose Manetta, both 21.

The three girls were asleep in their room at 6 a.m. There was a banging on the door which awakened all three.

Frightened, the three arose and the Grygill girl went to the door. A man, the two surviving women told police, thrust his foot in the door and they said they could see a man standing at the door with a pistol in his hand.

Tried to Shut Door

As the Grygill girl struggled to close the door the other girls, clad only in nightgowns, fled through a window down the fire escape to a courtyard and then ran screaming to the street, where a taxicab driver called a policeman for them.

Meanwhile, as police later reconstructed the crime, the Grygill girl struggled to close the door and the pistol was discharged, the bullet striking her in the neck.

Alarmed at the shooting, police believe the men fled. The Grygill girl, as indicated by a trail of blood, staggered up the stairs to the third floor, took the receiver off a telephone there and fell. Later she managed to get back to the second floor where she died.

One Man Captured

A policeman called by the taxicab driver saw two men running from the apartment house. A crowd had gathered from Times Square and Broadway, but the policeman was able to overtake one of the men, who identified himself as Miller.

The surviving women said they never had seen Miller or the man with him before and could not explain why the two men attempted to enter their room.

Insull Is Detained By Greek Officials

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—The detention of Samuel Insull, former Chicago Utilities operator, by authorities in Athens to-day followed quickly on the disclosure by United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green of the intention of Federal officials to make a new attempt to bring him here for trial.

A previous effort on the part of the State of Illinois to compel Insull, and his brother, Martin Insull, now living near Orillia, Ont., to face trial growing out of the collapse of their utility empire, was successfully resisted in Greece by Samuel Insull. The requests for Martin's extradition from Ontario have been continued from time to time.

SMALL FIRE LOSS

SUDBURY—Despite an unusually dry season loss from forest fires in this district has been almost negligible. Owing to a shortage of equipment the Forestry Department had not attempted to extinguish fires this season but has had them held under control until rain put them out.

CANADA'S NEWS SERVICES FREE OF PROPAGANDA

Institute of Political Relations Discusses Canadian Newspapers.

PUBLICITY TO C.C.F.

Papers Not Suppressing Reports of Woodsworth Party.

BANFF, Alta., Aug. 26 (CP)—Institute of Pacific relations, at its fifth biennial conference, dwelt on the question as to whether news services were used for propaganda.

A Canadian member, who is a newspaperman, said he had noticed a certain trend in recent times in some newspaper to return somewhat to the old idea of presenting opinion instead of news. During this time of stress, he thought this might be done consciously or unconsciously.

Newspapermen were trained to guard against such influences. He thought there had been a good deal of deliberate mild coloring even in individual newspapers. News services in this country, he said, had been most free of that tendency, although there had been an inclining toward a more definite selection of ideas, particularly of nationalistic character.

He thought, too, there might be something of this during the era of the National Recovery Act in United States, with a voluntary or partly inspired censorship.

Freer in Canada

Canada, it was stated, had been free from coercion or controlled bias as anywhere in the world, mainly because of the co-operative system of new gathering, while German and Russian newspapers were forced to act under orders.

One member suggested newspapers often were generous to those who were opposed to their opinions when their opponents were so weak it did not matter. The case of Socialists in United States was cited as an instance.

This was countered by the information the C.C.F. in Canada was getting a good deal of publicity at a time of stress. Canadian newspapers were not suppressing news of the activities of the new body; on the contrary, they were giving them full reports at a time when the possibility of Socialism becoming effective in Canada was greater than at any time. This was done simply because it was news.

2 CHILDREN DIE IN FIRE.

Service Stripes For Patriotic Pigs Bought By United States Government

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 26.—(CP)—The service stripe of the patriotic pig is either a green or a red splash across the back.

Pigs destined to die that the farmer may live better are marked by paint as United State government inspectors finish going over them at the various livestock markets.

"The red sign," said Dr. C. A. Jerome, head inspector at the yards, "means, 'into the tank' with you,' it applies to all pigs under 80 pounds, which go for tankage."

The green stripe sends the animals to the slaughter. All pigs over 80 pounds and all sows, which are to be killed for meat to feed hungry unemployed next winter, are marked with the green.

SEN. ROBERTSON DIES IN OTTAWA STROKE VICTIM

Death Follows Long Illness Starting When He Was Minister of Labor.

RESIGNED IN 1932.

Had Interesting Career—Rose to High Office From Railway Telegrapher.

OTTAWA, Aug. 26 (C.P.).—Senator Gideon D. Robertson, former Conservative Minister of Labor, died here at his home late yesterday afternoon. Senator Robertson suffered a paralytic stroke two weeks ago.

For two years, his health has been in poor condition, causing his resignation in February, 1932, from the Bennett Cabinet.

The man who rose from railway telegrapher to Cabinet Minister and Senator, put up a losing fight for his life in an effort to recover from a stroke. From day to day his condition would improve slightly, then recede. Last Wednesday he was stricken again by a stroke from which he never recovered. He died yesterday at 4.40, E.D.T.

Two years ago, while still Minipster of Labor, Senator Robertson had his first stroke, brought on by overwork on unemployment relief projects. Although forced to resign from the Government, he continued his life-work in labor circles by representing Canada at Geneva at the International Labor Congress. Again he was stricken with a stroke and came home to Canada a semi-invalid. His health had been poor until two weeks ago when his final illness came.

Senator Robertson was predeceased by his wife, formerly Mary Berry Hay, Waterford, Ont., who died early this year. He is survived by three sons and two daughters. A son, Gavin Elliott, was killed in the Great War.

Tribute By Murdock

OTTAWA, Aug. 26 (C.P.)—Senator James Murdock to-day issued a tribute to Senator Gideon Robertson, former Minister of Labor, who died here yesterday.

"With sincere sorrow," the tribute read, "I learn of the death of Senator Robertson. His all too early passing is the direct result of application to duty inspired always by impulses of heart, mind and will actuated by human sympathy beyond the strength of ordinary man. The less favored citizens of our dominion and those who, by personal, close contact, have known his large heart and warm sympathy will long feel the void which his death creates."

LASH IS ADDED TO PRISON TERM

Three Years' Sentence Passed on Two London Men.

BRUTAL ASSAULT.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 26.—(CP)—Having pleaded guilty to a charge of robbery with violence, Joe Kozbomski and John Frank Niever were today sentenced to Kingston penitentiary for three years and to receive eight strokes of the lash.

The crime for which the two were sentenced was one of the most brutal ever committed in London.

On the morning of June 5 Niever and Kozabasky seized Mrs. Tichonik as she bent over the wash tubs in her home. They tortured her unmercifully in an effort to make her tell where her husband's life savings were hidden.

According to Mrs. Tichonik, the two men pounded her head upon the floor and hurt her in other ways in an unsuccessful effort to force her to lead them to the money. Finally they gave up, and leaving her bound and gagged on the cellar floor, they ransacked the building, tearing up boards in search of the money cache.

After the money had been found in a clothes hamper the two called a taxi and drove to Windsor.

In Montreal they were later arrested after they had spent $1,000 of the stolen money. They were brought back to London for trial and Thursday pleaded guilty to the charges.

TWO MEN SLAIN IN ALCOHOL WAR

Buffalo Girl and Man Passing on Street Wounded by Stray Bullets.

RIFLES ARE USED.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 26.—(AP)—An alcohol war is blamed today by police for a shooting last night in which two men were killed and two pedestrians wounded by stray bullets.

The men killed, James, (Big Jim) Callea, 38, and his brother, Samuel, 36, were shot down as they approached a drink dispensary at Connecticut and 14th Street, said to have been operated by them.

Witnesses said both were wounded in the first volley of rifle and revolver fire but ran down the street with one of their assailants chasing them and firing at them as they ran. As "Big Jim" reached a street corner a man stepped out of a sedan and fired at him with a rifle, witnesses said.

The pedestrians, June Bauder, 14-year-old high school student, and Joseph Pariso, 41, were wounded by the rifle fire. Pariso was shot in the leg while the girl was struck in the head by a bullet which had ricocheted from a brick wall of a nearby building. Both were recovering in a hospital today.

The older Callea was found dead on the sidewalk by police while his brother was found in a car parked across the street. He died shortly after being taken to a hospital.

N.Z Cheese Shipments Stir Ontario Protests

VANCOUVER, Aug. 26 (C.P.).—Two shipments of New Zealand cheese have arrived here this year, 13 tons in July and another 13 tons this month, harbor officials said here in confirming imports which brought protests from the Leeds County Dairy Board. The Dairy Board, in a despatch from Brockville, Ont., yesterday protested the New Zealand cheese importations and sent resolutions to the Federal Government and the National Dairy Council. Both shipments received here in July and August were for British Columbia consumption.

Tailless Horses Puzzling Police

CHICAGO, Aug 26.—(C.P.)—Police are seeking one of the strangest thieves they have ever encountered in Chicago. Charles Lumpp, driver of a dairy wagon, reported a man with a peculiar look in his eye and a butcher knife in his hand attempted to barber his horse's tail. Lumpp drove him away.

His employer, Edward Rogenbeck, added: "In the last week eight of our horses have mysteriously lost their tails."

Tough Customer

MIDDLEBURG, N.Y., August 26 (C.P.). — Clarence Winans and Earl Cain shot a woodchuck, put it in the car, and started homeward. The chuck revived, proved too much for Winans to handle alone, and Cain joined the fight. Driverless, the car crossed the road, ripped off three concrete posts, a wheel and fender. The chuck was subdued.

Winans and Cain are going fishing to-day.

KIDNAP RACKET IS DEALT BLOW

One Suspect is Shot and Fourteen Others Are About to Face Trial.

DEATH IS PENALTY.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP)—The kidnapping racket in the United States seemed headed for a depression to-day as bullets, steel bars and a threat of the elctric chair answered the underworld's challenge.

On kidnapper was dead in San Francisco, shot down yesterday by a policeman when his victim, William F. Wood, a cousin of President Taft, called for help. Before he was shot down, however, he killed a policeman and wounded a woman passerby.

Two men accused of conspiracy to kidnap were in jail at Hartford, Conn., where police said the arrests thwarted a plot to seize a wealthy Springfield, Mass., business man. Seven others were sought today.

Federal officials at Oklahoma City planned to put 12 people on trial within two weeks in the kidnapping of Charles F. Urschel, oil millionaire. Three of the prisoners were flown there yesterday from Texas, where they were caught. They were put in a specially fortified jail.

CRAZED WOMAN WIELDS KNIFE

Doctor, Victim of Nervous Breakdown, Stabs Associate and Housekeeper.

ONE DIES.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 26 (A.P.)—A butcher knife wielded by a woman, police said, was crazed, brought death to Miss Ann Kifle, 50-year-old housekeeper, in the home of Dr. Anita Muhl, 40, and serious injuries to the doctor.

The alleged assailant, captured by police 1st night a half-mile from the Muhl home, was identified by them as Dr. Virginia Wilson, 36, a graduate of Washington University, St. Louis, and until a recent nervous breakdown, a teacher in the summer school of the California College of Medicine at Berkeley.

Dr. Muhl had brought Dr. Wilson home from the psychopathic ward of the County Hospital only a few hours before. The woman had been placed under observation after she allegedly had caused a disturbance at another hospital.

Police said Dr. Wilson, a specialist in psychiatry and hygiene, was clad only in a blanket when captured and still carried the knife.

Dr. Muhl is one of the most prominent women in the West in the field of psychiatry.

LONDON, Aug. 26. —(CP)— Premier R. B. Bennett had a great send-off today when he entrained at Waterloo station bound for Southampton and home.

All along the platform friends and well-wishers stopped Mr. Bennett to shake hands. Premier Ramsay MacDonald was represented by H. M. Butler, J. H. "Are you satisfied with the wheat agreement," asked an interviewer.

"Yes, eminently," Mr. Bennett emphatically replied. Press photographers pressed around for final pictures. Mr. Bennett had a small brown paper parcel in his hand. WOOD CUTTERS IN FIST FIGHT

Two Dummer Youths Are Charged With Assault.

TRIAL IN NORWOOD.

Two residents of Dummer Township appeared in County Police Court this morning, to answer to charges of assault occasioning actual bodily harm. Pleading not guilty to the charges, the youths were given bail in the sum of $200 each. The case was adjourned to Norwood on Tuesday at 2.30 (Std. Time).

The defendants are Garnet Drain charged with assaulting Henry Sararis; and Thomas Hull charged with assaulting Mary Sararis. Both defendants were represented by J. A. O'Brien, when they appeared before Justices of the Peace V. Eastwood and W. Buller.

The charges are a result of a "free for all" fight that developed in Dummer yesterday afternoon at the farm of Nelson Windover, it is learned. The two youths had been engaged by Windover to cut wood. Sararis and his wife objected to the presence of the youths, and ordered them off the property. They refused to go, and a fight developed.

BANDITS MAKE $36,000 HAUL

Toss Tear Gas Bomb Into Armored Truck Overcoming Three in Crew.

FLEE IN STOLEN CAR.

DENVER, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Two men held up an armored truck in the heart of the business section to-day and escaped with a sum reported to be $36,000.

The bandits tossed a tear gas bomb into the car and overcame the guard, driver and a bookkeeper who was in charge of the money. They then dashed off in a stolen automobile, police said.

The money was being taken from the Federal Reserve Bank to the United States National Bank.

Richard Borden was driving the car, accompanied by Dalton Brown, a special officer of the Reserve Bank, and Vern Walker, a bookkeeper. All three were armed, Armstrong said.

Pedestrians, several of whom were victims of the gas, told police the robbers were small men, both swarthy, and that they had escaped in a small dark sedan.

Police learned a large truck, "double-parked" in front of the money car had forced it to stop and gave the bandits an opportunity to stage the holdup.

NOTABLES IN YORKSHIRE VISITED BY QUEEN MARY

LONDON, Aug. 26 (C.P. Cable) —Queen Mary, who remained at Harewood House with the Princess Royal following the departure of the King for Balmoral Castle earlier in the week, joins His Majesty at the Scottish royal residence on Monday.

The Queen has been paying informal calls at many notable houses in Yorkshire. Visiting several antique stores in Harrogate Her Majesty passed along a covered promenade in Valley Gardens, stopping to speak to a child in a perambulator. To the surprise of onlookers a girl, not more than four years of age, ran shyly forward and curtsied demurely, the Queen smilingly acknowledging the saluation. Not to be outdone the girl's companion a boy about the same age instantly ran forward and made a profound bow which Her Majesty also acknowledged.

Marvin Nelson Struck By Motor Boat On Practice Swim In Lake Ontario

TORONTO, Aug. 26.—(CP)—While crowds cheered women swimmers in the marathon race here, it became known today, Marvin Nelson, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, favorite for the men's marathon next Wednesday, was fighting for his life yesterday out in Lake Ontario.

Nelson, out for a practice swim, was struck twice on the head by a motorboat which passed over his body. As he rose to the surface the propeller of the craft struck his hand, cutting it badly. Occupants of the boat failed to see the swimmer and had passed him before his cries fixed their attention. He was taken from the water and later said his injuries would not keep him out of the swim.

KIDNAPPER SHOT TWO WOUNDED IN GUN BATTLE

Cousin of Late President Taft is Rescued After 4 Days' Captivity.

TORTURED FOR CASH.

Shooting Begins as Prisoner Shouts to Police for Aid in Market Square.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—The four days' kidnapping of William F. Wood, well-to-do 45-year-old cousin of the late William Howard Taft, ended yesterday in the killing of his abductor and the wounding of two other persons.

Police shot, and killed the kidnapper, identified as Henry Jennings, as he sought to shoot his way free from capture after Wood had shouted to Policeman Michael McDonald for help. McDonald and Mrs. Ella Bowers, 62, were wounded. Merchants and customers in the Crystal Palace Market scrambled behind boxesof fruit and sacks of vegetables as the shooting began at a nut stall.

"Let's go in here," Wood said Jennings had ordered, prodding him with a revolver in his pocket, as they walked up Market Street from a safe deposit vault where Jennings had pocketed cash and bank books representing $10,000. "I want to buy some walnuts. I love walnuts, or any kind of nuts."

Five minutes later, Jennings was dead after shooting McDonald, dashing through the market, and battling with Policemen John McConville and Ed. Borbeck, who, out of uniform and on their way to court, happened along.

McDonald's condition was declared serious. A bullet was taken from Mrs. Bowers's arm.

Wood Escapes Unhurt

Wood, unscathed as the bullets flew, was arrested as Jennings's associate, but quickly proved he was a Sausalito business man who had been kidnapped by Jennings on Monday night, tortured, harassed, and robbed until he appealed for aid to Policeman McDonald.

For one moment Jennings had failed to keep his victim covered. He was busy cracking walnuts. McDonald was startled by Wood's cry: "Look out, this guy's got a gun."

Jennings fired before the surprised policeman could act, then ran from the building toward the postoffice where McConville and Borbeck entered the picture. Two shots missed. The gunman fired back, wounding Mrs. Bowers. A final shot from the policemen killed him.

Wood told police a graphic story of being held prisoner. He said Jennings had bound him with picture wire at night, and had tortured him to make him reveal his wealth. Jennings's laugh was that of a madman Wood said.

Mr. Picobac Confers with a Bank "Director"

In the course of his investigation into pipe-smoking conditions in Montreal, Mr. Picobac penetrated the sacred precincts of St. James Street, sometimes referred to as "the financial heart of Canada." Lost within the pillared temple of a great Canadian bank, Mr. Picobac was gazing about him in admiration.

"Can I direct you, sir," said the voice of a uniformed attendant at his elbow.

Mr. Picobac thus accosted, seized the opportunity of verifying his suspicion that the magnates of Montreal know more about the financial situation than they give out for publication.

"Tell me, Mr. Director," said he, "where do we go from here?"

"We are going to slip down into the porters' room in the basement and have a mild . : : : cool : : : sweet smoke," replied the "director." "Pleased to meet you, Mr. Picobac."

ZION CONGRESS INDICTS NAZIS

Appeal to League for Aid to Obtain Jewish Rights in Germany.

U.S. DELEGATION SPLITS.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 26—In intense silence the World Zionist Congress last night approved a resolution indicting the Nazi party of Germany as the persecutor of Jews and appealed to the League of Nations for help.

The resolution, adopted amid a feeling of high emotion, taking a half-hour to read, included three points:

1.—An indictment of Nazi Germany as the persecutor of the Jews.

2.—An appeal to the League for help for the Jews in their fight for rights in Germany.

3.—An appeal to the Jews all over the world to help the German-Jews to establish national homes in Palestine.

The United States delegation to the congress split into two groups yesterday during heated arguments on the Zionist program for development of Palestine.

They disagreed over representation on important committees and the projected return of Dr. Chaim Weizman to the presidency

The spit occurred during a hectic day in which the various factions debated their respective viewpoints on development of Palestine. Meyer Grossmann, a moderate-revisionist, criticized the alleged inadequacy of the present administration's program, insisting on a "maximum program for a Jewish state in Palestine."

The congress adjourned over today (Jewish Sabbath, until 7 p.m. Sunday.

AGED MAN DIES VICTIM OF TRAIN

Buggy is Struck at Level Crossing in Trafalgar Township During Runaway.

HORSE ESCAPES UNHURT.

MILTON, Aug. 26.—A fatal level-crossing accident occurred on the C.P.R. crossing, on the Seventh Line, Trafalgar Township, at Hornby Station, at 5.25 p.m. yesterday, when passenger train No. 37, westbound, struck and killed Robert James Whaley, aged 78, of Whaley's Corners.

Mr. Whaley was driving his horse and buggy when, it is thought, the animal took fright and ran away. While crossing the track the buggy was struck by the engine of the train, completely demolishing the vehicle and hurling the aged man seventy feet on the north side of the track.

The horse, with the shaft and harness intact, kept on running, escaping miraculously without even a scratch. Coroner Dr. H. A. McCaul of Milton has empanelled a jury, and will conduct an inquest at an early date.

LABOR UNREST GROWS IN CUBA

Cespedes Refuses to Molest Strikers as Long as There is No Violence.

ELECTION MOVE CHEERED.

HAVANA, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Labor unrest that precipitated the ousting of Gerardo Machado plagued with renewed force today the dictatorial government of his successor, President de Cespedes.

Bakers, motion picture operators, stevedores street car men and others here or in other parts of the island were on strike, mostly for shorter hours and more pay.

Agitators continued to attack the new administration, which last night was hailed by large crowds as having taken the right road when it dissolved congress, set dates for new elections, and declared Machado's acts in his second term illegal.

But, it was said on high authority, Dr. Cespedes is ready to treat with organize labor in a tolerant manner and not to molest agitators so long as there are no further outbursts of violence.

Acts of violence, such as automobile thefts, looting of houses, and assassinations under the guise of revenge against Machadistas called forth a protest from the A.B.C. Secret Society, which said it would ask intervention by authorities.

BETWEEN BOOK ENDS

"THE ARCHES OF THE YEARS" (By Halliday Sutherland, 1933)

When doctors write things other than prescriptions they seem to write well. Alex Muntie's THE STORY OF SAN MICHELE, a doctor's casual autobiography, was one of the most popular books of 1931. Dr. Cronin sprang to immediate fame with his HATTER'S CASTLE. And now Dr. Sutherland's THE ARCHES OF THE YEARS—a Scottish doctor's reminiscences, which if there is any logic in the public taste, should be one of the most popular books of this year.

THE ARCHES OF THE YEARS has the breezy style of a literary sailor, written with enormous gusto of happenings and adventures all over the place. Here is grand stuff about whaling and bull-fighting and the Southern Cross and life in Sierra Leone and the War and all kinds of things which are not normally included in the medical curriculum. The ardent scientists, the amateur matador, the ship's surgeon...and so it goes. A more delightful book we have seldom read. Dip into it anywhere and you will read on enchanted; but it is best to start at the beginning, with a long evening before you, for then you can finish it before going to bed.

Some industrious bibliomaniac has reckoned that Hervey Allen's magnificent novel, ANTHONY ADVERSE, taking two weeks of solid reading, occupied 1/1200 of his Waking Life.

A lifetime of 70 years is 3640 weeks. Allowing 1/3 of life for sleeping or a little more for a book reviewer—say 2400 is the Waking Lifetime of the average reader. And personally we are convinced that the fraction is well worth it. Incidently, one enthusiastic reader has informed us that she "was reading sucr a lovely long story now. It was called Anthony Perserve." Apropos to "Anthony Adverse" which is over 1200 pages long, we have noticed that some of the new novels are running to unusual lengths. Is the age of the three-decker to return?

In the days when novels were comparatively few the public thought nothing of attacking a three-volume work points, out Dr. H. S. Canby in the "Saturday Review." It is the habit to ascribe the enormous popularity of magazines in America to the hurry of the publicans. Contemporary literature too, shows the same influence in its curt and analytical style. Then if the lengthy story should once more prove an attraction to the readers—and forced unemployment and the increasing leisure to some will afford them time—the technique of fiction may again alter, its tempo may change, its frequently stacato style grow more leisurely, nature description come back into romantic narrative. Our novelists may find time for the philisophical excursions, the meandering into fields of fancy which they have more or less eschewed. We may have more suavity, more humour, and less pro-occupation with the abnormal, which so many readers deplore to-day.

At any rate, the possibilities are interesting.

There is no book more heartwarming, more intimate that the one you take abed to read while composing yourself for sleep—unless it be the one you take to bed and don't read.

Among those volumes at our Chaucerian bedshead is one well-rubbed volume, a copy of Sir Thomas Browne, His Works. We have found the good Doctor ideal in persuading the region of our mind into serenity.

"Let not thy thought be of things which have not entered into the hearts of beasts...think not of things long past and of things long to come...acquain thyself with the choragium of the stars and consider the vast expanse beyond." We do. We meditate on these lambent pages and quietly slip off to dreaming -"of flying, roof, limpid fountains, smooth waters, white vesments and fruitful green trees which are the visions of healthful sleeps and at good distance from the grave." And wake in the morning unto fresh worlds and find yourself fumbling over lines of the rich stuff..."the irregularities of vain glory and the wild enormities of ancient magnanimity...sad and sepulchral pitchers...predicament of chimeras..."

This is, of course, a private madness, for there are those who naturally dislike the ornate and those who naturaly love it. Anyone who is jarred by the expression "prodigal blazes" or the use of "pensile" for "hanging" or "asperous" for "rough" would better close up Sir Thomas. For Sir Thomas is perhaps the finest exponent of the ornate in our English literature. Even Dr. Johnson and his followers bow to the Norwich Doctor as their inspirer and guide.

Sir Thomas Browne is an oddity of English thought as well as of English literature. He seems poised exactly between the barbarous spiritual imaginings of ancient thought and the rationalistic method of modern science. He was a scholar, a doctor, antiquarian, author and man of God. He had a truly wonderous capacity for credulous incredulity. He pondered on philosophy, life, writing elephants, astronomy, napkins made from the wool of Salamanders, Unicorns and their glories and many other things which we moderns accept but in a soft and flexible sense. He explored the emotions disected the body, he experimented, he worshiped, he lived; and he wrote all these down in sonorous, trumpeting sentences in the RELIGIOXMEDICI, VULGAR ERRORS, THE GARDEN OF CYRUS and the others.

"But the Quincunx of Heaven runs low and it is time to close the five ports of knowledge. We are unwilling to spin out our awakening thoughts into phantasms of sleep, which often continueth precogitations making cobwebs and wilderness of handsome groves..."

"And so to bed."

FRANCO-SOVIET PACT POSSIBLE

Political as Well as Trade Objectives Seen in Herriot's Moscow Trip.

BLOW TO HITLER.

NEW YORK, August 26. — The visit of former Premier Edouard Herriott to Moscow is intepreted in some international quarters in New York as an effort by France to effect a political as well as economic accord with Russia—to the disadvantage of Germany.

While the French radical leader has said his visit is purely personal, some observers of foreign affairs—particularly as they relate to trade—believe Herriott's trip adds important political significance to the negotiations for a Franco-Soviet trade pact. Herriott was due to and at Odessa yesterday from Constantinople.

For several weeks it has been held likely the trade pact is ready for initialing and contains a Government guarantee on sales to the U. S.S.R. approximating those in the other nations.

"The Hitler regime," an American trade executive said, "has practically halted German trade on many frontiers and has solidified Western Europe against it to a degree seldom reached.

"If France," he continued, "can grab away from Germany much of the Russian trade, this would be a strong lever for her in bringing Hitler to terms on a foreign policy.

"There are a large number of very skilful counterfeiters incarcerated in the institution at Leavenworth, and constant vigilance is required to prevent incipient attemnts to make counterfeit money," the Department said.

PRINCE OF WALES SELLS NOTTINGHAMSHIRE FARM

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (C.P.).—A London cable to the New York Times says the Prince of Wales' farm in Nottinghamshire was sold Friday to G. R. Shelton, with the herd of pedigreed shorthorns going to the well-known exhibitor, W. B. Shelton.

In connection with the sale it is recalled a recent rumor that the Prince would sell his Alberta ranch for purposes of economy, was denied.

The Prince bought the Nottinghamshire farm in 1927 and stocked it with cattle from his farm in Cornwall. The buildings were modernized and electricity was used wherever possible for light and power. His object in acquiring the farm was to save his cattle from exhausting journeys when exhibited at agricultural shows in the north and midlands.

WHEAT DEALS BOON TO WEST

Saskatchewan Sees Outcome in London as Great Victory for Bennett.

WILL RESTORE MORALE.

SASKATOON, Aug. 26 (CP) — Sensing in the wheat agreement reached at London by 21 grain importing and exporting nations a brilliant victory for Premier R. B. Bennett and giving credit to the United States for its steady and persistent pressure to secure international action, Pro. W. W. Swanson, economist of the University of Saskatchewan, to-day saw benefit to harassed agriculturists by operation of the agreement.

Dr. Swanson, who accompanied Mr. Bennett as advisor to the Imperial Conference in London in 1930, did not consider the quota agreement likely to form any portion of a permanent marketing policy but highly necessary in view of the demoralized state of finances and marketing.

Dr. Swanson said: "The steady flow of Canada's wheat to world markets means more for the stability of the national economy than for any other country not excluding Argentine and Russia, so that it can not be expected that the government with any degree of safety could commit the country to accept fixed quotas for export and fixed acreages for productions as permanent policies.

"It is quite another matter in the present world emergency in which finances and markets are in a state of demoralization, and on that standpoint any agreement that will give assurance of the steady and certain disposal of the crop and carryover will do much to restore the morale of the farmers and the business interests of the West."

Shipments of live stock from Western to Eastern Canada for the first thirty-one weeks of 1933 totalled 33,945 as against 23,191 head in the corresponding period of last year.

"Bull bat" is a popular name for the night hawk, although it is also sometimes applied to the whippoorwill, a closely related species.

As a rule hens that moult before September are poor layers and obversely those that moult later in the year are good layers.

The Golden Text

"Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice."

Sir John Schultz Escapes Fort Garry

By J. H. MOSGROVE

The rebellion had come. From the flag-staff in the courtyard of Fort Garry the revolutionary flag flew over the settlement. A provisional government and a president had been sworn in to rule over the Red River district while the federal appointed governor cooled his heels impatiently across the American border.

Political events had assumed an alarming crisis. French half-breeds excited and ill-advised, had flocked to the banner of Louis Riel, while the Selkirk Colonists with true Scot solidarity remained true to the crown. Each day the situation became more chaotic. Colonel Dennis, the incoming governor's deputy within the territory, thought it justified in raising a loyal armed force to overthrow the rebellious element, and with the aid of others proceeded to do so.

On the night of December 4, 1869, forty-five men of the settlement gathered at the house of Dr. John Schultz near Fort Garry to protect a meagre supply of government stores. The plan was rash and ill-conceived kindling the flames of the turbulent situation into a conflagration of open conflict. Fiery, impatient of restraint and an agitator, Schultz impelled by a strong fascination for heroism, barricaded the doors of his dwelling and harangued those within to resist the rebels. It was a Lilliputian challenge, petty and incautious, firing the enthusiasm of the little army to boldness.

Riel Attacks

On the third day of the determined resistance wiser heads in the settlement went to Schultz's rude stronghold to prevail upon him, and pitiful garrison to disperse when they beheld Riel and his formidable army marching across the snows to lay siege to the house. They came two hundred strong widely scattered kicking up the snow with their moccasined feet, clad in heavy blanket coats, muskets on their shoulders and hauling several pieces of artillery. Coming abruptly before the house they halted and at a command formed into a battle array, their muskets at the fire and the cannon mounted. Not a word was spoken and a breathless suspense followed. Suddenly, from the ranks of the besiegers with stern face and clenched hands came Louis Riel with quickened stride to the door of the dwelling, his voice ringing through the silence, "Open the door in the name of the government."

Awed by the power of the ringing words the door after an awkward moment was opened, and a pitiful half-starved group weary after a pent-up life of three days of confinement struggled out into the open and threw down their arms. All were taken prisoners even to the women of the household. Mrs. Schultz who was ill was placed on a sledge which was drawn by her husband in the maroh of the prisoners between two lines of the rebel army to Fort Garry. After a rigid interrogation the women were set free while the men were confined in one of the strong rooms of the fort. All through the cold Christmas season and into the wintry month of January the hapless prisoners, half-starved, and ill-clad, deprived of blanekts and heat, passed a miserable existence.

Wife Sent Tools

Schultz, a man his captors feared with a wholesome dread, was placed alone and well guarded; and, as it afterwards appeared, they fully intended to put a sudden end to his career. Certain delicacies from friends were allowed the prisoners, and on January 23, Mrs. Schultz sent a pudding to her husband in which a knife and gimlet were concealed.

It was a cold night, outside the door the guard went wheezing up and down the hallway flaying their arms about their bodies to produce a certain amount of warmth and impatiently kicking their feet against the walls. At length when the light that had peeped through the cracks above had snuffed out and the darkness of his cell had become pitchy black, Schultz took the knife and cut into strips the buffalo robe he slept on and such clothing as he could spare; and, having with the aid of the gimlet fastened the line thus made to the wall above, he let himself out of the high and narrow window. Schultz was a heavy man and his ponderous weight was too much for the slender rope, and while yet quite a distance from the ground the line broke and the escaping prisoner came to earth with great force injuring his leg. Limping blindly over the snow-covered courtyard he came to the high stone wall which he managed to scale with great effort, and in due time was outside the fort.

The night was dark with a cold wind and whirling snow; Schultz, blinded by the falling snow and somewhat dazed by his fall missed his bearings, only realizing his whereabouts when he came upon landmarks which told him he was making for St. Boniface. That direction was dangerous, he turned and like a lost man rambling in a circle nearly ran up against a sentry at one of the fort gates. Realizing his danger and with careful reckoning he ventured again into the night as fast as his injured leg would permit.

Next morning, fatigued and weary from a night spent battling the elements, Schultz arrived at the home of MacBeth's at Kildonan, six miles distant from the fort, thinly clad and haggard. As soon as he assured himself that there were no servants about who might betray him he told the story of his escape. The hospitable host conducted him upstairs and watched over him while he slept; all that day during his wakening hours the two conversed in whispers while Riel's scouts on their red-blanketed horses passed to and fro by the door with orders to shoot on sight. Meanwhile a brace of pistols were secured and given to the fugitive. A new program was made out. Schultz determined that he would not be taken alive decided that if the scouts entered the house he would sell his life dearly, neither give nor take quarter. For two days he remained concealed, and on the second night MacBeth drove the hunted man by an unfrequented road to the Indian settlement near Selkirk accompanied by a faithful servant. Schultz made his terrible mid-winter journey on foot across the rocky shores and wind-swept bays of Lake Superior to eastern Canada.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Religious and Social Questions Answered

By DR. WYLIE CLARK

A friend of mine, who had been very kind to me in the past, had done me a grievous wrong. I can't forgive her. In church and in my prayers I have been used to saying the Lord's Prayer. Should I continue to say it?—Anxious.

No, do not say it. You would only be condemning yourself or mocking the prayer. Face the issue. Make your religion a reality. If you want to possess the forgiving grace of God, then forgive your old-time friend. You say that is too hard. No, it is not too hard. Forgive her and you will have great peace.

I want to ask you a very simple question: "Do you yourself still believe in prayer and do you still pray?" I have become so confused in my reading and thinking that I do not know what to do. Sometimes I pray and sometimes I don't. When I do I get no satisfaction and when I don't I am worried thinking I may be committing a great sin.—J. E. N.

Yes, I still believe in prayer, and I still pray. I have never quit and I am sure nothing could happen which would make me stop.

May I mention some of the problems which face us in connection with prayer. Perhaps the first is, How can God hear prayer? The radio has made that easier to understand. A minister in Chicago laid his watch on the pulpit. A member of his church, visiting in another country, listening in, not only heard her own minister but actually heard the regular ticking of the watch. If men can make a machine which will do that, it is easy for God to hear from the whole world.

In the next place what shall we pray about? That depends where we are in our relationship to God. If we are sinners unforgiven we should pray and mean it: "God be merciful and forgive us."

We must mean our prayers. In the facts of the case if we do not mean them, they are not prayers. If they are mere forms of words without soul desires behind them, they are nothing at all.

When once our harmony with the Will of God is established then prayer becomes fellowship and we gain power.

In your present condition continue to pray. Ask God to remove your difficulties; but be sure you mean it.

What is the Wailing Wall?—G. R. T.

The Wailing Wall is supposed to be a part of the old Temple Wall of Solomon. It is now part of the wall of the Mosque of Omar, in Jerusalem.

Here the Jews gather and weep copiously over the fallen estate of their nation and here they offer prayers for the restoration of Israel.

The possession and use of this wall has caused much contention between the Arabs and Jews. It was one of the causes of the disturbances in Palestine in 1929.

Cathedral Musings

God never intended that man should be unhappy. Happiness is mans birthright, and the only thing which is preventing man from enjoying that birthright is his own blind egotism. Because we are so wrapped up in ourselves, we fail to enjoy the happiness we should have and hold. We are so proud of our self-styled independence that we build up a wall of pride around us, through which kindness, joy, consideration and love cannot penetrate; and it is not until we remove that wall and know we are of God and not of ourselves, that true happiness will come to be with us and remain with us now and forevermore.

Think it over! You have tried to be happy in other ways. Now try the way that saint and sage, teacher and prophet that all the children of God have shown, the way of the Christ.

Sorrows

Sorrows are often like clouds, which, though black when they are passing over us, when they are past become as if they were garments of God, thrown off in purple and gold along the sky. — Henry Ward Beecher.

Blessed are they who hear the word of God and do it.

SAUL

The crushing grief of Samuel's life was the nation's rejection of God's ideal for them in theocracy for their own plan represented in the monarchy.

This people, whose ruler was to be Jehovah grieved Samuel with the demand "Make us a king to judge us like all the nations." Thus they completely forsook God's ideal for them. He intended them to be "a peculiar people"; they sought instead to be "like all the nations." God gave Samuel his view of it, saying, "They have rejected me that I should not reign over them."

"God Save the King"

Thus it came abuot that God acceded to Israel's demand for a king and directed Samuel to select and anoint Saul as the nation's first king. "And when he stood among the people he was higher than any of the people from his shoulders and upward. And Samuel said to all the people, See ye him whom the Lord hath chosen, that there is none like him among all the people? And the people shouted and said, 'God save the king." And this man of the people's choice was not entirely devoid of the qualities of kingliness at the outset of his disastrous and disappointing career. Chief among these was the humility with which he came to the throne: "Am not I a Benjamite, of the smallest of the tribes of Israel? And my family the least of all the families of the tribes of Benjamin? Wherefore, then, speakest thou so to me?" Thus Saul demurred at the suggestion of Samuel that he was to be the new king He manifested the same humility in "hiding among the stuff" when the time came for his accession to the place of leadership. Again this spirit was beautifully manifested in his attitude of forbearance towards those who despised him and opposed his accession. When they taunted him with his unfitness 'he was as though he had been deaf." Likewise after his first great military victory when it was suggested that he avenge himself of those who had opposed his kingship, Saul showed greatness of soul in replying, "There shall not a man be put to death this day; for today the Lord hath wrought salvation in Israel." Had Saul continued thus to follow the leading of the Spirit of the Lord in obedience to the word of God given to him by Samuel he would not have made shipwreck of his throne and of his soul as he did.

A Crusade Becomes a Curse

Within 20 years we come upon an entirely changed man in Saul. Years of success have turned his head and hardened his heart. He has become willful, vain and disobedient, even usurping the priestly functions of Samuel in his vanity. A crusade against the Amelekites in which he was ordered to utterly exterminate them and their possessions Saul willfully turned into a selfish conquest for his own enrichment. He spared Agag, their king, to grace his triumphal return in glory, and the best of the sheep and oxen for his own profit instead of utterly destroying them, as God had ordered. His excuse was that he spared the sheep and oxen for sacrifice, to which Samuel replied, "Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to harken than the fat of rams." In other words, empty, loveless ritual from rebellious hearts can never qualify as religion in the sight of God. Saul's doom is sealed by his own rebellion and he rushes on in self-will to self-destruction.—Dr. Alvin E. Bell.

Self-Respect

BUT what will people think?" was asked when a young man announced that he would follow an unpopular course in action.

"It isn't what they think of me, but what I think of myself," was his unruffled answer.

"I would not respect myself if I went back on my convictions to please others."

Public opinion is usually a good thing to recognize. Most people have clear ideas of right and wrong and will lend hearty approval for the right, but sometimes circumstances or environment alter this.

It is always necessary for a true man to follow such a course of conduct as will gain the approval of his own conscience.

Contentment

LET us be content with what we have. Let us get rid of false estimates; but rather set up the higher ideals: A quiet home; vines of our own planting; a few books full of inspiring genius; a few friends worthy of being loved, and able to love in turn; a hundred innocent pleasures that bring no pain or remorse; a devotion to the right that will never swerve; a simple religion, empty of bigotry, full of trust and hope and love And to such a philosophy this world will give up all the empty joy it has.—Savid Swing.

Beautiful Light

THE great sunlit square is silent—silent, that is, for the largest city on earth. A slumberous silence of abundant light, of the full summer day, of the high flood of summer hours whose tide can rise no higher. A time to linger and dream under the beautiful breast of heaven, heaven brooding and descending in pure light upon man's handiwork. If the light shall thus come in, and of its mere loveliness overcome every aspect of dreariness, why shall not the light of thought, and hope—the light of the soul—overcome and sweep away the dust of our lives?—Richard Jeffries.

When we are disposed to see faults we are apt to create them where they do not exist.

A Happy Day

A heart full of thankfulness,
A thimbleful of care;
A soul of simple hopefulness,
An early morning prayer.

A smile to greet the morning with;
A kind word as the key
To open the door and greet the day,
Whate'er it brings to thee.

A patient trust in Providence;
To sweeten all the way,
All these, combined with thoughtfulness,
Will make a happy day.

The great majority of religious persons become so in early life.

IX—Early Leaders of Israel—Saul — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—1 Samuel, chapters 9, 10, 13, 15

God's ideal for Israel was a theocracy in which Jehovah was to be their king. But they rejected this for a monarchy in which they could have a king like the other nations about them. So they rejected God and chose Saul and Samuel anointed Saul to be Israel's first king.

The people were greatly elated over the choice of Saul as their king. "When he stood among the people he was higher than any of the people from his shoulders and upwards." . . . And the people shouted and said, "God save the king." Saul was humble at first but soon became vain to his destruction.

At God's command Saul led a military expedition against the Amelekites in which God ordered him to utterly destroy them and their possessions. Instead Saul spared Agag, their king, to grace his triumphal return and the best of their cattle and sheep to enrich himself from the spoils of battle.

When Samuel rebuked Saul for his rebellion against God's command his excuse was that he spared the oxen and sheep as sacrifices. To this Samuel replied, "Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams." Ritual can never be a substitute for religion.

SHOULD BE IN THE OPEN

The Examiner is wholly in sympathy with the Ontario Command of the Canadian Legion in their objection to the investigation into the management of the Westminster Military Hospital at London being conducted behind closed doors.

The Legion argues that it is in the public interest that the inquiry be carried on in the open and the public generally will heartily support that view.

The probe began with open sessions in the city hall, but suddenly the plans were changed and it was decided to continue the investigation in camera.

Many people will ask why this change should have been brought about, who asked for it, and just what it is desired to keep away from the public, by continuing the probe in secret.

The conduct of a military hospital is a matter in which the people as a whole are virtually concerned for they have to foot the bills; if there has been anything wrong at the Westminster unit the public is entitled to know and there does not seem to be any worthwhile reason why a hush-hush policy should be suddenly adopted.

To go into secret sessions is to convince most people that there is something to be hidden; it would be infinitely better to have the facts come out as an open inquiry.

WHY ALL THE FUSS?

Loud complaints are being made by American tourists involved in an automobile accident that although the two parties implicated had made an agreement as to damages and were satisfied, Ontario authorities charged one of the motorists with reckless driving and the court inflicted a fine.

If the circumstances were such that a charge of reckless driving was indicated, it is difficult to see what all the fuss is about.

The mere fact that the two parties came to an agreement as to damages does not eliminate the possibility of a charge under the Traffic Act, if it is clear that one of the drivers was guilty of recklessness.

Civil damages and prosecutions under the traffic regulations are two quite different things and even if the two motorists consented to let bygones be bygones, the duty of Ontario officials to lay a charge provided there was evidence of recklessness, is clear.

Of course if the conviction registered in this case was an unfair verdict and against the trend of evidence that is something else again, but according to the testimony offered the offender was driving in a reckless manner on a wet pavement, with the result that his car got out of control on a curve and skidded more than one hundred feet before hitting another car.

Traffic laws are designed for the protection of the public and not even visitors should be exempt from the operation of these regulations.

CANADIAN NATIONAL IS OPEN.

For the fifty-fifth year in succession the Canadian National Exhibition is in progress and because of its importance as a barometer of Canadian business, industry and agriculture, Canadian's generally will hope that this year's exhibition will be successful from every point of view.

There are very encouraging signs that this will prove to be the case and Exhibition officials are already declaring that the new requests for exhibit space and requests for additional space furnish a striikng indication of the general belief that Canada is on the eve of a business revival

The size and variety of the exhibits and the extent to which the Canadian National is patronized at the gate will be of particular significance because of the impression they will create, for it is undoubtedly the case, as President Ingles of the C.N.E. points out, that "employment pay envelopes, business plans in every phase of Canadian activity, manufacturing wholesale and retail for the fall and winter months will be influenced to a major degree by the fourteen-day panorama of business, industry and agriculture."

Let us wish for the Canadian National good weather, big crowds of happy people and a showing in all lines that will be Canada's defiance to the forces of Old Man John Depression.

AN ANCIENT RACKET.

One of the oldest swindles in modern history—the Spanish prisoner racket—is still going the rounds and no one else but Peterborough's well-known Chief Magistrate has been selected as a possible victim for this ivy-covered scheme for separating the credulous from their money.

All Mayor Denne has to do to put himself in possession of a modest fortune is to send a mere $2,500 over to the unlucky prisoner in Barcelona, Spain, and the money will come back many times over—according to the Spaniard's letter.

Up to the present, however, His Worship has shown himself singularly reluctant to take advantage of this remarkable offer and it seems altogether probable that the "Spanish prisoner" will have to go further afield in search of help.

This swindle is so ancient and has been exposed so many times that it is surprising to see it turning up from time to time in all parts of the United States and Canada; the probabilities are, however, that in spite of its age it is still successful in securing its victims as the years produce a fresh "sucker list."

All the get-rich-quick rackets are based on a knowledge of the fact that cupidity is the curse of most people and they cannot resist any scheme that they think will get them something for nothing; in other words they're gullible because they are greedy.

MAKERS OF HANSARD.

The index to the House of Commons debates of 1933 is to hand, and its 166 pages afford a key to Hansard, the handiest work of reference in relation to current public affairs of Canada. The subjects range from cutworms to shrimps, from apples to unemployment—almost everything imaginable commencing with the A.B.C. Society and winding up with Constable Zappa.

As might be expected, the Prime Minister is credited with the greatest number of speeches, statements and so on—633 in all. Each of Mr. Bennett's colleagues also accounts for a substantial share of the index, though the Minister of National Defence gets by with 46 references. Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King gave the shorthand writers something to take down on 342 occasions. E. J. Garland spoke 69 times and Robert Gardiner 34. M. F. Hepburn was content to catch the Speaker's eye on 14 occasions. Miss MacPhail addressed the House 26 times.

Quebec members seem to be more active in discussion than those from Ontario. Jean Francois Pouliot probably heads the list, having made speeches or asked questions on 258 subjects. Pierre F. Casgrain is credited with no mean total at 125, while Henri Bourassa was relatively silent at only 13 contributions. Most Ontario members had something to say upon only three or four occasions, as in the case of the new member for South Huron, W. H. Golding, who spoke four times last session. Many do not appear in the index at all, but they were on deck to cast their votes in the various divisions.

The proceedings of the House as printed run to almost 6,000 pages, or approximately 4,500,000 words. —Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

ATTACKING THE TREATY.

It is now a matter of months since the Governments of Canada and the United States came to an agreement in the matter of development of the St. Lawrence waterway for both power and navigation improvements, subject to ratification respectively by Parliament and Congress, and the question is now no nearer solution than it was at that time.

Just as there has developed in Canada a school of thought which has not hesitated to disapprove of any immediate work being done on the construction of the waterway because of a belief that the Dominion cannot afford it and that it could not use the power which would be produced, so is strenuous opposition being made in the United States to any ratification of the treaty.

Representatives of the city of New York and other Atlantic seaports which fear loss of trade in the event of the river being improved are leading the attack upon the treaty and are receiving considerable support from other sections of the country, notwithstanding the efforts of various associations to mould public sentiment in behalf of the agreement.

There is, for instance, Speaker of the House of Representatives Henry T. Rainey who has just delivered a smashing attack upon the waterway treaty in Chicago of all places, predicting that it will not receive the approval of the Senate. Mr. Rainey described the treaty as one of the paramount defeats of American statesmanship. "We have never suffered a diplomatic defeat in any conference greater than we suffered in the St. Lawrence waterway conference," he said. "Those pleasant Canadian gentlemen in the field of diplomacy have beaten us." Mr. Rainey attacks the proposed division of costs, and also declares that "there can be no return cargo from overseas points across the Atlantic to lake ports."

It is apparent that if there is a difference of opinion in this country regarding the merits and benefits of the St. Lawrence plan, there is equal difference of opinion across the border. When the treaty was negotiated, it was pointed out that the battle for the development of the St. Lawrence which had been under way for many years was by no means won, and that obstacles would still be discovered. The delay that is taking place in ratification of the treaty at Washington has a tendency to prove the truth of that contention, and the opponents of the treaty in the United States are apparently doing their utmost to nullify its terms.

Many months may yet pass before a ratification takes place, and the way is paved for work to be started on this gigantic undertaking.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

VACATION ESCAPADE

By ARTHUR SHUMWAY

CHAPTER 7.

This evil-looking old man whose face appeared out of the darkness as Sally and Ted passed the Casino was a privileged pensioner of the late John Kemble Proctor's. Sally had seen him first the afternoon of her arrival and had asked Jasper, one of the negroes, about him. Gus Vitelli, his name was, and he had come from Chicago six years before.

He was one of the many mysteries of the Proctor house. He seemed to live on the premises, to do no work, and to come and go as he pleased. He was dark, squat, broad-shouldered and bull-necked. His grizzled head was flat and he carried it forward as if it were a battering ram. His ugly face was made almost grotesque by a badly broken nose.

But if he had heard her conversation with Ted that night in the park, he did not mention it to her next day when he hobbled past her in his silent, preoccupied way.

And if anyone in the household had heard her conversation on the telephone that first afternoon when Ted warned her not to take the job, nobody mentioned the fact to Sally or seemed in the least suspicious. She almost wished someone would be suspicious; it would have been a relief.

The inquest brought out no new facts as far as Sally could tell. John Kemble Proctor had been found dead in his bedroom, shot between the eyes. The body had been found by the negro maid, Flobella Bushnell. A deputy sheriff had been called in, the house being a little beyond the southern limits of the city and thus out of the territory of the local police, and had examined the body. A .38 calibre revolver had been found on the floor beside the dead man. One cartridge had been fired. The bullet that had killed John Kemble Proctor had been discovered embedded in the wall across the room at a height which indicated that the old millionaire had been standing when the lead slug had torn through that crafty, ruthless brain of his. This bullet was a .38 and evidently from the gun on the floor. Indications were that the man had shot himself, for his fingerprints were found on the gun and the flesh about the wound was badly powder-burned.

Sally heard the maid's testimony. "Ah give a scream when ah seen it was Mist' Proctah," Flobella said. "Ah'd heard the shot from downstairs an' diden know which room it came from."

"Was there anyone else around?" the coroner asked.

'Yessah, they was other people in the house, but, nossah, they wasen anybody else around the room where he was shot at. Ah just went runnin' in an' there was the first thing ah sees an' ah can smell the smoke an' see the re-volver layin' there on the floh. So ah just give a scream and goes runnin' out."

'When was it you say you saw Mr. Fred Proctor?"

The girl looked awesomely at the millionaire's nephew who sat quiet, dark and stern across the room. She tried to smile apologetically.

'Why, right then when ah comes runnin' out of the room where Mist' Proctah was shot. Ah give a scream an' come runnin' out an' the first person ah sees is Mist' Fred Proctor an' him comin' up the stairs on the run."

"What did he say to you?"

She looked across at Proctor and smiled again, a cringing idiotic smile. "Him, sah? He says, 'What was dat shot?'"

"And what did you say?"

"Ah says, 'Oh, Mist' Proctah, you uncle is shot!' An' he go runnin' in to the room and then come out real stern an' says 'Who done it? Did you see anybody?' an' ah say 'No, Mist' Proctah'. An'en a mess of the other servants an' Mist' Gus Vitelli comes gangin' round an' he ask them an' they say they don't know nothin' about it, so he tell Jasper to call de she'ff an' he go back an' shut de doh."

The deputy sheriff, Wade Bacon, testified that he had found the body as described and had concluded that it was a clear case of suicide. In this verdict the inquest agreed: Death by suicide.

The funeral was the next day. Meanwhile Sally had been kept so busy that she saw little of Fred Proctor and even less of Ted Chandler, whom she met only at night and then at some new secret rendezvous for only a few minutes.

When she met him the evening after the inquest, he told her he had read the story in the paper and couldn't find a flaw in the testimony anywhere.

"That's the whole trouble, Sally," he complained. "It was too perfect. Everybody had an out. There wasn't any suspicion on the girl, Flobella, and if she wasn't lying, nobody else was around in the room or in the hall who could have done the trick. Yet all the servants and Proctor and Gus Vitelli were in the house—and each of them produced a perfect alibi.

"Then, look. There wasn't a single soul except the nephew who testified that the old man had ever seemed the least bit despondent. Everybody else said they thought he seemed in unusually good spirits and even the nephew admitted he kept up appearances pretty well the day he was found dead. All right, then. There didn't seem to be any real motive, did there? Because it's clear it wasn't money or blackmail or anything else unless insanity, perhaps. As for that, you know how shrewd everybody said he was—and right up to the last. No, Miss Sally Gwynne, you can't convince me that a man like John Kemble Proctor simply gets up one fine sunshiny day, walks to his desk, gets his gun, then blows his brains out by way of greeting the flowering morn. No, ma'am. And not leave a note or any word about disposition of his property."

"But there was a will," Sally interrupted.

"I know, but it had been drawn up for a couple of years."

"Of course, that's so," Sally agreed.

"Here's this Vitelli. If he looks anything like you say, he's a regular murderous old gargoyle ——"

"That doesn't half tell it!" Sally exclaimed with a little shudder.

"All right. There's Vitelli, then. He could just about scare old Proctor to death. And he may have had reason to bump him off. Who knows just who or what he is around that house? He might have had the Indian sign on him, or the other way around. And he might be mentioned pretty sweetly in the will."

"He could kill anybody just for a hearty laugh," Sally said.

"All right. And then there's Fred Proctor. I've caught a couple of glimpses of him around town and I've heard of him vaguely up in Chicago and around here they've told me plenty about him. Then, he's probably the fair-haired boy in the will."

"He's the closest relative," Sally said.

Ted changed his tone and looked at her quickly. "How are you getting on with him?" he asked suddenly.

"Why, he's been just as nice as he possibly could be," she said. "He's never even noticed me since the first afternoon, except to tell me to do something, and then in the most formal, polite way. I've failed to see any growing light of lust in his eyes and I think you're just a little too suspicious."

"Well, that may be, but tomorrow morning I'm going to hit that Casanova for a job so I can see what's going on myself.

"I'll be over there early and you aren't to recognize me. Meanwhile, keep your bedroom door locked and your eyes open."

"Oh, I think I can take care of myself," Sally said, a bit saucily, for she was beginning to resent being treated as a complete innocent. After all, this escapade was fun. It might be dangerous, sooner or later, but so far it was no more than thrilling fun.

"I know, but I'm just telling you for your own good, Sally." He softened his voice. "I'd hate like the dickens to have anybody put a bullet through that little thick golden skull of yours."

"Oh, is that so?"

"That's so. And somebody in that house knows how to plant 'em right between the eyes. You mark my words."

A Thought

USE OF TIME

There may be doubts, however, as to which was using his time best. The one could afford time to think, could have sympathies and do and the other never could. The one kindnesses, and the other must needs be always selfish. He could not cultivate a friendship or do a charity, or admire a work of genius, or kindle at the sight of beauty or the sound of a sweet song—he had no time, and no eyes for anything but his law books. All was dark outside his reading lamp. Love and Nature and Art....were shut out from him.—Thackeray.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

To-morrow, will be the anniversary of the official inauguration of the Town of York, which became Toronto again in 1834. Colonel Simcoe had arrived at Toronto (the original name was not changed until a month later) on July 30, which is the date of the real inauguration of the capital of Upper Canada, but it was not until August 27th that the new seat of Government was formally inaugurated.

On August 26, 1793, the following General Order was issued: "His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor having received information of the success of His Majesty's arms, under His Royal Highness the Duke of York, by which Holland has been saved from the invasion of the French armies—and it appearing that the combined forces have been successful in dislodging their enemies from an entrenched camp supposed to be impregnable, from which the most important consequences may be expected; and in which arduous attempts His Royal Highness the Duke of York and His Majesty's troops supported the national glory—it is His Excellency's orders that on the rising of the Union Flag at twelve o'clock to-morrow a Royal Salute of twenty-one guns is to be fired, to be answered by the shipping in the Harbor, in respect to His Royal Highness and in commemoration of the naming of this Harbor from his English title York."

These orders were solemnly obeyed; the Rangers fired their salute when the Flag was raised; the government boat and the other vessels in the harbor returned the salute; the Birds in the adjacent forests got a shock; the Indians at Port Credit and nearer points wondered what it was all about; and the new capital (temporary in Simcoe's plans, for he had fixed on London as his permanent capital) was officially on the map.

Curiously this seems to have been the only official naming of Toronto as York. I have looked through the proclamation and can not find one in which the changing of Toronto to York is ordered. There is, seemingly, no order of Council making the change; and there is ample evidence that many people in the province objected to the bestowal of the English name, for much of the correspondence of the time speaks of "Toronto" or "York." It was not until the Town of York was incorporated as a city in 1834 that the name was changed back to Toronto. But the county has retained the name of York.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterborough's Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner.

Mrs. George H. Bartlett,
Meyersburg, Ont.

This writing portrays the wisdom which belongs to maturity. It shows keen perceptions of right and wrong. It tells of a sweetened disposition and a lovable nature. You no doubt wish that you had the power to resist the appeal of those who look to you for favors and encouragement. You would not willingly hurt the feelings of another. You would rather sacrifice your own comfort than see another suffer. There is a nervous tendency noted in the shape and formations of the letters, which reveals activity. Perhaps you do not allow yourself sufficient time for relaxation. It would be well for you if you were to endeavor to give yourself a mental and physical holiday once in a while. New clothes, new thoughts, and new friends.

Marie M. Pappas,
229 Vaughan Road, Toronto.

Your writing as portrayed on your sample, depicts you as a keen thoughtful person. Your large capital letters express animation and an ardent love for correctness. They also signify a generous nature which is never tired of the lively performance of duties for others who are less fortunate than yourself. There is every reason to believe that one of your exceptional abilities, will meet with success. There is a good deal of genuine spontaneous humour reflected throughout your signature and keen powers of discernment. You are not easily 'Hood winked', by the outward apearance of people who wish to play on your kindly sympathies. Your will power is quite well expressed, but not to the extent of making you domineering, though it should stand you in good stead in times of need.

Blanche Platt,
485½ Bolivar Street, City.

Your handwriting indicates that you are inclined to be nervous when questioned by those whom you believe to be your superiors. It tells of a natural reserve, and a faculty of hiding your true feelings when hurt. You are rather prone to do things quickly and then wish that you had not. You move about with speed and intelligence, often doing more than your share of daily labor. It would be greatly to your own benefit if you were to set aside a part of each day in which you could indulge in any type of recreation which would rest your nerves. Those flying 't' bars depict imagination which causes you to worry because you have a tendency to think that things are really much worse than they are. The small letter formations reflect cramping of style, and it shows that you do not allow yourself to be original, or to express the intelligent ideas which come to you from time to time. Your disposition is inclined to change according to how you feel at the moment.

K. McCuleheon,
Havelock, Ont.

Your writing shows that you are genteel and refined. You are as a rule a keen thinker, but yet you never let your decisions make you obdurate in any manner. You are ever willing to concede a point for the happiness of others. You are conservative in your ideas, and prefer to develop them, before speaking to anyone about them. One with your exceptional insight should find no difficulty in managing affairs, social or home. Your capital letters denote generosity and a desire to be of service to others. Your small letter formations indicate that your disposition is usually about the same.

The neat compact lettering reveals a conciseness of speech. It shows that you do not mince matters, or beat about the bush. You are honest and straightforward.

REDUCTION OF WHEAT SURPLUS BIG ADVANTAGE OF AGREEMENT AS INTERPRETED BY EDITORS

Liquidation of Huge Grain Stocks a Worthwhile Achievement.

"HERALD" IS DUBIOUS.

Labor Newspaper Sees Political Purposes in New Accord.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Comment in London newspapers on the international wheat accord was generally enthusiastic to-day.

The Times hailed it as a salvage from the wrecked World Economic Conference, while other papers used terms such as "advantageous," "worthwhile," and "auspicious."

"The whole agreement may be regarded as the first instalment of the program for economic recovery which the World Economic Conference was convened to frame," said The Times.

"All who contributed to the result are to be congratulated upon what may well prove to be the initial success in opening the way to ultimate victory in the campaign for a revival of world trade recovery and prosperity," The Times added.

The Morning Post asserted it may not be easy to carry out the details of the agreement but that it will have advantageous effects if results are encouraging to farmers and they substitute "mixed farming for excessive reliance on the precarious fortune of a single product."

Liquidate Surplus

The Telegraph declared the pact is a worthwhile achievement if it provides for liquidating the enormous bulk of unmarketed Canadian and American wheat, which for four years has been hanging over and depressing the world market.

The agreement was used by the Laborite Herald as a basis for criticism. "The feeling in general commercial circles in this country," The Herald said, "is that the agreement has been designed more for its political effect on North American farming opinion than for any practical changes it may bring about in European wheat policy."

"The odd thing," stated The Guardian, "is that we should be thinking that control of output is something in itself desirable. Five years ago it would have seemed a gigantic and formidable conspiracy against the human race.

"The agreement may prove ineffective or trivial or, less probably, it may turn out to be too effective and add at least temporarily to our distresses. One surveys without hope the alternative of a continuing glut, added to each year by higher protected countries exporting a relatively small surplus irrespective of cost, and holding at ransom those countries better fitted for export but dependent upon exporting at a profit," said The Guardian.

Prevent Speculation

"It will be a point of criticism," The Yorkshire Post stated, "that the agreement contains no proviso for the extent of tariff reductions which importing countries undertake to consider when wheat reached 63.02 gold cents per bushel. On the other hand the pact ought to prevent speculation and encourage stability in the market. A good deal will rest upon the success of the advisory committee which hopes to persuade the Continent, notably France, Germany and Italy, gradually to re-open markets for overseas grain.

"France's attitude has notably changed during the last few days, which may be a sign she sees a way to modifying an uncomfortable position created by the immense cost of her over-intensified wheat industry."

WHEAT BULLISH ON ACCORD NEWS

Influenced By Substantial Export Business in Price Advance.

CLOSES HIGHER.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 26 (CP) — Wheat prices, reflecting the bullish sentiment at Liverpool and further influenced by a fairly substantial export business, climbed upward on the Grain Exchange to-day at mid-session quotations showed gains of about a cent over the previous close.

Strength at Liverpool was attributed to the wheat accord reached at the London Wheat Conference. At the half-way mark of the abbreviated Saturday sessions, October option showed a gain of ⅞ cents at 72⅛, and Dec. at 74⅛, and May at 79¼ were both up a cent.

Pit trade was active for the initial half-hour, but as the export port buying petered out values slipped back about a cent from the high points, though still maintaining a strong appearance. Offerings came out on the bulge in the way of hedging pressure and liquidating sales but were adequately taken care of in the early trading.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 26 (CP) — Grain prices:

Wheat.—Oct. ⅜ higher at 72⅛; Dec. 1 higher at 74⅛; May 1 higher at 79¼.

Oats—Oct. ½ higher at 39¾.

Barley—Oct. ½ higher at 42⅞.

Flax—Oct. 1¼ higher at 143½.

Rye—Oct ⅝ higher at 55¼.

HAWK'S VISIT SURPRISE TO KINGSTON AIRPORT

KINGSTON, Ont., 26 (CP)—Captain Frank Hawks' visit to Kingston to-day was such a surprise that officials of the airport did not know they had entertained a distinguished flier until after the Lieutenant-Commander had left for Montreal.

Hawks dropped in on a perfect landing, loaded 50 gallons of gas, signed the log book and immediately took off. Not until he was out of sight did those in charge of the port look in the book and realize Hawks, whose whereabout had been a source of worry for several hours to-day, had gone far out of his course to visit here.

Beans were not quoted.

OTTAWA, Aug. 26 (CP)—With Montreal and Toronto markets in the lead a further general improvement was shown in egg market conditions practically across Canada, says a report issued to-day by the Department of Agriculture. At both of these markets prices have worked to higher levels, due to an increased demand, and a falling off in receipts.

Although Western markets show a much improved tone over the previous week, due to the beneficial effects of the strength in the Eastern markets, and decreased receipts, no advance in price has yet taken place. Manitoba and Saskatchewan continued to ship surplus carlots to the East, says the report, and Alberta made some small lot shipments to the Pacific Coast markets.

Flooded Norfolk After Hurricane

Bathing suits and boats were in order in the streets of Norfolk, Va., after the city had been turned into a replica of Venice by the flood which followed the terrific hurricane which ravaged the Atlantic coast. The proprietor of the store shown might have done big business had he not fled to higher ground. (Central Press)

MAYOR COMMENDS FIRE DEPARTMENT

City Council and City Trust Inspect Fire Hall.

Officers and men of Peterborough Fire Department received the well-earned commendation of the Mayor and other civic officials, following an inspection of the Fire Hall which was undertaken last evening.

Mayor Denne remarked that the smartness of the men and the general clean and orderly appearance of the station and apparatus, reflected great credit upon Fire Chief George Gimblett, the chairman of the Fire, Water, and Light Committee, and upon the men themselves.

His words of praise were augmented by V. Eastwood, chairman of the City Trust, and by other members of that body.

Other members of the City Council who took part in the inspection besides the Mayor and Alderman J. A. McNabb, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, included Aldermen George Macdonald, Max Sloane, M. McIntyre, D. J. Hol'and, and Walter Stocker, and City Clerk S. R. Armstrong. Members of the City Trust besides Mr. Eastwood, included G. A. Gillespie, A. McIntyre, W. R. Morris, and Arthur Stevenson.

The Fire Hall has recently been nicely decorated throughout, and hardwood flooring has been laid in the men's dormitory and in the chief's office, and other sections of the hall. The men have been outfitted with new uniforms, while a new car for the chief has recently been added to the motorized equipment.

TORONTO BOY FAILS IN QUEST OF CONEY

Wandered Two Days in New York Subway.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (C.P.). — John Strichan, 14, who ran away from his Toronto home and successfully made his way to Pittsburgh and New York, but, once here, spent two days in the subways in a vain attempt to find Coney Island, will be on his way home soon, the Children's Society announced to-day. The society this morning received a telegram from the boy's parents stating Mrs. Strachan was on her way here to get her son.

In the course of his travels, Johnny also visited Toledo, Boston and wayside points. He became homesick last night when he saw a travellers' aid sign in the Pennsylvania station after Coney Island turned out to be elusive, and appealed to the society for aid. He was turned over to the police, who notified his parents.

ONE HURT IN TRAIN CRASH

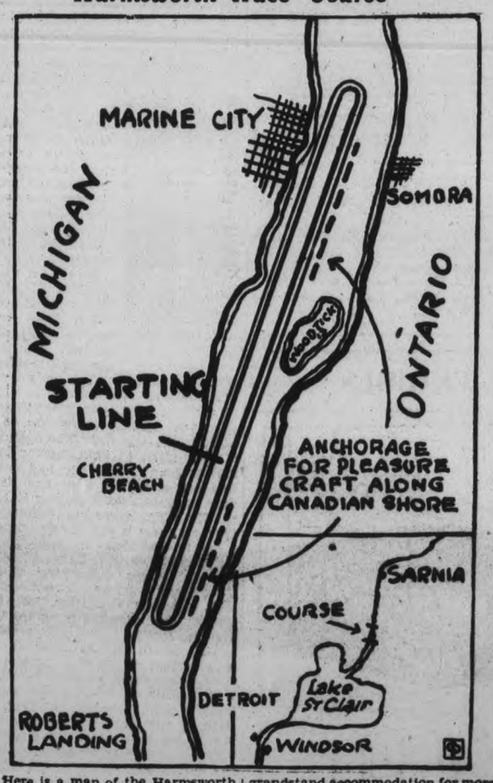
Harmsworth Race Course



Here is a map of the Harmsworth course north of Windsor, Ont., based on details which have just reached this city. On Sept. 2 Miss Britain III., driven by Hubert Scott-Paine, and Miss America X., with Garfield Wood at the controls, will match hurricane speed on the first of the best two out of three races to decide the world's hydroplane championship.

The course, which is approximately four land miles in length, will probably be thronged by one of the greatest crowds ever to see such an event. Officials estimate that 200,000 persons will see the race from the Canadian side. An even larger number should congregate on the United States' side, on which, in addition, there will be a grandstand accommodation for more than 17,000 persons who will, for the first time in history, pay an admission fee. Thus the race is developing into a commercial proposition.

The St. Clair River at the course averages 800 to 1,000 yard in width. Woodtick Island, shown, is uninhabited. The days of the race, Sept. 2, 4 and, if need be, Sept. 5, it will be packed to capacity. Its western shore is within stone's throw of the plotted course.

Recent Harmsworth races have been held much nearer Windsor and Detroit. This year it was decided to stage the classic north of Lake St. Clair. The course is about 40 miles north of Windsor, about 20 miles south of Sarnia, and about 70 miles west of London, Ont.

VALUE OF GOLD ADVANCES WITH INFLATION TALK

Big Golds All Higher on Purchases on Accumulation at New York.

DISTILLERY ISSUE ACTIVE.

Base Metals and Silver Stocks Join in the Trend to Higher Ground.

By ALEX PRINGLE
(Canadian Press Financial Writer)

TORONTO, Aug. 26.—Bell-wethers of the Canadian mining shares—the big gold produers—gave the signal this week for continuance of the price advance that was interrupted by he break of July 19, 20 and 21. Simulus for renewal of buying came chiefly from New York and oLndon, he U.S. metropolis supplying more than the usual quantity of inflation fuel thereby driving the dollar down and the sterling up and London bidding up the price of gold.

Accumulation of the high-priced gold shares here was duplicated on the New York boards where Dome, McIntyre and Wright Hargreaves were turne dheavily, along with such gold listings as Alaska-Juneau and Homestake. Revival of the report that free gold market would be an early reality in the United States gave the market support.

Big Advances Made

During the week Dome advanced $2.06, Lake Shore $1.70, McIntyre $3, Pioneer $1.15 and Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves 45 cents each. Base Metal shares were also in an advancing phase, led by International Nickel which closed at 21.90, up about $1 for the week. The new inflation barrage, primarily intended to boost commodities, will have a tendency to lift base metal and silver stocks.

On the Toronto and Montreal industrial stock boards, distillery shares continue to hold the spot light. They have shown the most life in rising from the July break. Walkers Common is back up to 50 compared with its July 15 high of 66 and July 22 low of 23, a recovery of 63 percent. The others, Distillers Seagram, Canadian Industrial Alcohol and Brewers and Distillers have been only a little less vigorous in their come-back.

Quiet Upward Trend

Other leading industrials, Brazilian, Ford 'A', C.P.R., Imperial Oil have not duplicated the daily gyrations of New York listings, but rather have pursued a quiet upward trend. For this week Brazilian gained ¾, C.P.R. a point, Ford 2 points, Nickel $1.05 and Imperial Lost ⅛.

The New York market continues apparently large under the direction of professionals with a certain amount of public buying. The fact that loans to brokers and dealers the last period dropped about $43,000,000 indicates that most of the buying at present is being done by the big interests and less by the margin crowd.

At the close yesterday, the standard statistical averages rested at 89.6, just 7.3 points below the July high. The outlook is for plenty of credit expansion in the next few weeks but whether the market will rise to the former top on that fare remains to be seen. The Federal Banks added $33,000,000 of government treasury notes and bills to their portfolios this week but in the spring of 1932 they were purchasing $100,000 a week for the same purpose as at present and the stock market, far from rising, was bumping along and gradually sagging to the depression low level.

St. Pierre Islanders Protest New Taxes

NEWFOUNDLAND, Aug. 26.—(CP)—Word reaching here today told of trouble on the little French Island of St. Pierre, just off Newfoundland's southern coast, following the imposition of new taxes.

A proclamation that taxes were to be placed on automobile engines and dogs was reported to have brought a crowd surging about the governor's residence Wednesday, smashing windows in the building before it retired.

The demonstration was followed yesterday by mass meeting of Islanders who damanded the new imposts be recalled. Brief reports reaching St. John's gave no indication whether the demand was to be met, or whether further demonstrations were planned.

POOL HEADS ARE SILENT ON WHEAT AGREEMENTS

CALGARY, Aug. 26 (C.P.)—Until more study has been given the agreement reached at the London wheat conference no comment will b forthcoming from Alberta wheat pool heads.

R. D. Purdy, manager, said he would prefer to make "further study" of the announced agreement before passing any opinion.

In grain circles, however, it was felt, among those in favor of an export quota, if the international agreement is given an adequate trial, and carried out properly, it would prove one of the most important steps so far taken towards overcoming the depression.

Five Die Beneath Headsman's Axe

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—(A.P.)—Five persons in various parts of Germany were decapitated at dawn to-day, making a total of 31 executions by the guillotine of the headman's axe under the Hitler government.

At Torgau, a widow, Emma Thieme, who had secured two men to kill her son, was beheaded along with the two men. The executioner, in accordance with German custom, was clad in evening clothes and top hat. He cut off each head with one blow of his axe in the presence of a dozen witnesses.

In Butzbach, Essen, and Schweidnitz, Silesia, two persons were put to death, one for a political and the other for an ordinary criminal murder.

LONDON BANDIT PAIR GET LASH

First to Use Sawed-off Shotguns in England.

HELD UP JEWELLER.

LONDON, Aug. 26 (A.P.). — Thomas Jackson and Frank Colbard, robbers, cornered their pot of gold but found a "cat o' nine tails" and penal servitude awaiting them at the end of the shot-gun trail.

Using the American gangster method of carrying a sawed-off shot gun for the first time in this country, the two 20-year-old youths stalked into a Sloane Street jewellery shop. Threatening to shoot anybody who attempted to follow them, the bandits decamped with $1,500 worth of jewels.

They had just stepped out, however, when the law stepped in. Barely had the pair entered a nearby taxi when two constables, suspicious of their movements, closed in and Colbard pointed the gun at one of them through the window in the door of the cab.

Unabashed the constable slammed the door in Colbard's face and aided by the other overcame the couple with truncheon blows

At Old Bailey the robbers pleaded guilty Jackson was sentenced to five years' penal service and 18 strokes of the "cat o' nine tails" Colbard was sentenced to four years' penal servitude and 12 lashes

When told it was the first occasion that a sawed-off shotgun holdup had been attempted in England the Recorder of Old Bailey, Sir Ernest Wild, observed, "I hope it will be the last"

In passing sentence Sir Ernest said that if it were not for their youth he would have sentenced each to 10 years' penal servitude and a flogging

Fire Fighters Bring Water 3 Miles to Battle Blaze

SUDBURY Ont. Aug. 26 (CP)—A hastily constructed aqueduct which carried water from a lake more than two miles away enabled Ontario Forestry Branch fire fighters to bring under control dangerous bush fire which raged for several days in the north-east corner of Falconbridge township.

Owing to recent dry weather all streams within two miles were dried up. The dry bed of a creek however ran close by the fire. The Forestry Branch men hastily dammed the dry channel and pumped water from a lake through a mile of hose to a point on the creek two miles away. When the water reached the dam it was pumped a short distance further to the blaze.

Sleeper Suffocates As Room Takes Fire

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Aug. 26 (C.P.).—Alex. Smith, 38, died in hospital here to-day from severe burns and suffocation suffered when fire broke out in the room where he was sleeping last night.

The smoke from the fire was first discovered by Mrs. Smith, who summoned the fire brigade from the near-by hall. The blaze, which was confined to Smith's bedroom, had evidently failed to waken him, and when found by firemen he was suffocated by the dense fumes which filled the room.

Kerosene which was kept in a jar in Smith's room was found to have been spilled. How it became ignited is unknown.

Yesterday afternoon, at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Westbye, a clever little play written by Olga Westbye, and entitled "Betty's Heathen", was enacted by juniors of the summer colony with a very praiseworthy object the proceeds of $7 being donated to The Examiner's Relief Fund. The interesting little play centers about the attempt of Betty Morton (Berta Belleghem), to please her cross Aunt Charlotte (Olga Westbye), who is visiting Mrs. Morton (Mary McPherson), by deciding to do something useful. Aunt Charlotte is very interested in the heathen and so Betty and her friends, Delene (Barbara Scott), and Ella (Betty Hughes), find a ragged child (Margaret Westbye) on the street and bring her in to wash and fare for, thinking she is a heathen. Two small sisters (Frances Belleghem and Catherine Scott) go collecting money from neighbors. Finally, Mrs. Morton discovers that the child is none other than Patricia Ellis, who had run away in search of adventure, from a wealthy home. Her grateful mother makes a generous donation to the heathen cause, and the playlet ends with everyone satisfied and the children all invited to Patricia's home for a party. Before the play, a pleasing program of songs, dances and piano selections was given by Mary McPherson, Florence Trebilcock, Berta and Frances Belleghem, Andrew, Barbara and Catherine Scott, and Olga and Margaret Westbye. The chairman for the entertainment was Andrew Scott, while Donald McPherson was treasurer. At the conclusion of the entertainment, the entire cast was entertained at tea at the cottage of Mrs. G. A. Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Decorative consistency should prevail in the exterior and interior of a house.

* * * * * * *

There should be no clash between the architectural type of a dwelling and its furnishings. The interior decoration does not have to be of the exact period which the outside represents, but it should be in harmony with it.

* * * * * * *

These points should be remembered as fundamental necessities if the house is to be satisfying in character.

* * * * * * *

Two example will prove helpful. One house come to mind which is a good example of incongruity. The outside is a simple farm house, not unattractive in type.

* * * * * * *

It distinctly calls for simple, inside treatment, low ceilings, plain woodwork the furniture quaint in character, which does not however prevent its being choice of its kind.

* * * * * * *

On entering one is astounded to find an immense high galleried living room in early French decoration. The entire second floor of this part of the house has been taken out, except the part left for the gallery. This comes over the chimney and mantelpiece.

* * * * * * *

Opposite it is a large long window, entirely foreign to farm house architecture. In itself the room is imposing and interesting, but taken in connection with the exteror of the house, so discordant a note is struck that one is conscious of it all the time.

* * * * * * *

This same impression prevails in going over the rest of the French interior.

* * * * * * *

Then the other house. It is a Cape Cod settler's home, one of the really old colonial houses of the early days of English puritans.

* * * * * * *

The inside of the house, instead of being furnished in antiques, is thoroughly modern. There is a riot of color, chairs, tables, etc., unmellow colors and bizarre.

* * * * * * *

The draperies at the windows are in modernistic design. The rooms are thoroughly incongruous with the charming old time architecture of the house.

* * * * * * *

Homemakers who delight in Continental or modernistic furnishings, should hesitate to molest the Old American houses. Either they should seek to find the charm which exists in antiques suitable to Early American architecture, or else find some house which can be transformed to suit their decorative preferences.

* * * * * * *

The reverse is true. Those who treasure antiques should avoid attempting to fit them into homes of modernistic architecture. There is latitude permissable in the furnishings of both old and new dwellings and those of every style and era.

* * * * * * *

It is within these ranges that decoration should be confined to accord with the period and style of the house.

JUST AMONG US GIRLS

USE WHITE SPICE IN PICKLE RECIPE

Correction of Mustard "Ad" for Indian Pickles.

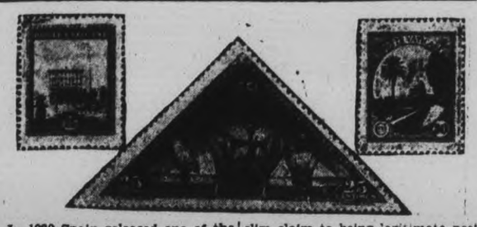
In the recipe printed in the Keen-s Mustard advertisement in our issue of Aug. 17 under heading "Indian Pickles."

In error the recipe called for "white" spice instead of "mixed" spice and grocers have been besieged for "white spice" and there is no such article. We repeat the complete recipe as follows:

Select nine medium sized onions and take 2 dozen ripe tomatoes, 6 large apples, ¼ lb. ground mixed spice, 1 qt. vinegar 1 lb. raisins and salt to taste. Having boiled them all together for 1½ hours, strain them and add 1 lb. brown surgar, ¼ cup of Keen's Musard and 1 teaspoon of cayenne pepper. Now boil the entire mixture for ½ hour and then bottle.

STAMP CORNER

By M. A. BESSEY



In 1930 Spain released one of the largest triangular stamps ever issued. There are three values in this type, 25c, dark red; the one illustrated, 40c, ultramarine, and one peseta, black.

The design is the same on all three, and portrays the three ships of the fleet of Christopher Columbus, as used on his famous voyage of discovery across the Atlantic Ocean in 1492.

The lower values of this issue consist of eight varieties, typifying front and rear views of the Santa Maria, flagship of the fleet the same as shown in the centre of the above illustration.

There are two other designs in this same issue, one of which depicts "Columbus Leaving Palos" and the other "Columbus Arriving in America." The stamps are large rectangular designs very attractively colored.

The first eight stamps in the set are produced by lithography, while the last seven and higher values are engraved.

The entire issue is most attractive when neatly mounted, and it is of considerable historic interest, but the manner in which it was issued and distributed puts it in the class of "speculative" stamps, which greatly detract from the desirability to own them.

It seems that the entire issue were privately produced; that is, the designs were originated, and the stamps printed under the control of a private company, having nothing to do with the Spanish Government. When the stamps were ready to be distributed, a certain quantity were given to the Spanish postal authorities, who placed them on sale and allowed them to be used for three days only and kept the money obtained from their sale.

Probably for every genuine used copy of any of these stamps there are from 10,000 to 100,000 unused copies in the hands of collectors and dealers, which, except for the fact that a small quantity of them were allowed to prepay postage for three days, would really be nothing more than very attractive colored labels. So, when you buy your set of these stamps, unused—you will probably never see any used ones—just remember that it is a few cents more in the pocket of some private and enterprising individual, and that the labels you are buying have a very slim claim to being legitimate postage stamps.

We only hope that such questionable methods of stamp issuing will never assume any large proportions. Many collectors absolutely refuse to allow such stamps in their collections. Others buy them merely because they are necessary to completeness. Their greatest sale is among the younger and less educated collector, who is more interested in securing such colorful additions than he is in the story of their issuance.

The exploitation of stamp collectors is frowned upon by most governments. Stamp collectors want new and attractive stamps, but they want them to be legitimate issues and not made for the benefit of private individuals.

Also illustrated are two designs of the latest issue from Vatican City. There are eighteen stamps in the complete issue, most of which are very attractive in design and coloring.

The lowest value depicts the "Family Arms of the Pope." The next four values show a wing of the papal palaces, left illustration; following this are four values of the design as shown on the right, a scene in the Vatican gardens. Starting with the lira values, the stamps are all of a much larger size, somewhat larger than our pictorial stamps. The first four lira values show a portrait of Pope Pius XI.; the last three highest values depict the facade of St. Peter's. There are two express stamps, showing an aerial view of Vatican City, which complete a most attractive issue.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

J. C. Ferguson, R.R. 4, Winnipeg.

The revenue stamp of Great Britain, described in your recent letter, is of little value. It would sell for a couple of cents, retail.

Mrs. R. Curle, Redvers, Sask.

The ten-cent stamp of Canada you describe is that of the 1928 issue. As yet it has no particular value. It sells at one or two cents, used, and is worth only face value unused.

Anonymous.

I would say none of the stamps listed in your letter are of any particular value. This is not definite, of course. I would have to see the stamps, or have more adequate descriptions of them, to be accurate.

Your Health

ASIDE FROM preventing contamination of the milk, which we discussed yesterday, the feeding of the baby during the first summer is no different from the feeding during the rest of the first year. There is no occasion to interrupt the regular schedule of progressive increase and enlargement of the diet by the advent of the hot weeks.

Dr. Clendenins

The ideal schedule of such increase and addition need not be too rigid. In general, up to about six months, milk is practically the only diet. Sugar or corn syrup always is added to cow's milk. Cod liver oil, orange juice and water are the only additions to this diet. The amount of milk given at each feeding increases from one to one and one-half ounces during the first few days, to eight ounces at four to six months. The sugar is increased from an ounce a day to two ounces a day in that time.

Different doctors have slightly different views concerning these things, and various circumstances may suggest modification, but, in general, that schedule is agreed to. The one feature of the baby's condition, which is the standard of improvement or lack of improvement, is increased weight.

At five or six months additional feedings may be begun. At first, a cereal is the best addition. One or two round tablespoons of a well-cooked cereal may be given at 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. Some of the milk from the bottle poured over the cereal. A rusk or zwiebach soon may be added.

At eight or nine months egg yolk (soft boiled) is added to this. At ten months some clear meat broth, and at eleven months some vegetable soup, either in place of the meat broth or in addition to it, is added.

The time of the feedings changes very little from the first to the fourth month. Most authorities agree to seven feedings during the 24-hour period at three-hour intervals. At four months this is reduced to five feedings at four-hour intervals, and this schedule is maintained until the ninth month. Regularity of time of feeding is most important. Most old-fashioned colic was simply hunger due to lack of regularity of meal times.

At nine months the feeding can usually be done entirely in the daytime—from 6 a.m. to midnight at least—and soon from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m.

The schedule at the eleventh month should be somewhat as follows:

6 a.m.—8 ounces whole milk.
9 a.m.—1 ounce orange juice, 1 ounce water.
10 a.m.—8 ounces of milk, 1 or 2 tablespoons of cereal. Rusk or zwiecbach. 1 teaspoon of cod liver oil.
2 p.m.—Meat broth or vegetable soup and 4 ounces milk.
6 p.m.—8 ounces milk, 1 or 2 tablespoons cereal. Raw or soft boiled egg yolk.
10 p.m.—8 ounces of milk.

Rumor Carol, Lupescu To Wed Is Ridiculed

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Court circles ridiculed reports published abroad to-day that King Carol and Mme. Magda Lupescu will marry.

It was pointed out that such a marriage would be absolutely forbidden for dynasty reasons and that King Carol's attitude in this connection is best illustrated by the fact that he did not recognize the marriage of Prince Nicholas, his brother, to Mme. Jana Lucia Deletj, a commoner.

The despatch said that Mme. Lupescu, a Jewess who lived with Carol during the years of his exile in Paris, shortly would become a Greek Orthodox Catholic.

The report added that an unnamed prince soon would "adopt" her so that she would be a princess, and thus socially fit to marry the King.

The Norfolk suit, with square yolk back and front, belted waistline and fullness, or simulated fullness, in the lower part of the jacket, are being shown in lovely new tweeds.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

AN ACQUAINTANCE of mine who recently returned from a three-year stay in India, was telling me a bit about the conditions in that country. Sometimes she told me, hoards of bugs, insects, and even monkeys would descend upon the towns. And the inhabitants would have a simply terrible time getting rid of them. "But," she added thankfully, "at least we don't have poison ivy down there." Which just gives you an idea of what a reputation poison ivy has.

Gladys Glad

Generally, the lass who has once been afflicted with poison ivy is the one who is most wary of the vegetation she fools around with in the good old summer time. It's a case of once bitten, twice shy. The average femme usually cavorts about in the fields and meadows without any regard for the plants and posies she handles. And it isn't until her arms or hands begin to swell with ivy rash, that she begins to lose her love of nature.

Unfortunately, most women are unacquainted with the poison ivy plant. But you don't have to be a botanist to recognize it. For it is a climbing shrub that is easily distinguished by its three broadly-ovate, notched leaflets. Avoid touching any such plant, if you intend doing a "back to nature" act.

Also, before going to any vegetated spot where there is a chance of your coming into contact with poison ivy, anoint any exposed portions of your body with a solution of ferric or iron chloride—a 5 per cent solution in water, half alcohol mixture—before you leave your home. This solution will help, to some extent, to render you immune to the ivy poisoning.

If you do acquire ivy poisoning, by all means try not to scratch the irritated skin. If you do, you may increase the seriousness of the condition, and may even spread the poison to other parts of your body. There are several soothing remedies that may be administered to the skin to relieve the infected areas. Carron oil, cooking soda, Epsom salts and a diluted extract of grindelia may all be used most satisfactorily. But if the inflammation is extensive or severe, home remedies should not be depended upon. In such a case, a physician's aid should be enlisted in the treatment of this irritating and unattractive skin condition.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Hair

Helen S.: Lemon rinses will help to remove excess oil from the hair. A teaspoon of baking soda added to the last rinse water will also remove the oil and leave the hair soft and fluffy.

Skin

Juanita Lou: The condition you refer to, if not due to internal disorders or to sun exposure, may be prickly heat. A lotion of eight ounces of witch hazel and a 4 per cent solution of boric acid should prove soothing.

Bow Legs

Lillian: If you are under 16 years of age, the exercises listed in my article on "Care of the Feet and Legs" may help to correct and shape your legs. After that age, an operation is usually necessary to correct bow legs.

Lashes

STRETCHING BIDDING

I QUESTION the wisdom of trying for any slam which is at all doubtful. If none of us ever bid a slam of which we were not certain we would be better off in the long run. The hand below affords an example of bidding beyond the prudent limit.

	♠ K 8 5 2 ♥ J 8 6 4 ♦ None ♣ A Q J 10 6 4
♠ 7 6 4 ♥ None ♦ A Q J 10 7 5 3 ♣ 9 5 3		♠ Q J 10 ♥ Q 10 9 ♦ 9 6 4 ♣ K 8 7 2
	♠ A 9 3 ♥ A K 7 5 3 2 ♦ K 8 2 ♣ 6

North: ♠ K 8 5 2, ♥ J 8 6 4, ♦ None, ♣ A Q J 10 6 4
West: ♠ 7 6 4, ♥ None, ♦ A Q J 10 7 5 3, ♣ 9 5 3
East: ♠ Q J 10, ♥ Q 10 9, ♦ 9 6 4, ♣ K 8 7 2
South: ♠ A 9 3, ♥ A K 7 5 3 2, ♦ K 8 2, ♣ 6

Bidding went: South, 1-Heart; West, 2-Diamonds; North, 3-Diamonds, to show game-going strength, with slam hopes, and no losers in opponent's suit; East, passed; South, 3-Spades, to show his lowest side Ace, as requested by North; North, 4-Clubs; South, 4-Diamonds, just to request further information; North, 4-Spades, to show the K, after South had shown the Ace; South, 5-Diamonds, to see if his partner held the Q of spades as well as the K; North, 5-Hearts, to deny holding added high honors in sequence to those already shown. South, 6-Hearts, expecting from the bidding to lose no tricks in hearts, diamonds or clubs, and willing to lose a single spade trick. Giving partner a slam signal on 4 trumps headed by a card lower than the Q was rather ambitious, as South might have been bidding upon a 4-card suit.

The opening lead was the 9 of clubs. Dummy's Ace won the trick. For all that the declarer knew the lead might have been a singleton, so he dared not try to establish clubs until he had tested the trump situation, although he expected to find the average trumps held 2-1 by opponents. Dummy's 4 of hearts was led. East's 9 covered, and declarer's K won the trick. West discarded the 7 of diamonds.

Finding that he must lose a trump trick, and that his only chance of not losing a spade trick was to establish dummy's clubs, the declarer started a cross-ruff. He led a diamond. Dummy trumped. The declarer ruffed a club, as he was not positive that West might not hold the missing K. Dummy ruffed a second diamond and the declarer ruffed a second club. When dummy had ruffed declarer's last diamond it took the last trump from the table. The declarer ruffed a fourth lead of clubs, then he led his Ace of hearts, leaving East a single good trump. Dummy's K of spades won the tenth trick. Dummy's last club was led. The declarer would discard his only losing spade thereon, whether or not East trumped. Opponents could win just a single trick, as South still held the Ace of spades and one trump, insuring fulfillment of the small slam contract.

FIRST DOLLAR DAY ATTRACTED CROWD

Bargains Appealed to City and District Shoppers.

The fine weather of yesterday brought out a huge crowd of shoppers, with plenty of buyers as well as "lookers."

A noticeable element was the good quality of the bargains offered. In some seasons past, people have complained that the goods on sale on Dollar Day were from behind the shelves and that the merchants simply went over old stock and brought it out for cheap selling. Yesterday, the bargains were bona fide, and the same quality keeps up to-day. Hats, for instance, selling at a dollar were not merely the summer's left-overs, but they came in silk and felt and satin that could be put on and worn at once. The same idea of quality for little cost applied to many other bargains on view in the stores, with to-day's offerings in the same category.

Dollar Day bargains are still available up to a late hour to-night.

HOLLYWOOD
Sense and Nonsense

In all probability, the ingenue lead in Will Rogers' next picture will be Mary Howard, and, of course, you haven't forgotten that this is Will's own daughter, who adopted a stage name because she wanted to make her own way.

Mary Rogers

Seventeen years old, blonde and pretty, Mary recently won the admiration of Hollywood by getting herself a job in "My Weakness" before anyone knew her identity.

She did so well (Buddy de Sylva sings her praises loudly) that the studio asked her to take a test for the role of Will's daughter in "There's Always Tomorrow." She came through this with flying colors and there's a contract waiting if Will gives his okay.

The comedian is away from Hollywood on another of his trips, but as he knew of the test before his departure, the deal is as good as signed.

CAR, COAL CODES NEAR SOLUTION

Next U. S. Action is Fight to Keep All Prices Reasonable.

FACTORY TO BUYER.

By JAMES COPE
(A. P. Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Action to keep prices reasonable all the way from the factory to the buyer emerged to-day as a necessary and major job for the Recovery administration. It may get under way right after the pending big codes of fair practice—for the automobile, coal and retail trades—are out of the way.

Barring only unexpected opposition from the N.R.A.'s labor advisory board, a final accord on the automobile code was expected to-day, so the agreement could be taken to Hyde Park for President Roosevelt's signature.

Whether bituminous coal code conferences between non-union Appalachian field mine operates and union labor leaders, would end before night was less certain. After that, it will be necessary to obtain the consent of coal men from other areas to the terms outlined. But, here was definite hope among officials, based on what they called unexpected progress, that the end was in sight.

Presidential approval of the compact for retail stores in time to make it effective right after Labor Day was the objective. The separate code for druggists was due for similar fast treatment. The drug hearing was on again to-day with a completely revamped agreement substituted for the one brought in yesterday, which the N.R.A. refused to take.

Once these groups are under binding codes, a major portion of its preliminary work will have been completed by N.R.A. and the long-range job of policing the compacts will come to the fore.

BARBERS REGARD NEW STANDARD AND TESTS WITH VARYING VIEWS, MEMBERSHIP NOT COMPULSORY

Aims of Association in Public Interest Some Barbers Say.

BETTER SANITATION.

Monopolly Seen By Others in Statements to Examiner.

"Its just a scheme to keep some poor fellows out of work," commented Ernest Mitchell of the Mitchell Brothers' barber shop on Water street when asked for an opinion on the newly-formed Ontario Hairdressers' and Barbers' Association to-day. "It looks like a sugar-coated pill to me. A large percentage of the fellows that are joining the Association around here do not even belong to the Barbers' Union."

This expression of opinion was typical of several heard by The Examiner in conversation with a number of the city's barbers. At the same time a number voiced by unqualified approval of the Association while others evinced no interest either way.

Both Ernest Mitchell and his partner, Arthur Mitchell declared that they were entirely uninterested in the Association. Arthur Mitchell said he knew nothing about it and cared less. "Maybe the business is overcrowded but I believe in letting the other fellow have his chance. The people will go to the barber who can give them good service at fair prices and will stay away from the fellow that doesn't know anything about the trade and has to depend on bottom prices to get his business. I am certainly not handing out money to any organization like that."

John J. Quinlan, proprietor of a barber shop on Water street across from the Market Square, took the view that the organization would be "good for some and bad for others." The standardisation of prices by the organization will be excellent for the barbers and hairdressers which are catering to the higher class of trade but the fellow that is getting his business from the working men and farmers would not be able to compete with prices standardized at a uniform level, he said.

Aiming at Monopoly

"It seems that the Association is trying to get a monopoly control over the trade" Mr. Quinlan declared. "Of course, I might find it wise to join myself if the regulations of the organization are not too stiff. The regulations are pretty stiff now but they may cut down on them before they go to the Government again for approval.

Mr. Quinlan agreed that at least some control in the business was necessary. There are too many barbers in the city now for anyone to make any money, he declared. However, he suggested that the way to remedy the situation was to advertise and educate the public to patronize the skilled, sanitary barbers and hairdressers in preference to the fly-by-night establishments in the business.

The Ontario Hairdressers' and Barbers' Association came into existence when it was incorporated by a private act of parliament at the recent session. Membership is open to hairdressers, barbers and assistants without examination providing they have been in the trade for a year or more, up to December 31 this year. After December 31, any wishing membership will be required to pass stiff examinations. The membership fee has been set at $5 a year. The Association as approved by the Government has no legal control over the trade but, it is understood, the ambition of the Association is to ask the Government for complete control.

Sanitation Standards

Among the aims of the Association are, through its by-laws, to control the health and sanitation standards among its members. The Association is to raise the standard of skill in the trade by its examination for membership and its requirements for novice barbers and hairdressers. Under the Association's by-laws, a hairdresser or barber learning the trade must serve three months' apprenticeship, serve for fifteen months in a shop on commission and attend an approved academy for three months. Two years after completing these requirements, a hairdresser or barber is to be qualified to set up his own establishment.

All applying for membership to the Association must present certificates to show that they can meet the health standard.

"I think the organization is a needed step for the protection of both the public and the barber" declared Wes Plannery, proprietor of a barber shop on Charlotte street. "There has been a need for it for a long time."

"The Association will doubtlessly endeavour to cut down on the number of hairdressers and barbers as there is no doubt that the business is overcrowded" he continued. "But that is not the Association's main object as I see it. Its main object is to raise the standard of the trade. As it stands now, nobody has to join if he does not want to but it will be up to the public. The public will know enough to patronize the professional man rather than the quack."

Says Needed Long Ago

William J. Welch, president of the local branch of the Association, proprietor of a beauty parlour and barber shop on Hunter street, declared. "I think it is something we should have had twenty years ago. It will raise the standard of the trade and will serve to keep out these fellows that are starting up all over without any knowledge of the business, without proper equipment and in unsanitary quarters. With competition like that the business is being ruined for everybody.

"I think the Association will win the approval of the majority of barbers and hairdressers in the Province. It is going over in Peterborough. About 44 out of the city's sixty odd shops are signing up."

Milton Fowler, operator of a Hunter street barber and hairdressing shop, expressed the view that the Association will be worth while only if it can secure seventy-five percent or more of the barbers for its membership. "Even a few barbers cutting prices, for example, can ruin the trade for everybody."

"I believe the Association is an excellent thing" Harold Freeman of the Smith and Freeman shop on Simcoe street said. 'I do not think the regulations are too stiff. When I was learning the business I first worked for three months with no salary, paying $25 for the privilege, then put in another six months with a salary of about one dollar a week."

WHEAT FUTURES ARE FIRMING

Hedging Pressure on Market is Reduced By Several Factors.

ADVANCE EXPECTED.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 26.— (C.P.)—Nearing the end of two weeks of restricted trading, wheat futures prices on the Winnipeg grain exchange to-day rested more than a cent above the established minimums and nearly a cent higher than at the close of trading Aug. 18. October was quoted at 71⅞, December at 73 1-8 and May 78¼.

During the fortnight the market has operated under minimum price regulations not a day has passed when some wheat was not sold to foreign buyers, and with grain trading quite freely, export business in the aggregate has been appreciable over the period.

Sales of Canadian wheat abroad were unaffected by developments at the London wheat conference. Even yesterday traders were hesitant to act on advices in the absence of any full account of the agreement's provisions.

"Peg" Gives Confidence.

The "Peg" is believed to have inspired confidence in the western farmer who is retaining ownership of a good proportion—estimated at 60 per cent—of what he is delivering to country elevators, with the result that hedging pressure on the futures market has been reduced. Meanwhile there has been a fairly liberal supply of wheat for sale in the pit and the market has absorbed it easily.

Coarse grain prices, to, showed moderate strength in the past week, rye leading with an advance of more than seven cents, largely the resut of export sales to the United States and the limited supplies available in the Canadian market.

Hysterics Absent.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(A.P.)—Absence of hysterical fluctuations in the grain markets th. s week was regarded as a sign that some degree of stabilisation had been reached. Speculative trading was small, but all grains had a firmer undertone.

Much attention was paid to reports regarding the progress made at the international wheat conference in London, although when announcement was made that an agreement had been reached it had little apparent effect on prices. More attention was paid to recurring rumors that .. United States' policy on inflation soon would be attempted.

The long awaited expansion of credit program of the federal reserve system was announced almost simultaneously with the reports form London telling of an agreed upon wheat plan. Both together provided enough momentum to push all grain prices sharply higher. The agreement to reduce acreage 15 per cent. was looked upon as having considerable influence on the long time trend of the market, especially by both exporters and importers agree to reduce acreage.

Huge Power House Of Miss America X.

Here is the huge powerhouse that drives Gar Wood's Miss America X, U.S. defender of the Harmsworth Trophy, emblematic of the world's speedboat supremacy. Consisting of four motors, the 38-foot boat develops 8,000 horsepower, as opposed to the 1,375 horsepower utilized in the Miss Britain III, challenger. Seated at the controls are Gar Wood (LEFT), who guides the boat, and Orilin Johnson, his veteran mechanic, who has control of the throttle, under Wood's direction. In Miss Britain II., Scott-Paine has complete control over both throttle and helm.

Sugar Bowl Swamps Lindsay 17-6 in O.A.S.A. Play Off

SMART FIELDING AND EXTRA HITS BRING BOWL WIN

Sturgeon Leads Way With Powerful Bat and Twirls Nicely.

CALLADINE HOMERS.

Winners' Early Lead Never Threatened By Lindsay Champs.

Sugar Bowl walloped Smith-Baldwins of Lindsay, 17 to 6, before over five hundred fans at Stevenson Park last night in the second game of their O.A.S.A. playdown round. The first one ended in a tie. The Bowlmen out-hit and out-fielded their Scugog rivals to gain an easy victory. While they had but three more hits, their twelve safeties included a homer, two triples and two doubles; while the losers got but one extra-base blow. Lindsay errors aided considerably in the big score.

Lefty Sturgeon hurled good ball for the homesters, holding them to nine hits as he fanned two, though he was a bit wild at times. Gamble went fair for the visitors after the first frame till the fifth. He was nailed hard from then on and was succeeded by McBryen to start the eighth, the latter finishing it up strong. The locals' fielding was better than that of the Smith-Baldwin crew.

Playford, Weir, Weese and Smith all featured with nice defensive playing for Sugar Bowl. Fever at short and Shaw at third were the best of the visitors in the field, while J. Campbell in left roped in a couple of nifty catches.

Sturgeon was the big noise for the Dormer crew at bat, banging out two triples, a double and a single in five times up. Calladine hit a hard homer to deep centre and a single; Weir got two singles; and Weese a double. For Lindsay, J. Campbell hit a three bagger and single in four trips; while Fever and Balfour hammered out two singles each in five appearances.

An error, wild pitch and Fever's hit gave Lindsay one in the first. A walk, error and J. Campbell's triple added two in the fifth. They shoved over two more in the seventh on two walks, two wild heaves by the twirler, and hits by Balfour and Fever. The final visitors' run was chalked up in the eighth on a walk, steal and hits by Brown and Balfour.

The locals shoved three over in their first on an error, Calladine's single and Sturgeon's triple. The latter tripled in the fourth and trotted home on an out. They got four in the fifth on two errors, a sacrifice, walk and hits by Smith, Sturgeon and Weir, our more were counted in the next spasm on no less than four boots, a walk, wild pitch, single by Dormer and Sturgeon's double. A five-run splurge in the seventh wound it up, a walk, field's choice, error, single by Webb, Weese's double and Calladine's homer with two aboard doing the trick

LEAFS SPLURGE IS SHORT OF WIN

Bisons Overhaul Toronto for Place in Northern Division.

BUFFALO TAKES ROYALS.

Buffalo Bisons finally have overhauled Toronto Maple Leafs in their battle for the second northern qualifying place in the International League championship playoffs.

The Bisons' ninth victory in 10 games, a 7-6 triumph over Montreal Royals last night, sent Buffalo into fourth place a half game ahead of Toronto which bowed to Rochester bats in another night game.

Montreal scored six runs in the third inning but four Royal pitchers couldn't hold the lead and Buffalo counted four runs in the fourth and two in the sixth to tie the score and then won out in the ninth when Lefty Michaels gave Smith four straight balls with the bases filled and two out.

Tony Kaufman blanked Toronto for eight frames but lost his staff in the ninth and the Leafs scored five runs before Bill McAfee could halt the rally.

The Red Wings, collecting 13 hits, pounded Buck Marrow hard in the early frames and continued their hitting at the expense of Ervin Frame. Ry Pepper and Gordon Hinkle led the attack with three hits apiece. Rochester's victory pulled the Red Wings up half a game to within seven games of the idle Newark Bears.

Third place Baltimore dropped an 8-5 decision to Albany Senators in the third night game of the schedule. Harold King's homer with two on in the fourth gave the Senators a 3-1 lead but Heinie Sand's homer with two on in the seventh tied the score at 4-4. The Senators then pulled away again with three runs in the eighth and made the victory safe with still another run in the ninth. The Senators flogged Melton and Smythe for 13 hits.

BOWLING NOTES

(By Herb Martin)

The winning skips in the Peach Tourney last evening were D. Smith, J. H. Sedgewick, H. Freeman, and R. Dyer. The games were good and the greens were fast. The outstanding event of the evening was the beautiful 8-end that Reg. Dyer slipped over Jack McNabb. If Jack doesn't win the Friday night games he certainly is very generous in helping the other fellow.

The play-offs of rinks to see who will represent Peterborough in the Central Ontario League commences on Monday night. These games are elimination and each one is sixteen ends. Bowlers who are not in these games may arrange their club doubles and then apply to the man in charge for a green.

RUTH TOWER-CORSAN WINS C.N.E. SWIM

SETS NEW TIME FOR FINAL LAP IN LONG GRIND

WINS $3,000 PURSE.

Her Time For Ten-mile Effort Was 5 Hours, 28 Minutes.

MISS ARMSTRONG SECOND.

By JACK HAMBLETON,
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

TORONTO, Aug. 26. (CP)—Ruth Tower-Corsan, a vivacious young housewife, is to-day the world's 10-mile professional swimming champion, and proud of it. With power and determination, she yesterday resisted every challenge and finished the Canadian National Exhibition's marathon grind in five hours, 28 minutes, 10 seconds, to take over the throne vacated by Margaret Ravior Young, three times winner of the event, and to win the $3,000 offered the first woman to finish.

Marathons are old stories to Ruth Tower Corsan. Year after year since the swims started in 1927, she has been among those present when the cheques were handed out. But this is the first time she has ever crossed the line first, and to-day she is all smiles although a bit weary from the ordeal.

Close Race

Evelyn Armstrong of Detroit, another young-old veteran of the marathons, took second money, finishing just three minutes behind Ruth after a steady chase for 10 miles. Third place went to Dorothy Nalevaiko of Glen, N.Y., who battled with Leah Riley, Keansburg, N.J. for five miles and finally took the show prize by 13 seconds in the most thrilling finish of the day.

The fifth and sixth prizes went to May Looney Warren, Ohio, school-teacher, and Lucy Spence, Toronto, respectively. Both have performed in previous marathons.

Mrs Corsan was just six minutes behind the world's record for the 10 miles. Mrs. Ravior Young last year set the mark at five hours, 22 minutes, 18 seconds, as compared with Mrs. Corsan's mark of 5.28.10. However, Ruth set a new mark when she swam the final one mile lap in 33 minutes, 45 seconds, fastest time she had done in the swim.

Previous winners of the event were:

1926—Ethel Hertle New York.
1929—Martha Norelius, New York.
1930—Margaret Ravior, Philadelphia.
1931—Margaret Ravior, Philadelphia.
1932—Margaret Ravior, Philadelphia.

W.H Retire

Now that she has reached the pinnacle after five years of trying, Mrs. Ruth Tower-Corsan, titian-haired winner of the Canadian National Exhibition 10-mile women's professional swim, has probably participated in her last marathon.

During the barrage of questions which greeted the winner shortly after she climbed up on the finishing float at the conclusion of yesterday's grind, Captain George Corsan, husband and trainer of the victor, interrupted with the announcement his wife had competed in her last race.

"Not a bit tired; I feel fine" declared Mrs. Tower-Corsan smiling at the photographers and reporters congregated on the finishing float. To the warm water and the strong wind blowing down the course the winner attributed her failure to establish a new record.

Cramps Take Toll

Cramps and exhaustion, scourge of all marathon swimmers, again took their toll in yesterday's grind. Mrs. Evelyn Armstrong who pressed Mrs. Tower-Corsan throughout the race and finished second, was one affected by cramps. But the Detroit matron made it plain she was not offering this as an alibi.

"I was beaten by a better swimmer and I'm glad Ruth won. She richly deserved to. She was wonderful" declared Mrs. Armstrong who also finished second in last year's race. The Detroit entrant, however, was reluctant to discuss the swim.

"I would rather swim five miles than be interviewed for five minutes," she declared.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

Number 30

ALEX. MORRISON says:

Some day players may learn that every move they make on the course has some effect on their game.

For example: The last practice swing a player makes generally represents about what he'll do when he goes to swing at the ball.

If the player allows his head to turn with his body during a practice swing, it's sure to turn on the very next shot he plays.

If he practices with a loose grip the next shot is bound to suffer from poor control over the club.

At all times, the things to practice are those which you expect to do when you swing at the ball.

Therefore, make sure that your chin is back during the practice swing. And this means during the very last swing you make.

GIANTS DEFEAT PIRATES TWICE WITH LONG HITS

Barrage of Homers Increases the Terrymen's Lead Over Braes.

DODGERS TAKE REDS.

Senators Move Away From Yankees as a Result of Victory.

Back in the midst of the fray after being shutout four straight days by Jupiter Pluvius, New York Giants have demonstrated they can manufacture a winning streak of their own to match the onrush of Boson Braves.

Meeting Pittsburgh Pirates in the first of numerous doubleheaders, which many of the experts predicted would prove the downfall of the Terrymen, the Giants twice turned back the Corsairs yesterday. They won the opener 8-5 in a movie thriller manner as Manager Bill Terry cracked out a home run with two mates on base in the 11th behind the effective piching of LeRoy Parmelee crushed the Pirates 6-2 in the second game.

The double victory ran the Giants' winning stream to six games and increased their margin over the idle Braves to seven full games.

Cubs in Third

Chicago Cubs strengthened their hold on third place by dividing a doubleheader with the Phillies. Philadelphia took the first game 8-7 in 10 innings as Chuck Klein hit his 24th homer of the year and Don Hurst added another. The Cubs squared matters with a 16-hit attack behind Lon Warneke in the nightcap, winning 7-4.

Brooklyn Dodgers conquered Cincinnati Reds twice, each time by the score of 4-3, as Hack Wilson made his Major League deput at second base due to injuries to Brooklyn infielders. The Dodgers got only two hits off Silas Johnson in the second game but they were a home run by Wilson and a triple by Danny Taylor and proved sufficient, with the help of two bases on balls and an error, to win.

The gap between Washington and New York in the American League widened to nine games with the Senators' 5-4 decision over Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians' 6-4 setback of the Yankees. The Senators' victory was their 16th in the last 18 games played.

Big Rally Wins

A three-run rally after two were out in the fourth and Joe Kuhel's home run in the fifth gave the Senators victory over their former teammate, Fred Marberry. The Indians came from behind with a five-run uprising, featured by Frank Pytlak's triple with two on, in the eighth, to defeat the Yanks.

Bob Johnson hit two home runs, two singles and walked once to lead the Athletics to a 11-3 decision over the Browns. Gordon Rhodes pitched and batted the Red Sox to an 8-1 victory over the White Sox. He held the Pale Hose to seven scattered hits and contributed a homer and two singles.

CATAPULTS TABOO

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont—Toting a sling-shot or a revolver will be a criminal offence in the Sault if the local school board has its own way.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Well Mac, them pesky Ponies and our lads is still battling to get a Central loop winner and we'll all have to wait until next week to learn how the thing'll come out. Mister Lee's boys has the edge with 2 wins under their belt while the Ponies has only 1, but they's going to be some tough baseball yet before the winner is named. Wed. the Petes took the long trip down to Kingston and held the Ponies even in a lively battle which meant stay over until the next day to settle the argument. Next day, however, brung nothing but rain in sheets so its a case of playing the 4th game in Kingston Mon. If the Petes win that settles the argument; if they don't the lads will have to tear into each other once again. It's a merry old serious and has the local fans all het up.

The game Sat., Mac, was as full of thrills as a radio mystery serial and if the Pony infielders hadn't of took off in a new altitude flight, the boys mighta played right through until dark. The heavers had the batters eating right outa their hands all through the engagement. Mister Yammy Jamieson, the Ponies' pitcherette, tossed in a brand of ball that wouldn win 99 games outa 100, but Mister Compeau, Mister Quinn and Mister Smith got a Santa Claws complex 5 months ahead of time and decided it would be a shame to disappoint so many customers so they balled up enough plays to hand the Petes 2 runs. And the way our Mister Kitchen was going 2 runs was plenty although in the final frame our lads got a bit generous too and they insisted on the Ponies accepting a free counter. Mister Kitchen's selection was a bit of a surprise for the home fans, but the big boy showed that Mister Lee had made no mistake by delivering a baffling assortment of stuff that Ponies couldn't break through. Mister Red Hollingsworth was in the limelight with a sparkling exhibiton of short-stopping de luxe but to my mind the feature play was a gorgeous backhand clutch of a wild throw to 3rd by Mister Ike Batten which resulted in a Kingston runners being chased down and tagged out. It looked like the toss was going to the fence for an easy Pony run but Mister Batten come up with the ball and turned what had all the earmarks of a error into a valuable put out.

The winners of this clash tie into New Toronto in the O.B.A.A. playoffs and that oughta make quite a struggle. The Petes beat the N.T. outfit 2 games here Dominion Day but they wasn't at full strength for them games and the Central winners don't need to look upon the Toronto gang as a pushover. They licked Oshawa in their own loop playoffs and last year they tucked the Ponies away in the O.B.A.A. serious.

Well, Mac, I way and another they should be a lotta fun next week.

And here's hoping.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

Sixth Line Defeats C.G.E. In Exhibition

The Sixth Line Girls staged a neat win over the Electrics last night at the Bowl in an exhibition tussle by chasing five counters across in the last half of the seventh, after a see-saw game that wound up 13 to 12 in favor of the visitors.

Mary Hall and Marj. Burnley were the opposing pitchers, and both turned in nice performances, the former having a slight edge. The visitors had the knack of bunching their hits to advantage and on this account had the edge, although they also showed some splendid fielding while the losers booted several easy chances.

The teams:—

HIS SECRET

HAMILTON. — Daniel O'Hoski, little Hungarian boy, is good at keeping secrets. Recently he swallowed a wooden screw an inch long and didn't even tell his parents. He was admitted to the General Hospital supposedly suffering from pneumonia but an x-ray revealed the object in his lung. A delicate operation was performed and the lad is recovering rapidly.

"Gossip and Such"

THE FINAL threat to the New York Giants as they close in on the National League pennant may come—of all places—from Boston.

The Braves are playing aggressive, smart baseball. They are getting an occasional break and have been taking advantage of whatever they get. They, alone, of the "contenders" are nearer the fast travelling Terriers than they were a month ago.

The Braves, apparently, have forgotten their ambition to land a first division berth—an ambition foiled in 1932 by six thin points in the percentage column. The Braves now see something flapping in the wind far ahead.

It may be a pennant.

• • •

SERIOUSLY, the Braves can be considered to have but a remote chance to win the flag this year. A drastic collapse on the part of the Giants would be necessary for that to happen.

However, the Bostons have an excellent chance to finish second—and if they do Massachusetts fans will be happier than they have been in 15 years.

The Braves are strong in reinforcements, something some of their more important foes lack. However, best of all, as they make their drive they have nothing to lose and everything to gain.

The Giants have the strain of maintaining their position. The Pirates must labor under the knowledge that they kicked away their chances twice in two years. The Cubs cannot help but remember that they are the defending champions.

The Braves have nothing to worry about. So they just play ball.

• • •

THE CUBS are now generally regarded by close followers of National League play as having shot their bolt. They have taken some bad beatings lately and have lacked the spark or the ability to rebound from such setbacks.

The Pirates look better than the Chicagos, but of late haven't shown near enough steam in their efforts to catch up with the fast travelling Giants.

The Cardinals are making something of a bid for a place in the sun, but they have shown nothing all season to indicate that there is enough latent strength in the St. Louis lineup for a sensational last-month drive to the flag.

Keene-Westclox Play Here This Evening

The Girls' Softball League playoffs resume to-night at 6.15 at the Ashburnham Bowl, Keene playing Westclox in the second game of the three-out-of-five series for the loop title and the Bond Trophy. The first one ended in a tie in ten frames, so this game will be the first one that counts, unless it too ends in a draw. The fixture in Keene last week was halted by rain and called "no contest."

They are two well-matched and classy girls' squads, with some heavy hitters, good pitchers and fine fielders on both teams. Keene are out to retain their championship, while the battling Alarm Maidens are confident they can lift the crown this season. Another huge crowd is expected to line the sides of the Bowl when they start it off again this evening.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By Canadian Press)

Bill Terry and Bud Parmelee, Giants — former's homer with two on in 11th won first game from the Pirates; latter allowed six hits and fanned eight in second game.

Sam Leslie, Dodgers—his ninth in ninth won first game from the Reds.

Frank Pytlak, Indians — tripled with two on in eighth to help beat the Yankees.

Bob Johnson, Athletics — clouted Brown pitching for two homers and pair of singles, scoring five runs.

Gordon Rhodes Red Sox—stopped White Sox with seven safeties, contributed homer and two singles himself.

Joe Kuhel Senators — his homer in fifth beat Tigers.

Don Hurst, Phillies, and Lon Warneke, Cubs — former contributed home run, double and single to first game triumph, latter held the Phillies to seven hits in nightcap.

All contemporary evidence on the subject indicates that George Washington's hair was dark brown in color when he was in his prime.

PETES SQUEEZE LACROSSE WIN

Defeat Port Hope in Hard Fought Inter-county Game.

GEROW OUTSTANDING.

In a close, snappy Inter-County League lacrosse game in Port Hope last night, the Junior Petes—known as Dinty's Inn— nosed out the homesters, 4 to 3. Both sides turned in some smart stickwork and checking, the Hopers' intermediates giving the visiting youths a hard battle. Gerow, who turned in a star exhibition for the Petes, got one goal; Gardner, McGregor and Collins notching the others. For Port Hope, Hagerman got one, and P. Smith, two. The teams:

Petes.—Goal, Lefevre; defence, Gerow and Sloan; centre, Routley; wings, McGregor and Todd; rover, Gardner; subs, Jones, Hunt, Creighton, Hatton, Stanger and Collins.

Port Hope.—Goal, E. Isaacs; defence, Hagerman and Sneyd; centre, Harvey; wings, Meldrum and P. Smith; rover, Marshall; subs, L. Smith, G. Isaacs, T. Cancilla, V. Cancilla, Harwood and Bowden.

Referees—V. Reynolds and Tebenche.

MAX COTTON WINS TENNIS SEMI-FINAL

Requires 46 Games to Down Jack Kirkwood in Open Tourney.

Two really interesting and prolonged semi-final singles matches were run off yesterday evening in the Open Tennis Tournament at the Peterborough Club courts. Previous rain made the courts somewhat heavy. Though this had its effect in slowing up play and hampering the players on return shots, the quality of tennis shown was very good. They had a large, enthusiastic gallery applauding throughout. Miss Wilson and V. S. Foster were the umpires.

Max Cotton finally nosed out Jack Kirkwood after two and a half hours of fine, close play, 6—4, 8-6, 12-10—46 games in all. In the first set, 4 games went to deuce. Kirkwood took Cotton's service in the second game, and Cotton in turn took the other's in the fourth to even it at two-all. Cotton again took Kirkwood's service as well as his own, leaving score 4-2 in his favor at the end of the sixth. This game went to deuce three times. The games then followed service to the end of the set, which was Cotton's at 6 to 4.

The second saw Kirkwood starting with a rush to take three games. They then followed service to the fifth when Kirkwood led at 4-1. Cotton tightened up and took the next three to even it, and they then followed service to the 11th when Cotton broke through to follow it by winning his own and love and the set by 8 to 6.

The last set started with Cotton winning two and following service to the seventh when he again took Kirkwood's to make it 5-2. The latter then made a stand to win three and even it up. Games continued to follow service till the 21st when Cotton broke through to take Kirkwood's service, love and follow it by winning his own for the set at 12 to 10, giving him the match.

Both netters put up some sparkling tennis and some which was only fair. Considering the condition of the courts, the standard of play was exceptionally good. They showed fine service. Cotton had his pet forehand drive booming across frequently to score aces, while Kirkwood's overhead game at the net was first-rate. They both made some remarkable lobs in retrieving hard-driven corner shots. It was a very nice game to watch with some classy volleying shown.

The Nicholls-Scott match was likewise closely contested and the former deserves much credit for his excellent stand against last year's champion whose steady and effective games are well-known here. Scott finally subdued Nicholls in four sets by score of 6-3, 6-4, 2-6, and 6-4—37 games in all. In the first set, four games went to deuce and only one game was won at love, the fourth with Nicholls serving.

In the second set, Nicholls started strong to take three. Then Scott capured the fourth at love, his service, broke through Nicholls' in the fifth and took his own in the sixth again to even it. They followed service the next five games. In the ninth, Scott broke through, took Nicholls' and followed by grabbing off his own in the tenth to take the set at 6 to 3.

Things started off well for Scott in the next, but Nicholls played a steady, strong game and took Scott's service in three, one of them at love as well as his own twice at love to win the set 6 to 2. The last set saw Scott winning the first two, with Nicholls squaring it at 2-all. Each dropped his service in the sixth and then won his own to even it at 4-all in the fourth. Scott got through Nicholls' service with the loss of but one point and cinched the set and match with his own service at love to make it 6-4.

"BREAKDOWN" JINX CONFRONTS SCOTT-PAINE'S TITLE FIGHT

Only Three of Eight Boats Which Started Against Defenders Have Finished.

BRITISHER MAY WIN.

(By Central Press Canadian)

DETROIT, Aug. 26.—The "breakdown" jinx which has hovered over every Harmsworth challenger since Gar Wood won the bronze prize back in 1920 is one of the chief obstacles which confront Hubert Scott-Paine, this year's British international trophy aspirant in the coming world's speed-boat championship event over Labor Day.

Scott-Paine

During the last twelve years, since Wood first defended the Harmsworth plaque against Sir E. Mackay Edgar, seven trophy races have been run on Detroit waters and few challengers have been right side up and none still running at the finish of any series. In fact, only three of the eight boats which started against Wood's defenders have been able to get through a single race.

Wood Has Scare in 1931

The last two years have been exceptions, the 1931 series nearly ending in Wood's downfall. Driving Miss England II, Kaye Don won the first race against the Detroit champion, the only one that Wood has lost since he brought the trophy to America. In the second event, however, Miss England II overturned, and with the lone challenger out of the series the Harmsworth trophy remained in the U.S.

Again last year, in Miss England III, Don finished the first race against Wood, but the mechanical trouble which slowed him down in the encounter put him out of the running entirely before the end of the second lap in the second race.

Must Win Two Races

Under the Harmsworth rules the trophy goes to the country which first wins two races in the championship series. A three-race series never has materialized since Wood's reign. The string of unsuccessful challenges started in 1921, when Sir Edgar brought over his Maple Leaf VII. in an attempt to regain the trophy which he lost to Wood in England the year before.

The Maple Leaf lasted only two laps and sank, her hull having been damaged in shipment.

The next Harmsworth encounter was in 1926, when Henri Esders, Paris department store owner, sent over a French challenger, Excelsior France II. Esders had challenged the year before and built Excelsior France I., but the craft was destroyed by fire before the racing date. Excelsior France II. raced one lap and outclassed by the American defenders, quit.

Miss Carstairs Tries

Next came Miss Marian Barbara Carstairs from England in 1928 with Estelle III. On the first lap Estelle III. hit a ferry wash, overturned, and sank. Miss Carstairs arrived with Estelle IV. in 1929, but the boat dropped out with mechanical trouble in the first race. The next year Miss Carstairs brought over the Estelle IV. and a new boat, Estelle V. The new boat ran only two laps in the first race, but Estelle IV. managed to finish. This craft also broke down in the second race. Then came Lord Wakefield's unsuccessful ventures with his two Miss Englands.

Scott-Paine has a midget racer compared to the giant American color bearer, Miss America X. The British challenger's boat, Miss Britain III., is under 25 feet in length and has only one motor of 1,375 horse-power, whereas Miss America X is 38 feet long and has four engines totalling more than 6,400 horse-power. Miss Britain weighs only 3,360 pounds and Miss America more than 14,000.

Scott-Paine is banking on the special design of his all-metal hull to meet the American defender on even terms. He claims "more than 200 miles" an hour in trial runs, compared with Miss America's world record of 124 miles per hour, but stability of craft and not speed alone has been responsible for the Harmsworth victories since 1920.

Intertown Bridge Tourney At Cobourg

COBOURG, Aug. 26. (Special).—A unique event took place here when an intertown bridge tournament between Cobourg, Bowmanville and Oshawa ladies was run off. Six ladies played on each team and Cobourg won by a score of 2,000. Mrs. J. W. Sprague is convenor for Cobourg and Mrs. R. S. McLaughlin is intertown convenor. The ladies comprising the Cobourg team are: Mrs. W. L. Allen, Mrs. Alex Douglas, Mrs. E. W. Horsden, Mrs. David Burn, Mrs. J. W. Sprague, Miss Constance Howard.

If you buy out of town, and I buy out of town and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town? Ever think about it?

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball—Softball—Lacrosse Soccer—Wrestling, and Others

(By C. J. P.)

Let's see what the little red date-book has to say for this evening. Oh, yes, the gals' softball game over at the Bowl at 6.15. The Keene damsels are here to do battle with the Westclox lassies and it ought to wow the fans if it's anything like that last ten-inning fracas the fair ones flashed in the Ashburnham amphitheatre. Nice new stands for the fans, nice weather, nice game promised—in fact, everything is nice and nice.

• • • • • •

Knotty Lee chased his seniors off the diamond at Stevenson Park early last night, and that's how come the men's softball tussle started earlier than 'twas due. Between five and six hundred fans took in the tilt and despite the fact that Sugar Bowl just clambered through to a 17-6 verdict over the lads from the Scugog burg, the contest was worth seeing. Ross Curry was sick, so Lefty Sturgeon dished 'em up from the wrong side for The Candy Kids, and made a good job of it, too. Lindsay took a gamble on Gamble but the dice wouldn't come their way.

• • • • • •

Some of the Bowlmen, notably Mister Sturgeon, tried to knock the new oversized pellet lopsided and they also took advantage of a flock of bobbles by the boys with the hyphenated name. Some of those dinky little pop flies have just enough English on them to make them quiver, and they just bounce into the mitt and hop right out again. The grass bothered infielders on both sides, the merry softballers being used to diving into the sand for their grounders and they found the smooth grass surface just like trying to fork a rough streak on a greasy plate and keeping it out of the lap.

• • • • • •

Just as an example of some of the things a scorer runs across: Out of the twenty-three runs tallied in this O.A.S.A. playdown game, just six runs were earned, four by Sugar Bowl. All the others had an error mixed up in them somewhere, or else came after the side should have been retired with perfect fielding. The defensive play of the winners wasn't perfect by a long shot; either, but it was considerably superior to that shown by Smith-Baldwins, which must be a boot firm in Dick Butler's town. The Bowl play back in Lindsay Monday.

• • • • • •

Monday at five bells, daylight saving—which, incidentally ends a week later—the Petes play Kingston again in the Limestone ball orchard. Ho, hum, it's getting kind of monotonous and may keep the boys in the trenches till darn near Labor Day. The Petes ought to start smashing balls all over their pasture down there and stampede those Frontes properly Monday and let's get on to the O.B.A.A. senior trail before cold weather sets in. With our home games with Kingston all finished, theres no percentage in messing around on foreign fields. But the Jamieson-Smith-Compeau clique claim they're still on the right side of the ashcan and expect to stay that way. Well, we ought to get it over with, one way or another, some of these weeks.

• • • • • •

The semi-finals of the men's singles in the local Open Tennis Tournament at the Peterborough club courts last evening produced some brilliant play before quite a flock of followers of the racqueteers. Max Cotton and Jack Kirkwood fought it out in one just like Bill Tilden and Vinnie Richards used to. Max winning after two hours and a half of fine, extra close, and exciting play. George Nicholls gave George Scott a real surprise and battle and forced last year's champ to the very limit in another match that had the gallery piling up waves of applause. There are some fine tennis players in the city, and if you doubt it why just drop around and see the finals between Cotton and Scott today about five o'clock—just after the Cobourg-Peterborough matches—on the Peterborough Club courts, best three matches out of five.

• • • • • •

Here's a letter we received today: "Dear Sir—Lately I have been reading the different write-ups of our senior team, the Petes, of each member personally. How about the young man who looks after our boys when they are hurt in the games? He is always on the job? And how about the little mascot who never fails even at the practice games? And the faithful little water boy? Lots of people don't even know their names and I think they deserve personal mention. I myself would like to know their names. Yours truly, Sport Page Reader."

• • • • • •

That's true enough, they're done their part for the team okay, but just as in a play the director and the actors are the ones that get the publicity—the public as a whole not being very interested in the stage-hands, as it were. Bill Murphy is the capable trainer and rubber of the Petes' team this year, as he was with the hockey juniors last winter. "Whitey" is the only name we've heard the mascot or bat-boy called, and we must confess we don't know the moniker of the young chap who ladies out the aqua pura to the thirsty athletes.

• • • • • •

Picking 'em off the grapevine. Terrier Juveniles practise at 5.30 in Stevenson Park Monday . . . . Albert White, local Buckingham agent, is offering a hundred cigarettes to the high scorer in the Phelan Cup soccer series which winds up today—McMaster now leading with five . . . . City Lacrosse League finals should be started soon . . . . "Coby" Ecobichon, who used to play baseball and basketball here some years back, said "I do" to a Lindsay gal the other day before a preacher . . . . Kingston has been ordered to kick in with the balance they owe Umps Sheppard and Orwin which they tried to welch on when that Thursday game was rained out . . . . They say the P.C.I. first team this Fall will not be one-two with the strong squads turned out there in recent years.

THE GIANT SWINGER

By HERSCHEL DEUTSCH
Central Press Writer

(The operator of a crooked carnival game is called a "grifter." Although the sucker—the paying customer—doesn't know it, practically every game of skill and chance at the average traveling carnival or resort can be fixed by the operator so that the player can't win.

This is not usually true, however, of legitimate amusement parks, which have large investments in permanent equipment and are interested in keeping the good will of their patrons. Such places do not permit grifters. But beware the fly-by-night joint!)

"HIT THE PIN and win a prize!" the grifter shouts. "Hit the pin on the return swing and take home a prize!"

From the overhead framework a bowling ball is suspended by a chain. On the counter beside it stands a bowling pin, set over a stud.

"Watch it, folks; here's how to do it," says the grifter, swinging the ball out.

It curves in a natural arc and comes back to hit the pin, knocking it over. "That's all you've got to do to win a prize!" says the grifter.

And so the sucker pays his money and tries it. Somehow, though, he can't seem to get the right swing, or something. The ball goes right by the pin every time, no matter how many times he tries.

Here's why: When he does it the pin is standing right on dead center, directly under the ball's suspension hook. A swing started to one side of the pin will naturally come back on the other side, the same distance away, and so will never touch the pin. When the grifter did it, however, the pin was not on that center line. The trick lies in the location of the hole in the bottom of the pin which fits over the counter stud. It is off center, and a twist of the pin, as the grifter sets it up, throws it one way or the other.

Ontario extras brought 22c to 23c a dozen, while Westerns ranged from 21c to 22c a dozen. Firsts were generally 17c to 18c and seconds 14c to 14½c. A total of 1,226 cases was offered for sale.

New Quebec potatoes continued to be quoted at 80c to 90c per 90-lb. bag.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, August 26.—Strength in outside markets and a healthier export demand for Canadian wheat sent prices higher on the Grain Exchange yesterday, and at the close gains of 1¼c to 1⅝c had been marked up by wheat futures. October option ended at 71⅜c, December at 73¼c, and May at 78¼c.

The reported agreement on wheat quotas and prices at the London Wheat Conference had some effect but in the absence of details traders found it impossible to reach any concusions on the matter.

The market was firm all morning, though a little wheat came out at top levels, and the close was about a cent under the high point.

Export business was estimated by New York shippers at 1,000,000 bushels, all of this being Canadian wheat, and purchases of futures here confirmed the sales. Liverpool cables showed an advance of 1½d at the close, the rise being attributed to strength in sterling and continued dry weather in the Argentine.

Rains in the Prairie Provinces of Canada are holding up the movement of grain to market, but farmers are at the same time hanging on to the ownership of a large proportion of their wheat crop, accounting for the lack of hedging pressure during the last wey days.

Cash grains showed a little improvement, with No. 1 Hard at a premium of ¼c over the October option. Coarse grains were firm in sympathy with wheat.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, August 27

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE is not an entirely favorable one, holding omen of slander, gossip, or difficulties through writings or correspondence of a private nature. However there are signs of benefits for church and clergy as well as charitable institutions, with probable extravagances in these or in pursuit of pleasure.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year calling for safeguarding the reputation against slander, gossip or menace through letters or other writings. There may be gains financially, but a corresponding inclination to spend as freely as gained, either in pleasure, business investments or speculation.

A child born on this day may be keen and versatile intellectually, but possibly with too pointed a tongue. Nevertheless, it may profit much through friendships.

For Monday, August 28

MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL forecast is a rather conflicting one, with augury of a disruptive visitation that may upset cherished plans and prospects. This sudden change is imminent, possibly in connection with employment or in negotiations, rings or secret bodies. However, an elderly person or influence may assist in surmounting difficult situations. Serious matters impend.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of difficulties in employment or in connection with corporations, rings, diplomats or secret societies. An abrupt change, rather serious in aspect impends, although friendship of elderly persons or institutions may come to the rescue in harrowing places. Private affairs seem to offer pleasant and profitable compensations.

A child born on this day, while friendly, amiable, kindly, may encounter sudden disruptions in life and find it difficult in employment.

Miss Cora Drain returned to Newcastle on Sunday after spending a week with her parents.

Mrs. Nathan Bell, Norwood, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. William Darling.

Mrs. Cherry, formerly Helen Bowen, Buffalo, is spending a vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowen.

Miss Dorothy Anderson, who has visited Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Anderson for some weeks, returned home on Saturday.

Miss Foster, sister of Mr. Charles Foster, from Nova Scotia, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Foster at their cottage at the back dam.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Staples attended the choir social in honor of Rev. F. G. Weir, on Monday evening.

A goodly number gathered in the Sunday School room on Monday evening where a very delightful time was spent. David Miller explained the purpose of the gathering, to meet a former minister and his three friends, Mrs. G. G. Taylor, choir leader, said a few words, expressing her pleasure at the gathering being arranged and regret that there had not been longer time to prepare better for it, and have Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson present.

Mr. Weir took charge of the program and after a few well chosen words of greeting, introduced his three friends—Dr. Lacy, a brother-in-law, teacher in a collegiate, in Toronto, Mr. Butt, also a teacher in a Toronto Collegiate. These two and Mr. Weir were together because they as well as Mr. Weir had come from Newfoundland. The fourth member of the party, Mr. Hetherington, is from Newcastle-on-the-Tyne, England, and for some time has lived about five miles from where Mr. Weir does, and assists him greatly in his work among the Saugeen Indians.

Mr. Weir then led in some assembly singing, with Mrs. G. G. Taylor at the piano; the visiting quartette sang unaccompanied, I'm Going to Heaven, Uncle Ned, and Steal away; then Mr. Fatheringham sang I'm So Happy, accompanying himself at the piano, and the rest joined in the chorus. He then gave some piccolo selections, and Mrs. Taylor accompanied him. Mr. Weir answered queries about Mrs. Weir. She is in good health and at Jackson point with Mrs. Lacey. Fred Crowe recited A Young Lady on her Honeymoon Trip. Mr. Weir led in some rounds, which created much amusement. Mr. Fatheringham gave trombone and guitar selections; there was another quartette with guitar accompaniment and some closing hymns, ending with God be With You, by all, accompanied by the piano and trombone.

Lunch was served and a happy social half hour spent.

Plans Bicycle Trip To Visit Countrymen

CAMPBELLFORD, August 26 (Examiner Staff Correspondent) — With a reputation locally as a good worker, Jack Meiers of River road, a young man of Swiss nationality planned to leave here this morning on a cycling trip to Toronto—a distance, one way of 120-miles.

Besides visiting the C.N. Exhibition, the young man proposes to call and visit some of his compatriots—and thereby hangs a tale. He got to know his fellow countrymen, who reside in Toronto quite by accident. It is learned that some Swiss people from Toronto were motoring through this district some time ago, and in conversation with a local youth learned that Meiers resided in the town. The Swiss visitors called upon Meiers at the market garden which he works, and the parties cemented a friendship, which is resulting in the youth's bicycle trip to the "Queen City."

Eight tons of pine tree caterpillars were collected from trees stripped by those pests in the district plantations, states the 1932 annual report of the Hong Kong Botanical Forestry Department.

NEURITIS?
Neuralgia? Rheumatism?

Mr. S. Vrooman, Odessa, Ont., says "I had the most dreadful neuritis. Was in hospital for weeks. I got a $1 box of T-R-C's and felt relief before the box was half gone. Six more boxes drove every trace of neuritis from my body. I have had no return of my pain." Equally good for Sciatica, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Lame Back. No harmful drugs. 50c and $1 everywhere. 189

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN

Approximate prices track shipping point—Wheat, 65c to 66c; oats, 32c to 34c; barley, 36c to 41c; rye, 45c to 46c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO—Grains swung sharply upward today in response to a variety of bullish news.

Recurring talk of a Governmental policy on inflation; announcement that the London Wheat Conference had reached an agreement, and strength of securities all combined to register sharply higher opening prices on all grains. Despite some reactions, caused by profit-taking and a lack of vigorous support, the gains were fairly well maintained. Extreme advances of 4c a bushel in wheat and 3c in corn were pared down slightly be recessions.

Wheat closed firm, and 2⅞c to 3½c above Thursday's finish. Corn also firm, and 1⅜c to 2⅜c higher; oats, 1c to 1⅜c up, and provisions 5c to 15c advanced.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL — Very little price changes were shown on the Montreal Dairy and Produce Market yesterday in dull trading. Quebec cheese firmed slightly, while butter was practically easier. Other lines were unchanged from yesterday. The butter market was generally quoted at 18c to 18¼c per pound for No. 1 grade in carlots or less. Receipts totalled 1,470 boxes.

The cheese market was 9½c to 9⅝c a pound for Ontarios, with Quebecs somewhat firmer at 9¼c to 9¼c for white and 9¼c to 9⅜c for colored, the latter being in best demand. Arrivals were 4,067 boxes.

Graded shipments in carlots or less of eggs held about the same.

SOUVENIR BOOK JUST OFF PRESS

Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs Anniversary Convention Program.

BEGINS ON TUESDAY.

Off the press to-day, the Souvenir Booklet of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs' 25th Silver Anniversary Convention, is a reminder that the opening of the convention here is close at hand.

The book contains a number of fine illustrations, including pictures of the City Council, the officials of the Peterborough Utilities Commission; the local Fire Department including Fire Chief George Gimblett, convention host; and past officers of the brigade; as well as pictures of officers of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs.

A history of the local fire department is outlined in the Souvenir Book, and acknowledgment is made by the compilers of the journal of the fact that much of the material used was taken from "The Peterborough Fire Brigade Hstory" written by the late Frank H. Dobbin.

His Worship Mayor R. Denne issues a welcome to the Convention delegates on behalf of the City Council and citizens of this city. It is printed underneath, a striking and characteristic portrait of the Mayor on page 2 of the booklet, opposite a full page picture of Fire Chief Gimblett.

The Chief takes the opportunity of tendering his thanks to the merchants and manufacturers for their financial support, the service clubs and J. J. Duffus Company for the use of their building for exhibits and convention proceedings; and asks the visiting delegates to patronize the advertisers in the booklet.

Convention proceedings open in the Duffus Building on Tuesday morning at ten o'clock.

PARLIAMENT HILL HEARS

By WILFRID EGGLESTON

Aime Boucher, who sat in the House for ten years, but who was unseated last year for election irregularities, thus bringing about the by-election in Yamaska which is to be held October 23, came to Ottawa with a majority of "one vote."

With eighteen to twenty thousand voters in most constituencies, the odds of a member getting elected or defeated by a single vote are extremely low. Yet this has happened a number of times since confederation, and once at least, there was a tie which had to be broken by the returning officer.

• • •

A future cabinet minister was beaten by one vote in 1891. It was Hon. Sydney Arthur Fisher, who ran again in 1896, was successful, was chosen minister of agriculture, and held that post during the whole of the Laurier regime. With his leader he went down to defeat in 1911. His seat was Brome-Missisquoi, in the Eastern Townships.

• • •

J. H. Leduc, Liberal member, won the riding of Nicolet by one vote in the same election. A Conservative named Desjardines, held Hochelago by one vote in 1878. Haldimand and Monck was won by a Liberal (Coulter) by one vote in 1887. J. A. Macdonnell was victor in Selkirk in the historic elections of 1896 by a single vote; and F. M. Carpenter won the old riding of Wentworth South by the same majority.

A tie occurred in the riding of Joliett, Que., in 1887. E. Guilbault, the sitting member, received exactly the same number as his Liberal opponent. The returning officer cast the deciding vote in his favor.

• • •

Once, at least, the returning officer was unable to make a report. Riots occurred at Kamouraska in the election held in Confederation year. T. C. Chapais, one of the fathers of Confederation, and Minister of Agriculture, applied to be seated as the only candidate. Parliament prorogued before action was taken and before it sat again he was elevated to the Senate, where his son, Hon. Thomas Chapais, famous as historian and a man of letters, still sits.

• • •

A tie which could not be broken, occurred in Marquette riding, Manitoba, in 1871. Angus McKay and James S. Lynch each received 282 votes; the returning officer so reported to Parliament. The Committee of elections and Privileges, reported that the returning officer should have declared both members elected. But before the matter was fully cleared up parliament dissolved.

Perhaps the most remarkable of all these election "close shaves" took place in the old riding of Victoria North, Ont., in 1874. In the general election held in January that year, a Liberal, J. Maclennan, was elected, by the slender margin of four votes. In the by-election which had to be held in December of the same year, a Conservative, Hector Cameron, won the fight by exactly the same margin: four votes.

• • •

The only approach to that event I can find in the records is L'Islet, in Quebec, where in 1891, a Conservative won by six votes; in 1896, a Liberal won by six votes. The old riding of Niagara elected A. Morrison, Conservative, with a majority of two; two years later J. B. Plumb, Conservative, won by 20 votes; four years later Plumb was again elected, this time by a majority of three votes and a judicial award.

Rather than a text book on history, geology and meteorology, I would choose anytime a current copy of Hansard. It is like a grabbag; you never know what you are going to encounter. In the speech of one senator made in the recent session, I found these gems:

"For its latitude Ottawa is about the coldest place on earth."

"Everyone knows that at first the earth was very hot. At Rome one can see bulls for the creation of a diocese in Greenland. And I have read in magazines that by looking through ice on Greenland one may observe the remains of huge cathedrals."

• • •

From the same: "When D'Iberville and his brother de Maricourt went to Hudson Bay they had to carry birch practically 200 miles to make canoes.

"They built two canoes—D'Iberville was in one with six men and his brother was in the other with an equal number—and they took two English frigates, the crews of which were all down with the scurvy. I think the world is getting better all the time, in spite of the League of Nations; for at that time when they found those people sick with scurvy and unable to defend themselves, they murdered everyone of them and threw their bodies overboard."

"Then they decided that 14 men, their total number, were not enough to man two ships; so they sank one and put all the furs on board of the other, and brought to Quebec a cargo worth a king's ransom."

Electric "Hammers" Make Sand Paper

NEW YORK, Aug. 26. — (CP) — Thirty-five million particles of "sand" a square inch are made to stand on end like soldier's bayonets with their sharp ends all sticking outward in a new kind of sand paper announced today.

The trick is done with high voltage electricity. The particles are first stood on end like hairs of an electrified human head. When erect they are driven like nails into their sand paper glue bed by "hammers" of electricity.

The announcement was made by Lockhart International of New York. It stated a number of the leading manufacturers have adopted the new process. Also that all sand paper hitherto has been made with the particles spread haphazard, blunt sides upward mixed with sharp points.

The missionaries, all of the American Passionist Mission, were in Yuanchow, 400 miles southwest of here when the town was taken by rebels June 27. They have not been heard from since.

United States in Armament Race

War Spirit Disturbs International Trade—Baltimore Sun Criticizes Administration on Huge Appropriations.

(By H. W. L. MAHOOD)

The American people are awakening to the fact that some $238,000,000 of their taxes are turned over to the makers of war-making machines. This is a serious matter. For the administration has been cutting down domestic enterprises by $5,000,000. Deliberate inconsistency can be interpreted alone in terms of duplicity whether in the individual, or in the nation. The United States has been advocating international understanding and world disarmament. The nations have taken her seriously. Their trust has been turned into alarm. A few weeks ago Secretary Swanson asked for $114,000,000 to modernize battleships and to rehabilitate shore stations, additional. He asked $9,000,000 to build navy airplanes. The grand total for war preparedness by the United States is $361,000,000. This expenditure does not include the appropriations for the army.

What is the perceptible effect of this warlike activity of the nation that has the least of all the nations to fear invasion? The whole world has become war-minded. The other nations have taken this strengthening of the American war forces as a challenge. Japan has flung down the gauntlet. One half of her budget will be invested in increasing and in maintaining her fighting forces. Over and above this Japan will immediately expend on her program of naval building $160,000,000. When a challenge is given by even a weak nation the war spirit of the world is sure to be strengthened. While this is true there are other silent and mighty forces that must be included in the reckoning. The maintainance of peace in such an hour reveals the supremacy of Christianity. Whether it will outmatch duplicity and the war spirit will soon be seen. This writer has no doubt about the outcome.

Spirit Checks Trade

There are other and important considerations. By the strengthening of the war forces of the great nations fear is engendered. The war spirit disturbs international trade. The effect is more disastrous than tariff building. International trade is essential to depression recovery. The more it is restricted the longer will economic recovery be delayed. The Baltimore Sun, one of the sanest newspapers on the American continent, says the government "Has its signals crossed." American newspapers are full of the need of the extension of the nation's trade. The Baltimore Sun calls attention to the treatment of Secretary Hull while at the London Conference. "Hull was not permitted to promote our commerce at London in the normal way by which trade is promoted."

Since the London Conference Secretary Swanson has busied himself to convince his countrymen that a large, well-equipped navy is necessary to support American interests abroad, especially in the promotion of foreign trade and commerce. The Baltimore Sun hits the nail on the head. "This latter item in Secretary Swansons' list of objectives might well give rise to the suggestion: Before we spend some billions to shoot our way to commercial supremacy, we refrain at least from killing off foreign commerce altogether by other means."

This unsparing criticism of the administration by a rock-ribbed Democratic newspaper points to the quality of the publication. Let it be said, also, that this same daily is impartial in all its editorials. It seeks the truth. It is of such independence that no party nor any organization, however strong, can buy its support. It has an unbroken record of honor and courage. The Sun has the exactness, and justice, and mercy of the historian. It reflects credit to have the historical sense. It is the making of a great newspaper.

Significant it is that the ideals of Swanson touching a big navy are not the most statesmanlike views of the Democratic party. A recognized naval authority has spoken out: "Logically navies have only one reason for their existence—success in the next war at sea. All other tasks are subordinate to this single and supreme purpose, and all are contained therein."

Preparation for War.

Naval groups of other nations will not fail to interpret this building-up of the United States Navy as a preparation for war. Every other nation in the world will build accordingly. A race in armaments is the sure fore-runner of war. If you want war, prepare for war. If it is peace the nations longingly await, prepare for peace. To cut armaments to a certain ratio does not make for peace. When nations begin voluntarily to cut armaments to domestic police needs, then peace will have no rival.

Secretary Swanson when a Senator stood for a big navy. His present attitude is consistent with his past record. America is big in many ways. Swanson holds fast to the ideal that his country ought to be, "biggest," in everything. To outrival other nations in vastness of war expenditures is not to the credit of any nation.

ARTISTS REFUSE TO PAY RANSOM

Fear More Pictures Will Be Stolen if They Redeem Ones Held at Present.

POLICE WORK IN SILENCE.

MONTREAL, August 26.— J. Sep. St Charles Montreal painter whose portrait of Dr. J. A. Mireault was one of 16 canvases stolen last April from the gallery of the Montreal Art Association, is unwilling to pay anything for return of his picture.

Mr. St Charles together with Kenneth K. Forbes, well-known Toronto artist, previously announced he was willing to pay 25 per cent of the value of his painting to ensure safe return as demanded in spectacular letters sent by the thieves to city editors of two Montreal dailies. The letters demanding ransom were accompanied by mutilated portions of a picture by Marc Aurele Fortin, also stolen from the gallery.

Mr. Forbes reversed his decision on the grounds that payment of "ransom" for return of his pictures would be the means of encouraging the stealing of more pictures. Reversal of his decision had been made for the same reason Mr St Chares stated yesterday. "We must not let kidnapping become a recognized form of vice in this country," he said.

Meanwhile police are continuing investigation into theft of the pictures, but declined to say what progress had been made.

Junior Farmers Have Successful Picnic

COBOURG, Aug. 26.—(Special)—The Junior Farmer's picnic held at Presqu'ile Point under the direction of Mr. W. H. Smith, Agricultural Representative in Northumberland was a big success and an enjoyable time was spent by many young people. There was bathing and sports of various kinds and at night, dancing in the pavilion, while four ball games took up most of the afternoon.

The first game was between Brighton and Seymour and was tied at the end of the seventh. In the next inning Seymour scored one and they won out. The score by innings:

Seymour .....1 0 0 2 0 2 0 1—6
Brighton .....1 1 0 2 0 0 1 0—5

In the second game between Seymour and Hilton the latter won by a scoreof 11-6. Score by innings:

Hilton .....2 1 0 0 1 7—11
Seymour .....0 0 0 0 2 4— 6

The first girls game between Castleton softball team and Brighton resulted in a sensational victory for the former 33-1.

Castleton and Campbellford girls then tried conclusions and the former again won 17-7.

A CHRISTMAS PRESENT

LONDON, Ont., — London will have a chance to vote itself Tecumseh Park as a Christmas present next December it is indicated.

The popular resort, now privately owned, may be purchased by the city if plans of Ald. Frank Gray acting mayor are fulfilled. He intends starting a motion at next council meeting feeling out the council members on the subject. London, he said, needed a public community recreation centre where baseball, softball, football, rugby and lacrosse would be played.

MANILLA GARAGE LOOTED BY THIEVES

Fisheries Department Stocks Cameron, Sturgeon, Balsam Lakes With Bass.

LINDSAY, August 26 (Examiner Correspondence).—Five - year - old Ray Cotton of Derryville, is in the Ross Hospital here, suffering from serious injuries sustained on Thursday evening. While crossing the highway from his father's shop the little fellow was struck by a car driven by Lionel Washburn of Kitchener. The driver did not see the boy until too late and did everything possible to avert the accident. The youth was still unconscious yesterday, and is suffering from a broken thigh bone and severe body bruises of the face and head.

William Hartwick, aged nine years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hartwick, town, fell out of an apple tree at his home to-day and broke his arm. The boy was removed to the Ross Hospital and an X-ray revealed the fact that the arm was broken in three places.

Fred Rabey's garage at Manilla was broken into early yesterday morning and several hundred dollars' worth of tires, tubes, batteries, auto supplies, tobacco, etc., stolen. The robbers jimmied the door of the rest room in making an entrance.

The Department of Game and Fisheries has stocked Cameron, Sturgeon and Balsam Lakes with an adequate supply of parent bass. The deposits were made by John Barry of Picton.

Miss Agnes Webdale of Kirkfield met with a serious accident on Thursday. She was on horseback with another little girl, when the horse darted. She fell to the ground, breaking her arm at the elbow.

Plumpton Family Gather At Re-union

CAMPBELLFORD, August 26 (Examiner Staff Correspondence) — Sixty-two members of the Plumpton family held an enjoyable re-union at Presqu'ile Point recently. The gathering was so successful that it is to become an annual affair, the family having planned to gather on the first Sunday in July of every year.

The oldest members of the party who gathered at the point were Mrs. Rachael Montgomery, mother of Mrs. John Plumpton of Campbellford, who was 77 years old on August 15, and Mrs Ella Pennatier of Morganston.

Of old pioneer stock in Brighton Township, the relatives came from Campbellford, Morganston, Peterborough, Belleville, Colborne, and Wellington.

John Plumpton, who gave up residence on the old homestead twenty-six years ago, has since been the Campbellford representative of the British-American Oil Company. His brother, David Plumpton, is still on the homestead, while there are two sisters, Mrs. Ella Palmatier and Mrs. M. Carr, both of Morganston.

Mr. and Mrs. John Plumpton of Campbellford have four daughters and two sons. They are: Mrs Elmer Craig of Brighton, Mrs. Fred Haig of town, Mrs. Fred Steinkrauss of Petreborough, and Ruth at home; and sons Gerald of Belleville, and Ralph of town. Ruth and Ralph are twins, the former being the originator of the re-union.

Bank Probe Leaves West For Halifax

WINNIPEG, Aug 26—(CP)—Their labors in Western Canada over, members of the Royal Commission of banking headed by Lord Macmillan today were on their way to Halifax where the Maritime hearings will open Aug. 29.

Latest of the briefs presented to the commission was that of the bankers, read by J. W. Spears, assistant general manager of the Bank of Montreal at yesterday's second and last Manitoba hearing in Winnipeg.

Declaring there were many inherent risks in lending money on the prairies and losses in making loans are inevitable, the brief cited the financing of sowing and harvesting the western crop as 'by far the largest undertaking of the banks on the prairies" and a valuable service to the country.

In bidding farewell to the west Lord Macmillan exressed the "profound hope" of the commission that the prairies would soon see a return to prosperity.

WOULD LICENSE ALL EXPORTS

Put Them Under Government Control is New Zealand Suggestion.

REGULATE IMPORTS.

By CHARLES A. HAYDEN
(C. P. Correspondent)

BANFF, Alta, Aug. 26.—New Zealand's plan of licensing all exports and placing them under government control, with a suggestion imports might also be placed under control in the future, to-day had another examination before a round table at the Institute of Pacific Relations conference.

A member from New Zealand pressed the idea of eliminating chaotic and wasteful production by determining in advance the market that was available for a certain product, limiting production to approximately the market available, and buying, without tariff barriers, goods from the country to which exports had been made.

Obstacles were presented by other members who argued in industrialied countries it would be much more difficult to license and control exports especially from a nation which was trying to push the sale of its goods into all corners of the earth. It also was stated an attempt by governments to set up quotas might end in a worse position than the present.

BUSH FIRE MENACE SPREADS IN ONTARIO

WEEK-END FREE OF DROWNINGS OVER ONTARIO

Two Women Perish, Victims of Separate Automobile Crashes.

ONE IS UNKNOWN.

Roseland Man Dies of Injuries Received in Train Smash.

TORONTO, August 28 (C.P.).—Despite the rather warm weather, not a single drowning was reported in Ontario over the week-end. Two women were killed in motor car accidents, while a third death—that of a man—occurred as a result of injuries received in a level crossing accident last Monday.

Mrs. Alice Gamblin, 35, was killed almost instantly early this morning when thrown from an automobile after the latter had crashed into a transport truck in the east-end of Toronto. The car was driven by the woman's husband, who escaped uninjured.

Police to-day were endeavoring to establish the identity of a woman who died in hospital at Simcoe last night without regaining consciousness. The woman was injured when the car she was riding in with two male companions overturned on Saturday evening near the village of Vanessa. Kindos Sigmund, one of the men, suffered injuries, but is expected to recover. The driver, Chester Beumer of Welland, was unharmed.

Injuries suffered a week ago when his automobile was wrecked by a Pere Marquette Railway locomotive in Walkerville proved fatal to Charles Allen, 73, of Roseland, Ont. Allen died in Windsor hospital yesterday.

SCHOOLS WILL OPEN IN SOUTH

Officials Point Out Very Few Children Have Been Sleeping Sickness Victims.

TOLL NOW 39.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28 (AP)—St. Louis children will tuck their books under their arms and go to school September 5, despite the epidemic of "sleeping sickness" which to-day had taken 39 lives and affected 230 patients.

Dr. Henry Gerling, Superintendent of Instruction, said he found that comparatively few children had been attacked by encephalities, and that even if the epidemic should spread further, the children would receive better protection from the malady in the schoolroom than in their homes.

Specialists studying the disease had before them to-day a report of William Godin, St. Louis resident, who said he saw in his yard an insect similar to the Tse-Tse fly, which is the carrier of sleeping sickness in Africa. Godin said he spent some time in the tropics, where he saw Tse-Tse flies, and that the insect in his yard strongly resembled the African insect.

FATAL DIVE

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—Water off the Kippendavie avenue pier has been 10 feet deep all summer — just right for diving.

Robert Hughson, 18, dived from the pier yesterday and fractured his skull. His condition is serious. the water was only three feet deep.

Heavy seas during the last few days have carried sand from the shore line and packed it around the pier.

Too Warm

MOULINS, France, Aug. 28. —(AP)—When fire broke out Sunday on the regular Paris-Marseilles air mail plane, the wireless operator, Henri Riger, dropped out in a parachute. He landed safely and walked miles to the town of Decise, where he made a report to the gendarmerie.

Meanwhile, the pilot managed to extinguish the flames in air and continued along his scheduled route. He came down at Bron Airport, near Lyons.

Roger caught a train and rejoined the plane.

Irish Ban Blue-Shirted Fascists Following Riots

In an effort to suppress Irish Fascists, or "Blue Shirts," the Irish Free State Government has made liable to arrest and trial before a military tribunal any one publicly announcing membership. Photos above show some of the marchers in General Owen O'Duffy's "blue shirt," national guard and police clearing crowd in front of Dublin Post Office following an attack on "blue Shirts."

MOLEY RESIGNS STATE OFFICE

Secretary Hull Claims Assistant's Move Was Not at His Suggestion.

ASSOCIATES DIFFER.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Raymond Moley to-day was officially out of the State Department position from which his activities were shifted weeks ago, but Secretary Cordell Hull said his assistant's resignation was not at his suggestion.

From his mountain vacation place in Virginia Hull sent word to the press he "had no information beforehand that Professor Moley contemplated resigning" as Assistant Secretary of State. He further said in his formal statement:

"I may add that I can accurately say, in this connection, that I have not at any time offered the slightest suggestion to the President or Mr. Moley relative to any present or future change in the official status of the latter as Assistant Secretary of State.

"I wish Professor Moley every success in his new field, and will at all times gladly co-operate with him in every feasible way, both in that field and all possible points in support of the President."

But Hull's statement failed to alter the view held by associates here that the return to private life of President Roosevelt's busiest advisor was a triumph of the quiet southerner with whom Moley had differed on major policies. These differences began with the Roosevelt administration when Hull became the Government's chief exponent of the internationalism and low tariffs as contrasted with Moley's nationalist leanings.

ROCHESTER PLANE CRASH HURLS THREE TO DEATH

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 28. — (AP)—Three persons were killed in a Sunday aeroplane crash in this area and the lives of four others were saved in another crash only by the skill of the pilot.

At Bath a plane piloted by Donald Macosnic, 28, of Rochester, struck a high-tension wire as he attempted to land, and hurled the pilot and his two passengers to their death. The passengers were Paul Parrish, 50, living at the Bath Soldiers' Home, and Bernard Clark, 19, of Avoca.

Harold Backnof, another Rochester pilot, saved his own life and the lives of his three passengers at Hornell when he successfully performed a dead stick landing after being signalled from another plane that his wheel strut was broken. He landed his plane on the left wheel and wing.

None To Spend

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 (C.P.).—The American Numismatic Association had plenty of money here to-day but none it could spend. On display were coins ranging from Chinese pieces of 700 B.C. to Canadian dollars.

There was a bronze cross which African chieftains of some time ago could use to trade for wives. One man displayed a $5 gold piece he valued at $30,000 because its issue is rare.

TEN SKELETONS ARE UNCOVERED

Remains Are Recognized as Those of Victims Shot Under Machado's Orders.

DURING 1931 REVOLT.

HAVANA, Aug. 28. — (A.P.)—Members of the ABC Secret Society found the remains of 10 men believed by authorities to have been killed by the Army Lieutenant Diez Diaz after an abortive revolution in August, 1931, while digging in the banks of Lake Piedra near Havana late Sunday.

Two skeletons were identified as those of Dr. Andres Bacallao and Jose Hernandez, prominent members of a group opposing the regime of former President Gerardo Machado.

Diez Diaz was killed in May, 1932, by a bomb received in a small package. Four men held in connection with his death were later killed by a military guard.

The search for other remains continued at the lake, in the town of Artemisa, to-day.

Two were killed and four wounded in a shooting affray at the workmen's centre in Aulueta street last night. The disorder was said to have started because of differences between two groups of workmen. Police and soldiers restored order and through the night patrolled the neighborhood.

An exceptionally large amount (5,000 tons) of Canadian flour has been granted permission to enter the Irish Free State for delivery at the end of August. No English flour is being admitted on account of the economic war.

DENY FRICTION IN MOLEY'S MOVE

Friend and Advisor of Roosevelt Will Edit New Astor Weekly Magazine.

CONSULTED PRESIDENT.

(By Francis M. Stephenson)

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 26.—(AP) — Raymond Moley, intimate friend of President Roosevelt and recent storm centre of the administration is going to edit a new weekly magazine to be published by Vincent Astor, another friend and distant relative of Mr. Roosevelt.

The sudden retirement of the Columbia University professor and close advisor of the President was announced yesterday after a talk between the two.

The first break in the official family of the president followed closely an almost open rupture in the state department between Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Moley, the Assistant Secretary.

Mr. Roosevelt is very friendly to both Moley and Hull and all those involved say everything is all right. Certainly there is no break in the friendship between the President and Moley who has been the key man of his group of advisors during the last two years.

"I need not tell you," said Mr. Roosevelt in his letter accepting Moley's resignation, "that I appreciate and shall always remember your participation during these two years in the development of policies based on our common ideals. You have rendered a very definite service to your country, and your departure from an official position to under take an editorship will give you opportunity to carry on the task in an equally wide field."

Moley was just as sincere in his letter of resignation which makes his retirement from office effective on September 7.

Of the new Astor-Moley publication, Astor, who was also at the summer White House yesterday said in a formal statement: "As we see it, there is now, as surely never before, a wide and useful field for a free, impartial, and vivid interpretation each week of the momentous changes taking place in our life. There is also the need of a vehicle for the expression of those ideas and proposals that will tend to direct these forces along planned and progressive channels. To supply such a medium we shall do our utmost."

TIME NOT RIPE FOR ABOLITION OF SPEED LIMIT

President of Ontario Motor League Addresses Rotary Club.

TOURISTS WELL TREATED.

Care, Courtesy and Commonsense Required By Drivers.

A plea for "care, courtesy and common-sense" on the part of automobile drivers throughout the Province was voiced at the Rotary luncheon to-day at the Empress Hotel by Walter Kelly of London, president of the Ontaro Motor League.

Mr. Kelly, who is a regular visitor to this district now that he has located a summer home at Stoney Lake, was introduced to the club by James Juby, president of Peterborough Branch of the O.M.L.

At the conclusion of his interesting and timely address, he was tendered thanks on behalf of the club by President Dr. A. Moir, upon motion of A. Mowat.

Commenting on the enormous increase of highway traffic due to the growing influx of tourists each summer, the speaker stressed the increasing need for vigilance and common-sense on the part of users of the highways.

Treatment of Tourists.

The statement had been made, he said, that tourists in this province were being discriminated against for infractions of the Highway Traffic Act. "That might be the opinion of some tourists," Mr. Kelly stated, "but I don't feel that way about it." He believed that generally speaking the tourists received every consideration from police and magistrates.

He was of the strong opinion that everything possible should be done to encourage the influx of tourists. No one knew the extent of money that was left in this province by tourists, he said.

Mr. Kelly left many worth-while suggestions with his listeners regarding safer driving, and agreed with the Hon. Leopold Macauley, Minister of Highways, that the time was not yet ripe for the abolition of the speed limit on Ontario highways.

Glaring Headlights.

Touching upon the menace of glaring headlights, Mr. Kelly said:

MISHAPS CLAIM TOLL OF EIGHT

Two Constables and Four Other Men Die in Western Car Crashes.

2 CHILDREN DIE IN FIRE.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 28.—(C.P.) — Eight dead and a score injured was the toll taken on highways, and in a farm home fire during the week-end in Western Canada. Recovery of an unidentified body in Lake Winnipeg may solve the disappearance of two youths and a man companion who have been missing for more than a week.

Near Calgary, Sergt. J. J. Blockidge, 53, and Constable Joseph Farrell, 40, both of Lethbridge, were killed in an automobile accident. Four men were killed in highway accidents in British Columbia, the victims being Maurice Carron and J. Wyder, of Quesnel, and Bagwan Singh, and Segurd Lakkan, both of Vancouver. Two children were burned to death when the fire destroyed the home of J. Lotan at Greenshields, Alta.

A two year old girl, Marian Skyrha, was near death in Winnipeg following the destruction of an automobile, in which she was a passenger, by fire.

The car had crashed into a subway pillar. Six other persons were burned and bruised.

Provincial authorities to-day sought to identify the body of a youth found in Lake Winnipeg, and fears were expressed it was one of three amateur sailors who set sail from East Selkirk and been unreported since August 18. They were sailing in a home-made duralumium boat. They are: Herman Hini, 46, Raymond Barker, 22, and his 16 year old brother Gordon sons of J. Barker, of Vancouver, a former Winnipeg Fire Department captain. The Barker brothers returned to Winnipeg from Vancouver three weeks ago.

100 COTTAGES MENACED AT SUMMER RESORT NEAR SIMCOE — FIRES SPREAD IN SOO AREA.

RATTLESNAKE HARBOR, Fitzwilliam Island, Ont., Aug. 28.—(CP)—The worst fire in this island's history was still raging today, as weary firefighters and fishermen anxiously watched the skies and prayed for rain. In three sections of the island, black smoke rolled greasily from the tree tops as the fires, out of control, burned furiously.

At least one lumber camp owned by the Harrison Lumber Company of Owen Sound has already been destroyed. Only about 30 men are available for fighting the fires, and 20 of these came from Owen Sound aboard the tug Harrison, which is in harbor here.

At this point, a group of fishermen with their families are watching the flames anxiously. A change in wind direction will mean the fires will roll down towards this settlement, and force the families to vacate the island either by fish tug or by the Harrison.

Tangled undergrowth and scrub fire have carried the fires over a wide area already, and they are spreading every moment. Not for two weeks has rain fallen, and only rain will help, for the fires are inland and water must be carried from the surrounding bay. The island is situated midway between the Manitoulin and Tobermory, the extreme tip of the Bruce peninsula.

Other Points in Danger

The heavy pall of smoke from bush fires hung over three different areas in Ontario to-day while begrimmed firefighters battled to prevent the spread of the outbreaks.

Long Point Bay near Simcoe, was the scene of a marsh fire, which according to reports, was threatening to destroy the valuable homes of many summer residents. Numerous bush fires were reported in the Sault Ste Marie district, while Fitzwilliam Island in the "narrows" of Georgian Bay between Bruce Peninsula and Manitoulin Island, was experiencing an outbreak of near-record proportions.

The marsh fire at Simcoe had been burning off and on for two weeks. Fanned by a strong south wind the fire broke out anew over the week-end and yesterday, despite the efforts of more than 100 volunteers and Forestry employees it was gradually creeping toward the palatial homes and cottages which stretch for two miles along the shore of the bay.

Fire-menace to summer cottages at Turkey Point resort town 17 miles from Simcoe, on Lake Erie, was alleviated to-day by cool weather and the easing up of a strong northwest wind. Two hundred cottages which were endangered at midnight by the onrushing flames were considered out of danger.

At least $20,000 damage to timber was done by fire that started in the marsh and beside the lake, growing to threatening proportions as winds whipped it along to valuable forest stands.

Cottagers Move Out

At one time yesterday the situation assumed such a threatenng aspect that cottagers carted their household effect to the shore as a precautionary measurs.

Six new outbreaks were reported yesterday in Lond, Montgomery and MacDonald Townships in the Sault Ste. Marie area. Two of the fires were started by lightning, while a third was caused by campers. Men and pumps have been dispatched to the different points and the danger was not considered serious.

Percy Graham, a cousin, received burns to his hands in trying to pull off Hugh's blazing clothes. Russell Harnock, third member of the party, was uninjured

24,000 GIVEN WORK IN JULY OVER CANADA

Total Absorbed in Canadian Industries in Past 4 Months is 104,000.

INDEX RISES 76.0 TO 87.1.

Ontario and Prairies Lead in March Ahead—General Improvement Seen.

OTTAWA, Aug. 28.(CP)—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported to-day that 24,000 persons were absorbed into Canadian industry in July. A survey of all industrial plants with 15 or more employees, showed an aggregate payroll of 804,219 on August 1, the highest employment level for the past 12 months.

In the four months of April, May, June and July, 104,000 persons were added to the industrial payroll of the country, an increase considered larger than the average for the past 13 years. During the same period the index of employment rose from 76.0 to 87.1.

The firms making monthly employment reports to the Bureau give work to about 45 per cent of all wage-earners other than those in agriculture, the professions and domestic service. Considering this, it was estimated the number of unemployed in Canada was reduced by 200,000 in the last four months.

8,261 Firms Report

The number of firms making reports to the bureau was 8,261. A favorable employment trend was noticed generally in manufacturing, including such branches as lumber, canning, leather, pulp and paper, textile, clay, glass, stone and iron and steel. Marked improvement was reported in mining, railway operations and construction.

Conditions improved in July in each of the five economic conditions of the country with employers in Ontario and the prairie provinces taking on the greatest number of extra workers. Employment in the Maritimes, Quebec and British Columbia was at a higher level on Aug. 1 this year than on the same day in 1932, the first time in many months that such a betterment has been indicated.

SLAVE CAMPS ARE ASSAILED BY VETERANS

Delegation From All-Canada Congress Meets Members of Government.

PROMISE CONSIDERATION.

Delegates Have No Money to Return Home Ministers Informed.

OTTAWA, Aug. 28.—(CP)—A delegation representing the All-Canada Congress of War Veterans today laid their complaints as to the treatment of certain veterans before Sir George Perley, Acting Prime Minister, Hon Hugh Guthrie Minister of Justice and Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways.

The spokesman for the veterans attacked the camps conducted by the Department of National defence for unmarried men. They objected to the cut in smaller pensions made by the economy program of the government. And they wanted insurance for widows of returned men who did not come under the pensions regulations.

Consideration Promised

Consideration of the requests was promised by the ministers who will also take up the question of ways and means of getting the delegates back to their homes. They told the ministers that 64 persons including several women had come to Ottawa and had no finances to enable them to get back to their home towns.

"Slave camps" was the term applied to the camp which the Department of National defence has set up to care for unmarried men who have no jobs and no homes. J. MacDonald of Vancouver said and others associated themselves with him, that returned men should have the right to eat and sleep where they wished.

Men Are Content

"We have had reports from the camps," said Sir George "and our information is that the men are well contented in these camps."

Mr. Macdonald said that was not the case in British Columbia where

BELMONT CLUB HAS DISBANDED

Continuing Group Sold Furniture and Closed Rooms.

ORGANIZED IN 1908.

With the disbanding of a continuing group of its former members and the disposal of its remnant furnishings, what might be called its household goods, the Belmont Club passed out of existence Saturday night. It was formally dissolved over a year ago, when the tenancy of the quarters the club had occupied from the time of its organization in 1908 was terminated. Ten of the members formed a bridge group and moved down to several rooms on the second floor of the block on the east side of George street, north of Hunter, but on Saturday night they decided not to carry on for another season.

It is understood that the club's charter was given to the secretary, S. D. Haskill; the group picture, taken in 1918, will be presented to Dr. A. W. McPherson, and the bronze memorial plaque commemorating the war service of its members will likely be placed in the trust of the Ashburnham Women's Patriotic League. The remaining tables, chairs and other furniture was sold, and the final vacation of the building in which the club had been a tenant for twenty-five years was arranged with the landlord.

The Belmont Club for a quarter of a century was one of the out-

FRANCE GIVES HER GUARANTEE TO AUSTRIANS

Stands Ready to Uphold Nation's Political and Economic Independence.

DEFENSES INSPECTED.

Trench and Casement System Runs Along 125 Miles of German Border.

PARIS, Aug. 28. (AP)—France's resolution to guarantee the political and economic independence of Austria was proclaimed by Premier Edouard Daladier as he departed yesterday to inspect $100,000,000 worth of new fortifications on the German frontier.

Although France wishes only peace and intends to pursue a policy of international co-operation, the premier declared, it is a duty "to assure our own liberty which will be better respected when it is known we are capable of guaranteeing it.

"We must also be on guard," he said, "to see that decisions of the regular organisms of European life —the League of Nations and The Hague court of arbitration—are observed and maintained.

"They have notably proclaimed and defined the political and economic independence of Austria. We are resolved to guarantee it.

The smaller, weaker and less populous states have the same rights to free life as those of larger population and area."

The statement was made public just before M. Daladier set out by airplane to Metz for an inspection of the steel and concrete defence chain which has been built in the last three years.

Trench and Casement System

Based on France's war experiences this trench and casement system extends along a 125-mile front between the Rhine and Luxembourg.

It is so constructed that troops would be hidden from enemy view and well protected by the fortifications against bombardment. Trenches link a series of casements—shellproof vaults with embrasures through which artillery and machine guns may be fired—from 1 to 16 miles apart. From this chain, which includes an elaborate system of subterranean barracks connected by tunnels, army officers believe a continuous barrage could be laid down along the frontier.

The new fortifications have been designed to offset the shorter period of army service, and Premier Daladier, who is also Minister of War, has assured the nation that there will be budgetary saving in the cost of materials and increasing efficiency through reorganization, without sacrificing man power.

BUDGET WARNING HANDED FRANCE

Official Claims Failure to Pay Loans Will Shake Public Confidence.

PARIS, Aug. 28. (A.P.)—A warning that failure to balance the 1933 and 1934 budget would endanger the French form of government was before France to-day.

Budget Minister Lucien Lamoureaux, speaking at Boussac, said deficits for 1933 and 1934 are about 9,600,000,000 francs, including 1,000,000,000 francs in overdue payments on government loans which if unpaid would threaten the loss of public confidence.

(The franc was quoted at 5.95 Canadian cents on Saturday's unofficial market in Paris.)

"In such a case he said "we would be exposed to dangers so formidable as to endanger the fate of the regime itself."

He announced that new economies will be proposed in parliament and that the country will be asked to make "new efforts which he hoped it would accept "with courage."

55TH CONSECUTIVE YEAR

FRANCE SENDS TWO WARSHIPS PORT ST. PIERRE

Armed Sailors Patrol Streets as People Protest Taxation.

RIOTS BREAK OUT.

Root of Trouble Blamed to Slump in Rum-running Trade.

ST. PIERRE, Miq., August 28.—Rioting by the populace of St Pierre in protest against the imposition of taxes by the Governor of this French colony has resulted in the rushing of two warships to this port and the occupation of this city by armed sailors.

The sailors are patrolling the streets. Several citizens have been arrested.

The first violence occurred last Monday when large numbers of the populace crowded at the government quarters and protested against the imposition of taxes by the provincial governor, in disregard of the protesting vote of the elected member of the government council. Windows were smashed by the crowd.

The next day the police arrested four former prisoners to whom liberty had been granted until December. A mob promptly assembled at the prison door and, after conferring with the authorities and receiving a refusal to open the doors to the prisoners, smashed down the barrier and released the men.

Two French warships were despatched to St. Pierre, the Dentrecasteaux arriving in the harbor on Thursday and the warship Vi'le D'ys reaching port on Friday.

Sailors went ashore and were deployed through the streets of the city.

Await Word from Paris.

Great War veterans in the colony have voiced indignation over the occupation of the city by armed forces. News now is awaited from Paris by the populace. Leaders of the rioters expressed confidence the French Government would support their stand and that what they described as the "scandalous wasting of public funds" would be ended.

The troubles are attributed by observers as due to a serious depression in the islands resulting from a falling off in the liquor smuggling trade. During the heyday of bootlegging, the colony accumulated millions of francs in revenue through the imposition of an import tax of 40 cents a case on whisky which was sold to rum-runners for as little as $5.00 a case.

Dredging of St. Pierre Harbor became a most important necessity with the increasing use of the port and work was undertaken to permit large steamers to dock at the public quay. Shallows hitherto had necessitated the anchoring of ships in the roads, a mile from the town.

Rum-runners Hard Hit.

The depression has drastically hit rum-runners, and the administration was forced to cease operations before the dredging was completed. Recently, it was reported in St. Johns, the government found itself unable to meet the pay of seven policemen.

FIRE DESTROYS NORWOOD HOUSE

Blaze Threatens Other Buildings But Prevented By Bucket Brigade.

HAVELOCK SENDS AID.

NORWOOD, Aug. 28 (Examiner Correspondent). — Fire Sunday morning destroyed the two-storey dwelling on Queen street of Oliver Buck, occupied by Mr. Aymers. It started about 9 o'clock in the kitchen and had gained considerable headway when first noticed. Although the chemical fire engine and a large number of volunteer workers were on hand in a short time and did heroic work, they were unable to bring the blaze under control

They later turned their efforts to saving the adjoining buildings, the residence of Wilfrid Simpson being threatened, but was finally saved by a large bucket brigade. The furniture of Mr Aymers was carried out, and it is understood the dwelling was partly covered by insurance. Citizens of Norwood generally appreciated the courtesy of Havelock in sending its chemical engine and a number of young men over to help.

Fred. Thain's Barn Destroyed By Fire

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 28.— (By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)—Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed the barn of Fred Thain, eighth line of Rawdon township, Saturday afternoon. The season's crop of grain and hay was destroyed in the fire. Neighbors, who rushed to the rescue, were able to clear the barn of all livestock and fowl before it was completely destroyed. Only a small amount of insurance was carried.

Sales of fertilisers during the year ended June 30, totalled 265,442 tons as against 362,948 tons during the preceding twelve months. Of the 1932-33 total 85,459 were exported, and 179,983 tons were sold in Canada.

Trapped

WATKINS GLEN, N. Y., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Trapped on a narrow ledge, with a 50-foot cliff above and a torrent of water below, a deer licked thirstily at rocks and bushes today while thousands watched it in its plight.

The deer has been there for three days, with only drops of moisture on the rocks to drink. Another deer trapped with it fell into the stream, and was found dead. The animals were believed to have reached the almost inaccessible place in desperation when driven by dogs.

Officials of Watkins Glen State Park may attempt to bridge the gorge, if it can be done without frightening the deer to leap into the water.

SUGGESTS BAN UPON MACHADO

Toronto Man Believes it is Mistake to Let Cuban Into Canada.

WITNESSED UPRISING.

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—In allowing Gerardo Machado, deposed President of Cuba, entry into the country, the Canadian Government will be making a big mistake, in the opinion of Thornton Purkis of Toronto, who has just returned from a five-weeks' trip to Venezuela, Colombia and Cuba.

Mr. Purkis was in Havana during the recent revolution, and has tales to tell of bloodshed, murder and torture. For instance, he saw the shooting of a member of the Porra, or secret police, and later saw members of the A.B.C. student body shoot up the funeral of the policemen.

He never heard of or saw a man so thoroughly despised, he stated, as Machado is by the Cubans. Mr. Purkis is of the opinion that no matter where the diminutive ex-president goes, they will "get" him. He believes Machado's plans will take him eventually to Germany—if he is allowed entry—where, Mr. Purkis hears, a villa has been bought for him.

Mr. Purkis claims that Machado had under his command six or seven hundred of the lowest type of thugs, mostly ex-criminals, who carried out their leader's killings in an attempt to subdue the A.B.C. student body, the activities of which were directed against Machado and his followers.

At least 2,000 student men and women were butchered by Machado's men, Mr. Purkis said, the men being tortured and the woman inhumanly treated. Now the students are systematically 'getting' the more active followers of Machado and particularly members of the Porra.

Mr. Purkis can see no more reason for allowing Machado into Canada than for allowing Stalin if there were a counter-revolution in Russia.

PRISON SYSTEM DEFENSE MADE BY GEN. ORMOND

Denies Solitary Confinement Resorted to or Prisoners "Flogged Like Dogs."

PUBLIC STATEMENT.

Intimates Interpretation Placed on Some Convict's Statements Not Correct.

OTTAWA, Aug. 28 (CP)—Canada's prison system which has for some considerable time been under fire, particularly since the rioting at Portsmouth penitentiary, was stoutly defended to-day in a public statement is issued by Brigadier General D. M. Ormond, superintendent of penitentiaries.

Published charges critical of penitentiary administration are discussed point by point in the superintendent's statement.

General Ormond denies that solitary confinement is an element in penitentiary life and also that any prisoner is "flogged like a dog." He also takes issue with other charges that punishments inflicted in these institutions are of a barbarous nature.

Evidence taken at the trial of a number of convicts who were implicated in the Portsmouth rioting is discussed and commented upon in General Ormond's statement. The interpretation placed by the public upon some of the statements of the convicts, he intimates, was not correct and not in accordance with the known facts.

ARMS USELESS ON A WET DAY

Rheumatism Made Work a Torture

BUT KRUSCHEN PUT HIM RIGHT

Here is a remarkable instance of the manner in which damp weather can affect the joints of one who is subject to rheumatism.

"I had been suffering from rheumatism very badly," a man writes, "and had had such pains in my joints that I could hardly bear it. It used to be terrible on a wet day. I did not know how to use my arms, and when I was at work it was real torture. I tried two different remedies for rheumatism, but I was still as bad after the treatment.

"Then I was told to try Kruschen Salts, and after using one jar I found relief. So of course I have kept on with it, and am now thoroughly better and have never felt so fit for years. I used to feel so miserable and sluggish, but now it is a pleasure to be able to work, instead of a dread."—S. B.

A rheumatic person's system produces that dangerous body-poison known as uric acid. If you could see the knife-edged crystals of uric acid under the microscope, you would readily understand why they cause those cutting pains. And if you could see how Kruschen dulls the sharp edges of these crystals, then dissolves them away altogether, you would agree that this scientific treatment must bring relief from rheumatic agony.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

BRIGHTON AND HASTINGS MEET IN BASEBALL FINALS

HASTINGS, August 28 (Examiner Correspondence). — At a meeting of the executive of the East Northumberland Baseball League held in Castleton on Friday, it was voted not to finish the second half. Hastings and Alderville fought hard to have it finished out, but were outvoted by Colborne and Grafton and the president, who decided the question.

This decision is a hard blow on the local club as they have just rounded out a winning combination and would have taken down second half honors. This very thing might have weighed heavily on the minds of the delegates from the highway towns.

The Sam Clarke Trophy series will take place between Brighton and Hastings the first game on the local diamond next Wednesday afternoon.

FALSE CARDING

FALSE CARDING consists of playing cards out of normal order. If the 10 is led through your Q-J-X you false card if you play the Q, as the normal thing to do is to cover with the J. If well conceived, false carding often proves confusing to opponents. Declarer has no partner to deceive, so he may more safely use deception in his play than the defenders can risk.

False carding often becomes an obsession, thereby losing its possible value. Suppose that you are the declarer and know that the adversary at your right will play the K, from K-Q, whenever he holds that combination. You lead the 9 up to dummy's A-J-10-X, when you must win three tricks in that suit, or try some other method of picking up enough to fulfill your contract. You let the 9 ride, and lose to the Q. At once you know that the addict at your right lacks the K, or he surely would play it instead of the straight play of the Q. Knowing that you can pinch the missing K at your left saves you from trying any other experiment. Habitual false carders are a continual source of revenue to those who know their failing. Sometimes playing cards straight and sometimes false carding always puzzles opponents.

Senseless false carding by the declarer resembles the ostrich burying his head in the sand to conceal his presence.

If the declarer wins the opening lead with the Ace, every player knows that he also holds the K. He will not win the first trick unless he has the suit twice stopped. He cannot be playing a singleton Ace as no trumps are not bid with singletons.

A no trump lead of a Q may be from Q-J and others or from A-Q-J. If the declarer wins the first trick with his Ace, everybody knows that he must still hold the K, but if he wins the first trick with the K nobody can tell where the Ace is. The declarer may be afraid not to make good his K when possible.

Suppose the declarer has A-K-Q of a suit, when a no trump lead is made of the J. That lead may be made from A-J-10, K-J-10 or J-10-9. If the declarer wins the trick, either with Ace or K, he is false carding, still holding an equally high honor. Suppose the lead of the J is from J-10-9. If the Q wins the first trick the impression is given that the leaders has the A-K-J, the K-J-10 or A-J-10. If the second lead is won with the K over the 10 it looks as if the leader might hold the Ace. If the first trick is won with the Q and the next with the Ace, it looks as if the leader may have the K, whereas the lead may have been from only J-10-9 and the declarer still may have the K.

False carding with low cards never produces any impression to poor players but it may prove very deceptive to careful observers. Be careful about false carding unless you do it skillfully.

Dust ruffles are staging a real come-back with the new skirts that lie on the floor.

JUST AMONG US GIRLS

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Today is Monday—"Blue Monday" as it is often called by many and "wash day" as it is known to nearly everyone!

• • • • • •

Monday seems to be the usual wash day here in Peterborough and everywhere one went today, there were clothes flapping in the breeze.

• • • • • •

And if you took particular notice, they were found to be all colors, all shapes and hung up in an amusing manner—some of them.

• • • • • •

If you happened out along the country roads, no doubt you noticed that many farmers' wives hang their clothes along the front verandah and often an otherwise attractive ground is marred by the clothesline.

• • • • • •

There is one thing which one needs when hanging out washing besides clothes pins and that is a pin bag.

• • • • • •

A good one fulfils two requirements—it must be so made that the pins can be taken out and put in easily and it must have some means of remaining conveniently within reach.

• • • • • •

The one I have in mind, the openings are sufficiently large and numerous for the pins to be handy from four sides, and there is a hook by which the bag can he hung on the line and shifted along to any needed place.

• • • • • •

The material needed is a square of stout textile and a hook such as is used to hold the hammock. The size of the square is determined by the size of the bag required. Twenty-seven to thirty inches is usually large enough and a square of the goods is sufficient.

• • • • • •

To make a bag, hem the two sides with raw edges, making the turnings very narrow. Sew the top of each corner to the plate of the hook, taking stitches through the screw holes.

• • • • • •

You will notice that there is one screw hole for each corner of the square. Openings to the bag are ample and the container is big enough to hold a large number of pins. It takes but a few moments to make such a bag.

ONE THING the hay fever patient owes to himself is to know what plants cause his distress and to know what they look like.

If every hay fever victim could identify the offending plant perhaps instead of admiring the appearance of some graceful greens growing along the fence of his yard, or in the vacant lot across the street, he might think only of the stinging eyes, the running nose, the wheezing and stuffiness they cause. Then he would get to work and cut them down and burn them, and perhaps mitigate some of his agony.

For if there is any one sure thing about the disease it is that the heaviness, the concentration and the amount of the pollen in the air, determines the amount of distress. Many patients get no relief from vaccine treatment just because the pollination is too heavy during the season they tried the treatment, or because there are too many hay fever plants around their homes.

Most hay fever is caused by ragweed. But in most parts of the country there are complicating factors—which means other plants whose pollens cause hay fever and to which many persons are sensitive, as well as to ragweed. In other words, they have a double or multiple sensitiveness.

What these other plants are has been the lifelong study of O. C Durham, a botanist, who has done fine work in the determination of the amount of pollen in the air in different seasons in the United States. He has just published his findings in a medical journal.

Only a few states have no ragweed—California, Washington, Arizona and New Mexico. Canada has very little, in most parts none. For practical purposes Colorado, Idaho, northern Michigan, Montana, Utah, western Texas have none — or so little as hardly to count.

But all states have some other hay fever-producing plant. The most frequent is lamb's quarters. It is found very little in the eastern part of the country, but grows in considerable profusion in the very states that are free from ragweed. I have before me a survey from California and New Mexico. It is even cultivated in gardens or near houses, perhaps by the very people who are suffering from its ravages.

Sage is another plant which causes hay fever, and is liable to grow in non-hay fever districts—the Rocky Mountain region.

Goldenrod presents a peculiar problem. It has, in the popular mind, been universally supposed to be the only cause of hay fever, and this error has been perpetuated probably because it grows in such showy profusion at the very time of the onset of hay fever symptoms. But it probably plays a very small part in causing any such trouble. A recent study by Vaughn concludes that while unquestionably goldenrod pollen can cause hay fever if the sensitive patient comes in actual contact with it—puts the plant right to the nose—the heavy, sticky pollen is not carried by the wind.

Insull's Hearing Is Set For Tuesday

ATHENS, Aug. 28. —(AP)— The Athens appeal court today fixed Tuesday morning for hearing the application for formal sanction for Samuel Insull's arrest in connection with United States extradition proceedings.

The return of the former Chicago Utilities operator, who was detained Saturday is sought in connection with the financial collapse of his interests.

The point involved in the pending action is whether he will continue in detention pending the outcome of the extradition proceedings.

Deputy Pericles Rhalli was retained to assist in the defence of Insull, who was detained Saturday in a second attempt to extradite him. He was in a nursing home on advice of physicians.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

THE LOVELY Sylvia Sidney, of the movies, is the possesor of one of the loveliest "crowning glories" in the entire screen firmament. Sylvia's hair is thick and luxuriant, and she means to keep it so. She gives it plenty of lubrication. And she's careful about sun exposure, too. For she knows that too much sunshine is not good for the hair.

Gladys Glad

Very few women seem to realize the fact that hair burns as readily as skin. When a woman's hair has had too much sunshine, there's no pain attached to the burning, and she does not realize that her tresses require treating. The only time that she realizes that fact is when, at the end of the summer, her hair has become dry, discolored, strawy and brittle.

Of course, sun and wind are excellent for the hair and scalp—in proper doses. But over-exposure is as bad for the hair as it is for the skin. And so the thing to do always is to protect the hair from the sun's rays. What with beach umbrellas, floppy beach hats, wide-brimmed street hats and jaunty berets that shouldn't be hard.

The big girl athlete who takes her tennis, golfing and swimming seriously, however, often refuses to be bothered with a hat. She's a regular water-rat when she's at the beach, a regular Helen Wills when she's on the court, a regular Helen Hicks when she's on the links. She's out for sport, and forgets her hair until the season's ended and she gets a good look at her drab, sun-baked locks.

However, there's a means of protection for even such femmes who don't want to bother with hats, umbrellas and the like. And that is the protection afforded by the use of good oil: If you're going to the beach, or intend playing tennis or golf, take a fine atomizer with you. Fill it with a good oil, and then spray your hair with it before you sit in the sun. Mineral oil, which is the chief ingredient of most brillantines, is especially good for this purpose. Don't worry that your hair will appear greasy afterward, for you'll be surprised at how speedily the sun will absorb that oil. And yet the oil will afford your hair sufficient protection from the sun's rays to keep it soft and glossy during the entire summer season.

Kingfisher Rescued By Two Young Men

Valiantly fighting a losing battle with a clam that held fast to its beak, a Kingfisher was rescued from the certain death which faced it, when Howard Shackleton of this city, and Kenneth Valleau of Oshawa, happened along and released the bird.

The incident occurred during a canoe trip over the week-end, on the channel between Pencil and Catchacoma Lakes. The two men were on a log shute, when they witnessed the thrilling struggle which the little Kingfisher was making to free itself from the deadly grip in which its was held by the clam. The bird was at the point of exhaustion, its head held under water by the weight of the clam on its beak. Occasionally the bird would muster enough energy to free its head from the water for a brief breathing spell.

Rescuing the bird, the men pried the shell fish open with two penknives, releasing its hold on the bird's beak. They afterwards freed the Kingfisher, which was able to fly feebly away.

Price Of Gasoline Is Increased Half Cent

Hundreds of motorists who took to the open road over the week-end found they had to dig into their "Jeans" to fork out an extra half cent per gallon for their gasoline. The prices took a general advance of half a point on all grades, towards the end of last week.

Of the larger gasoline and oil distributors in the city, retail prices were quoted this morning that registere a spread of one cent on the primary and secondary grades, as between different companies. On the top grades of gasoline thirty cents, plus tax, was being generally quoted. The primary grades were being quoted at 24½ and 25½ cents a gallon, with secondary grades of gasoline at 26½ and 27½ cents plus government tax. None of the distributors could advance any reasons for the increase in prices.

PLENTY OF MATERIAL.

A considerable amount of publicity—most of doubtless propaganda—was devoted last week to the fact that as a grandstand attraction at the Toronto Exhibition men were wanted to drive an automobile in a head-on collision with another car at 40 miles an hour.

Judging by the way a good many people drive it should not be difficult to find any amount of motorists willing to take a chance for a salary, seeing that they are accustomed to run such risks without pay every day of the week—although if they were required to slow down to 40 miles an hour they might find the task difficult.

The Stratford Beacon-Herald comes to the rescue with the suggestion that if those advertising for men would only use their heads they can have the stunt done for nothing.

They could sure arrange, points out the Stratford paper, to have one of the provincial highways detoured so that it would pass in front of the C.N.E. grandstand. Then they would have a chance to allow their patrons to see all manner of things. Pedestrians would be mowed down, the cars would sideswipe, and the cutter-in would show what an ass he really it.

There should be a lot of material for the stunts required in Toronto.

ONE GOOD MAN WILL BE LOST.

The nomination of Hon. Duncan Marshall, former Minister of Agriculture in Alberta and a recognized authority on livestock breeding and other branches of farming, as Liberal candidate in the Provincial riding of Peel has been widely acclaimed.

Mr. Marshall is recognized even by the political opponents as possessing qualities that can be successfully devoted to public service and his re-entrance into politics is regarded as an excellent thing.

One disturbing feature, however, is that brought forward by the St. Thomas Times-Journal, which expresses regret that Hon. Mr. Marshall should have been nominated for Peel county for that will bring him into competition with Hon. T. L. Kennedy, the present Minister of Agriculture; a contest that means that the services of one man will be lost no matter how the election terminates.

As the St. Thomas paper puts it, there is room for both a Kennedy and a Marshall in the next Legislature and it seems a pity that political strategy is causing a situation which will involve the loss of one of these two experienced legislators, both of whom have served as Minister of Agriculture and both of whom have exceptional qualifications for representing the farmers of Ontario at Queen's Park.

THE CORRECT ATTITUDE.

It is gratifying to note that the directors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition are looking forward to their annual week's exhibition with calm confidence, satisfied with the program they have prepared and reyling upon the support of the people of the city and district.

In times of economic stress such an attitude is challenging and encouraging.

It would have been the easy road to cut down expenditures, to cheapen the exhibition's list of attractions, to be less generous in the matter of prizes, to put the affairs on a depression basis, but the Peterborough directors are made of sterner stuff.

They have refused to yield a step to the pressure of unusual times; on the contrary they have built a bigger and better fair, rightly believing that in so doing they are sounding a note of encouragement to the whole community and setting a pace for the district generally.

In signing up such an attraction as the famous band of His Majesty's Scots' Guards, the Peterborough Exhibition is maintaining its prestige and its reputation for providing its patrons with the best talent that can be procured.

The enterprise shown in that step should be recognized by record patronage for this year's fair.

AVERAGE BANK ACCOUNT SMALL.

The idea that the public savings in Canada's banks is a fund that can be drawn upon for all and sundry purposes, including the flotation of new government loans, is exploded in the monthly commercial letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, which declares there are limitations to the use of these funds for such a purpose.

This is made clear by an analysis of the deposits and loans of the Bank of Commerce which, it is pointed out, can be accepted as representative of the relative figures for the whole banking system.

The 426 millions of total public deposits held by the Bank of Commerce on May 31st were distributed through about 1,100,000 accounts, which means an average balance of less than $400.

If saving accounts alone were taken into consideration the average balance was still lower, namely $327 while about 850,000 of these accounts were of $500 or less.

There were only 112,000 accounts showing balances between $500 and $5,000 and 5,500 accounts of over $5,000.

The larger balances, it should be noted, were generally held by the manufacturing and large trading concerns and represented in the main their surplus working funds to be used for buying raw materials and paying wages once there is a further revival in the demand for goods.

That girl who fought an octupus successfully while her father ground a movie camera, would seem to be safe in a rumble seat, even.—Detroit News.

LITERACY IN CANADA.

We are accustomed to boast of the excellence of Ontario's educational system and it must come as a shock to many people to learn that, notwithstanding the instruction in at least the rudiments of education which are now all but universally available, there are today—or were in 1931, when the most recent census was taken—no fewer than 64,157 individuals in the province over the age of ten years who can neither read nor write, with another 7,357 capable only of reading.

In relation to the total population of Ontario, these figures are comparatively small and yet the Bureau of Statistics assures us that the 64,157 illiterates represent 2.30 per cent. of the population with another 0.26 per cent. represented by those able only to read and not to write.

Even more startling is the knowledge that throughout the Dominion as a whole there are fully 309,396 people over ten years of age—that is, 3.79 per cent. of the country's population—who confess to census enumerators that they cannot read or write, that they are, according to census terminology, wholly illiterate.

The only consolation to be drawn from the statistics presented by the Census Bureau is that the percentage of illiteracy displays a constant tendency to decerase, having fallen from 5.10 per cent. in 1921 to 3.79 per cent. in 1931. The opportunities for education enosidered, the day will probably arrive when the illiterate will become almost unknown in Canada. Certainly, there is today, except in rare instances, no excuse for his existence.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

"YOU NEVER MISS THE WATER, ETC."

(By Rusticus in Stratford Beacon-Herald)

When the city man thinks of water he naturally thinks of a tap where water under pressure is available at all times. The farmer thinks of the well, from which he may draw pure clean water from the rocks under the earth and as long as those taps and wells keep on giving forth the desired amount of water we take our water supply for granted. Should they fail us we would really begin to appreciate the value of water and the convenience of a never-failing tap or well.

This summer though there has not been the usual amount of rainfall. Well do we remember other seasons when farmers have felt mighty blue because it rained on their dry hay or grain. This year we would have been glad for a good shower even though the hay was ready to put in. We learned to appreciate water as it falls from the sky.

All farm wells are not sunk to rock springs. Many of them depend upon a spring much nearer the surface for their supply of water. In a dry summer these wells are apt to go dry. We know of several that have given up supplying the customary flow of water this summer. Others were just about dry. They could be pumped dry, but if given a rest more water would come in a few hours.

A farm uses up a large amount of water. The horses when they come in from a hard session on the cultivator of the binder can quite handily gulp down several pails full. The cows on a hot day use up a tremendous lot of liquid refreshments. You can't expect a horse to work without a drink any more than you can a man. The cow that is watered at an empty trough can not produce milk. Nor yet will the steer that has not a regular water supply lay on fat. Water is as essential to health, comfort and thrift of farm animals as feed.

* * * *

A farmer told us some weeks ago that he had something like seventy-five head of cattle on grass. The grass was getting mighty short but his biggest problem was water. The pump on the well absolutely refused to function because the bottom end of the pipe was in a dry hole, and this farmer claimed that this particular well had never failed before.

We can well appreciate what this farmer was up up against. There have been times when our windmill failed to work the pump and we have had to use arm power to supply our stock with the necessary drinks. Did they drink? Most any farmer can possibly tell of such occasions, and he will probably add that stock drink more water when the supply is short than when the tank is full.

When the well plays out the water must either be drawn to the cattle or the cattle driven to the water. There isn't much choice. A miserable problem exists for the stockman. It is this same problem coupled with the lack of grass that has been causing the abnormally heavy runs of plain cattle at our leading stock yards these past few months. The live stock grazers are facing and in many cases taking a tremendous loss. Those of us fortunate enough to have good wells take our water supply for granted. We never really realize what an asset that good well is. The fact is that if a dry summer does come when the well fed by a smaller spring dries up, those of us with the never-failing wells manage to do just as much grumbling as the other fellow. In fact we are likely to be so busy grumbling about the weather, the government, and the "Big Interests" that we overlook the many real things we have a right to be thankful for—and a good well is one of them. Yes, a good well is one of our major blessings.

VACATION ESCAPADE

By ARTHUR SHUMWAY

CHAPTER 8.

Next morning Sally awoke early with the sun in her eyes as it came climbing up out of the eastern horizon over the ocean, a red and gold ball of amazing beauty. She stretched lazily under the sheet and thin pink blanket and propped her head up with her arms. Life in Florida was wonderful, even if that life might be on the crater of a smouldering volcano of mystery, suspicion and danger.

She jumped up, a slim but softly rounded figure in her pale blue pajamas, and leaned out the window to greet the ripening morning. The rhythm of the surf was by now a familiar, but nonetheless lovely, music that served as a background for life there by the beach.

This morning, however, she became conscious of a foreign sound beneath her window. She looked down quickly and saw a broad, bare brown back. She recognized it as that of the muscular mahogany-tanned Fred Proctor. What was he doing there? He seemed to be drawing pictures in the soft sand a little to the left of her room. Or no—he was digging; he was scooping up handfuls of the nearly white, finely ground substance and letting it trickle slowly from between his partly opened fingers. He was clad only in his blue and white bathing trunks.

Perhaps Sally moved, perhaps she made some little sound; whatever it was, something startled Fred Proctor and his sinewy back straightened like a powerful spring released, and Sally found herself looking into his deep-set hard black eyes. She nearly fell from her perch. Somehow, she managed a weak smile and an embarrassed, "Good morning, Mr. Proctor."

Already, he was his urbane self. He was smiling and he said, "Good morning, Miss Gwynne. You're up early."

"It was the sun," she explained. "It wakes me early every morning, but I love it."

"There's nothing like a Florida sunrise," Fred Proctor said. "I'm sorry I don't get up oftener myself, but my room is on the north side of the house and I'm afraid I've formed bad rising habits. Whenever I can, though, I manage to trot out for a plunge just as the sun comes up out of Africa over there."

"I don't blame you," Sally said.

"You haven't a match up there?" Proctor asked casually.

"Certainly," Sally said. She ran to her dresser and got a box.

"I dropped my lighter here in the sand," Proctor explained when she returned to the window.

She was about to toss the matches down when he said, "Why don't you bring them down in your bathing suit? A morning dip would start the day off right."

"All right," Sally agreed.

She stepped back from the window, slipped out of the pale blue pajamas and into her backless orange bathing suit. She surveyed herself before the mirror and had to agree, despite an attempt to placate her modesty, that she was rather fetching.

Sally hurried downstairs the back way and joined Fred Proctor. He was sitting in the sand where he had been digging.

"Race you into the surf," he suggested.

"You're on!"

And they were off. Proctor's lean, hard-muscled brown legs stretched out and carried him well ahead. Sally could not help admiring this unusual example of almost perfect masculine physique. He jumped far out into the water, ran on stumbling to the first line of surf, which at that hour was gentle and low, jumped again, then dived and struck the bottom of the next line like an arrow of polished mahogany.

In a moment Sally was beside him, swimming a strong crawl. They swam, shoulder to shoulder, a hundred yards or more, until Proctor paused, raised his hand and let down his feet. Sally followed his example and was surprised to find that she stood on a firm, wave-rippled foundation of hard-packed sand.

"The sandbar," he explained. "You never want to go out beyond here unless someone is with you and even then I wouldn't advise it."

"Why not?" Sally asked. "It doesn't look any worse than Lake Michigan and I swim away out there."

"I know, but it gets pretty rough out here sometimes, and it just isn't the thing to do."

They swam about for a while, then raced in to shore. As they walked out onto the sand, Sally was conscious again of Proctor's penetrating scrutiny. The wet orange bathing suit clung to her tightly and she could feel the man inwardly smacking his lips. She recalled the way he had studied her in the wind that first lunch time on the balcony; she recalled also what Ted Chandler had told her of his reputation for lecherousness; and she recalled, too—though why she didn't know—what Ted had said: "Keep your bedroom door locked and your eyes open."

Suddenly she realized that she had nearly neglected the latter part of that admonition. She had kept her eyes open, yes, but they had almost failed to see. Why had Fred Proctor been digging in the sand? Had he really lost his lighter? She must remember to tell Ted.

After breakfast with Proctor on the balcony, Sally sat in the library at a little desk typing letters while her employer sat near by in a big chair reading the morning mail, when Jasper came in, a little light brown wraith in his white suit.

"They's a gen'man to see you, Mist' Proctah," he announced.

'Who is it?" Proctor asked, without looking up.

'Mist' Chan'ler, sah," Jasper explained.

Sally's heart began to bump.

'What does he want?"

Sally did not dare look at Proctor, but she was relieved to hear the casual tone of his question.

'He wants to see y'all personal, sah."

'Well—tell him to come in."

Sally went on typing until she heard footsteps, quick, athletic, familiar footsteps coming into the library. She glanced up and saw Ted neatly dressed in blue. He looked directly at her but gave no sign of recognition. 'Good morning," he said in a business-like tone. 'Mr. Proctor?"

'What can I do for you?" Fred Proctor asked without rising.

Sally started to get up to leave the room.

'No, that's quite all right, Miss Gwynne," Proctor said.

She sat down and listened carefully.

'I'm looking for work, Mr. Proctor," Ted said.

"Well," Proctor replied, noncommitally.

"I'm perfectly at home with motors of any kind, sir," Ted said easily. "Automobile, marine, or airplane for that matter, and I understand you have two boats and a couple of cars. I thought perhaps ——"

"Handy man, aren't you?" Proctor said.

"Well, yes, sir, I am at that. I thought you might need a chauffeur or someone to work on one of the boats. I can do any kind of work, though, and the salary isn't any object. All I want is to get a job."

"Who sent you, Mr. Chandler?"

"Why, over at the boatyard. I was looking for work there and they told me you had two boats."

"I see." Proctor paused. Sally—and for that matter, Ted—scarcely could breathe.

"Where you from?" Proctor asked.

"Detroit, sir. I've been down at Miami for a while."

"I see." Proctor paused again. "So you know airplanes, do you? Pilot?"

"Yes, sir. Transport."

"Well. Well, I've been playing with the idea of a plane. I wonder. . . . I'll tell you, Mr. Chandler, my uncle had a chauffeur but he wasn't much on motors. Now that the old man is gone I don't need anyone to drive me around, but you might be handy to keep the cars in trim and I might be able to work you in around the boats. Meanwhile, I'll give that airplane idea some thought. When could you start to work?"

Sally nearly gasped.

"Right away, sir."

"See me here at eight o'clock tomorrow morning."

"Thank you, Mr. Proctor."

Sally heard Ted's footsteps die away, heard the door open and close.

"See that young man?" Proctor asked.

"No, sir. That is, I just caught a glimpse ——"

"Handy young man," Proctor said laconically.

Sally wondered if he suspected.

ALL OF US

By MARSHALL MASLIN

All the characters in Virginia Bartlett's "Mistress of Monterey" are fictitious, she says, except one old lady and her monkey....which is quite different from characters in modern English novels. They always contain a note swearing that none of the characters are taken from life, as if every novelist didn't take his characters from life....

Sir Francis Younghusband, one of the boyhood heroes of the Browser, has written a book in observation of his seventieth year. It is "The Living Universe," from the point of view of the astronomer, the biologist, the philosopher and the mystic....Wasn't it the same Younghusband who tried to climb Mt. Everest and failed so valorously?

Jessie Lilienthal says he had to leave a lot of good material out of "Gambler's Wife," but he left plenty of Malinda Jenkins' salty remarks in.

"You ain't heard yet," said she, "of this twenty-three year old card-dealing whippersnaper by the name of William Graham Jenkins, but you will....I wasn't no more able to resist him and his handsome face than you could expect a bulldog to smile at a cat. I was crazy and I knew it, and I didn't care....Suddenly it came to me: Try him even if it lasts a year and the worst that can happen if it comes to the worst, you can divorce him....Jenky was a handsome scamp, but I often thought about it since—maybe I was more in love with love than with the man."....Maybe she was, too, for a fact. But she married him and had an exciting life and never regretted a bit of it.

Ruth Comfort Mitchell is raising Percheron horses and selling them to farmers who haven't any gasoline for their tractors .... Inez Hayes Irwin has written "Angels and Amazons: A Hundred Years of American Women," which is a history of the development of the American....And Mary Borden's "The Technique of Marriage" ought to be a successful book, even though it's so sensible. Two quotations: "Engaged couples are like a couple of explorers starting off with a bag full of sweatmeats as provisions... Romantic marriage never has been safe; it gets more dangerous as the world whirls on".....

The Atlantic says that Dudley Fitts, who teaches English at the Choate School, is translating Archibald MacLeish's "Conquistador" into Castilian. The Spanish will like it.

The Blurb Department of G. P. Putnam's Sons, as an advertisement for Sherwin Cody's "New Art of Writing and Speaking the English Language," says that "both President and Mrs. Roosevelt speak English of the utmost refinement, yet with complete democratic informality" and "for perhaps the first time in American history good English has become thoroughly democratic"....It's the Browser's proud opinion that there is more good writing to-day than at any time in the history of the world. Pussbudgets may object, but WHEN were more people writing well than now?....

* * *

The Browser always is getting shocks. Last week he read in Ernest Jones' little book on psychoanalysis something about "the people who are notoriously bad at returning books they have borrowed." He says: "Their convenient forgetfulness betrays a tendency to acquisition, which for a particular unconscious reason is specially apt to get connected with books, a tendency they may very well repudiate if taxed with it, and quite sincerely so."....

It isn't so, it isn't so, it isn't so. (1) The Browser borrows a book and reads it. (2) He doesn't take it right back. (3) It gets upon the bookshelf with the other books. (4) When he finds it, two months later, he's ashamed of himself, and delays and delays taking it back, and the longer he delays taking it back, and the longer he delays the worse he feels. So that's how it is, Mr. Jones with

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

WHAT CAUSED RICHMOND'S DEATH"

On This Date, in 1819 the Duke of Richmond, then governor general, died near Bytown (Ottawa) mentally unsound. There are varying stories of the cause of his death; one school has it that he went mad as a result of a bite from a pet fox or a parlor dog; others hold to the belief that he was the victim of a congenital disease, which has been politely camouflaged because of his station; but whatever the cause his end was terrible. His son, Lord William Lennox, thus explained the insanity:

"His first visit was to Fort William Nevr, or Sorel, a fort on the south bank of the St. Lawrence, where an incident occurred of a most frightful nature that totally changed the aspect of our hitherto happy residence in this distant colony. One of the soldiers in attendance had brought with him a pet fox and Captain Fitz-Roy a bull terrier, and the dog was permitted to worry the other animal, till, on landing at Fort William Henry, the latter had become in an excited state. According to a circumstantial account by an officer present, the Governor General was on the point of mounting his horse to inspect the garrison, when the fox, then in the courtyard of the commandant's quarters, attracted his attention and he stopped to play with it. As his grace was petting its head, he snapped at his hand, biting him slightly. 'You will, will you, you rascal?' cried the duke, shaking him by the ear. Instantly the brute seized him near the lower joint of the thumb, making his teeth to meet in the flesh.

"It has been affirmed that the wound was a severe one and bled profusely I however, am inclined to think it was not regarded at the time as of any consequence. I remember joining my father in a short period after the incident and his hand was not bound up; but, indeed, I believe the dog was worrying the fox; and that my father in separating them received a slight scratch from one of the enraged animals. When his grace arrived at Kingston the wound had completely healed.

And that apparently was that; but on August 23, when he was dining with officers at Perth, then an important military station, the duke, while sipping his claret, observed to Colonel Cockburn, 'I don't know how it is Cockburn but I cannot relish my wine to-night as usual and I feel that if I were a dog, I should be shot for a mad one."

This naturally caused alarm; the duke was watched closely; and the next morning was persuaded to allow a surgeon to bleed him. But the mania was getting complete control of him; he could not drink and shrank from the very sight of the water in his foot bath. On the fatal morning his breakfast was untouched, but he was persuaded to go out where a canoe was awaiting for a trip down the rapids. The sight of the water brought on a spasm. His grace, however, made a desperate effort. "Charles Lennox," he cried, "was never afraid of anything," and stepped into the boat. The effort, however, was more than nature could endure, for as the men were plying their blades, he presently seized one by the throat and commanded him to make for the shore. He was obeyed, and directly the boat touched land his grace sprang out and ran at the ton of his speed into the woods. He was pursued and carried to a barn where he passed away after terrible suffering. The building is yet standing and is marked by a memorial tablet.

The fox theory seems to be contradicted by a statement that as the governor lay there in the miserable barn he dictated a letter to his daughter, Lady Mary Lennox, in which he reminded her that a favorite dog belonging to the household was in a room at the castle of St. Louis (Quebec) when the duke, shaving, cut his chin, and the dog was lifted up to lick the wound, when the animal bit his grace's chin. That dog suddenly went mad and was killed and in his dying letter the duke asserted that his disorder was hydrophobia. His body was taken to Quebec and buried in Holy Trinity cathedral.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterborough's Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner.

C. E. Garvey,
Indian River.

Your handwriting shows that you are versatile. You are really quite clever and capable of attending to more than one line of endeavour at the same time, and you appear to be able to claim accuracy in each. Your thoughts fly about like electric impulses ever ready to radiate in the ether, and gather the spreading waves of other thoughts. Thus you are able to picture an object, place or idea, the moment it is mentioned. You really should possess a wonderful faculty for remembering numbers, such as phone calls, dates, house numerals, not to mention countless other important items in that line. BUT, the other side of your nature causes you to put articles away so well, with every intention of remembering where, then when you want them, they are not to be found. I do not mean to imply that this trait would occur in an office, because routine would predominate there, but about the home where there are many places in which to tuck things away. You are kind, loving and fairly ambitious, with a leaning towards teaching or writing.

Marjorie Lillian Briston,
R.R. 2, Millbrook.

Your writing shows that you are rather inclined to be impulsive at times, and perhaps too enthusiastic over impending projects, but you lose interest if the question at stake requires more of your time and energy than you had at first anticipated. As a rule your type have a propensity to talk too fast when excited. This trait can be overcome by the study of monologues, or anything in the line of speaking or acting. It would no doubt create an outlet for your emotions, and your desire for self expressions. Colors should appeal very strongly to you, and therefore, you should make it a point to wear the most suitable ones whenever possible.

Mrs. V. Gilmour,
Campbellcroft, Ont.

This handwriting indicates that you have an artistic temperament and ability, but you do not wish to tell others about it. You attract attention through your modest quiet disposition. You are secretive and reticent. You can and do mind your own business and you expect other people to do the same. Part of your signature shows decision and discretion, but another part portrays anxiety and worry due to mental strain. You are gifted yith the ability to impart knowledge to others, especially those things which experience has taught you. You should be quite well able to make a success of any venture or enterprise upon which you have set your heart.

A Thought

He travelled here, he travelled there;
But not the value of a hair
Was head or heart the better.

But noble souls through dust and heat
Rise from disaster and defeat
The stronger.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (AP) — Stocks moved listlessly in a narrow range to-day after recovering opening losses of fractions of more than a point. Motor shares were fairly firm, General Motors improving about a point in relatively heavy trading. Net advances of fractions to more than a point were shown by New York Central, Johns-Manville, American Telephone, American International, Montgomery Ward, Du Pont and Chrysler. Equivalent recessions were registered by Allied Chemical, United States Steel, Westinghouse, Sears Roebuck and Celanese.

Transfers approximated 1,950,080.

TORONTO MINING

TORONTO, Aug. 28 (CP)—With the general tone firm to strong and much higher prices in a few individual cases, the Standard Mining Market started the new week with a definitely upward tendency. Most of the senior gold shares were up moderately, base metals registered gains as a group and the silver stocks were higher at the close.

Buying of International Nickel was active from the opening and the price, after a temporary lapse at the end of the first hour, pushed ahead to 22.20 and closed at $22 for a net gain of 10 cents. Noranda finished 20 cents higher.

In the golds, Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves and Hollinger gained about 10 to 15 cents each Bralorne gained 58, Lake Shore 55, while Dome lost 30 cents, and McIntyre $1.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, Aug. 28 (C.P.).—The carry over of Friday's market enthusiasm was short-lived to-day on the Toronto Stock Exchange, and gains recorded in the first hour were, in a majority of cases, erased by narrow losses before the close. New York's indefinite movements were a handicap on interlisted shares. Meal and food shares were persistently strong throughout the day. Nickel closing at $22, up 10 cents, and Smelters at 133 for a gain of a point. C.P.R., Brazilian and Ford of Canada closed practically unchanged.

Distillery issues were barely firm after the opening spurt. Walkers Common closed at 49¾, off ¼; Distillers Seagram at 29⅝, down 1; Industrial Alcohol at 19¼, unchanged, and Brewers and Distillers at 2.70, down 5 cents.

The market opened higher and active but weakened when New York dipped in the second hour. Buying became more definite around noon, and prices crept ahead again. Nickel pushing up to 22.00. Cockshutt Plow to 12, and Smelters to 134, while the general list firmed also.

General Motors' strong advance in New York attracted interest to Ford of Canada, which traded in good volume around 17. Distillery shares were off the narrow fractions. Trading in the group also was less than usual except in Walkers Common.

WAYSIDE GOLD MINES.

Wayside Mines is obtaining good results from development, and is working two eight-hour shifts daily, according to a wire received over the week-end. Work is proceeding in 5 ore faces. Drifting on the second level shows a vein width of 6 feet with values of $38.40 per ton. It is the intention to continue the drift on this horizon for 50 feet and then to put in another cross cut. The ore zone is said to be 20 feet wide between foot and hanging walls and assays over the entire width range from $38.00 to $40.00 per ton.

The management proposes to start a program of raises from the fourth to the first level to ascertain correction of ore encountered. This work will take about 6 weeks and when completed will give 560 feet of backs.

The Hydro-Electric power development is said to be completed and fully paid for. The new electrically driven compressor and blacksmith shop are working satisfactorily.

BRALORNE.

Important developments are said to be taking place at Bralorne Gold Mines in the Bridge River district of British Columbia, with new veins being located at frequent intervals. According to latest word, two new occurrences were located during the past week, one being an unidentified vein in the vicinity of the shaft vein, and the other was the picking up of the ore west of the fault on the No. 7 level with the ore body in one place showing a width of better than 50 feet.

KIRKLAND HUDSON BAY.

Kirkland Hudson Bay Mines is said to have dropped its option on the property of the Aiscnbach Mines in Grenfell Township. No reason is given for the action.

McMILLAN GOLD MINES.

G. A. Foote, vice-president of McMillan, yesterday advised the local office that four channel assays taken from the Lake Shore vein averaged $61.40 per ton in gold over a width of four to five feet. The management plans to ship some 20 tons of this high grade for test purposes.

DENY HUNTING NATALIE CARR

Taschereau Admits, However, Information Regarding Student is Being Prepared For Him.

RELATIVES' MOVE NEXT.

RIVIERE DU LOUP, Quec., Aug. 28.— (C.P.)—The disappearance of Miss Natalie Carr, wealthy Vassar student of Clinton, Conn., and New York City, is under investigation, Premier L. A. Taschereau, who is also Attorney General of Quebec, said here before returning to his offices in Quebec. Information respecting the 19 year old girl is, however, being prepared for him, the Premier said, and he would consider the possibility of any investigation after perusal of the report.

Miss Carr vanished about the middle of July. There was evidence that she had been in this province a day or so afterward and it was rumored she had re-entered a convent at St. Hyacinthe, where she received part of her education. The Mother Superior of the institution said, however, this was not correct. At the instance of the girl's relatives, who declared themselves opposed to her entering religious life, provincial police made a search for her.

The police inquiry resulted in an intimation the girl's whereabouts was known and she was well and happy. Officials declared, however, that legally she appeared to be entitled to do as she pleased and they were not taking any action. The responsibility for any further proceedings must rest upon the girl's relatives.

Premier Taschereau did not elaborate upon his remarks and it was assumed he was to receive police reports as Attorney General in the usual course of events.

MARKET SPURT EXPECTED SOON

Magazine "Steel" Foresees General Higher Prices in September.

LACKS STIMULUS.

CLEVELAND, August 28 (C.P.).—Noting a further reduction in steel works operations of three points last week, the magazine Steel said to-day that the downward swing is expected to collide with a general rise in prices some time in September.

"A further reduction in the steel works rate to 48 per cent. accurately gauges the downward trend during the past week," the magazine's weekly review said.

"With seasonal influences operating in practically all consuming fields the market still lacking the stimulus of higher prices, and the Government's public works program maturing with disappointing slowness, it appears this trend will extend into September.

"Some time in that month the downward swing is expected to collide with a general rise in prices which steel makers hope will arrest the decline.

"Uncertainties over the N.R.A.'s effect on the steel industry are being dissipated. Steelmakers are filing prices which will apply under their code for the remainder of this quarter."

Three and Out

WINGHAM, Ont., Aug. 28. — (C.P.).—Three times and out may work pretty generally but not for the fire that started in Robert Kick's home here. It had two strikes on it before delivering a very decisive blow.

The fire started among some clothing in the morning and members of the family put it out. Strike one! At noon it broke out again, and the fire department was summoned. They placed it under control. Two!

Five hours later the flames destroyed the house, razing it to the ground.

SLAVE CAMPS ARE ASSAILED

they were driving the men so hard that the returned men could not stand it. "A man who has fought for his country should not be put into slave camps," he declared.

Dr. Manion asked what was wrong with the camps. "How would you like to work for 20 cents a day," he was asked.

"I would not," Dr. Manion replied, "but when a man has no family and no friends, and is without a job, I should think a camp where he could live and do some work and receive 20 cents a day would be acceptable until he could get a job."

The Canadian Legion and Army and Navy Veterans' Association both disassociate themselves with the All-Canada Congress. Spokesmen however declare to-day that individual units of these organizations were behind them.

The delegation was composed of nine men and six women. Received in the historic Prime Minister's office in the east block they settled themselves in the comfortable chairs and chesterfields and told the acting head of the government what their alleged grievances were. Sir George insisted that no one should have to stand while making his presentation.

Capitalist War

As the delegation concluded one of the women approached the minister. "I tell you, Sir George," she said with emphasis, "that no son of mine will ever fight again in a capitalistic war."

"I hope we will never have another war," Sir George replied.

A sad touch came when the delegates made known to the Government that they were stranded in Ottawa. Unless something were done they would have to stay here.

"But you were told before you left by the Department of National Defence that it would not be responsible for supplying you transportation either to or from Ottawa" Sir George replied. "There is no fund from which we can pay your fares back home. It would run up to $1,000. You say that five come from Vancouver?"

T. J. Montague of Toronto said he was the man given the responsibility for financing the trip and many contributions promised had not been forthcoming. He was greatly worried as to what would happen the 64 persons now assembled in the capital.

Bennett Gave $50

"You can find the money," Mr. Montague urged Sir George. "Mr. Bennett gave us $50 when I was on a delegation some time ago."

"That was out of his own pocket" Sir George suggested. He would not mind giving a similar contribution himself but if the government started paying back the railway fares of all delegations which landed in Ottawa, it would be in serious trouble. It was decided that the entire cabinet meeting to-morrow would see what could be done.

J. C. Wilsor of Winnipeg, introduced the delegation and spokesmen included J. Macdonald, Vancouver; William Halsall, Hamilton; John O'Neil, Windsor; T. J. Montague, Toronto; F. Lee, Montreal; J. Strywack, Toronto. They said they represented 40 branches.

One point emphasized by the delegates and which seemed to make considerable impression was in the case of returned men whose allowances for relief were no more than they would receive from the municipality as relief were they not veterans. In such instances the returned man was receiving no real recompense for his service.

The arguments were advanced that politics played a part in pensions. This was immediately denied by Dr. Manion.

$80,000 SHARE.

LONDON, Ont. — Huron Diocese Anglicans have contributed $80,000 to the Church of England's "Restoration Fund" and the campaign in this district has been closed for the year, it was announced to-day by Archdeacon W. J. Doherty. Of this total $34,000 was in cash donations.

23 Lose Their Lives, Sunny British Holiday

LONDON, Aug. 28 (C.P. Cable).—Another week-end of sunshine brought to the front pages of to-day's newspapers a total of 23 persons killed and a huge list of injured in numerous motorcar accidents. A large proportion of the victims were motor-cyclists with pillion riders.

On Saturday and Sunday the routes from London to the southern seaside resorts resembled roads to Epsom on Derby Day. Two thousand cars an hour passed Esher last evening on the return journey.

Most curious of all the accidents was one at Aberdeen. An air circus aeroplane, flying upside down, came low and struck a motorcar, ripping the roof off. The plane then crashed into the river, but both the pilot and the car's occupants escaped injury.

Moir of the Rotary Club on behalf of the membership.

Another arrival early this afternoon was Fire Chief W. A. White of Regina, while a large group of delegates was expected from the east on the afternoon train.

Police Court

Pleading not guilty to a charge of having 30 gallons of mash suitable for the manufacture of liquor, contrary to the provisions of the Inland Revenue Act, Archibald Roy Dettman, 37, of Kinmount, was this morning remanded to Friday next.

The defendant was arrested on Sunday in Galway Township by Provincial Constable Porter. Owing to the nature of the charge the case was turned over to R.C.M.P. Constable T. P. Woods of Lindsay. Defendant was represented by J. A. O'Brien. It was intimated that the Crown would not be ready to proceed on Friday, and that owing to the fact that the main witnesses reside in the north country, the trial would be further adjourned to Kinmount.

Arrested on Saturday morning on a charge of reckless driving, William A. Hoskin, of Coboconk, was released on bail in the sum of $500. He will appear in Traffic Court on Wednesday of this week.

It is alleged by Provincial Motorcycle Patrol Officer E. A. Hornick that Hoskin was driving on Lindsay Highway at a speed of 80 miles per hour, and that at one time the car containing three passengers went off the pavement on to the shoulder of the road.

Use for Weeds

ROCK HILL, S.C., Aug. 28.—(A.P.)—At last a solution for your surplus weed crop—cross the weeds with tomatoes.

Wyly Digger of the Government experimental station at Sand Hill, near Columbia, exhibited evidence of the grafting here.

He showed a Simpson weed with several healthy tomatoes growing on the same stem with a thorny Simpson bar.

The two plants were grafted early this year.

SPORT OF KINGS

By ART MURRAY

(Special to Examiner.)

Devonshire came to a close on Saturday before one of the largest crowds that ever attended this popular track. The feature race of the day was won by Mrs. Badame's KHORASAN, who triumphed over one of the classiest fields of handicap performers that have gone to the post this year and right here we may mention that this one will win a good many more before they ring down the curtain in Canada for this season.

• • •

There will be no racing in Ontario for a couple of days, but on Wednesday Stamford Park at Niagara Falls opens its gates to what should be one of the most successful meetings ever enjoyed by this popular and conenientv race-course

• • •

We will now give you a few specials to paste in your hat for this meet. They tell me that WATERGAP who has been resting at this track nearly all Summer is just rarin' to go, so don't be looking out the window when you happen to notice his name among the entries. TOP HATTIE is another that simply runs wild on this track and when you figure that he has not won a race all Summer you can easily see that he will pay a generous dividend. We also expect to see a trick called BOLD BENDIGO cop one or two purses at this meeting. He is in first class condition and ready to run to the Rocky Mountains. He won his last start at Fort Erie and paid forty-seven dollars for the usual two-dollar investment. CARLYDON, one of the Conny Smythe stable, is also very partial to Stamford and he will come down in front by a city block with the evergreen "Dude" Foden siting in the pilot house. We also want to recommend for your consideration, if you are coming to Niagara Falls, one called LOMMERN. This former Seagramite has a lot of class and any distance at a mile or over suits him right down to the ground.

• • •

SIR BYRON is back in his old barn again, Ex-Alderman Leslie of Toronto was successful in claiming him back again the other day at Devonshire after having lost him earlier in the Summer and take it from us Leslie certainly knows how to get the best results with this oil-burner so tab him for future reference. We also want to advise you that one called TARNISH can do a lot better than he has been doing lately. They have been simply fooling with this one and when the stable decides to shoot both barrels he will run away and hide on the ones that have been beating him.

We want to specially draw your attention to YELLOW METAL. He is easily one of the most consistent platers in training on the Canadian circuit at the present time and is just short of handicap calibre. Some of these fine days you will see him just laugh his way home to the tune of a pretty fair price at his owners are a lot better than greenhands at the horse-racing game.

FOUR OF FIVE FUGITIVES ARE BACK IN BURWASH

SUDBURY, Ont., Aug. 28.—(CP) —Four of the five prisoners of the Burwash industrial farm who escaped on Friday and Saturday have today been recaptured by the authorities. One of the convicts, Kenneth Holleywood, 18, who, along with two companions made a break from the dormitory of No. 2 camp as he was being locked up after supper, is thought to have made a clear get-away.

The two who escaped with Holleywood, Lorne Mitchell, 23, and Ronald Alfred Parks, 27, were captured last night on the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks nearly 10 miles from the farm.

Lorne Kennedy and Roy Voelper, two trusties who escaped Friday night, were also arrested yesterday at Wakup, about 12 miles north of the prison camp.

U. S. BANK PROBE TAKES NEW TURN

Judge Orders Conservators to Check on Criminal Acts in Management.

WILL EXAMINE BOOKS.

DETROIT, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Judge Harry B. Quidan, sitting as Detroit's one-man bank investigating jury, said to-day he will order conservators of the Union Guardian Trust Company and the Detroit Trust Co., to examine the books of their institutions to determine whether or not there have been criminal acts in conduct or management.

The action, he said, follows the testimony of United States Senator James Couzens before the jury that the Union Guardian Trust Co. "jockeyed" the $10,000,000 children's fund of Michigan which the senator founded out of $200,000, and that the closed First National Bank-Detroit and the Detroit Trust Trust Co. "switched" funds in order to increase their respective cash positions.

The Judge said that the conservators of the two institutions were appointed by the Circuit Court, and the order to them to perform the examination will be the same as though the grand jury carried out the investigation. Harry J. Fox is conservator for the Detroit Trust Co., and George H. Kirchner for the Union Guardian Trust Co.

Arthur J. Lacy, attorney for Senator Couzens and for the Detroit Trust Co., on the stand to-day, testified that so far as he has been able to learn, there has been no criminal action in the conduct of the Trust Company.

Nine Badly Burned In Gas Explosion

WHITING, Ind., Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Nine men were burned seriously and 10 others slightly to-day by a gas explosion in the Whiting refinery of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

Officials of the company said about 50 other workers escaped injury because of a warning given by I. C. Wheeler, an assistant superintendent. Wheeler noticed the odor of the escaping gas before the explosion.

The seriously injured were taken to a hospital at East Chicago.

The explosion occurred in an unused unit of the refinery. It was believed one or more of the injured might die.

PRETZEL TENDERS' BOON.

NEW YORK. — Here's a "break" for the pretzel benders. The pretzel people have presented a N.R.A. code to Washington which calls for 40 cents an hour for skilful twisters, according to Benjamin J. Lebowitz, pretzel leader of Williamsburg. Sometimes your bender under present circumstances gets no more than 10 cents.

IN MEMORIAM.

GRAHAM.—In loving memory of my dear husband, Christopher Graham, who passed away on August 28th, 1932.

"Even death has a wonderful mission;
Though it robs us of those we love,
It draws us from our surroundings
To long for the meeting above.
No matter how heavy our loss is,
No matter how great our despair,
Doesn't Heaven seem nearer and dearer
To know that some loved ones are there?"

—Sadly missed by his wife, Maud Graham, Havelock, Ont.

ALLEN. — In fond and loving memory of Bert, the dearly beloved son of Mrs. Albert Allen, who was drowned in Little Lake, Peterborough, on August 28th, 1925.

"God needed one more angel around
His shining throne,
So He bent a loving hand and took our loved one home.
To think we could not say good-bye
will always bring regret,
But the ones who loved you so dearly, Bert,
Are the ones who never forget."
"Rest in Peace."

—Sadly missed by his loving Mother, Sister and Brothers.

Paralysis Blamed For 2 Girls' Deaths

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Infantile paralysis today was blamed by Buffalo City Hospital officials as the cause of the deaths of two Niagara Falls girls about a week ago.

The girls, Geraldine Rudd, four, and her two-year-old Sister, Barbara, were stricken August 16, and four days later the younger child died.

The older girl, believed on the road to recovery, died the next day. Unable to classify the disease which caused death, Niagara Falls physicians sought the aid of city hospital doctors.

Dr. Walter S. Goodale, superintendent of the hospital, announced last night that on the basis of an examination of the organs of Geraldine he was convinced poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis, caused death. He said further tests are being made to confirm his conclusion but he was satisfied that the disease had been properly diagnosed.

CHARLES PAYNE IS ACQUITTED

Judgment Reserved on Charge of Driving While Intoxicated.

STILL IS FOUND.

Charles Payne, of 251 Soudan Avenue, Toronto, was acquitted on a charge of having liquor in a place other than a residence, following a lengthy hearing before Police Magistrate O. A. Langley in County Police Court here this morning.

Upon a second charge of driving a car while under the influence of liquor, the Magistrate reserved judgment. The defendant was represented by J. A. O'Brien.

The two charges against the defendant resulted from an accident in which he was involved at Norwood on the night of August 19, in which Mr. ad Mrs. Ernest Colby of that village were injured, when their buggy was crashed into by a car driven by Payne. The horse was killed.

V. J. McElderry, K.C., County Crown Attorney, conducted the prosecution, and after he had completed his case, Mr. O'Brien moved for a dismissal on the grounds that the Crown had produced no evidence to show who had been driving the car; no evidence that the liquid in the bottles found near the scene of the accident was beer or wine; and no evidence to connect the driver of the car with the bottles found by the roadside.

The Crown Attorney contended that the case rested upon the evidence of William Chatten of Norwood, who testified that he saw two men take a bottle from the rumble seat of the car and "set it under the buggy."

Mr. O'Brien argued that even so, the witness had not been able to identify the men who had taken the bottle from the car, and was not prepared to swear that it was the defendant.

Obituary

MRS. CHARLES IVORY

OMEMEE, August 28 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late Mrs. Charles Ivory, whose death occurred on Tuesday, was held from her late residence on Thursday afternoon, Rev. Dr. Reddick, pastor Trinity United Church, conducting the service. Rev. A. T. Weir read the lesson and Rev. Dr. Nugent, a close frend of the family, read two familiar hymns from Mrs. Ivory's own hymn book. Rev. D. Stonson of Enterprise, an Omemee boy, pronounced the Benediction.

The late Mrs. Ivory, whose maiden name was Sarah S. McQuade, was a daughter of the late Arthur McQuade, ex-M.P., and Mrs. McQuade, and was born in Emily Township. She came to Omemee to reside in September, 1868, when she married Mr. Ivory.

Deceased had apparently been in her usual good health previous to an attack of appendicitis which she suffered a week previous to her death. During her residence here she was a most devoted member and active worker of Trinity United Church, being a life member of the W.M.S. and member of the Women's Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivory would have celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding in September.

Besides her husband she leaves one daughter, Mrs. H. Lamb, and one grandchild, Miss Jessie Lamb; also two brothers, Messrs. G. A. McQuade and B. J. McQuade.

The pall-bearers were O. G. Williamson, R. Williamson, W. Stephenson, G. Griffin, of Omemee, and W. H. Ivory and James Ivory of Toronto.

JUDGE DOUBTS RULING RIGHTS OF SPORT BODY

Suggests That Decisions Concerning Player's Status Too Arbitrary.

GRANTS INJUNCTION.

TORONTO, Aug. 28. —(CP)—Mr. Justice J. M. McEvoy expressed doubt at Osgoode Hall today that the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada has power "to arbitrarily declare a man a non-amateur by their own sweet will with no one having the right to question it" in granting Gerard McNulty, baseball player, a further interim injunction restraining the A.A.U. from keeping him out of amateur competition.

The 21-year-old Hamilton athlete took his case to the courts following his suspension by the Ontario branch of the A. A. U. Mr. Justice McEvoy had placed before him a motion for a permanent injuction restraining the amateur body from "proceeding further" with McNulty's suspension.

On Aug. 21 an interim injunction was granted and this was extended today until Wednesday referring to the first injunction, Mr. Justice McEvoy said:

"I granted that interim injunction only for a week in order that these union officials could answer promptly to the allegations made.

"I want to know why these people are so anxious to have this man tied up as a non amateur. Why shouldn't this question be settled as to their power to so declare him so, before it is done? Why should this man be declared an amateur before there is more known about it? Why should this Union go on serving notices about this until this is determined?

"The main thing is," replied D. M. Findlay, counsel for the Amateur Union, "that this organization has the say as to what men shall play as amateurs and who shall not. If they have not their decisions are not of much use; they might as well stop now."

"I am only questioning the right of this body to declare a man a non-amateur with no one having the right to question it," said Mr. Justice McEvoy. Mr. Findlay said McNulty still had a right of appeal to the Union.

YOUTH STEALS FIREMAN'S CAR

Holds London Captain Up at Point of Toy Pistol and Takes $4 in Cash.

TAKEN AT CHATHAM.

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 28 (CP)—A 16-year-old Chatham youth is held by Sandwich police to-day for the hold-up of a London, Ont., fireman, with a toy pistol. He is charged with armed robbery.

As police tell it, the boy thumbed a ride from Captain Charles Gray at Blenheim as the London firefighter motored to Windsor. He sat quietly beside the driver until the car reached Maidstone, then suddenly jambed his gun into Wray's ribs.

Through Maidstone and on down the highway the young robber directed Wray to drive. The order was given to stop, Wray turned over $4 in cash and got out of the car. The Bandit drove away, leaving the captain to walk into Maidstone.

Police posted sentries on principal highways within a half-hour and the boy was arrested as he drove into Chatham. John O'Neil, garage owner, who chased the stolen car for miles, said he was forced to travel at 65 miles an hour to keep the fleeing auto in sight.

The youngster carried a knife, police said, but no gun when he was arrested. He said it was a toy pistol he used to hold up Wray and that he threw it away immediately after forcing the London man out of the car.

Doctor Discloses Star's Real Illness

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(A.P.)—As an aftermath of Helen Jacobs' sensational victory over Helen Wills-Moody in the United States' women's tennis championship, Miss Jacobs' doctor to-day disclosed why the titleholder played through the tournament agains this advice and that itw as necessary to resort almost daily to stimulants to keep her going.

Miss Jacobs, according to Dr. Thomas C. Chalmers of Forest Hills, suffered "acute inflammation and condition of the gall bladder," in addition to which "her heart condition was by no means as good as it should have been."

The physician explained that the champion's insistence upon her "duty" to play through to the finish in defense of the championship was such that he was compelled to yield to her wishes.

Stimulants were used by Miss Jacobs between the second and third sets of her match with Mrs. Moody, who defaulted after losing the first three games of the final set.

SPECIAL PRIZE FOR FIRE CHIEFS.

President "Andy" Brown of Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club announces that the lawn bowlers have devised a special prize drawing for the delegates to the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs' Convention, only. Each delegate to the convention purchasing a book of tickets on the car draw, he explained, will also have a chance on a set of silverware to be given away on the last day of the convention.

Mr. Brown stated that on account of the convention program being so full, the club had considered it inadvisable to think of organizing a tournament in which the delegates might participate as a body. He was pleased, however, he said, to extend a cordial invitation on behalf of the club to any delegate who desired, to call at the club for a game when the opportunity presented itself.

Weddings

SEARLES—PREST.

At twelve o'clock noon on Saturday, a pretty wedding was quietly solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Prest, Lansdowne street, by the Rev. C. D. Daniel, pastor of Mark Street United Church, when Olive May, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Prest, was united in marriage to Mr. Robert Cecil Searles, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Searles of Trenton.

The house was tastefully decorated with a profusion of pink gladioli.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely frock of shell pink appliqued net, with matching accessories, and carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses and lily of the valley.

The bridesmaid, Miss Beatrice Searles, sister of the bridegroom, was in pale pink embroidered chiffon organdie and carried pink gladioli and gypsophila.

Mr. Edward Hutton of Trenton, acted as best man.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents. Later, Mr. Searles and his bride left on a fortnight's motor trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo.

The bride travelled in a beige ensemble trimmed with fur, with matching accessories. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Searles will live at 103 Morrow street.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a baquette diamond set wrist watch, to the bridesmaid a sapphire necklace and to the best man a silver cigarette case.

JANEWAY WINS HALF MILE SWIM AT "THE JACKS"

Successful Regatta is Held in City on Saturday Afternoon.

MANY ENTRANTS.

Alderman Tuggey Presented Prizes and He is Given a Pipe.

The attractive program of water sports promoted by Miss Ruth Sutton and Jack Bennett to celebrate the erection of the new diving pier and diving board at "The Jacks" drew a large list of entrants and a big crowd of spectators Saturday afternoon.

One of the high lights of the regatta was the boys' half-mile swim, which was won by Vern Janeway; his time for the distance being 21 minutes, with Gordon Pammett coming second at a 23-minute clip.

The girls' half-mile swim was well contested and proved a real thriller, being won by Miss Helen Cole, whose time was 27 minutes, with Miss Merrill Smith second.

The judges had difficulty in deciding the winners in the diving contests, and it was necessary to run off several ties.

Keen competition featured every event and at the end of the program the contestants and audience were invited to Alderman Fred Tuggey's lawn for the presentation of prizes.

When they had assembled on the lawn Mr. Tuggey, who alone is responsible for the erection of the pier at "The Jacks," said he felt well repaid for his labors on witnessing the real enjoyment the young folks received from the afternoon sports. Mr. Tuggey said he was ready at all times and felt it his duty to do anything in his power to help the younger ones get all the pleasure possible from the city's natural beauty spots. The advantage of being able to swim and dive was strongly stressed by Mr. Tuggey. He also paid glowing tribute to the organization work of Miss Sutton and Mr. Bennett in promoting the regatta.

Mr. Tuggey received three rousing cheers from the enthusiastic crowd and was presented with a pipe by Mr. Bennett as an expression of the swimmers' goodwill and a token of their appreciation of his good work for them.

Those donating prizes and sponsoring the event were as follows: P. J. Harrison, George Dormer, Gordon Hall, Mrs. Jack Gillespie, Millards', J. Minicola, The Ovaltine Company, Knox Jewelry, Mrs. LeBarr, Soden's, Trellcock Bros., W. H. Lacey, Higgins Hardware, Dutton's Tea Shop, Stocks Bread, and Peterborough Bread Co. The following donated money: Mrs. (Dr.) Sutton, Mrs. Cornell, Miss Wade, Mrs. Wade, Mrs. Kinter, and Messrs. McDougall, Beal, Ashby and Joe Detcher.

Mr. Tuggey, in a very happy manner, presented prizes to the following winners:

Girls' ½-mile swim—1 Helen Cole, 2, Merrill Smith; 3, Gladys Carvolth.

Boys' ½-mile swim—1, Vernon Janeway; 2, Gordon Pammett, 3, Bruce Patterson.

Jr. Boys, 75 yards—1, Herbert Galley; 2, Wm. Staunton.

Jr. Girls' 75 yards—1, Gwen Davies; 2, Nina Land.

Jr. Boys', 50 yards—1, H. Galley; 2 Jerrie Brault.

Jr. Girls' 50 yards—1, G. Davies; 2, N. Land.

Jr. Boys' Diving—1, Jerrie Brault; 2, Ross Packenham.

Jr. Girls' Diving—1, Agnes Richardson; 2, Lily Long.

Jr. Mixed Medley Race, won by Eleanor Flynn's team (Jerrie Brault; Leonore Thomas, Edith Law).

Jr. Boys' Pillow Fight—Jerrie Brault.

Girls' Pillow Fight—Nina Land.

Boys' 50-yard race—1, V. Janeway; 2, Gordon Pammett.

Girls' 50-yard race—1, Ruby Milburn; 2, Hazel Bradley.

Boys' 100-yard Breast Stroke—1, M. Lucan; 2, S. Perrier.

Girls' 100-yard Breast Stroke—1, Helen Cole.

Sr. Mixed Medley Relay—V. Janeway, H. Cole, A. Holmes, H. Bradley.

Sr. Girls' Diving—1, Hazel Bradley; 2, Helen Cole.

Sr. Boys' Diving—1, C. Routley; 2, V. Janeway; 3, N. Stanger.

Encouraged by the success of this regatta, the committee in charge are considering making it an annual event. It is to be hoped the good work will be continued for education in swimming and diving means a great deal to growing youngsters and merits the support of citizens generally.

"If you cannot see when approaching a car with glaring headlights, stop as I do. You will get by safely and without the danger of running down a pedestrian."

Mr. Kelly discussed the advantages of membership in the O.M.L. and stated that despite the economic depression the organization with a membership of about 30,000 motorists had experienced a net gain last year of 3,000 members.

Among the guests at the luncheon in addition to some of the advance delegates to the Dominion Fire Chiefs' Convention and Chief George Gimblett, the convention host, were Ralph Whitaker of Bradford, England, and Mr. Sanderson, the new manager of the Auburn Mills, who was the guest of Rotarian Dave Melton.

The return of Rotarian G. A. Macdonald from a trip to Britain was noted, while announcement was made by Fred L. Roy that John Crane was making satisfactory recovery from his illness.

"Gossip and Such"

ONE OF THE SAD things about baseball is that its best stuff comes off unannounced. The no-hit, 20-inning and other extraordinary games happen usually before a small mid-week coterie of fans and rarely before a Sunday mob.

If only the followers of the game could know in advance that in a certain tilt Babe Ruth was going to hit four homers or that a pitcher would slug an umpire or that just back of first base there'd be a gorgeous blonde with uneasy eyes—you couldn't keep 'em out of a ball park.

But in baseball no one knows and the customer must take his chance at the turnstiles since the management and the newspapers can predict only double headers in advance and that, too often, is a promise that the afternoon will be twice as dull as ordinarily.

All of which brings us to the point that what was probably one of the best attractions, from a sentimental standpoint, presented in a ball park this year recently took place in Chicago on a blue Monday afternoon.

* * *

IT WAS THAT now famous White Sox-Yankee extra inning disturbance which lasted four hours and 11 minutes and 18 complete stanzas.

The last seven rounds of that struggle saw Herb Pennock, the 39--year-old Squire of Kennett Square pitted against Urban (Red) Faber, age 42, who owns the last spitball delivery remaining in the American League.

These two old gaffers put on an exhibition of old-time hurling that any old-timer would have given a week's salary (including the N.R.A. increase to see.

That it ended in a tie was most fortunate. We'd hate to see either of those veterans lose what unquestionably will prove to have been their last duel.

* * *

IT IS DOUBTFUL whether Faber remains with the Sox for another season. With the team being built for bigger and better things old Red can hardly hope to retain his post. It is generally believed that he has been kept this long, partly through sentiment and partly because he can teach the youngsters a lot of tricks.

The same thing is true in Herb Pennock's case. The old Squire has very little left aside from his mound cunning which is considerable for Herb is just about the smartest pitcher in the game. He'd last forever if he could do the thinking and utilize some rookie's arm for the slinging.

In the revision of the Yankee line-up which is sure to come this winter Pennock most likely will go the way of all baseball flesh.

However, he and Faber have the satisfaction of having shown boys something in the art of pitching effort—whatever consolation that may be.

TAKE HAVELOCK IN SECOND GAME BY NARROW WIN

Vicitors Bunch Hits in Second to Gain Early Lead.

FOUR PITCHERS USED.

Vannest Disposed of Railroaders' Hopes By His Strong Finish.

Cognawagas, East Peterborough League champs, earned the right to enter the second round of the Intermediate O.B.A.A. playdowns as a result of their 8-6 victory over Havelock, Trent Valley League winners, at Exhibition Park on Saturday afternoon. It is not known definitely yet what team will be the Cogs next opposition.

Due to the intense heat, the players in Saturday's contest lacked pep. The game was barren of any features and was on of the longest-drawn-out tussles seen here in many months, 6 o'clock having struck before the teams concluded their 8½ innings of play.

Except for the second innings, when they bunched four hits off W. Sexsmith along with two walks to score four runs, the winners showed little more punch to their play than did Havelock. Both teams secured ten hits and both turned in four errors.

Started Scoring in First

Cogs opened the scoring in the first innings, when Wilson, getting on with a single was sacrificed to second, to score on McLaughlin's error of Rook's grounder. Havelock got that one back in the second, when Kennedy went to second on a passed ball, stole third, and scored on Card's single. In the second, the Cogs had their big innings and opened up their big lead which Havelock never dangerously threatened.

Four pitchers toiled in the game, two for each team and in each case the second pitcher appeared to have more stuff than his predecessor. Besides being hit hard, W. Sexsmith was wild, which kept him in continual hot water. Vannest put some ginger into the game during the brief perod he worked, striking out three batters and effectually disposing of any hopes that Havelock may have had of pulling the game out of the fire in the final frame.

GRACE McCARTHY'S CIRCUIT HIT SECURES KEENE'S FIRST VICTORY

Defeat Westclox 7-5 in Second Game of Ladies' Softball Finals.

1,500 FANS PRESENT.

Keene's powerful softball machine battled its way to the first win in the series for the championship of the Girl's City and District Softball Loop at the Bowl on Saturday night when they conquered the Westclox team by the close count of 7 to 5 in one of the classiest ball games of the year and before a crowd of no less than fifteen hundred persons.

Grace McCarthy, star centre fielder stole the show in this game with her best performance of the season, and topped this off with a clean home run in the last of the eighth after Dot Gainor had doubled, thus scoring the tying and winning counters. The Clock-Makers came back strong in their half of the ninth and put two runners in scoring position after two were out. M. Ferguson, fifth batter placed a single behind second base which the centre fielder dropped, but recovered in time to make a perfect peg to the plate, retiring Audrey Crary for the third one out and the end of the game. Aside from these last two frames the teams, made it an even battle and during the first seven innings it looked as though the score would wind up in a five-all tie.

Mary McCarthy pitched for the winners but was not quite so effective as usual, the opposition nicking her for eleven solid singles and besides this she passed seven. However, she sent five batters out swinging and was at her best in the pinches. Opposing her, Barbara Blade came through with another tip-top display of hurling, going in cold and without notice when the regular pitcher was late. She fanned seven batters, passed two and allowed nine hits. Defensively the two teams broke about even, with Grace McCarthy for the winners and Hilda Joyes for the locals producing the feature fielding plays. The latter player nabbed two hard hit flies and caught two runners at third with her splendid throwing from the right garden. Marie Ferguson made a running catch behind third for the Westclox which was also one of the fine attempts in the duel.

WINNING STREAK OF BIG LEADERS SNAPPED SHORT

Braves Stopped By Cincinnati in Rush After New York.

DEAN STOPS GIANTS.

Fitzsimmons Homer Permits Defeat of Cardinals in Second Contest.

(By Herbert W. Baker, A.P. Sports Writer.)

Despite the snapping of their eight-game winning streak, Boston Braves, sensations of the National League, had clipped another half-game off the New York Giants' lead to-day and found themselves six games out of first place.

With a crowd of 40,000 urging them on, the Braves hung up their eighth successive win as Tom Zachary pitched a 7-0 shutout over Cincinnati Reds in the first game of a double-header yesterday, but the Reds came back to snare the second 5-3.

Their even split still enagled the Braves to pick up half a game on the Giants who dropped the first game of a twin bill to Dizzy Dean and St. Louis Cardinals 7-1, and then were lucky enough to get a 5-5 draw in the second battle, halted by darkness after eight innings.

Dean stopped the Giants with six hits and fanned six in the opening game while his mates bombarded Hal Schumacher and Glenn Spencer for 12 safeties, one a homer by George Watkins. The Cards apparently had the second game won with a four-run rally in the eighth, but Fred Fitzsimmons parked a homer in the left field stands in the last half of the same frame to give the leaders a tie.

Brooklyn divided a double-header with Chicago Cubs bowing 2-0 to the two-hit pitching of Guy Bush in the opener, and winning the second 5-2 on a 12-hit attack on Bud Tinning and Leroy Herman. Pittsburgh and Philadelphia enjoyed an open date.

The American League.

The American League situation remained unchanged as both Washington Senators and New York Yankees split double-headers, leaving the Senators still eight games in front.

A crowd of 60,000 saw the Senators bunch 13 hits with nine Cleveland errors to win the first game 14-1 as Earl Whitehill scattered nine Indian hits. Cleveland drove Alvin Crowder to cover with a six-run outburst in the sixth inning to take the second game 6-3. Burnett and Cissell contributed three errors apiece to Cleveland's first game rout.

Tom Bridges held the Yankees to four hits as Detroit won the opener 4-3, but the champions smashed out 22 hits, including nine doubles, a triple, and a home run to take the second 12-2.

Al Simmons collected five hits and drove in six runs as Chicago White Sox took both games from Philadelphia Athletics, 5-3 and 9-8. His double in the fifth inning of the opener drove in two runs and gave the pale hose a lead they never relinquished despite a pair of home runs by Mickey Cochrane. He drove in the winning run in the second game with a single in the ninth.

Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Browns split a double bill, the Red Sox taking the first game 7-5 and St. Louis the nightcap 5-3.

Norwood Trims Havelock 12 To 11 in Softball Game

NORWOOD, August 28 (Examiner Corrsepondence). — An interesting softball game was played between the Havelock and Norwood boys on Friday night in the Arena. The score, 12-11 in favor of Norwood, showed that the teams were fairly well matched.

The line-ups:

Havelock — Voyer, G. Kemp, S. Miller, B. Hagerman, F. Hill, Don. Miller, Ron. Kemp, R. Pepper.

Norwood — E. Godin, R. Ennis, K. Pakenham, W. Rogers, Brown, C. Puffer, H. Godin, J. Hamblin, J. Stewart.

Fred Fitzsimmons, Giants— Hit home run after two were out to give Giants tie with Cards in nightcap.

Petes And Norwood Play Lacrosse Tilt

NORWOOD, Aug. 28. (Examiner Correspondence).—The Peterborough Senators played an exhibition game at Norwood Arena Friday night against the combines of both teams, the fairly large crowd of fans were given many thrills. The always dangerous line of King, Dundas and McGee, and not weakened without an addition of Jacks (Becky) called into action through a couple of Peterborough boys not coming down with the team, making a quartette that could not be kept off the scoring sheet, while Cadd and Millar were surely doing all that could be done to make a good ball game. Baker, Gould and Ky. Puffer were particularly outstanding on the Combines' scoring division unselfishly supported by Stevenson, McConnell brothers, Scriver, Puffer, (Chuck) Godin and Dodd. The defence of Rogers Davidson and Webb had a busy night without relief. The score by periods was, first, Peterborough 3, Combines 1; second 5-5 ;third 9-9; and last 11-11 with both teams ready to quit.

The arena adding more lights in the near future, a better supply of clean white balls, the boys will all have better advantages and show the spectators that the old national game can still supply more speed, excitement, etc., than any other game played. The game was well handled by referee Gerald Baker of Norwood.

CAN. GENERAL AND CAN. PACKERS FIGHT TO 2 ALL SOCCER CUP FINAL

One of the Best Games This Season—Both Custodians Brilliant.

THEY MEET AGAIN.

One of best soccer cup ties played in the city this season took place on Saturday afternoon, when the Canada Packers and Canadian General battled for ninety minutes in Father Phelan's Charity Cup final to find themselves in the same place as they started. The score was one each at half time and they scored a goal apiece in the second half to make it two-all. McMaster had one of the most spectacular goal-scoring achievements wheni he drove the ball against Green, custodian, to get a counter, with a terrific force. He now has seven goals to his credit to win the one hundred Buckingham cigarettes for the highest goal scorer.

All the finances go to charity. Alex. McKinley handled a perfect game with his usual sportsmanlike manner.

Exchanges Very Fast.

Captain Buchan won the toss to compel the C.G.E. to face the strong sun, and the full eleven were at correct strength. Play ran from end to end until a foul against A. Downer, full-back, looked dangerous when Burgess placed the ball over to McMaster who missed the objective with a smart header. Likewise, a similar performance was committted at the C.G.E. goal when Foster spoiled the Packers' effort. Mid-field tactics held sway with the halves conceding no latitude around the goals. Eventually Earle lifted the ball over the Packers' full-backs where Quinn fumbled on a drop shot to go past. Buchan, at centre half, tried hard to keep swinging the ball from end to end but he was successful once when he sent George Downer along the wing. After he had drawn the defense men, he sent a nice centre across to Westwood, who picked the inside of the upright on a misunderstanding of two C.G.E. players.

From an individual effort to Mayette, Bolton picked up a hot drive, to relieve the pressure. Buchan trapped the ball from the air to send a low grounder along the ground to Newt Downer. He beat the opposition cleverly on a feint move but run into goal where he shot directly into Bolton's arms. While Jones, C.G.E. kept passing the ball up the centre to his forwards, Earle touched the ball over to Quinn. After indulging in a dribbling exhibition, Jimmy lifted the ball over into goal. As it dropped from the air, McMaster connected with a first timer that rose up against the custodian's face to find a resting place in the rigging. The both goalies were kept busy saving their charges while the forwards ran rampant around the goals, with the custodians making great one-handed saves. In fact, the one-handed save that Bolton cleared was feared the claim 'goal', but the official was right on the job to adjudge otherwise. At this stage, the Packers were more aggressive but they lacked finish around the goal, because the defense were checking hard. Although Newt Downer should have registered when he missed an open goal. The Packers had the C. G. E. in their own territory until the interval. C. G.E. 1, Packers 1.

Tactics Keen.

The second moiety opened up with each custodian saving a barrage of shots from the well planned combination of the attack. Although the halves spoiled many of their raids, especially Buchan and Jones. This was backed up by brilliant full-backs' displays by Hakin and Downer, more particularly the former. After a continuous siege by the Packers, they let up enough to permit the opposition to pepper all kinds of shots upon Green's charge who gave a wonderful exhibition of goal tending. The C.G.E. added the pressure to advantage to witness Green saving a low grounder that was going for the corner. He pounced upon it with two men upon him. His clearance was returned immediately by Burgess on clever manipulation of the ball on the wing; he slipped the sphere back to Mitchell who rattled the cross-bar with a stinging drive. The rebound finding Green again saving a wonderful shot from the foot of his opposition centre men.

The Packers settled down to their routine by swinging the ball from wing to wing, until G. Downer baffled the C.G.E. full-backs when they misunderstood one another. With a slow motion action, the clever school boy on the left wing slid the ball away out of Bolton's reach. Two minutes later, with a terrific pace going ahead, Burgess drew the defence away from his pivot man to let him tap it across to McMaster who gently lifted the ball into the net for the equalizer. Both teams felt satisfied to call it a draw, which was an excellent criterion of the game. Canada Packers 2. Canadian General 2.

Goal scorers—C.G.E.: McMaster (2). C.P.C.: T. Westwood and G. Downer.

Canadian General — J. Bolton, goal; J. Mitchell and G. Blowers, full-backs; S. Clark, E. Jones and B. Bolam, halves; J. Quinn, L. Earle, B. McMaster, A. Mitchell and A. Burgess, forwards.

TORONTO HURLER BAFFLES SQUAD WITH SPEED BALL

Kiwanis Bantams Fall Before Arlingtons in First Game.

DEFEATED 15 TO 3.

Minarsky Gives Stellar Performance to Fan 16 and Allow Four Hits.

Kiwanis Bantams received a severe jolt here Saturday before a small crowd when Toronto Arlingtons hung up a 15-3 defeat on them in the first game of their O.B.A.A. playdown series. Only two hundred watched the game, which was one-sided throughout, due chiefly to star hurling by Minarsky, Queen City flinger. The local kids were unable to hit him while the Toronto Bantams pounded Phelan out of the box in the second and bunched hits in two innings off McCoy to run up the count.

Minarsky used a whistling fast ball mixed with a sharp hook, to fan sixteen batters and restrict the Peterborough players to four singles, two in the last frame. He had fine support behind him Phelan got off to a bad start, being wild and receiving shaky support in the first inning. Three straight hits in the second chased him, and McCoy went in. The local left-hander pitched good ball except for three hits, each in the fourth and eighth. McIlmoyle finished it up in the ninth.

Switch Infield

Jack Deannard switched his whole infield in the sixth, and the second bunch went better defensively. Brady had a couple of nice catches in left. O'Toole went good behind the bat, and both first-sackers showed up well. Kline, Campbell and Walkoff starred in the field for the young visitors, all of whom showed the result of long practise at bat and afield. Freeman led with three hits, while Stulberg and Campbell got two apiece. Vitarelli, Conley, McIlmoyle and Gardino were the only local clouters.

With two out for Kiwanis in the first, a couple of wild heaves started the Toronto team off to six runs, three walks, two hits and a hit batsman figuring in the half dozen. A walk, three singles and a double gave them three more in the next stanza. They used three hits and a steal to run in two in the fourth, while a hit batsman, steal, error and out added one in the fifth. Their final three markers were chalked up in the eighth on a miscue, a pilfered base and three solid bingles.

Kiwanis failed to threaten for eight innings, only in the sixth getting a runner to third. In the ninth, hits by Vitarelli and McIlmoyle, a fielders choice, two walks and a hit batsman sent three runs for the homesters scampering across the plate to save themselves from a shutout.

LEAFS REGAIN PLAY-OFF PLACE

Bisons Suffer Double Defeat and Toronto Goes Above Them.

BOONE FEATURES.

By Orlo Robertson, A. P. Sports Writer

Toronto Maple Leafs were back in the play-off division today in the International League but only by the slim margin of one-half game over Buffalo Bisons, who held the position for three days.

While the Bisons were dropping a doubleheader to Montreal Royals yesterday for their third straight setback, the Leafs broke their five-game losing streak in dividing a twin bill with Rochester Red Wings. As the result, the Leafs today had a record of 74 victories as compared to 76 defeats while the Bisons had won 73 and dropped 76.

Despite Ike Boone's three hits, including two homers, Rochester won the opening contest 11-9 as each team scored six runs in the first inning. The Leafs came back however, to even matters by taking the second 9-8 behind the effective pitching of Lube Hamlin.

A crowd of 13,500 saw the Royals trim the Bisons 4-1 in the curtain raiser and then take a 4-3 decision in the seven-inning nightcap. John Grabowski and Jonah Goldman accounted for all of Montreal's runs in the first game, the former driving out a homer and the latter connecting with two singles. In the second fray Buffalo outhit the visitors 10-8 but were helpless with men on base, leaving nine men stranded on the paths.

Newark Bears continued their rough treatment of Jersey City Skeeters, winning both games for a clean sweep of the series. The league champions captured the first 3-2 as Johnnie Broaca, former Yale mound star, scored his sixth victory in seven starts, and then paraded through the second 7-1 behind the four-hit pitching of Jimmie Deshong, who hung up his 16th triumph of the season.

Baltimore Orioles also took both ends of their doubleheader with Albany, winning 5-3 and 6-2. It was Harry Smythe day the Baltimore southpaw celebrated by turning in his 19th victory of the year in the first game. Home runs by Linton and Bunz Arlett accounted for all of the Orioles runs. Linton also hit a homer in the second while Don Heffner, recently sold to the Yankees, cracked out four hits in as many times at bat.

BOWLING NOTES

(By Herb Martin)

The final arrangements for the big tournament on Wednesday have now been completed and if the weatherman can see his way clear to give us a nice day the success of this—the last open tournament—is assured. After a lot of consideration the games committee has decided to run this tourney on the elimination plan, and while it is something new for a mixed contest, still the committee thinks that it is in the best interests of bowling and hopes that the bowlers—both men and women—will turn out and give this idea a fair and reasonable trial.

Remember, everybody is entitled to pick his own rink—nobody is barred. It is wide open and played under Dominion Lawn Bowling Association rules.

o o o

The draw for the Ovaltine Cup, which has been generously donated by A. Wander and Co., will be made at 1.30 p.m., D.S.T., and play will continue from then until winners have been declared in the three events.

o o o

To-night sees the beginning of the rink play-offs. The winner of this little contest will represent the Peterborough Bowling Club on September 13th against rinks from Port Hope, Cobourg, Norwood, Brighton, Lindsay and Whitby.

These play-offs have always created a keen interest among local bowlers and looking over the entry list for this year it looks about the best yet. Probably the oldest and most seasoned skips are Jack Mayneord and George Cairns. These two boys have been bowling and skipping important events ever since there has been bowling in Peterborough and showed a good account of themselves; and then you have George Coleman, Sr., Harold Freeman, Jack Sedgewick and Dr. Allan who can be depended upon to give anybody a real battle, and then of the younger skips you have J. T. Braund, George Gimblett, Ernie Wall and Dr. Mabood and anyone of these will give you an argument any time you like, so from whatever angle you look at it, it looks like a real series.

I was asked Saturday by an enthusiastic bowler which team I thought would win—well, modesty forbids, but it is much harder to pick who will be runners-up.

EXTRA STAMINA DEFEATS SCOTT IN OPEN FINALS

Last Year's Champion Wilts Badly in the Long Match.

CAUTIOUS PLAY.

Cotton Wins Three of the Five Sets to Prove His Tennis Ability.

Max Cotton won the men's city singles championship Saturday at the Peterborough Club courts in the finals of the local Open Tennis Tournament. In a strenuously-contested five-set match, he took three sets to win from George Scott, last year's city champion. It was a sultry day and proved a real test of stamina as well as playing ability. Mr. Scott found the pace too hot and he wilted badly in the final set which his opponent took 6-love.

Both players stuck mostly to a base-line game and played cautiously throughout. Cotton—unlike in his previous games with Kirkwood—seldom came in on the net, but conserved his energy for a long drawn-out engagement. Nor did he use his strong fore-hand drive very often. This was partly due to the fact that Scott was not "getting them up" for him.

Scott flashed his usual crafty game, at times keeping the other very much on the run with his well-placed corner shots. Cotton made some remarkable lob returns on Scott's lengthy drives. The latter attempted overhead smashes on some of these lobs to his back-court but muffed them completely. In this department, last year's champion wasn't "clicking" at all, H. A. Wilson was in the umpire's chair.

Cotton started off strongly in the first set, in spite of a faltering first game which he dropped to Scott. He made up for this by taking the second game on Scott's service and the third love, and then ran out the set by taking the next four to win, 6 to 1. Scott took the first game of the second set on his service at love. Cotton got the next two, breaking through Scott's service in the third. Scott in turn got through the other's in the fourth and won his own to make it 3-2. Cotton won his in the sixth at love, to square it. The next three games followed service to the tenth when Scott took the other's service to run out the game and set by 6 games to 4.

Scott won the first two and Cotton the next pair in the third set. Scott gained the fifth, and then Cotton the next four, to win the set at 6-3. There were three deuce games in this set and one of them going to deuce three times. There were only two other deuce games in the whole match. In the fourth set, Cotton took the first on his service and Scott the second and third. Each took the other's service to the sixth when games followed service to the ninth. Scott then broke through to take the set, 6-3. Cotton double-faulted the set point.

Scott had tired noticeably by the fifth set and Cotton seemed to have no great difficulty in winning the set at love and the match 3 sets to 2. He started using his strong forehand drive to good frequent pacements in the latter part of this set. The fourth and fifth games he won at love. There was a large and enthusiastic gallery which showed its appreciation throughout of the many lengthy rallies and spectacular returns of seemingly impossible shots. The point score and stroke analysis follows:

The staff at the Bell Telephone will likely be increased tonight and the night gang at The Examiner will once again be primed up for another tough bout when the calls start coming in regarding the big Petes'-Ponies' game in Kingston at five bells this e'en. Fans are requested to give us a break and not call too early, too often, or take up too much time on the phone. We'll try to send bulletins back as soon as possible every three innings, but sometimes there's a bit of delay in the midst of a roaring crowd at a close game. And undoubtedly more than a thousand anxious followers will be buzzing up here through the evening. Can't say yet who'll do the pitching, maybe Calladine again.

Kiwanis bantams took it in the neck here Saturday, Toronto Arlingtons—that's their name, not Wellingtons—slipping 'em the sour side of a 15-3 lemon. Too much Minarsky about sums it up, the young Polack standing the local lads on their ears as he whiffed sixteen and handed out a meagre four singles. A desperate ninth-inning rally gave the Petes three in the last spasm and saved them from wearing a horse-collar. At that, Minarsky is their star twirler and wont find the Kiwanis so easy to fool in the next game in Toronto Saturday. And if McIlmoyle is pitching good ball for the locals, who can say how the game will go?

• • • • • • •

When the O.B.A.A. woke up all of a sudden to hurriedly order that bantam game here, they gave the local team a nasty kick in the trousers. The boys had no chance to sell tickets and the paper had no chance to give them any sort of publicity, consequently they got a poor crowd and will have to dig down to make that trip to Toronto. And then there was an intermediate game in the same day, and both gates suffered. The home bantams showed their lack of practise against the smart trained-to-the-minute Toronto boys who play a couple of times a week all summer.

• • • • • • •

Lefty McCoy pitched pretty nice ball for the losers from the second frame till the ninth, only four runs being earned off him as he fanned eight. Phelan, who usually is an effective flinger, got off to a rotten start, some bad errors not doing him a bit of good, either. The Peterborough kids were badly handicapped by a short season for practise, but at that there is some promising material there. We got a kick out of the way the young Toronto batters made opposing pitchers live up to that 20-second pitching rule, by stepping out of the box—just as they've seen the pros doing at the Maple Leaf stadium.

• • • • • • •

The gals' softball playoff at the Bowl in the evening drew a swell crowd of fans and it was worth it. After scoring the bantam game we weren't in any mood for large numbers so merely glanced around and took an estimate of the mob present. There was well over a hundred cars parked around and from twelve to fourteen hundred fans and fannettes. Keene and Westclox showed why they are the finalists by playing a right smart game from start to finish with plenty of exciting moments. Keene got the nod, 7 to 5, but the Alarm Lasses are very apt to even it up in Keene Tuesday.

• • • • • • •

Looked like a free-for-all at the end, but nothing came of it—just a flock of fevered fans flocking around without knowing what it was all about. Seems a Westclox runner was tagged out at the plate to end the game, and the runner sort of resented it—the tag being hard but quite unintentional. She decided to ask the other player what was the big idea, but her decision was a bit late, the other having been swallowed up by the crowd, so the peeved player had to cool off. We asked the loop prexy what the "fight"—as everyone had it—was all about and if he had suspended any of them. "No," he laughed, "there was nothing to it—just a lot of talk and barging around by the crowd, that's all."

By beating Havelock, 8 to 6, at the Exhibition Grounds Saturday, Cogs won their first O.B.A.A. intermediate round since they won the other game in Havelock. The two Sexsmith brothers pitched for the villagers while Don Wood and Percy Vannest were the local hurlers. The latter, by the way, was about the only player on the field that put any pep into an unusual draggy game in which passed balls were quite the order of the day and base-runners jogged down to third repeatedly without even a play being made on them. It wasn't much entertainment for the crowd, which was only fair.

No local soccer games are billed for Labor Day. The Scots travel to Pontypool to play New Liskeard in an exhibition contest. The newly-formed public school boys are trying to make arrangements with Janetville or Lindsay for that day, and Canada Packers may do their stuff in Port Hope. The C.G.E. crew expects to play a game in Bowmanville in the near future. Those young graduates of the public school soccer teams will likely seek entry into the league next year and should round out into a good squad, adding new blood to the game here.

TENNIS QUEEN DETHRONED BY HELEN JACOBS

Heated Controversy Follows Her Action in Defaulting Final Round.

SPOILED FINISH.

Maintains She Was Verge of Collapse and Defends Her Action.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (CP)—A dethroned Helen Wills Moody was en route to-day to her California home, shorn of her United States tennis title after an unquestioned reign of seven years, but behind her she left a heated controversy over her unprecedented action in defaulting to Helen Jacobs in the final round of the championship.

Mrs. Moody made an abrupt departure from New York Sunday following her stunning defeat at Miss Jacobs hands Saturday afternoon.

That she keenly felt her defeat—and the manner of it—there was none to deny. In a formal statement made public immediately after she had abandoned the match in the third set, Mrs. Moody said she felt she had "spoiled the finish of national championship and wished she had followed her physicians advice and returned to California before the tournament began.

Feels Did Right

"I still feel that I did right in withdrawing," she added, "because I felt I was on the verge of collapse on the court."

Mrs. Moody had been troubled by a serious back injury for several month and played through the tournament with a brace supporting the injured vertebrae.

But if it was apparent "Queen Helen" was not in condition to give her best, the fact remains that Miss Jacobs, in retaining the title she won for the first time last year, played the greatest tennis of her career. It would have taken Mrs. Moody at her best to cope with the excellent strategy of the champion.

Although she never had been able to win as such as a set from Mrs. Moody in seven previous meetings, the Berkeley girl had all her strokes under complete control when she needed them most and the manner in which she forced Mrs. Moody to run all over the court in the first set undoubtedly contributed to the latters collapse. Miss Jacobs won that set at 8-6. Mrs. Moody flashed a final rally to take the second at 6-3, but Miss Jacobs ran off the first three games of the final set, then Mrs. Moody walked to the umpires stand and announced she was through.

Stunned Crowd

Miss Jacobs and the crowd of 7,000 looked on in stunned silence at a scene previously paralleled only by the default of Suzanne Lenglen after she dropped a set to Mrs. Molly Mallory in an early round of the United States championship in 1921.

With the amazing ending of the battle, heated discussion immediately arose over the propriety of Mrs. Moody's action. Some followers of the game thought Mrs. Moody should have remained on the court until the last three games could be played, even though she did not swing a racquet. Others were of the opinion that she had done the only possible thing in view of the fact that she obviously was suffering intense pain.

Mrs. Moodys defeat was her first since 1926. In the interim she scarcely ever has been threatened, much less beaten.

KEEN COMPETITION AT GOLF FIELD DAY

Local Players Show Up Well Against Outside Contenders.

Making the round in 76, W. J. Thompson of Toronto, secretary of the Ontario Golf Association, captured the gross prize for handicaps of 10 and under at the Ontario Golf Association's Handicap Field Day at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club's Course Saturday afternoon. Also covering the 18 holes in 76, Stan Payne of Peterborough took the gross prize for handicaps 11 and up.

Twenty-six men competed in the field day, four retiring before completing the round. The entry list included eight visitors from Toronto.

Reid Blaikie of Toronto with a handicap of 8, won the low net, 70 and under, on a net score of 71; while the low net, 11 and up, went to Lawrence Killaly of Peterborough with a net of 68. Killaly's handicap was 12. Second low gross prize for handicaps 11 and up was wan by Sam Whiddon of Peterborough on a score of 82, and H. C. Sootheran, also of this city, was awarded the low net honors, 11 and up, with a net count of 69 his handicap was 16.

Peterborough captured the team prize with a score of 332 strokes on the four best scores turned in by local contestants. The four best gross scores were: Payne, 76; Killaly, 80; Bob Abbott, 82; and Terry Hall, 84. The best four Toronto gross scores made a team total of 344. The scores were Blaikie, 79; T. D. Archibald, 79; S. T. Robinson, 82; and G. Cassels, 84.

The field day prizes for the gross scores were bronze medals. Second prizes were leather brief cases. Silver water pitchers were awarded for net scores prizes and the awards for the winning team were silver tankards. The scores:

Sport Writers Add Fuel To Controversy Over Mrs. Moody's Default Of Tennis Final

Following are some observations from sports writers who witnessed Saturday's default:

Henry McLemore, sports columnist, United Press: Stating it as delicately as I can, I believe Mrs. Moody might well have continued. After all she could have stood at the base line and let Jacobs' shots go by her untouched. It wouldn't have been more than five minutes at the outside. I think Wills knew she was beaten and quit rather than give the other Helen the satisfaction of finally beating her. Anyway, Mrs. Moody had strength to walk off the courts and she hasn't fainted yet.

Alan Gould, sports editor, Associated Press: Mrs. Moody was the only one who could know whether she was able to continue. She was on the verge of collapse when she quit so, taking that at its face value she did the best she could. After all, it's a matter of opinion and one could argue himself blue on the question.

Fred Hawthorne, Herald-Tribune: Mrs. Moody did a stupid thing in quitting. She should at least have stood up there and absorbed service aces and lost gracefully. Jacobs was 50 per cent. better than I've ever seen her. Moody thought, after she ran off the second set, that Helen would be easy. But when she lost the first three games of the final set she realized she was in for a licking. Sooner than give her opponent—who, it is agreed she had no love for—a break, she quit. In this she can have the satisfaction of knowing Jacobs at least didn't beat her in a complete match.

Gar Wood Repairs His Big Speed Boat

ALGONAC, Mich., Aug. 28.— (A. P.)—Mechanics to-day were completing the installation of a new propeller shaft in Miss America X, the giant speed boat which Gar Wood will pilot in defence of the Harmsworth trophy here Saturday.

Installation of the shafts was decided upon by Wood after an inspection of the craft's power plant early Sunday. The new shafts were ordered to safeguard against any accident while the defender is racing against Hubert Scott-Paine and his Miss Britain III.

The Miss America X will be returned to the water for another trial run late this afternoon.

The supply of special British gasoline needed for the Miss Britain III's high compression power plant is expected to arrive here to-morrow.

THE FLASHER

(The operator of a crooked carnival game is called a "grifter." Although the sucker—the paying customer—doesn't know it, practically every game of skill and chance at the average traveling carnival or resort can be fixed by the operator so that the player can't win.

This is not usually true, however, of legitimate amusement parks, which have large investments in permanent equipment and are interested in keeping the good will of their patrons. Such places do not permit grifters. But beware the fly-by-night joint!)

"GET YOUR bets down! Game's about to start. Everybody set? Here goes....!" The suckers place their nickels on the oilcloth counter spaces.

The light flashes around the numbered signboard as the grifter throws the switch on. He throws it off after a few seconds and the audience holds its breath as the light slows down. Slower....slower....

It stops on No. 7. And on a red light! But nobody had placed a coin on No. 7. If someone had been lucky enough to do so he would have won a bigger prize than usual, because the red light on a number calls for an article worth several times more than those given for the white lights.

"Come on, folks, get your bets down. Here we go again!" The grifter lines them up for another round. The counter is crowded now, and that No. 7 is covered, all right. He throws the switch and starts the motor which turns the contact arm on the concealed operating mechanism.

No. 7 won't come up again, however. At least, not while somebody is betting on it and the grifter does not choose to let him win a small prize. The suckers don't know that the control does not lie in that switch which turns the current on, but in the secret foot brake which stops the revolutions of the contact arm wherever the grifter sees fit. And that brake control is disguised in many forms.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, August 28.—Strength at Liverpool and fairly substantial export purchases imparted a firm tone to trading on the grain exchange on Saturday, and prices advanced to show gains of ⅛c to 1c at the close of the week-end session.

At one time values were about 2c over the previous close, as export buyers purchased freely, but when this demand had been satiated the values lost about a cent of their advance and held at that level for most of the day. October option finished at 72¼c, December at 74¼c and May at 79¼c.

As a result of good buying by mills and bullish sentiment created by signing of the wheat agreement at London. Liverpool prices advanced 1¼d to 2d and gave the Winnipeg market a good start. Purchasers entered the market at the opening and prices quickly mounted. Trade for the first half-hour was active, but subsequently thinned as support dwindled, and a little selling appeared on the surface.

All wheat offered for export overnight was accepted. It was difficult to place a figure on actual sales but conservative estimates ran to 500,000 bushels at least. Aggregate volume of pit transactions was quite appreciable, particularly as compared to the recent sluggish sessions.

Hedging pressure was light due to smaller deliveries from farms resulting from recent rains halting threshing operations. Continued dry weather in the Argentine was a further bullish factor. Cash grains were in better demand through sales were not very large. Coarse grains were all strong in line with wheat.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Corn, displayed a firmer tone Saturday, despite the handicap of light and erratic trading.

Unexpected strength in wheat at Liverpool, where prices were 2 cents a bushel higher in response to signing of the international wheat acreage pact, led to scattered buying in Chicago which hoisted wheat 1 to 2 cents a bushel. Corn, however, displayed a sluggish tone, and after sullenly following wheat higher at the opening reacted and dropped below Friday's finish.

Wheat closed firmer and ½c to 1c higher than Friday's close, corn weak, ¼c to ⅜c lower, oats unchanged to ⅛c up and provisions 10c lower to 8c advanced.

ONTARIO GRAIN

Approximate prices track shipping point—Wheat, 76c to 77c; oats, 32c to 34c; barley, 38c to 41c; rye, 45c to 46c.

CHEESE BOARDS

NAPANEE.—At Saturday's meeting of the Napanee Cheese Board 346 boxes of white and 66 colored were boarded. The white sold at 9¼c and the colored at 9 5/16c. Usual buyers were present.

BELLEVILLE. — At Saturday's meeting of the Belleville Cheese Board 1,675 boxes of white cheese were boarded, and all sold at 9¼c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Exports of cheese from Canada continued to run less than last week. Exports from Montreal to the United Kingdom, British West Indies and Newfoundland last week totalled 22,894 boxes, as compared with 27,071 boxes for the corresponding week of last year. This brings the season's totals to date to 254,818 boxes, as compared with 423,806 last year.

Butter exports are also way under last year. Shipments last week from Montreal totalled 223 boxes, all going to the West Indies and Newfoundland. For the season to date only 2,525 boxes have been exported, as against 35,866 boxes in the same period last year. The bulk of last year's shipments went to the United Kingdom, whereas this year only 1,000 boxes have gone overseas.

Butter prices on the Montreal dairy and produce market this week declined a quarter of a cent a pound, closing the week at 18c to 18¼c a pound for No. 1 grade in cartots or less. Receipts for the week totalled 16,048 boxes, about 1,800 boxes less than the previous week.

The cheese market closed the week at 9½c to 9¾c a pound for Ontario's and 9¾c to 8¾c for Quebecs, ¾c to ½c a pound less than at the close of the previous week. Receipts were heavier, a total of 32,096 boxes having been received, as against 31,886 boxes a week ago.

Prices of graded shipments of eggs in cartots or less rose ½c to 1c a dozen, closing the week at 21c to 23c for extras, 17c to 18c for firsts and 14c to 14½c for seconds. Offerings amounted to 6,838 cases. A week ago 5,030 cases were offered for sale.

The potatoe market closed the week at 80c per 80-lb. bag for new Quebec potatoes, off 10c from the close of the previous week.

PRESENTED 2 ESTATES,

BERLIN, Aug. 28. — Cheering thousands massed in front of the giant Tannenberg memorial yesterday to pay tribute to President Paul von Hindenburg on the 19th anniversary of the battle of Tannenberg, in which the German armies routed the Russians on the eastern front during the World War.

The nation's leaders joined the populace in solemn tribute to the aged field marshal of the German armies under the last of the kaisers.

A document was read freeing all of the president's lands from taxation "throughout the male succession of the Hindenburg name."

Two estates in Germany were conferred on von Hindenburg by the Government, much in the manner that the kaisers formerly granted land to loyal supporters. In making the presentation, Chancellor Hitler recalled his own military service under von Hindenburg and expressed fervent gratitude that "we are able to observe this day with the man who gave it to us."

A tense moment in the impressive ceremonies came when the stern-visaged old soldier arose and in response paid tribute to Germany's war dead. He said:

"This day, I remember our unbroken loyalty to my kaiser, my king and my laws."

CLASSIFIED ADS are as useful as the day is long.

"And that's why I Stopped Worrying about the Mortgage"

The speaker admitted his home was mortgaged. Properly so, he said, because he could not have bought it otherwise.

Then, he added, he realized the danger to his wife and children should he die before the mortgage was paid off.

However, he found there was an insurance policy with special features and with attractively low premiums specially designed to take care of such cases as his. He took out an Imperial Mortgage Protection Policy to match the amount of his mortgage dollar for dollar—and now he sleeps quietly at night. No more worry about what would happen to the home if he died prematurely.

And the outlay was very moderate, merely like adding another 2% or so to the interest rate on the mortgage.

This Policy can also include a total disability provision, which is mighty comforting.

A mortgage is a poor legacy to leave one's family. Let us send you particulars to-day of the very attractive and easy-to-pay-for protection of this Imperial Policy.

P.C.C. NARROWLY DEFEATS WOOLLENS

Jefferson Has Great Day for Woollens to Score 23.

(Contributed)

Peterborough C.C. and the Combined Woollens met on Saturday afternoon with the former victors by a narrow margin of three runs. Both clubs were minus regular players. Woollens won the toss. Dart was in fine form, scoring rapidly, being especially strong on the leg side. The rest of the team, however, failed utterly, wickets falling with monotonous regularity. Dart's fine 42 contained six lusty fours. Harry Jackson hammered out seven valuable runs at last man. Dyer's bowling was particularly deadly, eight wickets falling to him for 11 runs.

Peterborough started on the wrong foot, Imming being bowled by Jefferson, one run being scored. Binks and Mawhood settled down to good cricket, carrying the score to 31 before Binks was dismissed. Mawhood was taken beautifully at square leg by Wedlock for a good innings of 19.

The score mounted slowly, finally reaching the Combines' total with just four wickets down. The score tied, five still in hand; a bad outlook for the Combines. But Jefferson went on a rampage and tore up four wickets in five balls, leaving the score still tied with but two men to bat. The much-needed run was made, Peterborough being retired for 67, leaving Lawrence not out for a well-played 15. Jefferson had a regular field day, doing the "hat trick" and polishing off seven wickets for 23. Between Dyer and Jefferson, the batsmen had a pretty thin time of it.

Peterborough C.C. will journey to Oshawa on September 2, and all members are requested to turn out for practice.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

Number 81

ALEX MORRISON says:

Maintaining a firm hold on the club and yet having the required freedom of action in the wrists and forearms is a problem that few golfers have solved.

The chief reason they have so much trouble in this part of their swings is on account of the grips that have been recommended to them.

I mean grips that force the fingers of the left hand, particularly the little finger, to let go as the player nears the end of his backswing. If not here, then as he starts to make the downswing. Either is bound to spoil his shot.

No matter what grip you use make sure that your left little finger maintains a tight hold on the club from the start to the finish of your swing.

CALEYS-LINDSAY KNOT SOCCER SCORE

90 Minutes of Brilliant Play Ends in 3-3 Tie Game.

Lindsay and the Caledonians played to a 3-3 tie score after 90 minutes of play Saturday in their schedule soccer game. The game was hard-fought, both teams being evenly matched, and play was sparkling.

Lindsay attacked and played the open game, feeding the wings. G. Doble tested Curtis with a first-timer, and Curtis was on his toes and lobbed the ball down the centre of the field. Ward received and sent McCracken away, who passed to Dyer, only to go wide. O'Halloran took the kick; G. Munt received and passed to A. Moir, who put wide. Up to this time Lindsay were pressing hard, but found Agnew and Adkinson very safe. Rankin was conspicuous at half back, feeding McPhate with perfect passes. A nice bit of play for Caleys, when Ward sent McCracken on the wing to centre to Leggat who beat Springall. Half Time: Caleys 1; Lindsay 0.

On resuming Lindsay went straight for goal, only to find McPhate offside. Munt sent his forwards again down the field for T. Doble to equalize. Caleys were determined to get ahead again, but were not successful. The game for a time was in the Caley's half; playing a defensive game. At this stage Latham was very conspicuous when A. Moir received to G. Doble, who feinted his pass. T. Doble shot at goal, to put Lindsay ahead. Caleys, who were more alert after this and played real good combination, attacking very strongly, which kept Springhall very busy. O'Halloran and G. Munt were the shining lights at this period. Dyer, Leggat and Downer were pressing heavily and in a scramble in front of the Lindsay goal, Leggat drove hard at the leather to even it up again.

Lindsay started again in determined fashion with Curtis defending his goal splendidly. Both teams were very cautious at this period, giving and taking. G. Munt started his side again, and passed to Grant, only to be weak in centering Lindsay forwards came back again when A. Moir passed to T. Doble and then to J. Corrie, to put Lindsay ahead.

Again at this stage it was a ding-dong battle for superiority; Lindsay playing a defensive game. Whatman and Ward were going great guns for Caleys. Time and again Springhall saved his charge. A nice drive from Leggat just tipped the crossbar. Munt sent his forwards down the field again, only to find Agnew and Adkinson kicking strong. Rankin started a rally for the Caleys, who sent McPhate along the wing, and cut in; his shot just missed the mark.

Caleys were having the best of the deal. Ward sent again his forwards along the wing; McCracken taking the pass; then to Downer and Leggat and then to McPhate, who passed to Leggat who shot, and from a scramble in front of goal Leggat rushed up to score only to find G. Munt on the defensive. Leggat drove hard again, only for G. Munt to put the leather in his own goal. Time was getting very short, and Lindsay started off again in a determined fashion; Curtis saving his goal. When the final whistle blew Caleys were defending strongly.

Final score—Lindsay 3, Caleys 3.

The teams:

Lindsay.—J. Springall, goal; O'Halloran and J. K. Springall, full backs; D. Wilson, G. Munt, H. Latham, half backs; A. Moir, G. Doble, T. Doble, J. Corrie, W. Grant, forwards; A. Munt and G. Kinnersly, subs.

Caleys.—Curtis, goal; Agnew and Adkinson, full backs; Whatman, Ward, Rankin, half backs; McCracken, Downer, Leggat, Dyer, McPhate, forwards.

Bridgenorth Boy Wins Place At C.N.E.

Frank Jopling, of Bridgenorth, who has gained outstanding honors by his speedy paddling in all regattas in this district, further distinguished himself Saturday afternoon at the great C.N.E. regatta, Toronto, when he finished third in the junior, ½ mile, single canoe race. Two Canoque paddlers finished first and second, less than a canoe length ahead of the Bridgenorth youth. The time for the race was five seconds faster than that made by the senior paddlers. Frank Jopling led all the way, but fell back in the last 100 yards, the distance being greater than he is accustomed to paddle. Toronto sport writers lamented the fact that all Queen City paddlers had not had a look in against the keen competition supplied by the outside paddlers.

Sense and Nonsense

This year's short subject sensation is Walt Disney's silly symphony, "The Three Little Pigs." Since the release of this one-reeler, the Disney studio has been swamped with requests for the animation of more fairy tales and nursery rhymes.

Walt Disney

Yielding to popular demand, Disney has set his staff of 125 men to work on an adaptation of Hans Christian Anderson's "Shepherdess and the Chimney Sweep." He also is planning a picture out of your old favorite, "The Night Before Christmas."

A total of 13 silly symphonies, all in color, will be made this year. These in addition to the adventures of Mickey Mouse, which are done in black and white.

And another thing. Disney promises there will be more tinkley tunes like "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf?" Frank Churchill, head of the studio music department, is to write original songs for many of the new cartoons.

Two ministers, visiting the Fox studio, met Will Rogers and offered to save him a box seat if he'd visit their churches.

The comedian accompanied them to their car, grinned and said: "Say, can't you make that a box seat in heaven?"

Both the reverend pair smiled but made no reply. Rogers watched the car start to roll away. Suddenly he shouted:

'Hey, how about a gallery seat, then?"

Mary Pickford's new picture, "Secrets," opened Monday at the Capitol. It is "America's Sweetheart's" first picture in more than two years.

"Secrets" is one of the most beautiful productions that has yet come out of Hollywood, and the star looks younger and more amazingly pretty than ever. Her performance is excellent, as is the work of all others in the cast, especially that of Leslie Howard in the role of a romantic lover.

Obituary

JOHN ARCHER.

The funeral of the late John Archer of Smith Township took place on Saturday, August 26, from his late residence on the Lindsay Highway. A large company gathered to pay their last respects to one who had spent a long and useful life in the community.

Rev. Ralph Wright, B.D., of Gilmour Memorial Church, of which the deceased was a member, conducted the service, delivering a challenging message to his hearers from Micah 6,8: "What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God." This, the speaker declared, had been the aim of the life of Mr. Archer.

Mrs. James Young sang "The Sands of Time are Sinking" (Gounod). The bearers included Messrs. H. F. Bothwell, J. Earl Mann, William Darling, C. E. Moore, Christopher Moffatt, and James A. Young. Interment was in Little Lake Cemetery.

WILLIAM GEORGE WAREHAM

The death occurred suddenly in this city Saturday afternoon, Aug. 26th, of William George Wareham, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Wareham of Peterborough.

The late Mr. Wareham had for the past twenty-one years been associated with the Brazilian Traction Co., at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, South America. He had been spending the last few months in the city visiting relatives and his sudden passing will come as a distinct shock to his many friends.

In his earlier years he took an active interest in local sporting circles and was also a pioneer member of the local Belmont Club.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife and two sons, Hugh and Harry, also three sisters, Mrs. Harry Clark, Springville. Mrs. E. A. Wilson of Lethbridge, Alta., and Mrs. Geo. Baird of this city. His mother and one sister, the late Mrs. Fred C. Miller, predeceased him just one year ago.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday, Aug. 29th at 3 o'clock from the home of Mrs. George Baird, 658 George street.

Interment Little Lake cemetery.

MISS OLIVE NEALS

LIFFORD LINE, Aug. 28 (Examiner Correspondence). — The sad news reached Lifford this week of the death on Thursday morning in Minnesota, U.S.A., of Miss Olive Neals, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Neals, who were lifelong residents here before taking up residence in Peterborough less than a year ago.

The late Miss Neals was born at Lifford and received her public school education at Lifford School. She held a responsible position with the Bell Telephone Company of Peterborough for a number of years, later moving to Toronto and the Southern States. At the time of her death she was a successful travelling saleslady. Her musical talent and cheery disposition made for her a host of friends wherever she went.

Her unexpected death took place following a serious operation in a Minnesota Hospital; her family and friends receiving a severe shock on hearing the sad news, as many of the latter had not heard of her brief illness.

Left to mourn her loss are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Neals; her only sister, Mrs. Fred Revoy, and a brother, Jack Neals, all of Peterborough, and three brothers, Lavergne, Clarence and Norman of Bethany.

The remains arrived on Sunday at Peterborough, and burial takes place at Little Lake Cemetery, Peterborough following service at 2 o'clock at the home of her parents.

Ottawa Girl Wins Highland Fling Contest

The Ottawa annual exhibition is noted for its famous Highland fling dance competitions. This year, the coveted Col. Walter Scott Challenge Trophy, was won by Miss Ann MacGregor of Ottawa, shown at right with the trophy. At left is Miss Netta Morrison, 16, of London, Ont., and Miss Amy Johnston, 20, of Montreal, Canadian champion, who took part in the competitions in the various classes, winning many prizes. Dancers of the famous Scottish dance from many parts of Canada took part in the competitions.

Weddings

PEARCE—TANN.

NORWOOD, Aug. 28 (Examiner Correspondence).—A wedding of interest was held on Monday, August 21, at St. Anthony's Church, Toronto, when Rebecca Freeman, daughter of the late Mrs. L. Tann, was united in marriage to Henry Joseph, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pearce.

The bride, given away by her stepfather, looked charming in French lace over ivory satin, with accessories to match. Her cap-shaped veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of red roses and baby's breath.

Miss Ruby Pearce, sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid, and looked lovely in green and white organdie, with white hat and shoes to match, and carried a bouquet of sweep peas and fern.

A sister of the bride and sister of the groom made pretty little flower girls, being dressed in white organdie, and carried nosegay of wild flowers.

The groom was attended by William O'Here.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt, who received in pale blue lace with hat and shoes to match. The mother of the groom also received, in blue georgette with accessories to match.

The gift of the bride to the groom was a travelling companion and the gift of groom to bride, bridesmaid and flower girls were travelling suitcases and initialed bracelets, to the groomsman initialed cuff links.

After the reception the happy young couple left for a trip east, and on their return will reside in Toronto.

DOMINION FIRE CHIEFS OPEN CONVENTION

RAPID PROGRESS IS BEING MADE BY CORN BORER

Twenty-five Per Cent of This Year's Crop is Affected.

MOVING EASTWARD.

Control Measures Are Necessary to Check the Parasite.

Unless determined efforts at control are made this Fall and in the early Spring, the corn borer will constitute an increasingly-serious menace to corn crops in the county next year, A. D. Runions, agricultural representative warned to-day. More than twenty-five per cent. of this year's early crop was affected by the parasite.

The plague of the corn borer is apparently moving eastward through Ontario, Mr. Runions said. While it has caused considerable damage in Western Ontario since its discovery in the Province in 1920, farmers report that this is the first year it has been a serious problem here. Other counties in Central Ontario including Victoria, Northumberland, Durham and Hastings, report serious damage this summer as well as Peterborough County.

Control Is Necessary

Mr. Runions states that it has been found practically impossible to completely extermnate the borer once it has made its way into a district. It can be kept down, however, if control measures are stringently carried out, he said The only methods of control wh. have been found successful are the thorough burning over or ploughing under of stubble in affected fields and the destruction of the affected crops. Ploughing under is preferable to burning, as the borers often remain in the root below the ground level. The affected plant can be stored for feed safely as the borer is killed in silage, but great care has to be taken when the plants and affected ears are handled otherwise if the spread of the borer is to be prevented.

Like most insects, the corn borer passed through four stages in its life cycle. The adult moth lays its Raise in Canada Predicted as Result of Roosevelt's Code.

EXTENT UNKNOWN.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29 (CP)—"Gasoline prices throughout Canada will, in all probability, take a substantial jump upwards within the near future as a direct result of the oil code signed by President Roosevelt, which goes into effect in the United States September 2," the Montreal Gazette says to-day.

"Just what price the President will set on U.S. gasoline and what increase it will make in retail prices are so far matters of speculation, but any change will be felt in Canada as a matter of course, it is stated by experts," the Gazette said.

An Automatic Rise

An official of one of the big oil companies stated last night that he could not suggest what effect President Roosevelt's oil code would have on the price of gasoline in Canada.

"Should there be a rise in crude oil prices," he declared, "that rise is almost certain to be reflected in the price of gasoline in Canada."

A Jail Probe

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 29.—(CP)—A probe into conditions at the Hamilton city jail has been ordered by "Sheriff Leeming Carr, today, following the escape and subsequent re-arrest of Marion Fauria last Saturday night.

Fauria is being held by Hamilton authorities for questioning in connection with the robbery of a Mount Hamilton bank. He was brought back from Florida to face charges in Canada after extradition proceedings had been carried out.

EDEN ISOLATION NOT ATTRACTIVE

Adam and Eve Existence in South Seas Islands Depressing.

PEACEFUL LIVING.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29 (CP)—A South Seas Island where a modern Adam and Eve pursue a primitive existence far from civilization may be Eden to visiting scientists, but to a titled English lady it is "most depressing."

Lady Denise Churston of Devon, Eng., visiting here after a tour of the southern islands, said Dr. Charles Ritter and his companion, Frau Koervin, the German pair who in 1929 exiled themselves on the isolated Isle of Charles in the Galapago group to carry out their theories of healthful living in nature, are "most discouraged and practically ready to give up their idea at any time."

Lady Churston said she and her party aboard the yacht, White Shadows, had stopped at the Ritter retreat last year and seen the couple in their pursuit of the "natural life."

Peaceful Living

Since then, she said, she had heard, the Ritters have abandoned their ranch, the Hermitage, and moved back to civilization. This report, however, is discredited by later news from a scientific expedition headed by Captain G. Allan Hancock of Los Angeles, who visited the Ritters early this year and found they enjoying "their philosophy of peaceful living."

Be that as it may, island isolation as demonstrated by the Ritters finds no disciple in the attractive Lady Churston, who is bound for New York and home.

"Their shack—it is only one room, built of rough timber—is high and remote, approached only by a long climb," she said. "At the foot of the path is a sign warning visitors to ring the bell and let them know they have callers, for they go about all the tme absolutely stark. In honor of visitors, they don garments—he, rough shorts and a shirt; she, a loose skirt and blouse.

"It's no life for a woman," continued Lady Denise. "Never seeing anyone, going to bed frightfully early—Oh, most depressing."

STICKS TONGUE IN SOCKET GIRL IS ELECTROCUTED

POTTSTOWN, Pa., August 29 (C. P.). — Four-year-old Virginia Lee Moore stuck her tongue in an electric light socket and was electrocuted in her home to-day. The child, a daughter of Stephen G. Moore, was taken to a hospital, but artificial respiration failed to revive her.

DOUBLE COLLISION

HAMILTON.—A few minutes after Dr. W. A. Vanderburgh's auto scraped the fender of another vehicle in a minor collision, the doctor cranked his car. The car, geared in reverse, shot across the street into another machine owned by Robert Crosden. Crosden's machine was the only one damaged to any extent.

BENNETT URGES CANADA RECEIVE LUMBER RIGHTS

Asks Britain to Drastically Curtail Cheap Russian Product.

UNFAIR COMPETITION.

Claims Trade is Jeopardizing Whole Ottawa Agreement—May Force Changes.

LONDON, Aug. 29. (C.P.)—The Morning Post declared Prime Minister R. B. Bennett just before his departure for Canada Saturday sent to Walter Runciman, president of the British Board of Trade, a memorandum urging "in the most uequivocal language" that article 21 of the Ottawa agreements be put into operation without delay.

This was in order that imports of Russian timber be drastically restricted to enable Canadian soft woods to obtain a share of the British market, the newspaper added. Article 21 provides that the preferences granted in the Ottawa packs shall not be jeopardized by unfair competition, such as state-subsidized dumping, from goods of foreign countries.

"It is understood," The Morning Post said in bold type, "that Premier Bennett made it clear that unless action was taken to honor article 21 the operation of the whole Ottawa agreement might be in jeopardy and that the concessions granted by Canada might have to be seriously re-considered."

The question of competition from cheap Russian timber in the British market was raised by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Canadian Finance Minister, during the sessions of the World Economic Conference and conversations followed between the Canadian and British delegations. There were also some fairly sharp exchanges between Canadian and Russian delegates, over the matter.

ARGENTINA FAILS TO SIGN TREATY

Wheat Agreement Not Signed By One Large Exporting Country.

DELEGATES UNEASY.

LONDON, Eng., Aug. 29. (AP) Argentine has not yet signed the international wheat agreement reached last week, and an exchange of messages has been going forward between Argentine representatives in London and the government in Buenos Aires.

Whether this indicates a serious hitch was not known to-day, but there was a certain amount of uneasiness in wheat Conference circles.

Twenty-one nations last Friday signed the agreement which established program of reduced production and stimulated consumption, looking toward the eventual lowering of tariff barriers on wheat by importing countries and an increase in wheat price.

It was assumed that there was some point concerning which the Argentine government was not satisfied. The Argentines here were understood to have expected a cable authorizing the signature today, but it was said that when the message arrived it necessitated further communication with Buenos Aires.

When the other nations signed on Friday expectations were that Argentina would do likewise yesterday.

Lost 75 Pounds Hopes To Lose More

OKLAHOMA CITY, August 29 (C.P.). — J. R. McCarty offers encouragement in a big "weigh" for those who would be thin.

McCarty, head of the Federal State Employment Service here, weighed 565 pounds last December. Now it's 360, and he hopes to be a mere shadow of 220 pounds by February.

He says he lost 75 pounds while in bed with influenza, and that made him feel so much better that he went on a diet.

BANK HELD UP IN ORANGEVILLE BY THREE MEN

Money is Taken From Teller's Cage in Royal Bank, Orangeville.

Amount of Loot Unknown.

Four Members of Bank Staff Forced By Robbers Into Small Closet.

ORANGEVILLE, Ont., Aug. 29.—(C.P.).—Three men held up the Orangeville branch of the Royal Bank of Canada to-day and escaped with an unestimated amount of cash taken from the teller's cage. The robbery took place at 1.35 E.S.T.

The robbers threw four members of the bank staff into a small closet, locked the door, and hurriedly snatched up all the money in the cage, racing out of town in an automobile driven by one of the trio.

W. O. Ahearn, manager of the branch, estimated the robbers did not take more than $2,000, though he was not at once able to give a definite figure. The manager was not in the bank at the time of the hold-up.

At work behind the desks were D. J. Campbell, accountant; J. Morgan, teller; J. F. Taylor, ledger keeper and Miss H. F. Arnott, stenographer. One of the robbers jumped over the rail and held up the four employees while the second covered them from in front of the teller's cage.

The four were hustled into a small closet and the door was locked behind them. The robbers hurriedly scooped up the cash in the teller's cage and went out, driving away. It was beleved they headed south—towards Toronto.

ONTARIO WAIVES ACTION AGAINST ALBERT DORLAND

Decides Not Prosecute Kingston Riot Charges, Price Announces.

CLEMENCY HINTED.

Expect Final Decision in Coatsworth Issue at an Early Date.

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—Attorney-General William H. Price notified the Department of Justice, yesterday, that Ontario would not bring prosecution against Albert Dorland for his connection with the Kingston Penitentiary riots.

Some time ago, the Department of Justice wrote Queen's Park asking if in the light of Mr. Justice Kingstone's Dorland inquiry report findings, and of the fact that Dorland's participation in the penitentiary trouble was not outstanding, Ontario desired to prosecute. With Col. Price on an overseas holiday, a decision in the matter was deferred. One of the first things which he dealt with on returning to his office yesterday was to dispose of the question.

It was hinted in unofficial Parliament Buildings circles that the Price action would pave the way — if Ottawa desired it paved—to the exercise of clemency in Dorland's case by the Federal authorities.

Col. Price also intimated yesterday that a decision would be forthcoming immediately on the findings of Mr. Justice Kingstone that no police magistrate should sit as a member of the police commission for upwards of two years, now. Magistrate Emerson Coatsworth's resignation from the Toronto Police Commission has been in the hands of the Ontario Government, without being acted upon. Rumors are to the effect that it will be accepted forthwith.

MACHADO STAYS CLOSE TO CABIN

Keeps to Ship After Talking to Police as Liner Docks at Bermuda.

GUARD ON PIER.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Aug. 29—The liner carrying Gerardo Machado to a temporary refuge in Canada berthed here to-day, but the exiled Cuban President remained aboard ship with three companions who sailed with him from Nassau, Bahamas.

A guard of police stood on the pier when the steamer Lady Rodney docked, and none of the passengers were permitted to land until police officers had conferred with the deposed president. The conference took place after Machado had appeared at the head of the gangplank, apparently ready to come ashore.

The inspector in charge of the guard shouted, "Wait a Minute," and then boarded the ship. He spoke briefly to Machado and then went ashore again. The former President of Cuba returned to his cabin.

Later, Dr. Octavio Averhoff, former Secretary of the Treasury in Cuba, said the party did not wish permission to land, but planned to stay aboard the ship until it sailed for Montreal later to-day.

The former Presidents two other companions were Eugenio Molinet, former Secretary of Agriculture; and Manuel Mireno, Machados aide-de-camp.

Machado refused to-day to see newspapermen, but Averhoff granted a brief interview on the liners deck. He declared the plans of ex-President Machado were at present indefinite. A stay of "two or three months would be made in Canada, but as to his contemplated movements at the end of this time he would make no statement.

The former secretary said Machado and his companions carried no money with them, beyond their own personal funds.

Civic Welcome Is Extended Chiefs By Mayor Denne

Twenty-Fifth Annual Convention Of The Dominion Association Of Fire Chiefs Opened In Duffus Building With Civic Welcome Extended.

PRESIDENT FIRE CHIEF GUERIN OF KITCHENER GIVES OPENING ADDRESS—MEMORIAL SERVICE

Fire Department heads from all quarters of Canada, assembled in the Duffus Building for the opening session of the 25th Annual Convention of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs, were this morning tendered a civic welcome to Peterborough by Mayor Roland Denne, and other dignitaries of the city.

His Worship's warm and hearty welcome to the delegates, on behalf of the citizens, was further amplified by Alderman J. A. McNabb, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light committee; John R. Marshall, president Peterborough Chamber of Commerce; and by the Convention host Chief George Gimblett of the City Fire Department.

Chief A. S. Kapple of Stratford, responded to the welcome, while the Hon. George Challies, Provincial Secretary, who was introduced by J. F. Strickland, K.C., M.PP., provided an interesting and thoughtful address.

The proceedings opened with the address of Retiring President Chief Harry Guerin of Kitchener, who assured the assembly, "it becomes my duty and I can assure you it is a very pleasant one, as well as an honour and privilege to open this the 25th Annual Convention of the Association in my old home city."

President's Address

"On behalf of the members of this Association I wish to extend to the citizens of Peterborough our most grateful acknowledgment and appreciation for the privilege of being their guests for the next few days", he said.

"I am more than pleased to see so many delegates," he observed "from various parts of this great Dominion. We have come here to solve the problems which confront us regarding fire prevention and fire protection; to exchange views and discuss matters pertaining to the safety of lives and property, and the enormous waste from the ravages of fire".

Expressing the hope that the delegates would attend every session and make a point of being in their seats promptly on time and take an active part in the proceedings, the president reminded the delegates, "brother chiefs you owe this to the municipality you represent".

"We are highly honoured", Chief

STAGE ALL-SET FOR EXHIBITION

Plans Complete For Peterborough Industrial Exhibition.

ENTRIES COMING IN.

Plans are complete and the stage is all set for Peterborough's Industrial Exhibition, according to committee reports at last night's meeting of the Board. This was the final monthly meeting of the directors, a check-up on all the arrangements for every department of the Exhibition. Details have been gradually decided upon, and the chairmen last night all reported that nothing had been overlooked in the preparations of probably the most attractive week's program the Board has ever presented.

A few entries have already been received by the secretary, F. J. A. Hall, and it is expected that the various classes will bring out a great display of exhibits both in quantity and quality. Of special interest to horsemen is the news that three stake races are included in this year's card, and it is confidently believed that the cream of the light harness racers of the Province will be seen here this year.

The Scots Guards Band, coming direct from the Toronto Exhibition, is undoubtedly one of the finest attractions the directors have secured in a long time. Music lovers from the city and the district will take advantage of this opportunity of hearing this famous British band, which again delighted crowds recently at the Ottawa Exhibition, and is now filling its engagement at the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto.

CRACK EXPRESS JUMPS BRIDGE FIVE LIVES LOST

Twenty-five Injured Rushed to Hospital—Many Are Missing.

4 OF DEAD UNKNOWN.

Coaches Pile Up in Water-filled Draw Making Rescue Difficult.

TUCUMCARI, N. M., Aug. 29. — (AP)—At least five persons were killed, 25 injured and many passengers were missing when the Golden State Limited, crack Rock Island train, plunged through a bridge into a water-filled draw five miles west of Tucumcari at 5 a.m. today.

C. J. Crost of Tucumcari engineer and four unidentified passengers were killed. James Randall of Tucumcari fireman was injured. Seven coaches went into the water, along with the locomotive. The draw, ordinarily dry, was a raging torrent fed by heavy rains of the last week, climaxed by a four-inch fall last night.

The Golden State Limited was East bound from the Pacific coast. T. F. Wheelock, mail clerk, the only man in the mail car was among those severely inured.

The coaches plunged into a ditch alongside the earth fill on both the north and south sides, but were only partially in water. Three day coaches carried 43 passengers.

Bodies of four passengers brought to Tcumcari were not identified immediately. It was not known how many of the 43 passengers were dead or missing, but at least 25 were brought to hospitals here.

Fires Are Burning In Peat Formation

SIMCOE, Ont., Aug. 29 (CP)—Turkey Point's fire threat, already two weeks old, is there to stay. Fires crept along heavy brush last night despite efforts of volunteer fighters and gain a hold on peat formation. It is feared it will be impossibe to put it out this year.

Just as long as warm, dry weather continues there will be danger the smoking, almost invisible fires in the peatland will break into flames, endangering scores of cottages nearby. There is little immediate danger the flames will spread.

$750,000 BLAZE RAZES SPRAGGE LUMBER MILL

8,000,000 Feet of Timber in McFadden Yard Go Up in Flames.

SECOND TIME IN YEAR.

Postmaster's Home Burns—Residents Pile Furniture in Street.

SPRAGGE, N. Ont., Aug. 29.—(CP) — Fire raced through Spragge for the second time within a year today, causing damage estimated at $750,000 as it burned almost to the ground the McFadden Lumber Company mill, 8,000,000 feet of lumber in the McFadden yards and the home of Postmaster P. J. Rinehart.

Left standing when flames mowed down more than half the town's dwellings and part of the lumber company belongings last September, the lath mill caught fire at 4.30 this morning. The fire spread to piled lumber nearby, eating thousands of dollars worth of valuable lumber.

The blaze was under control at 10:15 with Firemen from Blind River keeping close watch on the embers and still pouring water on the smoking lumberyards. Fire was likely to break out again at again at any moment in the yards, they said.

Residents Take No Chances

The Rinehart home was the only private house to take fire, but residents, the 1932 disaster fresh in mind, frantically removed the contents of their homes to the streets. Furniture was piled high in front of houses in the lumber-yard section of the town.

The fire was notized first by Watchmen Paul Sharkey and Paul Gretin. Equipment of the Ontario Forestry Department was rushed to the scene and the Blind River fire brigade was called. Most of the damage was done before the organized fire-fighters arrived. Resumption of operations this summer was considered unlikely, though J. J. McFadden, owner of the lumber company and virtually every home in the settlement, had made no statement. After last September's $500,000 blaze Mr. McFadden partially rebuilt the place in order to continue operations. About 300,000 logs are on hand here at the present time.

Insurance Carried

A five-minute fall of rain yesterday was insufficient to relieve parched conditions existing in the town. Lumber yards were dry, yielding quickly to the flames. It was believed the stock and mill were fairly well covered by insurance.

Embers of the fire will require close watching for two or three days. Even before the threat of further fire is ended McFadden officials will confer on the possibility of rebuilding.

Grizzly Bear Overpowered By Two Wolves British Visitors Watch Mountain Battle

BANFF, Alta., Aug. 29 (CP)—A death fight between a grizzly and two large wolves, with the bowl of lofty Citadel Pass as the amphitheatre, was the rare drama of the wilds witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. C. Leach of London, Eng., and East Africa. With Mrs. Pat Brewster of Banff, the couple were en route to the Mount Assiniboine camp, when, turning a sharp corner of Citadel Mountain, on the Great Divide, they were horrified to see a grizzly charging madly toward them. Instinctively they halted their horses. Then, as the bear stopped and sat down 100 yards from they, they saw two large wolves were worrying it, jumping in and out. The almost exhausted bear was granted not a moment's respite in the fight that may have been going on for hours. Another rush and the battle moved to within ten yards of the visitors. The bear's distress was plain. Nimbly the wolves dodged its blows by inches. The next rush carried the battle to a small circular knoll, no higher than the gizzly itself. The curtain rang down as the bear fell to its finish behind the knoll. Just returned from the trip, Mr. and Mrs. Leach stated not even in the jungles of East Africa had they had such an experience. At no time did the animals pay attention to the horses and riders.

8 Peterborough Children To Visit C.N.E. Will Be Chosen By Lot Mayor Announnes

The eight Peterborough children, four boys and four girls, who will attend the Toronto Exhibition as guests of the Wrigley Company will be chosen by lot, according to the method of nomination decided upon by Mayor Denne, who was requested by the company to select the local group.

Children of from twelve to sixteen years may deposit their names, ages and street addresses in a ballot box in The Examiner Office on Wednesday. The box will be opened by the Mayor and City Clerk Armstrong, who will draw slips bearing the young folks' names.

The first four names of boys and girls will be the lucky guests of the Wrigley Company for a whole day at the Toronto Exhibition. Mayor Denne said that this gave every boy and girl in the city a chance to accept the invitation of the company, which was apparently their intention when they conceived the idea of an Exhibition holiday for girls and boys from all parts of the Province.

Bribery, Conspiracy Charges Preferred; Out on $3,000 Bail

Crown Alleges One-Time Officers Of County Accepted Sum Of Money From Ex-Treasurer Now In Jail, To Refrain From Reporting Certain Shortages In Accounts.

WARDEN DETERMINED NONE TO BE SPARED AT INQUIRY—REMAND MADE FOR ONE WEEK.

GODERICH, August 29. — Two more arrests were made yesterday on charges arising out of the probe which is proceeding with respect to Huron County finances. Robert Higgins of Hensall and William Booth of Wingham, who conducted the 1932 county audit, were taken into custody on charges of bribery and conspiracy by Provincial Constable McCoy. They appeared before Magistrate Reid, were remanded for one week, and admitted to bail of $3,000 each.

Alleged Bribe Accepted.

It is charged that these one-time officers of the county accepted a sum of money from Gordon Young, former treasurer, now in jail awaiting trial, to refrain from reporting certain shortages in the accounts of the former treasurer. The charges are laid under Section 161 (D) of the Criminal Code. In addition, the accused are charged jointly with conspiracy, in that they concealed facts known to them of a shortage.

Last week, at a meeting of the Wardens Commission, it was stated by a representative of the bonding company that Young had implicated his 1932 auditors, in that he had paid them $50 each to suppress information of his shortages. It was further stated that Higgins, a former Reeve and County Councillor, had signed an admission. Both Young and Higgins are alleged to have involved Booth, a young Wingham insurance agent and real estate operator, and there the Crown's case rests. At the June session Booth addressed County Council for over an hour, explaining particulars of his audit. He commented on the unsatisfactory condition of the county's books and offered his services in assisting the Treasurer to put them in shape. However, Council turned down the offer and engaged chartered accountants.

Report For Arrest.

Both Higgins and Booth have been almost daily visitors to the county buildings since they were brought under suspicion, and yesterday they were permitted to report to the county town for arrest.

With Treasurer Young in jail and County Clerk Holman confined to his home through illness, the county's business is almost at a standstill. Warden Ballantyne is in charge and, with the air surcharged with rumors as to what is going to happen next, he states that none guilty of wrong-doing will be spared. He shows no inclination to call a special meeting of his Council.

Orval Beaver and Ida Caldwell of Hensall provided bail for Higgins, and C. P. Smith and Abner Cosens of Wingham for Booth.

JEWS REQUEST CEMETERY GUARD

Elderly Visitors Are Threatened and Fences Have Swastikas.

POLICE UNADVISED.

TORONTO, Aug. 29—Members of the United Jewish Burial Ground Association announced last night they intended to ask the police of Forest Hill Village to provide protection for the burial ground on Roselawn Avenue on account of an incident on Sunday, during which a number of elderly Jews who had been observing the month of prayer, which commenced last week and concludes with the New Year, had been threatened by a number of men after boys had been caught disfiguring the cemetery fence with Swastika emblems.

The incident had not been reported to the police of the village yesterday, who stated, however, it was unfortunate that the Jews had not taken the number of an automobile said to have been used by the men. A complaint would have been followed by immediate action. At the same time, the village police admitted the Swastika movement had shown itself in the village. A dwelling, purchased by a Jewish citizen, had been disfigured by a Swatstika emblem before the purchaser had taken over his home.

Different Societies

The Roselawn Jewish Cemetery has a number of areas owned by seventeen different societies. One Jew visiting one of the areas found a number of boys disfiguring the cemetery fence and endeavored to scare them away. As he did so, several men on the street approached him, and other Jews came from another part of the cemetery. Threatened with violence, the Jews hurried off and reported the matter to prominent members of their race later on Sunday.

"The month of prayer which precedes the Jewish New Year commenced last week. Those who were in the cemetery on Sunday were elderly men, bent on observing their religious rites. One of them attempted to scare the boys away and then the other were threatened with violence," said a prominent Jew. "It did not occur to any of them to take the number of an automobile apparently used by the men, or acquaint the police with what happened. Obviously, the men were using the children to disfigure the cemetery."

COURT FAVORS INSULL'S ARREST

Sanctions His Detention for American Extradition Proceedings.

GIVEN BAIL.

ATHENS, Aug. 29.—(A.P.)— The appeal court approved to-day the application for formal sanction of the detention of Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities operator, in connection with American extradition proceedings.

Insull arrived shortly before the beginning of the hearing at 10.15 a.m., escorted by two plainclothes policemen.

After his identity had been established, several questions were put to him regarding himself, his wife and son. When asked about his nationality, Insull replied he was born in London, but acquired American citizenship in 1896. He said he did not know his present status because the American government had cancelled his passport.

Insull on Saturday was taken to a private hospital on doctor's orders after a second attempt began to extradite him to the United States on a new indictment charging violation of the Bankruptcy Act.

A previous attempt to extradite him on mail fraud charges failed.

Insull told the court, composed of five members, that he lived in Chicago as the executive of a utilities company, but that his business extended through several States.

Porsecutor Berganacos formally announced he would issue a writ for Insull's arrest following an American Legation note charging him with bankruptcy.

Detaails of the charge were not known this morning because the indictment had not been submitted.

One of his attorney's requested that Insull be released on bail since there was no fear he would attempt to escape. The attorney declared Insull already had expressed a wish to become a Greek citizen and to establish a permanent home in Greece.

When Chiefs Meet

Isn't it always the way!

Fire Chief George Gimblett had to desert his duties as convention host last evening to answer a fire alarm. It was the first alarm in some days.

Returning from the fire—a minor outbreak caused by a short circuit in some electric wiring, the Chief was met at Convention headquarters by an Examiner reporter.

"Where was the fire?"

"Up pigtail alley," came the laughing reply.

"And where might that be?" from the ignorant scribe.

Chief Harry Guerin, president of the Association—and an old Peterborough boy at that, supplied the answer. For the edification of anyone who doesn't know, it is Louis street.

"I know where that is," Chief Guerin said eagerly. Then true to the true old fire-fighting instinct, "let's go."

RELIEF OUTLAY FOR PROVINCE IS $30,000,000

Province's Share Will Be Over $13,000,000 Ellis Estimates.

REPORT TO MINISTER.

Proportionate Contributions May Be Altered Under New System.

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—When the Province's fiscal year has ended it is estimated that a total of $30,000000 will have been expended within the Province on relief by the Province Dominion and municipalities during this period. Of this sum, the Provncial exchequer will have provided about $13,750000, the Dominion about $9,500,000 and the municipalities about $6,750,000.

Report to Minister

These figures are contained in a report submitted by J. A. Ellis of the Provincial Relief Commission, to Hon. J. D. Monteith, Minister of Public Works. For the first eight months of the fiscal year the amount spent by the contributing partie was $21,000,000.

The report contains a complete analysis of the expenditures on relief in the Province since the first of the fical year 1930-31.

From the first of that year to the first July this year, the total bill was $77,800,000, of which the Province has contributed $27,800,000; the Dominion, $23,100,000 and the municipalities $26,900,000.

Plan To Be Altered

In view of the fact that a new program of public relief works is mooted, the figures provided in the report are of interest. However, under the new plan, the details of which have not yet been made public, the proportions contributed by the three parties will probably not be the same as they were when relief works were undertaken previously.

During the fiscal year 1930-31, the total relief expenditures in the Province were $18,500,000 of which the Province paid $4,300,000, the Dominion $4,300,000 and the municipalities $9,900,000. Of the $18,500,000 bill, an amount of $2,800,000 was expended in direct relief, the remainder being spent on relief works, which provived 43,000 men with work, the total of man-days' work being 2,384,000.

How Costs Were Shared

In the fiscal year 1931-32, during which agreements were made with the municipalities for grants for relief works, a total of $38,300,000 was spent, the Province contributing $13,500000; the Dominion, $12,300,000 and the municipalities, $12,500,000. Under these agreements the Dominion and the Province each paid 25 per cent. for relief works, 17½ per cent. for Sanatoria buildings, and 12½ per cent. for municipal buildings.

Of the $38,300,000 spent in this (1931-32) fiscal year, $36,300,000 was spent on relief works, with about $12,000,000 on direct relief. The work on the Trans-Canada Highway accounted for $6,000,000 of this and $1,000,000 was spent on the Provincial Highway from Madoc to Perth, and $4,700,000 for Northern Development work. The Dominion contributed 50 per cent. of the cost of the Trans-Canada Highway, and 40 per cent. of the cost of the other two works. The remainder was spent on buildings, etc. Some 115,000 men were given work, to a total of 4,800 000 days' work, and the amount paid out in wages totalled $12,500,000.

President Of Dominion Fire Chiefs Returns To Home City For Convention

In presiding over the 25th. Anniversary Convention of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs, which opened here today, President Chief Harry Guerin of Kitchener, enjoys the additional pleasure of paying a return visit to his home city.

He was born and raised here, and is a nephew of John Macfarlane of Park Street North, and a cousin of W. James Macfarlane, a member of Peterborough City Fire Department. The family on his mother's side of the house were settlers in Omemee district.

Equally interesting is the fact that Chief Guerin and Chief George Gimblett, convention host, were at one time fellow rankers in the Hamilton Fire Department.

Retiring President Guerin, who will be succeeded in office next term by Chief Robert Dey of Pembroke, has the unique distinction of having headed the Association for a term and a half.

As 1st. Vice-president of the Association, Chief Guerin automatically succeeded to his present office following the tragic death in June, 1932, of President Chief Gautier of Montreal, who was killed in the oil tanker explosion in the harbour. Chief Guerin was later elected to head the Association at the Convention in Halifax last year. Last Fall he represented the Association at the International Fire Chiefs' Convention at San Deigo, California.

Barn Is Destroyed In North Monaghan

The barn of Alex. Laing was destroyed by fire about 11.00 o'clock last night. Mr. Laing lives on the Peterborough-Port Hope highway, about four miles west of the city. The complete season's crop, along with some machinery, was destroyed. Neighbors gathered soon after the fire alarm was given, and they were able to save the house from being destroyed. Some insurance was carried.

Pilchard Fishing Starts Along Coast

VANCOUVER, August 29 — Delayed for almost two months British Columbia's pilchard run has at last been located by fishing boats.

Over the week-end 130 tons of fish were brought in and eight giant reduction plants on Vancouver Island were preparing to take in the season's run after remaining idle for the greater part of the year.

RELIEF AGREEMENT RATIFIED.

To Every Advertiser in Canada

The Most Responsive and richly concentrated markets of Canada are the cities where DAILY NEWSPAPERS are published

They contain 35.25 per cent. of the customers and do 65.57 per cent. of the retail trade of the whole Dominion. The new census figures reveal that 53.71 per cent. of Canada's population is urban.

These cities where daily newspapers are published are surrounded by supplementary—and just as desirable—markets, namely, suburban towns and country.

The Daily Newspapers have always given the advertiser a wonderful contact with the Canadian market from coast to coast. During this autumn and winter, when the business tide will be slowly and steadily rising, the newspapers will stand out pre-eminently from all other advertising media.

Where daily newspapers are published there is a yearly per capita buying power of $503—almost double the national average, which is $274.

The census shows that sales, as made in daily newspaper cities, are as follow:—

76.71 per cent. of clothing and apparel.
67.30 per cent. of drugs and toiletries.
64.35 per cent. of food.
60.84 per cent. of automotive sales.
58.50 per cent. of general merchandise.

These daily newspaper markets are outstanding, and the roads to them are clearly marked. The local newspapers, metropolitan or provincial, give daily and intimate access to the homes where this buying power is massed.

Does your selling plan need the concentration of special sales effort on specially desirable territories?

Are you trying to acquire the widespread support of dealer and consumer goodwill?

Do you need speed, coverage and control with economy of expenditure?

The Daily Newspapers in Canada help you as no other medium can

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Those who are planning to entertain on Labor Day will find the edible floral foods suggested, not only delicious to eat but charming to look at.

* * * * * * *

They will dress up the courses at which they are served.

* * * * * * *

Any mixture of congenial fruits can be used for the fruit cup. This is fortunate as it permits using up left-overs of all sorts of fruits. But little of any one kind is essential.

* * * * * * *

It is advisable to have some citrus fruits. They give zest and supply a good quantity of juice. The floral top consists of a wee sprig of mint for foliage with a bit of red fruit thrust in the centre for the blossom.

* * * * * * *

A maraschino or candied cherry, a fresh red raspberry, cherry or strawberry in season, or canned, now that the season is over, are fruits well adapted to this use.

* * * * * * *

If the fruit cups are prepared long enough beforehand, the flavor of the mint will delicately permeate the fruits in the cup, and give an unusually delicious flavor. Serve icy cold.

* * * * * * *

Cream chicken, lamb or veal. Fill pate shells with the creamed meat. Put a very thin slice of sweet pepper on top of each and an equally thin slice of ripe tomato inside the rim of pepper.

* * * * * * *

On the tomato put a circle of hard boiled egg and on centre of this a circle of stuffed olive. A modernistic full blown flower on a green leaf is depicted. The flavors of the various ingredients of the flower combine excellently with the cream chicken in its rich crusty pate shell.

* * * * * * *

The floral portions should be sliced and ready to put on top of the filled shells for they should be served hot. The flowers might look wilted if heated although the flavors would not be impaired.

* * * * * * *

Cut deep notches in a peeled cucumber, and slice thin. On each serving plate make a bed of shredded lettuce for foliage. Arrange a ring of the petal shaped circles of cucumber on the lettuce. Put a small ring of carrot for the yellow centre of each cucumber daisy. Serve with French dressing.

* * * * * * *

Around the centre of a watermelon cut deep angles through the rind and centre. Separate the two halves. Cut a slice off the tip ends of the watermelon so that each half will stand upright, like a tulip blossom.

* * * * * * *

When serving, the centre may be scooped out, or each petal shaped portion may be cut to its base, and form a portion.

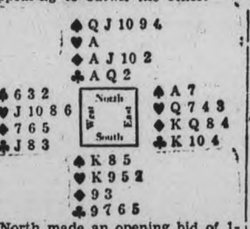
MATCHING WITS

BOTH DECLARER and senior (the player making the opening lead) were shrewd strategists. It was a pleasure to watch them play the following hand, each in turn appearing to outwit the other.



North made an opening bid of 1-Spade. Bidding then went: South, 1-No Trump; North, 2-Diamonds; South, 3-Spades, feeling certain of winning 2 tricks, and possibly as many as 4 tricks. North ended bidding with 4-Spades. East did not double, as he wanted to hide the location of considerable adverse strength that he held.

To cut down South's ability to ruff diamonds, East led his Ace of spades, followed by the 7. To enable dummy to lead twice the declarer ducked his 9 on the first lead, then won the second lead with dummy's 8. The 9 of diamonds was led and allowed to run. East's K won the trick, as that player was a habitual false carder. At once the declarer suspected that East held the missing Q.

East led his fourth-best heart, losing to the declarer's one Ace. North led his Ace of diamonds, followed by his J. East hesitated, then seeing an excellent chance to defeat the contract, East covered the lead with his Q, forcing dummy to ruff. Dummy's K of hearts was led. The declarer discarded his lowest club.

The declarer so strongly suspected that East held the Q of diamonds that he had intended letting the J run if East had not covered, but East's cover was prompted chiefly by the expectation that the declarer would lead a club from dummy; that East would win a finesse of that suit with his K; then East intended leading his last diamond, so that West might trump the trick and set the contract.

To East's surprise a low heart was led from dummy. The declarer trumped then he led a trump, picking up West's last spade. Of the 9 tricks played the declaring side had won 7. The declarer saw game, and he made it. He led his good 10 of diamonds, his long spade and his Ace of clubs, saying as he led his Q of clubs: "Here is a trick for my left hand neighbor." He had divined what was in East's mind when that player covered the J of diamonds with his Q, to take out dummy's last trump, so that West might later on trump a diamond lead.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

FOR SEVERAL seasons I have been advocating the use of air filters in the bedrooms of patients during the hay fever season. While there was a great deal of favorable testimony in favor of this, it is only this year that a careful scientific study of the results are at hand.

Dr. Clendening

This study was made at the University of Illinois College of Medicine. A ward was equipped with air filtering apparatus, and patients with various complaints were admitted. Some of these patients had plain hay fever. Some hay fever with asthma. Some had asthma made worse in the hay fever season (they were sensitive to pollen, but also to other things).

Pollen counts made in the room proved that the machines would reduce the amount of pollen from that prevailing in the outside air—three to four hundred (pollen grains per square centimeter)—to less than 10 on some days and always less than 20. So we may be sure that the causative factor of hay fever is largely removed.

Of the uncomplicated hay fever patients over 83 per cent were relieved in 3½ hours or less. The relief in most instances was complete. Only 7½ per cent reported no relief.

In the hay fever and asthma cases combined there was even more relief than in the simple hay fever cases, and it occurred in 1½ hours.

In the third group—asthma made worse in the hay fever season—the improvement was less striking.

These results seem to me to indicate a practical method of treatment during the hay fever season. The amount of relief is far greater than that following the use of vaccines or any other method. And in the long run less expensive.

The machines employed are arranged in windows so that all the air entering the room is driven by a fan through a filter which removes the pollen grains. It would not be difficult for an ingenious jack-of-all-trades around any household to construct one. The filter used is either lint or filt paper. These filters undoubtedly remove the pollen grains. The only source of error is that the machine may leak and allow pollen to sift into the room. The room must be closed and may become stuffy, but a fan can be employed to remedy this.

Hay fever patients almost invariably say that if their nights are comfortable they can stand the days. On those hot, dry days in the middle of the season when the pollen is very heavy, the attack acquired during the day cannot be expected to wear off for several hours even in air conditioned rooms.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

C. E. S.: "Please tell me something about streptococcus infection. I have heard that it affects the throat or tonsils and is always fatal."

Answer: The streptococcus may infect any part of the body. Streptococcus sore throat is usually an epidemic disease due to infection in milk. It is not true that the infection is always fatal. On the contrary, the majority of patients recover.

YOUNGSTERS "KNOW WHAT THEY WANT" IN CLOTHES—GET IT

Smart Individuality Demanded in Children's Costumes

Left, tweed coat; suede jackets, tweed skirt; 3rd, French blue striped knitted costume; boy in navy flannel suit; five, blue wool crepe dress; next, plaid gingham school frock; second from right, navy linen dress; right, twin sweaters, plaid skirt.

CHILDREN dress themselves nowadays, say stylists. Mother can't please her offspring. Their clothes must be as smartly individual as mothers combining simplicity with good taste. They know what they want and get it.

Certain trends in little girls' apparel are evident. You notice them in the group sketched above. They share some of the most striking style features of adult clothes, but are suitably modified without losing anything of smartness.

A smart, practical coat is one of the first essentials of the school wardrobe. The double-breasted one of tweed sketched at the extreme left is cut on excellent lines. Slightly fitted, it flares gradually toward the hem and has a belt and an inverted pleat in the back. The flap pockets are always a joy, to child or grown-up. There is a stitched tweed hat to match.

The suede leather jacket, second, is fitted at the hipline. It is lined with tweed to match the semi-circular skirt, and is just the thing the school girl needs for play.

The knitted suit beside it combines a French blue skirt with a striped top and short navy box coat, to which the scarf is attached. A darling cap matches the suit.

Young brother goes to school in a practical suit of navy flanned, with collarless coat and shorts cut in English manner. An Eton cap, bright tie, high socks and sturdy shoes complete his outfit. As the weather grows colder he will wear a classic navy chinchilla coat lined in plaid.

The widened shoulders which have caused such a stir in mother's clothes, have made their mark on small daughter's frocks as well. The next figure wears a blue wool crepe frock with projecting epaulets. The linen collar and cuffs are piped in red.

The little plaid gingham dress, next, shows an unusual round yoke and puffed sleeves.

The lines of the navy linen dress, second from right, are to be noted. It is a favorite for girls of from 8 to 16 years. It is gored to accentuate the waistline, and it buttons from neck to hem. The problem of the hankie, which worries little and big girls alike, is cared for in a breast-pocket. The white collar and cuffs are linen.

That favorite costume of big sister, the twin wool sweater suit, is illustrated for the little girl, extreme right, in cardigan and slip-on, complementing a plaid skirt.

PASSENGERS ON SKY RIDE HALTED BY BROKEN WIRE

CHICAGO, Aug. 29 (CP)—Several passengers on the sky ride at the World's Fair had a thrill yesterday when three cars were forced to halt in mid-trip by a broken telephone wire that fell across the cables supporting the cars. Hanging 210 feet above the lagoon across which the ride takes passengers between the 630-foot towers, the passengers remained calm and surveyed the fair grounds for more than an hour while workmen in tiny chairs that ran out on the cables, fixed the wire.

WELCOME FIRE CHIEFS.

It is with genuine pleasure that Peterborough welcomes today the delegates to the convention of the Fire Chiefs' Association of Canada.

This is always an hospitable city with warm greetings for all her visitors, but in the case of this week's convention Peterborough's satisfaction in acting as host is unusually great because of the keen appreciation by her citizens of the value of the public service contributed by the fire chiefs of the country.

It is generally recognized that Canadian municipalities are well served by their fire departments, often indeed better than they have any right to expect in view of the tendency to adopt a parsimonious attitude in making appropriations for fire protection.

For the efficiency of municipal fire departments and for the faithful work done by them, our guests of this week deserve a lion's share of the credit for, like most other services, much depends upon leadership and in fire-fighting leadership means just that, for the fire chief who is worth while does more than merely issue orders; when the task is difficult and the danger is great it is he who says "Come on", not "Go."

The annals of Canadian fire fighting are rich with stories of personal bravery on the part of fire chiefs who have gloriously led their men in hazardous fights against great odds.

Because of these traditions and because of the general appreciation of the efficiency of Canada's municipal fire-fighting forces, Peterborough citizens are delighted to have the present opportunity of greeting the fire chiefs of the Dominion, and of wishing them a pleasant and profitable sojourn in this city.

SENATOR ROBERTSON'S PASSING.

The death of Senator Gideon E. Robertson, former Minister of Labor, will be regretted in political and labor circles and generally throughout Canada.

Senator Robertson's successful career will be remembered because of the evidence it furnished that Canada is indeed the land of opportunities and that it is possible for men not blessed with a large share of this world's goods to achieve a high place.

He began his working life as a telegrapher, became head of the Telegraphers' Union, his capacity and qualities attracted the attention of political leaders and eventually he was appointed to the Senate and to the important portfolio of Minister of Labor.

In this role Senator Robertson displayed a willingness to work long and hard, a keen interest in everything that pertained to the welfare of Canada's workers and a broadness of mind that enabled him to see both sides of important questions; in short he was a successful Minister of Labor, perhaps too successful for his own good for it is generally recognized that the energy with which he threw himself into the immense task of organizing the present government's unemployment relief program in 1930 brought about the breakdown which has finally terminated fatally.

Senator Robertson was a typical Canadian labor man of the better type, a man who while keen to insist that the rights of the workers were protected, was able to see that other interests had their right to fair treatment; his passing will be regretted in all parts of Canada.

THE WHEAT PACT.

The agreement reached by the World Wheat conference, under the leadership of Premier R. B. Bennett, is being studied with keen interest, and in many cases with considerable doubt, in this country which perhaps more than any other will be affected by the success or otherwise of the pact.

It is obvious that anything like an accurate analysis of the possible results of the wheat agreement will require more detailed information than at present is available.

The fixing of the average world price at 63.6 gold cents per bushel, which means 91½ cents in Canadian funds or sixteen cents a bushel above the present price, will be regarded as satisfactory, but the production control end of the agreement has not been sufficiently explained for a comprehensive opinion to be formed.

It is known that the maximum aggregate export in the 1933-34 crop year is to be 560,000,000, but how much of this is to be Canada's share has not been revealed; however, as there is to be a decrease in production of 15 per cent. in the following year it is clear that thousands of acres of Canadian land hitherto devoted to the growing of wheat will have to be turned over to some other purpose or allowed to remain idle.

To accomplish the reduction it seems reasonable to expect that farmers who consent to such a material curtailment will have to be given some financial encouragement, which means another drain on the Federal treasury and another load on the shoulders of the Canadian taxpayer.

If, however, this is offset by a better price and better markets for Canadian wheat, the general result may be so beneficial to the whole country that the disadvantages can be overlooked.

The proof of the pudding is in the eating and it will be necessary to await a trial of the agreement before pronouncing the final verdict thereon.

THE END OF THE 18TH AMENDMENT.

The United States is making a rapid change from her officially dry status to official wetness.

Optimists among the American wet forces now declare that prohibition's reign will end on or before December 6th, for as soon as 36 states signify their approval of the Blaine resolution for the repeal of prohibition it will become the 21st amendment, which repeals the famous 18th amendment.

Up to the end of last week 20 states had ratified the Blaine resolution.

It is estimated the number will have increased by four before September 30th and by the end of October will have climbed to 28. Another month will see three more states climbing into the wet band wagon and in the first six days of December six more will run the total up to 37.

So runs the predictions of the optimists who are counting on such hitherto bone dry states as Maine and Texas as having definitely swung into the wet column.

If their prophecy is correct, and the fate of prohibition in other dry areas would seem to justify it, the republic's official dry spell will have lasted fourteen years, ten months and eight days.

The time required to put the 18th amendment into the constitution was exactly one year and five months and the present indications are that it will be taken out again in less time than hat—a remarkable change in public opinion.

WHERE SPECULATION HURT.

Outlining problems that await Premier Bennett's return the Canadian Press says:

"The export wheat situation is another which will command attention, for a problem now is that prices in Canada are too high as compared with prices in Liverpool."

And why are prices in Canada too high? They are too high simply because instead of trying to sell our wheat at the world's market price we preferred to gamble and speculate in wheat, bolstered it to a figure that meant nothing but chalk-mark on a blackboard and profit—or loss—for speculators.

Talk about dollar wheat in Winnipeg was nonsense. It was nonsense because nobody could ship wheat out of Canada and get a dollar for it. All they could get was what Liverpool offered—which was far short of a dollar. Yet by speculation, people were induced to hold their wheat off the world's market, with the result that during these past months very little wheat has been leaving Canada, this meaning that with a new crop about to be harvested we have something like 190,000,000 bushels on our hands from last year.

This, surely, is a clear case in which foolish speculation—based upon ignorance or unfounded optimism—injured the country's interests.—Ottawa Journal.

THE GOVERNMENT'S WHEAT OPERATION.

With wheat prices down over twenty-five cents from the levels of a month ago there is considerable speculation in the minds of the public as to the position of the Dominion government in regard to its holdings of this grain. It will be remembered that the federal government through its guarantees of the wheat pools' operations both in regard to marketing the wheat of the western pools and the support given to the market in general last year assumed large liabilities which some months ago showed losses on paper running, it is presumed, into millions of dollars.

When prices began to advance it was claimed, as the upward move proceeded, that the loss was being gradually wiped out and then later that it was being transformed into a profit. The question now, with prices again declining and a new crop coming forward, what are the government's liabilities in grain from previous years.

In the absence of definite information it is impossible to say whether the present level of prices represents a profit for the government or not. It is reasonable to believe, however, that the government still is in the grain business and is still the real owners of millions of bushels of wheat.

With another crop season opening it is of considerable interest to the farmers, the grain trade and the people of Canada at large to know just where the government stands and what the real situation is.

Government intervention in markets is usually a bad thing both for the government concerned and for the particular market where government operations are conducted. The holding back of supplies which are being yearly augmented by new crops as in the case of wheat cannot be regarded as a sound practice and the government has enough trouble on its hands these times in regard to finances without assuming any more than are absolutely necessary.

The situation as it seems to exist is not a logical one. J. I. McFarland as general manager of the wheat pools' central selling agency is operating on government guarantees and yet the people whom the government represents have very little information as to how their involuntary investment in grain is doing or what the results of the last year's operaions have been.

Without condemning or commending the government guarantee of wheat pool operations or government support of the market it is time that the people should be apprised of the results of the operations in grain on public credit to date. Otherwise there is no telling where this policy may lead us.—Monetary Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Mr. Bennett is on his way home and, it is to be imagined, will find plenty of work awaiting him at Ottawa when he arrives.

With the opening of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition less than two weeks away, it becomes more easy to realise that Summer is rapidly passing.

There may not be an Ontario election until next year, but the Liberal party is taking no chances. It is putting candidate after candidate in the field.

The appearance of the famous Scots Guards band at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition should bring music-lovers to the city from all over the district. It is a major attraction that will appreciably add to the prestige of Peterborough's fair.

The Ontario Townships Association, at its convention this week, proposes to discuss the desirability of abolishing county councils. It is rumored that most members of present county councils are not in favor of the idea.

VACATION ESCAPADE

CHAPTER 9

"HOW ABOUT our daily dip?" Fred Proctor said, looking into the library where Sally sat at work.

She looked up. Proctor was a handsome man at any time; in his bathing trunks and striped beach robe more so than usual, sturdy, erect, trim and richly tanned. What a nice man he could be, if he wanted to; what a nice man he really was much of the time, when you stopped to take stock and give him credit. Perhaps he had eyed her a little frankly, a little hungrily several times, but, certainly he had treated her as if she were his fiancee rather than his secretary. This was but another example, this daily dip.

"I'd love it!" she exclaimed.

"Get into your suit," he commanded.

Sally jumped up and covered her typewriter. How many girls, she wondered, had jobs as good as this one? She ran lightly upstairs to her pleasant room overlooking the beach and began hurriedly to undress.

She hummed merrily as she hurried about the room getting ready to meet Proctor. Fred Proctor—a millionaire, and such a handsome millionaire—waiting to take her for a swim at his beautiful home on the ocean in Daytona Beach, Fla. Sally laughed to herself. Imagine how that would sound in the Chicago newspapers, under a picture of them in their bathing suits. Wouldn't Alice Beresford be green with envy, her with all her recent exalted connections out there in Evanston now that she had married young Waldo Beresford of the Evanston Beresfords. But Waldo Beresford was just a bond salesman. Fred Proctor. Fred Proctor was a millionaire, a man of leisure, a sportsman was the word, she presumed, and the nephew and heir of the late John Kemble Proctor.

When she thought of John Kemble Proctor Sally's smile narrowed for a moment. No matter how happy she might be in this lovely house, no matter how well Fred Proctor might treat her, no matter how attentive he might become, there was no denying the fact that the death of John Kemble Proctor had been mysterious. Somebody in this house — Gus Vitelli; the wraithlike negro, Jasper; perhaps even Fred Proctor—might have fired that bullet through the brain of the canny, unscrupulous old financial and political leader. Who? And why?

After all, that was what she was really in the house for. Sally recalled with a sigh, to try to help learn what had really happened, to uncover the mystery of John Kemble Proctor's death. Sally became serious. She looked into the mirror at her frank young face, as she buttoned the shoulder strap of her bathing suit, as she did so, she recalled what Ted Chandler had said: "I'd hate like the dickens to have anybody put a bullet through that little thick golden skull of yours....And somebody in that house knows how to plant 'em right between the eyes. You mark my words."

Oh well, she thought with a shrug, Ted Chandler and his friend, the city editor of the Daytona Beach paper, might be wrong. A perfectly nice young millionaire was waiting for her downstairs to take her for their daily plunge in the surf.

Sally hurried down to meet Proctor. On the stairs she passed the malevolently ugly old Gus Vitelli. The gargoyle bared his teeth in that lop-sided smile of his and his yellow eyes quickly dropped to Sally's sun-golden thighs as they twinkled down the stairs. She shuddered.

Gus was forgotten, though, when Sally and Proctor raced over the hard-packed beach to dive under the rollers. Sally loved the surf. Never had swimming, in Lake Michigan, Lake Erie or the little lakes near home, been so much real sport.

When they went back to the house, Sally saw a strangely familiar figure in blue coming out of the garage. For a moment she wondered, then suddenly she knew, who it was. It was Ted Chandler, with a big wrench in his hand. Sally's first impulse was to wave, but she checked herself. She overcame also a desire to say to Fred Proctor, "Oh, I see you've put that young man to work."

Ted saw her, though, but didn't give any sign of recognition. He walked on toward the rear of the house.

"There's the handy man I hired," Fred Proctor said, taking out a cigaret.

"Oh?" Sally said innocently. She was watching Proctor carefully.

"The chap who came in yesterday morning. The pilot and whatnot." He reached in his pocket.

"Oh, yes," Sally said without much enthusiasm.

"I really think he's going to be very useful," Proctor remarked in an unusually confidential tone. Sally waited eagerly, watching him from the corner of her eye, to see what revelation he might make, but he said no more.

She saw one thing, though, that made her catch her breath with a sudden memory. She saw him draw forth his alligator-covered cigaret lighter and fleck the little flame to life under cover of a cupped hand.

"I see you've found your lighter," she said before taking time to think. Then she wished she hadn't mentioned it. But he merely looked puzzled.

"Beg pardon?" he said.

"I see you've found your lighter," again," she said casually.

He still looked puzzled.

"You were looking for it yesterday, you know, under my window." She tried to smile as if the statement were the merest commonplace.

"Oh—yes," he said, laughing. "That's right. Yes, I dug it up. It was buried in the sand. I knew I'd dropped it along there somewhere."

His hesitation had aroused the girl's suspicion. Why had he failed to remember telling her he had lost that cigaret lighter in the sand under her window? Why, unless he had been lying. She must not forget to mention this to Ted.

She did not get a chance to see Ted until that afternoon. When she saw Proctor drive off alone in his roadster, she strolled out as if for a little walk and sauntered near the garage. As she passed she saw a pair of feet protruding from under a car.

"Ted?" she whispered.

"Eh?" He paused. There was a shuffling under the car as he changed position. "Yes," he whispered. Then—"Look straight ahead. Don't come in. We may be watched. What is it?"

"I have something to tell you," she whispered, using only the side of her mouth near the garage. She pretended to be looking up at the sky watching a white gull tipping in the soft breeze.

"Movie. Eight o'clock," he whispered quickly.

"All right," she replied, watching the gull coast seaward. Then she strolled along and kept pausing again and again to watch the bird for the benefit of anyone in that peculiar house who might be looking from one of those many windows—Gus Vitelli, perhaps, with his little yellow eyes so full of guile and leering wickedness.

When they met that night at the motion picture theater on the mainland side of town, Sally gave Ted a complete report on all she had seen and heard.

"That's using the little beano," he complimented her when she told of noticing that Proctor had the cigaret lighter and had forgotten that it was supposed to have been lost.

"What can it mean, though?" she asked, doubtfully. "It's funny all right, but it may not mean anything."

"Of course it does. Everything means something when you're sleuthing the way we are and don't forget it—everything. It means just this, Sally—that sun-kissed Casanova was looking for something else there in the sand. It wasn't the lighter. He only told you that to steer you off. All right then. What was it? Something he was afraid to mention."

"But what, Ted?"

Ted seemed to be concentrating. "Listen," he said with a sudden burst of inspiration. "What rooms are above that spot? Is yours right above it?"

"No, mine's to the south a little. Well, there's the kitchen on the first floor and—why—" And she gave a little gasp. "Why—it's old Mr. Proctor's room."

Ted whistled softly. "The room the old boy got himself shot in," he said. "There, baby, is where the secret lies. Listen, I'm going back there tonight and dig."

Voice of the People

AFFECTS CANADA.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Italy has made a trade agreement or treaty with Austria and Hungary that will seriously affect Canada.

Italy gives Austria a port on the Adriatic and agrees to buy on preferential tariff terms much of her imported supplies from her. Italy has also made Hungary the third member of this new Entente and has agreed to buy Hungary's surplus wheat, timber, etc.

That this arrangement will seriously affect Canada is undoubted. The new arrangement at London (still lacking important signatures) by which Europe is to import 560 millions of bushels of wheat at 93 cents for Canada's share (really 66 cents Canadian money), has run on this rock to start with. That Canada needs an overhauling of her economic affairs if she is to avert disaster is now more than ever apparent.

J. H. Burnham.

C.C.F. CLUB MEETING.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I notice The Examiner of Wednesday, August 23, credits me with comparing the benefits the worker had on the other side of the line under President Roosevelt's N.I.R. Act with the worker here in Canada under the Old Party System, which would lead one to believe I support the N.I.R. Act and also that the N.I.R.A. was a new system instead of a reform, which is wrong and misleading.

What I did say was that President Roosevelt had taken a step forward but it was inadequate because it had not abolished sweat shops and low wages but still supported competitive industry which had taken all hope of the future away from the workers.

I stated further that had President Roosevelt the interest of the people at heart and if he was left with complete power, he may yet take the other necessary steps and bring about a new economic order, which is badly needed for his people.

Yours truly,
R. McCULLOUGH.

ANSWERS WILLIAM SMYTH

To The Editor of The Examiner:

..Dear Sir—I notice in The Examiner of August 26, that William Smyth takes exception to being termed a "stool pigeon" by Charles William Holland, President of the United Workers' Federation at Peterborough.

Mr. Holland has been getting in the limelight through unjust criticism thrust upon him by men who are not fit to belong to any organization, especially one of Labour.

If Mr. Smyth had one spark of grey matter he would have resigned from the Federation long ago, because he had been accused of being in league with certain people in the city and has tried to exploit the unemployed, to further his own gains. He states through The Examiner that the United Works' Federation is not secret and that it was permissible to talk about it outside the hall. Certainly we keep nothing secret from the public, when we are prepared to give it to them through the press, but certain data has been collected of vital importance to the unemployed, which can only be used to advantage at a given time.

The whole bone of contention with Mr. Smyth is that he was not fully acquainted with the full import of the weapons at our disposal and he is not able to take back a full report to the source from whence he earned the nom de plume of "stool pigeon." Napoleon is cited with using the words "with English soldiers and French officers he could beat the world"; also that "an army fights on its stomach." Mr. Holland might rightly be credited with a like statement that "with a few staunch supporters of the unemployed he could beat the depression in Peterborough but not with the type of support coming from expelled members like William Smyth. Again Mr. Holland might say a man fights on his stomach, for when he (Mr. Holland is fighting for our bread and butter. Mr. Smyth is fighting for his, at the expense of all the other unemployed workers.

Mr. Holland should not be allowed to shoulder all the criticism through the press and I take this opportunity of pledging him my full support and co-operation; also that of the majority of the unemployed workers in his fight for the betterment of conditions in Peterborough.

I have been helping to mould the bullets that Mr. Holland has been firing, and if any of them rebound it is only fair that the U.W.F. should help to receive them, so carry on Mr. Holland and any man who has a thought for his wife and family in regard to relief will give you one hundred per cent support!

Respectfully yours,
H. W. Childs.
Vice President.
U.W.F.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

EXECUTION KILLED SHERIFF

On this date, in 1839, the death took place of Alexander Hamilton, the sheriff of the Niagara District, under tragic circumstances. The fourth son of Hon. Robert Hamilton, the founder of Niagara, he had been active as a citizen and a soldier, prominent in the suppression of the Mackenzie rebellion and a leader in the chasing back of the American raiders into the border districts in 1838, most assiduous in the performance of his shrievalty duties both in and out of court, and was in short an ideal citizen and public servant. But when the time came for the execution of James Moreau (or Morrow) one of the leaders of the raiders, the sheriff was unable to find a hangman and had to himself pull the lever which sent the condemned man to his death.

From that time on he had no peace of mind; the stress of worry affected his health and he was forced to resign his office and take to his bed. There he waited away until relieved by death thirteen months after the execution.

On this date also in 1846 Sir John Harvey was appointed Governor of Nova Scotia. He had played a prominent part in Upper Canada in the war of 1812-14, winning the battle of Stoney Creek, he had averted war with the United States over the Maine boundary; and he made Nova Scotia history by calling the Reformers to office and so giving the province responsible government without any of the bloodshed which had taken place in the Province of Canada, which provoked Joseph Howe to write:

The blood of no brother in civil strife poured
In this hour of rejoicing ensanguines our souls;
The frontier's the place for the patriot's sword,
And cursed by the weapon that faction controls!

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterborough's Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner.

Mrs. E Blears,
Wolfe Street

Your handwriting expresses sympathy and loving kindness. It seems to emanate the spirit of confidence, so that others confide in you. Your disposition is not set by any one rigid rule, though it is natural for you to be strict in your morals. You are fun loving and humorous, genuine in friendship and trustful. Your ambitions are normal. You do not wish for the impossibe, but use good common sense about your hopes and expectations. You work well and perhaps rather too strenuously most of the time. You should be fond of flowers and music, clever with your hands and diligent mentally. The letter 'W' with its sharp upper portion describes a tendency to reprimand in no uncertain manner when the occasion demands. The 't' bar crossing shows flights of imagination, which might cause you to wonder why you are restless once in a while. As a housekeeper you should excell because of your ability to make the most of things. You are not a spendthrift, and seem to be cautious and economical. Your capital 'E' shows artistic tendencies, which no doubt you carry out in your home furnishings.

Elsie Williams,
Wolfe Street.

Your writing tells me that you are gifted with a very impulsive nature. You act on the spur of the moment many times much to your sorrow. You seem to crowd your emotions into a small space, and live years in a few moments, as the saying goes, this of course leaves you no room for expansion. No room to spread your wings, or to give you an opportunity to exercise self-expression. Study and diligent application to one specific line of endeavour would be essential to one of your type if success in the future is to be assured. There are some characteristics in your writing which show that you CAN be a success, once you make up your mind that you really want to be. Your will power is not very definite as yet, but can be made to come to your assistance more often, if you try to develop it. Friendliness and a joyful nature should make you much sought after as a 'requisite part' in a community.

Gerald Blears,
Wolf Street.

Your writing represents progress and industry. You are not the type of person to remain unoccupied while others strive for success. You have definite ideas about things and know when you like things and when you do not. You are intelligent and appear to be a busy person. Machinery might interest you, because of your natural ability to want to learn intricate details about everything with which you come in daily contact. You do not want to be simply told that a thing is so, you want to know why it is. Your writing depicts a healthy body and a clean honest mind. You are a good sport and fond of humor and social activities of the right type. Not 'Fussy' affairs. Your 't' bar crossings suggest a will power which is constantly under development, and which should eventually stand you in good stead in the march of progress later on. You are the type of person who can be depended upon to keep appointments, but I do not think that you care to arrive much before the appointed time. This is because you measure your distance in accordance to the time at your disposal, and so leave no room for surmise as to minutes necessary to arrival.

Victor McFadden,
Burleigh Falls, Ontario.

Your question regarding your ability to work in a kitchen is rather confusing, because there are many lines of occupation in a large hotel kitchen nowadays, but I presume you refer to general labor and not the cooking. Your writing shows mechanical inclinations, but it is not the writing of a mature person, so no doubt you CAN if you will, endeavour to fit yourself for the work which has the greatest appeal to your ambitions as time progresses. Your tall 't's' show that you have imagination and the manner in which you cross them indicates very good will power, though I am afraid that you let this will power make you resort to stubborness. However, I feel sure that if you make the most of your time this winter in real honest concentration and study, night school if possible. You will have greater and more suitable ambitions next year.

PLANES COLLIDE THREE KILLED

leaped from his plane at an altitude of about 500 feet, and came to earth safely. His ankle was broken.

Lieut. Vaupre told army officials his altimeter showed 500 feet immediately before the crash. He said the ship containing Lieut. Grater and Cadet Sandberg zoomed up and crashed into the side of his plane as he attempted to straighten out in a traffic lane.

All but Cadet Sandberg attempted a parachute jump. Lieut. Grater and Cadet Pasche fell within a few feet of the earth before their chutes opened. Cadet Sandberg went down with the plane.

The ship containing Lieut. Vaupre and Cadet Pasche burst into flames and crumbled as it fell to the ground. The other plane, containing Cadet Sandberg, was demolished as it struck the ground.

Mohawk Indian Chief To Try Deer's Rescue

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y., August 29 (C.P.).—Chief So-Lat-Cowanee, Mohawk Indian, conferred with the Watkins Gle nState Park authorities and Conservation Department officials to-day for permission to attempt the rescue of the seven-point buck deer which has been trapped for nearly four days on a narrow ledge of rock on the face of a precipitous bank in Watkins Glen Gorge.

Plans to snare the trapped animal, which is suffering from thirst with a torrent of water a short distance below its hazardous resting-place, or to reach it with ropes, have been discarded because the commotion might cause the deer to jump to death.

As word of the deer's plight spread many hundreds of nearby residents gathered to watch the deer fidgetting on its narrow shelf.

Hay and water lowered last night by game protector William Buck were not touched.

NORMAN IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK.—Montague Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, was back in New York to-day; his movements again being cloaked in silence after yesterday's relatively open visit to President Roosevelt at Hyde Park.

Questions of currency stabilization and international finance were quietly laid aside as Mr. Roosevelt served tea to Mr. Norman and George Harrison, Governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

TWO BOARDS OF CONCILIATION CHOSEN FOR RAILWAY DISPUTE

Each Group Will Study Wage Friction Applying to Separate Roads.

CHAIRMAN UNNAMED.

OTTAWA, Aug. 29 (CP)—Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, announced to-day he had appointed two boards of conciliation to hear wage disputes between the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways and their employees.

The first board will inquire into a dispute between the Canadian Pacific Railway and its clerks, freight handlers and station employees, numbering about 3,000. The railway proposed a second 10 per cent wage cut to take effect July 13, making a reduction of 20 per cent from the basic wage scale. The men objected and the appointment of the board followed. George S. Currie, Montreal, and W. F. O'Connor, Toronto, will be two members of the board, representing the company and the men. They will select a third member who will be chairman.

The second board will investigate two wage disputes between the Canadian National Railways and its men. The first dispute involves 4,300 men, clerks, freight handlers, laborers, and employees of the ferry service between Tormentine, N.B. and Borden, P.E.I., and wharf employees at Halifax. The second dispute involves 847 employees, clerks at the railway's headquarters at Montreal.

In both Canadian National disputes, the railway proposed an additional 10 per cent wage reduction, making a total deduction of 20 per cent from the basic wage scale.

Two members of the board will be F. C. Dobell, Montreal, representing the company, and Rev. Russell McGillivray, Ottawa, representing the men. They will choose a chairman.

War Scenes Liven Salisbury Plain

LONDON, August 29 (C.P. Cable). — Salisbury Plain, of evil memory to the First Canadian Division for its rain and mud, is again alive with such a marching of men as has not been seen for several years.

Fifteen thousand troops have completed preliminary exercises and to-day were setting out from Aldershot, in torrid heat for the autumn maneuvers' major operations on the Plain.

Fifty miles a day—under war conditions — must be accomplished. Meanwhile a wary eye is kept on the other "army's" aircraft.

Old military men are taking much interest in the fact the marching is being done in columns of three instead of in the traditional fours. Columns of three are the Continental practice. It is claimed it gives greater freedom of the road to staff cars and other passing traffic, while being pleasanter for the marchers themselves.

Fugitive Takes Sick Returns To Burwash

SUDBURY, Ont., Aug. 29 (CP)—Kenneth Holleywood, prisoner at Burwash Prison Farm, who made a break for freedom last Saturday, is back in the hospital of the institution to-day, having voluntarily returned after he was taken ill in the forest where he was hiding.

Four other who escaped along with Holleywood and were subsequently re-arrested, appeared in court before Magistrate J. S. McKessock to-day and elected for trial by judge and jury.

AIR LINE PLANE CRASHES.

CLOVIS, N.M., Aug. 29.—(A.P.)—A tri-motor plane of the Transcontinental and Western Air Line crashed 20 miles west of here during the night and its two passengers and two pilots were reported to have been killed.

Extra Pickings

WELLAND, Ont., Aug. 29.—(CP)—The cash register was just an after-thought to the burglar who entered the home of Charles Newman over his grocery store. He collected $60 from Newman's trousers pocket and $80 from a pocket of Henry Newman, a son, while the two slept.

Then he went downstairs and added $14 picked up from, the cash register in the store.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, Aug. 29 (C.P.).—Outside influences were a drag on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day and the list closed lower on the whole despite the firming trend just before the close. Volume was fair in some of the oils, the metals, Walkers Common and Ford of Canada, but low over the rest of the board.

Nickel slumped to 21.25 twice, while New York was indulging in selling waves, but firmed to close at 21.85, off 15 cents. Smelters was unchanged at 133, Brazilian dropped ⅛ to 14¾, C.P.R. recovered ⅛ and Ford of Canada lost ¼ at 16½.

About two points were knocked off the price of Walkers Common, Industrial Alcohol lost a point, Distillers Seagram nearly 2 points and Brewers and Distillers 5 cents.

Following a firm opening, the whole list softened around noon when a mild selling drive in the New York market, started by a rumor that France was about to depart from the gold standard, unsettled prices.

Nickel fell back to 21.25, Walkers Common to 47¾, Distillers Seagram to 28, and other leaders lost small fractions. Prices showed a firming trend in the third hour.

TORONTO MINING

TORONTO, Aug. 29 (CP)—Succeeding waves of selling in the New York market which however did not get out of hand, unsettled the Standard Mining list to-day, but a late rally wiped out all the losses. Some of the gold stocks were off as much as a dollar each in the afternoon.

Dome weakened 1.75 to 33.25 but picked up to close at 36.50 for a net gain of 1.25. McIntyre gained about 25 and Lake Shore 50 cents, while the others, Hollinger, Teck and Wright Hargreaves closed down about 10 cents each.

In the base metal group, Nickel, Noranda and Hudson Bay weakened about 25 cents each.

Mining shares opened the day with with a firm tone, and at the end of the first hour the board was well spotted with narrow gains, but these were replaced by small recessions when the New York quotations showed lower levels. Dome slipped to $34 and McIntyre to $36.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (A.P.). — Stocks suffered a series of sinking spells to-day, based chiefly on weakness in grains. Trading assumed active proportions on the selling The list attempted to retrieve part of its losses in the last hour and extreme recessions of 1 to around 5 points were reduced. Late losses of around 5 points were shown by Allied Chemical, United States Smelting and American Commercial Alcohol. Issues off 1 to 3 points included Chrysler, United States Steel, American Telephone, General Motors and Case. Transfers approximated 2,850,000.

CRACK EXVRESS JUMPS BRIDGE

Washout Unnoticed

Railroad officials here said the train was running only 20 miles an hour. It had stopped a mile west of the fill to investigate the track for possible damage. The east span of the bridge had been washed out, but the damage could not be seen from the west end

The engine was submerged in the deepest part of the ravine. The mail car rested on top of the engine and the baggage car was at a 45-degree angle to the track beside the mail car The next car, a coach, was crosswise in the creek bed, partially on top of the baggage car. A Pullman tourist sleeper was also across the creek. All there were on the south side of the fill. On the north side was a club car in the bed of the creek along with a standard coach, which was on its side. The head end of another standard coach was the only other car off the rails; the remaining Pullman coaches remaining on the bridge.

It was not known whether any bodies had been swept away in the torrent, or whether they were lodged in the wreckage.

PENSION REVIEW TO BE WATCHED

Ontario Command of Canadian Legion Holds Convention in Windsor.

FAVORS GOV'T PLAN.

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 29. (CP) Definite announcement the Canadian Legion will keep close watch over the Dominion Government's propose review of pensions was made here to-day by Captain J. J. Ferry of Toronto in his presidential address at the opening session of the Ontario command's annual convention.

At the same time Capt. Ferry indicated the Legion favored the review, believing it "will have the very valuable effect of settling the matter just as the inquiry a year ago disposed of the matter of pensions frauds."

"We are all agreed that the Canadian Legion, under no circumstances, will uphold the award of pensions to persons not entitled to them, but in any review that takes place the Legion will absolutely insist that injusices shall not be committed and also that in cases where an ex-service man is an innocent victim of an overpayment then he shall be dealt with most reasonably.

Legion delegates from all parts of Ontario listened to Capt. Ferry's opening address.

In his comment on the pensions situation, the president said he was gratified to be able to tell the convention there had been no general cut during the last year "notwithstanding the fact that practically every department in the government was reduced, including salaries."

Command Worked Hard

"Our Dominion Command worked hard and used all its power and influence to avoid this contingency, which was a dangerous one, from being put into effect," said Capt. Ferry. "The danger of a pension cut is not yet past as we have not entirely passed out of the depression, and also it can be argued against the present rate of pensons that the cost of living has gone down."

The work of the Dominion command of the Legion in successfully combatting the government's proposal to reduce pensions was praised by the Ontario president. He termed it "an outstanding performance which proved the effectiveness of the Canadian Legion as a powerful national ex-servicemen's organization."

Two minutes silence was observed as the convention opened. Official welcome was extended on behalf of various border municipalities and provincial chairman, Harry Bray of Toronto, took charge of the meeting.

TO DISCUSS 'PHONE TOLLS.

TORONTO, Aug. 29.— (C.P.)— The Ontario Municipal Association will discuss at its annual meeting to-morrow a resolution from Sault Ste. Marie calling for investigation by the Dominion Railway Board into the present scale of telephone tolls.

The resolution is one of several of province-wide interest. Guelph will ask the Association to urgently request the Ontario Government to revise and consolidate the statutes of the province at the earliest possible date."

SPORT OF KINGS

By ART MURRAY

(Special to Examiner.)

Stamford Park, Niagara Falls, is virtually a beehive of activity these days with the different stables arriving and getting ready for the seven-day meeting which gets under way on Wednesday of this week. A special train from Windsor arrived on Sunday containing a lot of thoroughbreds that raced at Devonshire last week. The track is in wonderful condition and some sensational moves have already been made over it by horses already quartered there.

• • •

We notice where Lloyd Gentry, who has a large stable under his wing, is not going to participate in winter racing this year but is going to turn all his horses out at Harry Hatch's farm near Toronto, so between now and the close of the Canadian racing season you can look forward to this gentleman putting over a lot of specials to help pay the feed bills during the long winter season. Here are a few under his care: SPEED GIRL, TRIGLING, FRENCH LASS, PROJECTILE, EASTER HATTER, SWEEPVALE, and several others.

• • •

Harry Giddings has not been having very much success lately but one of these days he is bound to crash into the limelight. He has the real good sprinter DEDUCE all ready for a winning, and don't forget that this one kicked dust in the faces of such good ones as Broadway Lights and Neverfade early this year at the Woodbine spring meet.

• • •

GOLDEN FATE from the J. E. Smallman stable has developed into one of the shiftiest sprinters around these parts. In his last race on Saturday at Devonshire he carried a hundred and eleven pounds and ran the six furlongs in the exceptionally fast time of 1.11 2-5. GEORGE E. MILLER is one of the nicest Canadian breds doing business at the present time. He is usually at his best in the fall season and from now on you must consider him in any Canadian-bred event. THE TOUT is working up to a winning effort and don't be surprised if you see this one pay off in box-car figures in the near future. WHITE THORN, which Conny Smythe purchased from Mrs. Whitney a few weeks ago, is about ready now to do his stuff and we would advise you not to be caught napping where this one is concerned. The smart ones tell me Bill Donoghue has SPEY CREST keyed to concert pitch and is just simply waiting for a spot to drop him from the clouds with a bang.

• • •

Just in case you happen to be interested in American racing we recommend INFLATE at Saratoga and SALISBURY at Hawthorne. These are what they call clockers' specials, and they will not miss.

• • •

We hear that they have POWDER MONKEY all ready for a killing and this one is no slouch when they see fit to turn on the juice. SEA KALE won her last start at approximately eight to one and looks headed for a successful autumn campaign. Track conditions make no difference to this one. She can go just as well in the mud as on a fast racing strip. She can either sprint or run from here to Vancouver.

RESTORATION PLEA MOST SUCCESSFUL

Continuance of Activity Assured by Fund, Gould Reports.

TORONTO, Aug 29.—A remarkable response to the Dominion-wide appeal of the Restoration Fund Committee of the Church of England in Canada was reported last night by the Rev. Canon S. Gould, director of the appeal, who addressed a large gathering of Maritime and Ontario men's church club members gathered in Maurice Cody Memorial Hall, St. Paul's, Bloor Street.

Continuance of every phase of Anglican activity in the ecclesiastical province of Rupert's Land is assured through the remarkable response to the appeal, it was stated. Canon Gould announced that subscriptions to the Restoration Fund and the Special Episcopal and Clerical Maintenance Fund had reached $870,226 of which $423,563 was in cash. The result of the appeal was all the more gratifying, Canon Gould declared, in view of economic conditions in the Dominion and was a high tribute to the loyalty of Anglicans throughout the Dominion of Canada.

The dinner was in the nature of a welcome to visiting churchmen from the Maritime Provinces who are now in Toronto.

Sir Henry Drayton, who was chairman of the Restoration Fund Drive and who spoke briefly to the gathering declared that there existed today just as great a need for funds as had been the need of the Restoration Fund drive.

"Are we content," Sir Henry asked, "that the salaries of clergy should remain on the lowest scale of living. For that is the case in the outlying parishes."

Sailboat Capsizes Youth Feared Lost

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Aug. 29. (AP)—Rescue squads combed the 20-mile sandy shore line of Lake Michigan between here and Gary, Ind., to-day for a youth, who with two others attempted to swim to shore when their 18-foot sailboat capsized during a heavy sea.

The one still missing is Lawrence Carlson, 20, of Muskegon, Mich., a student in a Michigan college and owner of the boat. It is feared he may have perished in his attempt to battle the high waves that lashed the lake last night.

His two companions, Glen Smith, 21, also of Muskegon, a university of Illinois student, and Frank York, 21 of Chicago, reached shore at widely separated points last night after gruelling struggles with the waves.

RELIEF POTATOES STOLEN

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. — Joe Bell planted potatoes in his garden to keep his family supplied for the winter. But somebody got into the patch during the night and removed the potatoes, approximately 15 bags.

Should the Children EAT IT?

PARENTS, particularly mothers, are paying a lot of attention to children's diet these days. For it is far more economical and pleasant to keep a child well by feeding him correctly than by nursing and doctoring him back to health.

Of course in case of doubt the doctor should be consulted regarding what a child should eat and what he should not eat. But do you realize that the leading manufacturers of food now seek the advice and approval of the leading nutritional authorities in the country, relative to the claims they make for their products in their advertising?

In other words, food advertisements are reliable sources of information regarding diet. They are based upon the results of the latest approved scientific discoveries about vitamins, minerals and roughage, in relation to vigorous bodies, clear complexions, sound teeth and properly regulated systems.

So read these advertisements carefully. Consult your doctor about them. Very often the advertiser invites you to do this because he has asked authorities, whom your doctor respects, about statements made in those advertisements.

BOARD RENEWS BUS CONTRACTS

May Extend Service to Children Attending Campbellford School.

TO INSPECT BUILDINGS.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 29.—The consideration of bus services for the Campbellford High School took up the major portion of the regular session of the Campbellford Board of Education held last evening in the Public Library, and resulted in the contracts with A. J. Meyers and R. Fry being renewed for the coming school year at the same figures.

It is probably however that one alteration will be made. This in the contract with Mr. Fry, the stipulation being that the sum of $75 will be added to his contract if the necessity arises for him to leave the highway at Meyersburg to pick up three pupils. This is an extra run of about two miles a day, but will not only be considered if the pupils are willing to contribute an extra fifty cents a month on their transportation charges to cover the extra cost.

The matter of an extra bus service between Campbellford and Trent Bridge was also brought up when Dick Dawson addressed the Board regarding a contract for this run, to take care of pupils from that district attending the local High School. After discussion this matter was left to the Bus Committee to look into with power to act. T. E. Hall was appointed chairman of this committee.

Expressing appreciation of the fine results of both local schools this year, George O'Sullivan moved that "the board go on record as expressing its appreciation of work done in the schools last year and its satisfaction with the staff of both schools." This was sponsored by W. Cook and heartily approved by the Board.

Addressing the board regarding minor repairs necessary to the schools, Clarence Massie reported that he had got the Public School ready for the Fall opening, and requested that the Board as a whole inspect the buildings. Certain service changes were necessary in the lighting arrangements he stated. The Board agreed to inspect the schools on Friday Morning.

T. E. Hall, a member of the Trustee and Ratepayers' Association asked the Board to consider a grant to that organization. The sum of $5 was donated by the Board on motion of J. A. Irwin and W. Cook.

In the absenceof the chairman, A. G. Thompson, the vice chairman, G. A. Kingston presided over the deliberations of the Board.

AUGUST RAINS REVIVE FIELDS

Moisture Helps Farmers in Plowing for Fall Seeding.

PASTURES IMPROVE.

BAILIEBORO, Aug. 29 (Examiner Correspondence).—The recent rains have greatly helped in starting a fall growth and the sun-burned fields are now becoming quite fresh and green, giving the entire landscape a new appearance.

The moisture in the soil is enabling farmers to prepare their land for fall wheat seeding and although the rains have arrived late, it is thought that a normal acreage of wheat will be sown again this fall in this vicinity. The rains have also helped to freshen up the driedout pastures, and the stock may yet have more and better pasture this fall than was expected some few days ago.

Root crops have also been helped to some extent but the yield will be far below last season's.

Farmers in the district are working overtime making an effort to get their fall wheat land cultivated and some summer ganging done on the stubble land.

Mr. A. Moncrief and Miss A. Moncrief of Omemee were guests on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Moncrief.

Messrs. F. White and F. Barnard were visitors to Kingston on Sunday.

Rev. E. M. Cook will be in charge of the services in the United Church on Sunday after a month's absence on holidays.

Mr. N. Thompson motored to Toronto with a truck load of fat cattle on Monday.

Mrs. John Elliott of Norwood, Miss Lillian Elliott of Arnprior, and Mrs. T. Loughridge and Miss Ruth Roger of Toronto called on friends in the village on Wednesday.

COBOURG, August 29 (Examiner Correspondence). — There was a large crowd present for the annual Decoration Day service at St. Peter's Cemetery yesterday conducted by Cobourg Lodge No. 136, I.O.O.F.

Rev. Bro. T. S. Boyle, D.D., was in charge, with assisting Oddfellows and Rev. A. Sinclair of Cobourg. Rev. Bro. Dr. Palmer of Port Hope gave an appropriate address.

A number of Oddfellows from Bowmanville, Port Hope, and other places joined in the parade which was headed by the Kilties' Band. Sixty-four graves in Cobourg Union and St. Peter's Cemeteries received the Three Links and one in Batimore Cemetery.

eggs on young corn plants and often nearby weeds after the middle of May. The eggs transform in larvae—the borer which feeds on the corn and corn stalks. The mature larvae transform into pupae, and the pupae into the moths, thus completing the cycle. The parasite winters in the corn stalks and earth in the pupa stage.

Ear Worm In Cob

Peterborough County was affected this season also by the ear worm which is often confused with the corn borer, Mr. Runions said. The borers can be distinguished as a white or brownish white caterpillar with numerous small brown dots on its body. The borer is about one inch in length. The ear worm is at least one and one-half inches in length and is either brown, green or pink with a distinguishing longitudinal stripe.

The ear worm does not offer as serious a menace as the borer as it apparently does not develop in Canada, and dies in the winter. It is thought by agricultural scientists that the moth of the ear worm flies to Ontario from the southern United States. None the less, seasonal appearances have been occasionally of such an extent that in 1921 the canners had to give up the canning of late corn on account of the presence of the worm.

Surviving are three sons: Allen of Mariposa, William of Peterborough and Cecil at home, and one daughter, Flossie, at home.

JOHN D. PAYNE

BANCROFT, Aug. 29.—The funeral of the late John D. Payne, of Baptiste and Bancroft, was held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Stringer, of Bancroft, on Wednesday afternoon. At the house Rev. J. M. Fraser was assisted by the Rev. E. W. Cafley, of Queensboro and in St. Paul's United Church the minister was assisted by Rev. E. N. Grant, of St. John's Anglican Church, who read from I Corinthians 15 and offered the prayer. Mrs. Robert Drummons sang an appropriate selection "Eternity" and the choir sang, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee." The text was taken from the Scripture reading, "The sting of death is sin; and the strength of sin is the law. But thanks be to God which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

Members of Bancroft Lodge A.F. & A.M. attended and conducted the Masonic burial service at home and grave. Interment was made in the family plot, Mount Pleasant. Pall bearers were Messrs. H. Strudwick, Charles Moffatt, Frank Thompson, R. Delyea, C. W. Mullett and George Brown.

The late Mr. Payne who was a well-known figure in the development of North Hastings and had been in failing health for some time. After months of acute suffering, some weeks of which were spent in the local Red Cross Hospital, death came on Tuesday, August 15, due to progressive locomotor ataxia.

The late Mr. Payne was born at Peterborough on April 27, 1867, a son of Charles Payne and Caroline Doman. Of a family of five children three survive: Mrs. Tobias Sexsmith, of Coe Hill; Stephen, of Manitoba and Mrs. Samuel Beaumont, of Vancouver. A brother Joseph predeceased him four years ago.

He was baptized in the Bible Christian Church a branch of Methodism which entered the Union of 1884. He continued throughout life his adherence to the Methodist and later the United Church in which his wife has been a most active member. Mr. Payne learned his trade of machinists in Peterborough in the Peter Hamilton Machine Works, from which he secured his position of chief engineer of the Terra Cotta Works at Deseronto. There he married Gertrude Reynolds, daughter of Anson G. Reynolds and Adeline Dingman, on Nov. 29, 1890, five years before coming to Bancroft. Thirty-seven years ago he opened a machine shop here, there being at that time none nearer than Madoc.

During his residence here the railroad was opened to Bancroft. The first wiring for electric lighting in the village was done by Mr. Payne, aLter he filled the position of Inspector for Hydro and that of Chief of the Fire Department. In 1919 he severed his connection with the People's Telephone Company after nineteen years' service. He filled the office of general superintendent for five years; that of secretary-treasurer for nine and that of manager for five. The Company in granting his release described him as "a most trusted employee, at no time under bond, an honorable, temperate and industrious man." He was a member of the School Board for fifteen years.

He was engaged as manager and owner in the garage business, but had the misfortune to lose this building by fire. Of late years he has been at Baptiste Lake where at Edenswold Cottage his ministrations in the tourist season were in much demand and will be greatly missed.

Six children predeceased him: Frank and Gertrude who were buried in the Methodist Cemetery adjoining the church; Roy, Verna, Egbert and Lulu Grace in the present lot.

He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mr. G. L. Young, of Baptiste and Mrs. R. C. Marron, of Detroit. The latter returned during his last illness to relieve her mother in the constant charge.

Mr. Payne had been active in fraternal circles. At Deseronto he was a member of the Orange Young Britons; Master of L.O.L. and Master of the Protestant Association of Prentice Boys. He was associated with the I.O.O.F. at Madoc, a member of the O.E.S. and a life member of Lodge 462 A.F. and A.M., Bancroft.

The beautiful tributes of flowers and well filled church gave evidence of the widespread sympathy for the bereaved as well as tokens of friendship for the departed.

Police Court

Declaring that insufficient evidence to justify a conviction had been presented, Magistrate O. A. Langley dismissed a charge of reckless driving against August Moreau of Toronto, after a hearing in Police Court this morning. The case arose from an accident at the corner of George and Charlotte Street, on the evening of July 26.

Prosecution of Moreau was conducted at the instigation of Leo P. McGillen, 7 Grandview Avenue, whose car collided with the car driven by Moreau. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., conducted the prosecution, and Alex. Elliott acted for the accused.

Evidence presented during the trial revealed that Moreau was proceeding south on George Street on the occasion of the accident, and, unable to see any warning red light on the south-west corner of Charlotte and George Streets, proceeded across the intersection without stopping. McGillen, proceeding east on Charlotte Street, and across the intersection with the traffic lights in his favor, struck the Moreau car near the centre of the intersection. The Boreau car upset, but McGillen's car was only slightly damaged.

The Moreau defence was based on the claim that the red stop light on the south-west corner was out of commission at the time of the accident. This was substantiated by the testimony of Constable Jack Stevenson, who was on duty at the scene. The prosecution urged that, regardless of the defective stop signal, Moreau failed to approach the intersection with the proper caution.

During the hearing, a memorandum signed by both McGillen and Moreau in the presence of witnesses, in which each agreed to take no action in the matter, was produced. Testimony by Moreau that McGillen offered him $25 to forget the whole matter was characterized as a lie by McGillen.

Giving his decision, Magistrate Langley stated that Moreau might be liable civilly but that he could not find him guilty of reckless driving in view of the fact that the stop light was out of commission at the time and in view of a decided lack of evidence bearing on the reckless driving angle of the case.

The case of Charles Payne of Toronto, who is faced with a charge of criminal negligence as the result of an accident at Norwood on August 19, was adjourned with the consent of both the Crown and the defence until September 28. Reita Payne, the accused's wife, and Murray Wilson, of Toronto, furnished $4,000 bail for Payne.

SIX-YEAR PLAN FOR MEXICANS

Farmers, Industrialists Asked to Join Scheme to Boost Production, Consumption.

SET WAGE SCALES.

(By C. P. Nutter.)

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 29.—(A.P.)—All Mexican industrialists and farmers had letters before them today from President Abelardo Rodriguez, who invited them to join voluntarily the government's six-year plan for increasing production and consumption.

"If we are to realize our ideal of converting this country from an ordinary exporter of raw products and an importer of manufactured articles," the president wrote, "we must start with increasing our own consumption because we will be able to compete in world markets only after we meet our own needs."

In a letter to State Governors last week Senor Rodriguez asked the establishment of minimum wage scales, and to-day he repeated the plea to employers.

The declarations were taken as the first announcements of the basis on which the rehabilitation project of the revolutionary project of the revolutionary party will be drafted in December. A further announcement of the plans is expected in the president's message to Congress Friday.

"We have already made great progress in the econom ic liberation of our nation," said Rodriguez in pointing out that imports have been halved in three years and that Mexico no longer depends on other nations for textiles, cattle and several other products.

Crichton, optometrist and optician, who is coming here from Lindsay. Decoration of the premises is now in the hands of Coleman Brothers; carpenter work was done by Frank Barrett. Three fire alarms within the space of a few minutes were telephoned into the Fire Department by excited neighbors for a blaze at the home of M. Hynes, 312 Louis Street, shortly after 7.30 o'clock last night. The fire, caused by a short circuit in the electric wiring, was easily extinguished before any damage could be done.

GUESTS OF STRICKLAND.
Hon. George H. Challies and Mayor Denne were luncheon guests of J. F. Strickland, M.P.P., at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club to-day.

CIVIC WELCOME IS GIVEN CHIEFS BY MAYOR DENNE

Guerin remarked, "in having with us a number of distinguished guests. I know representing as they do, many lines of public activity they will bring to you messages of great value in your work".

Went to School Here

Referring to his associations with Peterborough, Chief Guerin recalled, "I left Peterborough forty-three years ago, and on returning on this occasion, I have met many of my old friends, relatives and boyhood pals, which takes me back to the days when I attended the South Ward and Union Schools in this good city. When I say I am amazed at the changes I have noted here in residences, business places and industries I am putting it mildly indeed".

He could not let the opportunity pass, he remarked, "without saying a few words about my old friend George Gimblett, your Fire Chief".

In his opinion he added, "the City of Peterborough made a good selection when they engaged Chief Gimblett to head the City Fire Department. We worked side by side at many fires in the City of Hamilton; we did duty in the same station, and I may say he is a real fire fighter, and a credit to this city". Chief Guerin remarked, "I believe George has this community and his Department working one hundred per cent in co-operation with him".

"Freedom of City"

Following the opening address of President Guerin, the Rev. J. Douglas Paterson, rector of All Saints' Anglican church, led the assembly in prayer, after which His Worship Mayor Denne extended to the visitors "the freedom of the city" symbolized by the large gold key which he presented to the president.

"I am honoured and proud," His Worship declared, "to stand here this morning to welcome the delegates to this Association, and to thank the President for his kind remarks about his home city".

"I welcome you to Peterborough", he continued, "realizing as I do that your work is essential in all municipalities throughout Canada. You are doing a great work, not only in the protection of the material wealth of the nation, but also in the nobler endeavour of protecting human lives".

The Mayor outlined the city's educational system, it's factories and public institutions. "We can boast of the fact", he said, "that we are peopled with those of the Anglo-Saxon race. We have no foreign population to contend with. He was of the strong opinion that every effort should be made to "keep Canada British".

He hoped and trusted that Peterborough would live up to its reputation for hospitality and that the stay of the visitors would be both pleasant and profitable.

Chief Guerin briefly acknowledged the welcome extended by the Mayor on behalf of the citizens. He spoke not only for himself, he said, but for every member of the Association.

Alderman McNabb

Alderman J. A. McNabb, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee endorsed the remarks of the Mayor, stating "on an occasion such as this, it is one of the real pleasures we have in our municipal life, namely that of welcoming guests to our city. Especially do we welcome most heartily the Dominion Fire Chiefs".

"I am indeed proud and pleased to endorse heartily, the cordial words of welcome so ably spoken by one of our most outstanding and distinguished citizens, in the person of my esteemed friend and colleague, Mayor Denne".

Outstanding Mayor

He was outstanding, said Alderman McNabb, because he had served the city continuously for twenty years; and distinguished because the citizens had honoured him by returning him as Chief Magistrate for the past six years. "A record in our municipality", he explained.

Alderman McNabb continued to outline some of the attractions and advantages of Peterborough, a city which he termed, "the city beautiful." He spoke of the Lift Locks, the waterways, the manufacturing plants, and public parks; the splendid roadways and bridges, and made particular mention of "the wonderfully equipped motorized fire department', which he said, "is administered by a capable chief".

"As I follow Mayor Denne on this program—and as I have followed and supported many of his ideas for civic improvement", Alderman McNabb remarked, "I cannot see why I should not follow him in making a presentation on this occasion".

Presentation to Chief

Calling Fire Chief Gimblett to come forward, Alderman McNabb presented the head of the City Fire Department with a large gold key. It was "the key to the Mayor's wine cellar," he jokingly stated, "and I command you, George, to treat the boys well and to treat them often."

"We all realize, Mr. President," he continued in more serious vein, "the many important business problems that will come up for discussion during your convention. I hope that out of your deliberations much good may be derived by the delegates, and I trust in addition that you will enjoy the many social engagements that have been arranged for you."

"We unlock and leave open for you the portals of this famous old city of Peterborough," Alderman McNabb told the visitors, "and I can assure you that you will find the friendship of our citizens to be the most warm and heartfelt."

On behalf of the Fire, Water and Light Committee of which he is chairman, Alderman McNabb invited the visiting chiefs, delegates and ladies to visit the City Fire Department, where he assured them "it will be a real pleasure for our firemen to conduct you."

President Chamber of Commerce

John R. Marshall, president Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, welcomed the visitors on behalf of what he termed, "the largest unofficial civic body in the city."

He emphasized all that the previous civic officials had said in welcoming the convention, and extended to the delegates a hearty invitation to make use of the facilities of the Chamber during their stay in the city, which he hoped would be pleasant and enjoyable.

Chief A. S. Kappelle of Stratford with whom Fire Chief Gimblett and Chief Guerin, president of the Associaiton, were associated on the Hamilton Fire Department, responded to the welcome on behalf of the Association. He spoke of his old associates as "real men," and took the opportunity of congratulating the City of Peterborough on their choice of a man to head the city fire department.

Regretting the small attendance at the opening sessions of the convention, Chief Kappelle said that in view of the present economic conditions many of the municipalities had not been able to send their fire chiefs to the convention. The interest that was displayed by the fire chiefs in their work, however, he believed was adequately reflected in the fact that many of them were attending the conventon this year at their own expense, in order that they might be better fitted to serve heir respective municipalities.

In Memoriam

The Rev. J. D. Paterson provided an eloquent memorial address in the unavoidable absence of His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke, who had hoped to be present. The address followed upon the reading by the secretary of the obituaries for the past year.

During the year, said Chief Armstrong, "five of our oldest members have answer their last summons and passed from mortal sight."

The deceased members of the Association to whom he referred, were:

Past President ex-Chief John Aitkens, who died at his home in London on September 20, 1932. He was one of the original members, who met during the convention of the International Association in 1909, and decided to form an organization for the Province of Ontario.

Past President and Treasurer Chief Roderick Rae McLeod of Port Arthur, who passed away on October 12th, last.

Past President Chief A. Tessier of Hull, who died at the age of 72 years, on December 1st, 1932.

Ex-Chief Thomas R. Johnstone of Crookston, Minn., who died suddenly at his home in Indianapolis, Ind., at the age of 69 years, on May 11th, this year.

Ex-Chief Charles Stapf, who died at his home at Welland on June 7th, 1933.

The Rev. Mr. Paterson whose address was followed by a brief period of prayer and silence, thought, "that sometimes we do not realise the vocations of other men".

He pointed out that the firemen of any community ranked along with the men in uniform who went overseas during the Great War, "prepared to sacrifice life itself if it were required of them".

The firefighters, he thought, were a type of men of very special calibre. They were men prepared at all times to answer the summons for the protection of life and property, regardless of danger or risk to themselves.

Referring to the members of the Association who had passed on, he said "they have laid down their tools and have answered the voice of the great master of us all—well done thou good and faithful servants. It is well, he said, "that we their comrades should commend their souls into safekeeping of our Heavenly Father, and so live that we too may merit His approval".

Greetings from Premier

Introduced by J. F. Strickland, K.C., M.P.P., the Hon. George Challies, provincial secretary and Minister of the Department of Game and Fisheries, brought a cordial welcome to the Association from the Prime Minister the Hon. George S. Henry and from the Government of the Province of Ontario. He is to be guest speaker at the Civic Banquet in the Canadian Legion Hall this evening.

Mr. Challies spoke of the great value to be derived by the Fire Chiefs and by manufacturers of fire fighting equipment from an interchange of ideas at such a convention. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure", he believed.

He continued to speak of the work that was being performed by the Provincial Government, particularly in regard to fire prevention in the forests He opined that it was more preferable to save the standing timber growths from the ravages of fire, than to disregard this hasard and concentrate solely upon reforestation. The forests of the province, were he said one of Ontario's greatest assets.

"In the final analysis" Mr. Challies told the Fire Chiefs, "the people must look to the firefighters for protection and prevention from fires." He believed that the outlook of many people towards fire was indicative of their mentality. Some people looked upon the sight of a fire with the joy of a child, not stopping to realize that the destruction represented irredeemable loss.

A Confession

He confessed that as a small boy he used to gather pine pitch, which he would set alight and send floating down the creek near his home. He was not at that age able to realize the danger that he was creating.

Loss caused by fire, he said, could never be replaced. "What the flames have once consumed" he remarked, "has gone forever".

He congratulated the entertainment committee of the Association, upon the admirable program for the entertainment of the ladies, and concluded his brief address by stating that he had come to Peterborough primarily to convey the personal greetings to the Convention from the Premier and his government.

Mrs. Donald McDonald, ex-reeve of Cobourg, and sister of F. D. Kerr, K.C., at whose home the lady delegates were entertained this afternoon, was called to the platform by the president. In a bright and eloquent address Mrs. McDonald proved herself to be a bi-lingualist of no mean ability.

After speaking at some length in English, she dropped into French, to the delight of the delegates from Quebec, who flocked around her and engaged in conversation when the adjournment hour arrived.

She recalled a previous visit she had paid to the Fire Chiefs' Convention at Kingston, and expressed unbounded admiration for "the fearless, brave men, who take their lives into their hands each time they respond to a fire alarm."

Messages of regret at inability to be present at the proceedings were read by Chief Armstrong from Provincial Fire Marshal E. P. Heaton of Toronto; F. G. Ahearn, fire prevention officer and Fire Marshall Lavigne of Quebec Province; Mr. Weed, representative of the Pyrene Company, Newark, New Jersey.

The secretary also announced that Mrs. Beverly I. Bickle, the wife of an associate member of the Association, had been buried at Woodstock yesterday. He asked the Memorial Committee to note the sad event. He also announced that Chief Jack Keyes was confined to a Toronto hospital.

Following noon adjournment the delegates and convention officials were photographed outside the City Fire Hall. The photograph was take by The Roy Studio.

Ponies Defeat Petes and Title Rests on Next Game

Petes' Extra Hits Absent in Pinches And Team Falters

Kingston's 7-2 Victory Ties Championshp Round and Final Game Scheduled at Napanee To-morrow.

USUAL SPARKLE TO PETES' INFIELD PLAY MISSING AFTER SEVERAL COSTLY FUMBLES

Five Players Injured in Contest and Compeau Removed to Hospital When He Collapses After Game.

KINGSTON, Ont., August 29 (Special to Examiner).—Out hitting Kingston Ponies by 13 to 8, Knotty Lee's Peterborough team fell down in the pinches here last night and took the short end of a 7 to 2 score as Kingston evened up the count for the Central Ontario League championship, and forced a deciding game which will be played at Napanee on Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock (day light saving time).

Peterborough were hitting for the most part when one or two men were out, but even at that they stayed in the fight until the fourth inning, when slovenly infield work paved the way for three runs, and the game was gone. Ash and Scully errored at the wrong time, and the team generally after that failed to play their usually sparkling ball. At the bat the Petes, while they got plenty of safe blows, were woefully weak in the pinches. They allowed a flock of chances to score to slip by, but they were held back also by some spectacular fielding by the Ponies, especially G. Arniel and McQuaide, who cut off runners by long throws from deep outfield.

Many Players Injured.

The game had a string of casualties, Mickey Compeau being the most seriously hurt when he was struck over the heart by a batted ball and collapsed after the game, to be taken to the hospital Whatley was hurt trying to block Arniel at the plate, while Hewitt Smith was spiked on the ankle by Whatley. Jerry Arniel was hit on the ankle, and Vince forced out of the game by a sprained foot.

Bill Calladine pitched a nice game for the Petes and with air-tight support and fast fielding would have made a real game of it until the end. At is was, he was constantly in a hole, not through his own fault.

Jamieson No Mystery

"Yammy" Jamieson breezed along, though allowing two hits in each of the first five innings. It was not until the ninth that a couple of hits, a walk and two outs gave Peterborough their two runs.

Ponies broke the scoring ice in the first inning when, with one out, Compeau walked. Vince fanned, and McQuaide singled to right. Compeau, by fast running, making third on the hit. As McQuaide stole second, Compeau came home. Joyce ended with a roller to Ash. In the third they added another when Compeau drove out a long triple and came home when Whatley dropped the throw-in from Vince's roller to the infield.

Costly Fourth

The balloon went up in the fourth and with it went the Petes' chances. Smith started with a long hit to right for three bases. Arniel was thrown out by Batten, but Quinn's single to right sent Smith home. Jamieson doubled, Quinn pulling up at third; G. Arniel was thrown out by Scully; Quinn scoring. Compeau raised a fly back of second, but Scully allowed the ball to sift through his fingers, Jamieson scoring. Vince was safe on an error by Ash, but went out stealing.

The seventh saw the last two Kingston runs come in. G. Arniel was hit by a pitched ball and Compeau beat out a perfect bunt to Calladine, the runners advancing when Ash let the ball get away from him. Scrutton sent a fly to Foley, G. Arniel scoring and Whatley being injured in the play at the plate. McQuaide's long fly to Macdonald sent Compeau home, and Joyce ended with a fly to Burton.

Hits Fail When Needed

In the first inning Scully and Foley singled with two out, but were left stranded, and in the second the Petes had two men on with none out; but Graham hit into a fast double play, and after Calladine singled to right, McQuaide threw Whatley out at third. Again in the third the losers got two straight hits with one out, but Foley struck out and Ash rolled weakly to Compeau. In the fourth two were out when Graham and Calladine singled, but Burton fell down in the pinch and the fifth a good chance was passed up by poor base running. Batten had singled and Rose, batting for Scully flied to left.

On Foley's infield out, Batten made third. Ash then dropped a single into left, but G. Arniel, after fielding the ball, heaved perfectly to the plate and caught Batten standing up.

After that the Petes did not threaten until the ninth. In the last inning Whatley and Macdonald singled, the runners advancing on a passed ball. Calladine was passed purposely, to fill the bases, Rogers, batting for Burton, flied to G. Arniel, Whatley scoring. Batten was tossed out by Stone, who replaced Compeau at short, and Macdonald came home, but Rose ended the game when Stone made a grand pickup on his roller and nailed him at first.

The advantages gained by years of experience is passed on to you. The people of Havelock and surrounding territory need go no further than the J. A. C. Allan & Co Hardware to fill their hardware needs. They have everything in cutlery, tools, shelf hardware, paints, oils, varnishes, farm implements and supplies.

Mr. J. A. C. Allan, proprietor and manager, has kept abreast of the times and in doing so he has made his store a credit to the community in which he is located. We are sure that you will find here, combined, all the virtues that make a good business, institution, courtesy, promptness, quality, and reasonableness of price. National League Race is Close Packed, With New York Nicely on Top.

(By Edward J. Nel, A. P. Sports Writer)

There must be something in the makeup of a ball-player that sets him afire with vengeance, curtains his batting eye with a piercing ultra-red, when he stalks back into the home grounds of a former employer who once tied the tinware to him and theoretically stamped "through."

John J. McGraw had one embarrassing experience of the kind that stands out above all others. Now it's the turn of McGraw's successor at the helm of the Giants, Bill Terry, to see the chickens come home to roost beating their wings like eagles.

With McGraw it was George Washington Harper who was sent to the Cardinals in 1926 and bounced right back to hit three home runs in one game at the Polo Grounds and knocked the Giants out of the pennant fight.

Terry's Foeman

With Terry it's ancient Bob O'Farrell, also of the Cardinals, who was sent away last fall. Yesterday at the Polo Grounds the old fellow hit two home runs, the last one in the ninth inning touching off a seven-run barrage that snowed the Giants under 12--8, brought their third straight defeat with one tie in the past four games, and completely upset Terry's pitching staff with a terrific double header schedule looming ahead. The Giants remained six games in front of Boston Braves who ran into Red Lucas on one of his best days and were shut out 2-0. Lucas allowed but two hits in a duel with Lefty Brandt.

Despite their victory, the Cards dropped into a fourth-place tie with Pittsburgh Pirates who took two games from Philadelphia, 9-5 and 9-1, behind the steady pitching of Bill Swift, Leon Chagnon and Lefty French.

So close packed are the contenders that the third-place Cubs, rained out yesterday at Brooklyn, are but a game ahead of St. Louis and Pittsburgh, with the Braves only one game in front of the Cubs.

Only two games were played in the American League. The Athletics rallied in the last three innings with eight runs to beat Chicago 9-5 while Vic Sorrell tossed four-hit ball to beat the Yankees, 6-1.

INTIMIDATE UMPS BY MOB SCENE AS BOWL LEADS BY SIX RUNS AND GAME IS CALLED IN SEVENTH

Crowd's Ugly Mood and Absence of Police Decides Umpire.

O.A.S.A. TO GET REPORT.

Bowl Agrees to Make Third Trip to Lindsay to Play Game.

Rain and an unruly crowd of fans ruined the softball play-off game between Sugar Bowl and Smith-Baldwins in Lindsay last night. The affair ended with two men out in the first half of the seventh, the score being 8 to 2 for the Bowlmen, who needed only to finish the inning to eliminate the Lindsay outfit. The game was called on account of rain after the fans had crowded on to the diamond and held up play for at least ten minutes.

Sugar Bowl players were turning in a first-class performance and appeared easy victors. Then it began raining lightly in the last part of the fifth inning. All through the sixth the crowd of Lindsay rooters, and the home players, yelled for Ufpire-in-chief Bob Batley to call the game—the general idea being, it appeared, that play would not be resumed if once called and the Lindsay team saved from elimination. The O.A.S.A. rules call for a game to go seven innings or be declared "no contest."

Finally at the end of the sixth a gang of rabid rooters streamed out on the field, while it was raining hard, and tried to force the umpire to call the game. They were ordered off but refused to budge. Batley ordered the home team's captain to call a police officer and clear the grounds in ten minutes, but they refused to do so. No police appeared on the scene. Eventually, the fans were persuaded to leave the diamond after further delay and play was resumed. By that time, rain was coming down in sheets and the grounds were swamp-like with mud. With two out in the seventh, the umpire ordered the game halted for fifteen minutes, but it was getting dark and continuing rain so it had to be called of for the night.

The two teams agreed to re-play it in Lindsay Wednesday. Umpire Batley, when asked why he did not forfeit the game when they refused to clear the grounds, replied: "I would have certainly been mobbed if I did anything like that! There was no police protection and they were in an ugly mood. What could I do? Immediately after the game, he sent a full report of the occurrence to the Ontario Amateur Softball Association.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Vic Sorrell, Tigers—Held Yankees to four hits.

Jim Peterson, Athletics—Stopped White Sox with three hits in four innings in relief role, and was credited with victory.

Red Lucas, Reds—Blanked Braves with two hits.

Floyd Vaughan, Pirates—Solved Philly pitching for home run, triple and four singles in double header.

LEAFS RETAIN FOURTH BERTH BY MANY HITS

Interest in International Centres Down to Battle for Fourth Place.

BRAME HURLS WELL.

Buffalo Uncorks Big Rally to Overcome Royals' Lead and Win.

By HERBERT BARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Three of the International League's championship play-off qualifiers have been virtually decided but the fourth position still is subject to a hot dispute among three clubs despite the fact the end of the regular season is only 13 days away.

Newark, certainly, and Baltimore Orioles most probably will represent the Southern Section in the playoffs, while Rochester is a virtual certainty for the play-off berth among the Northern clubs.

But Toronto Maple Leafs, Buffalo Bisons and Montreal Royals all have a chance to gain the north's second place.

Toronto temporarily holds the inside track but the Leafs' margin over Buffalo is only a half-game and the Royals are three games more behind.

Toronto, which had replaced Buffalo in fourth place on Sunday, held on to that rung grimly yesterday by beating Rochester Red-wings 7-1, while Buffalo was out-clubbing Montreal 11-8.

Smart Hurling

The Leafs got airtight pitching from veteran Ervin Brame and really clinched the game in the first inning when they smacked Jim Lindsey for five runs. Every man in the Toronto line-up except Ollie Sax joined in the 13-hit attack on Lindsay and Dutch Henry Brame kept eight Rochester hits well spaced.

Buffalo was taking a beating from Montreal for seven innings but uncorked a six-run rally in the eighth to win. Montreal outhit the Bisons 14-9, outfielded them three errors to four, collected three home runs to none for the home club, and still was beaten.

Pitchers Wild

The answer mostly lay in the wildness of the Royal flinging staff, four members of which handed out a total of 10 passes. Ivy Shiver clouted two homers to boost his total to 22.

Baltimore increased its lead over Albany for the second Southern qualifying position to 7½ games, beating the Senators 6-0 as Earl Mattingly allowed seven scattered hits. Julius Solters' 32nd and 33rd home runs and one by Del Bissonette were the big blows in Baltimore's 10-hit drive. Solters also contributed a pair of singles to the cause.

Newark leading the League with an avantage of nine games over Rochester and 11¼ over Baltimore was idle along with the cellar-dwelling Jersey City Skeeters.

Paul Derringer of the Cincinnati Reds should put in his bid for the hard luck pitching championship of the year. Fourteen of his twenty defeats have been by the margin of two runs or less.

English Girl Swims Channel In Big Race

DOVER, England, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The English channel was conquered for the first time this year today when Miss Sunny Lowry, 22-year-old Manchester girl, arrived at South Foreland after swimming from Cape Gris Nez, France, in about 15¾ hours.

She landed, still going strong at 10:51 a.m. (4:15 a.m. E.S.T.). She started at 6:35 p.m. Monday (12:36 p.m. E.S.T.)

Meanwhile three swimmers, one of them the legless Charley Zimmy entered the water near here in a race across the channel for the Dover Town Gold Challenge Cup.

The others are Mercedes Gleitz, an English woman and former typist who first swam the channel in 1927 after eight failures, and E. H. Temme, another Briton, who in 1927 did the distance in 14 hours, 29 minutes.

Zimmy, a Long Beach, Cal., professional who last September abandoned an attempt to swim to France after covering 40 miles in 19 hours, started from Shakespeare Beach at 7:17 a.m. (1.17 a.m. E.S.T.)

Miss Gleitz and Temme plunged in together from South Foreland at 7:30 a.m. (1:30 a.m. E.S.T.)

Weather conditions seemed perfect. There was no wind, and the water was almost as smooth as glass.

British Woman Is New Golf Champion

EXMOOR CLUB, Highland Park, Ill., August 29. — Ripping par to shreds over the final three holes with a spectacular finish that overtook a trio of America's greatest feminine shot-makers, Enid Wilson, queen of England's fairways, captured the United States women's golf championship medal at Exmoor yesterday with the lowest total in 37 years of play.

Trailing the leaders and par by one shot at the 16th tee, the husky 23-year-old English champion blazed forth with two birdies and a finishing eagle for a record-breaking 76 and the medal. She had a margin of two shots over her closest American rivals, Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, defending titleholder; Maureen Orcutt of Haworth, N.J., and Helen Hicks of New York.

Only four times in the history of the championship, which hasn't been won by a foreign entrant since Gladys Ravenscroft of England, turned the trick 20 years ago, has 72 been scored in the big show of American women's golf. Alexa Stirling Fraser, now of Ottawa, did it in 1925 at St. Louis. Ada Mackenzie of Toronto, who qualified yesterday with a fine 86 to give the title drive a double international threat, duplicated it at Cherry Valley, N.Y., in 1927, and Miss Van Wie and Miss Orcutt tied it last year at Salem.

Mighty tee shots and long irons, dead to the green carried Miss Wilson to her record-breaking total. On the 420-yard 16th and 480-yard 17th, she whaled the ball 220 yards straight down the fairway and steered number two iron shots to the green to make women's par look easy with birdie fours. On the 390-yard final hole she sent her iron second shot eight feet from the cup and dropped the putt.

MANY OPINIONS CALLED FORTH UPON GREATNESS OF EQUIPOISE

Basis of Debate is His Comparison With Man o' War.

RACING'S GREAT ASSET.

(By Harold K. George, Central Press Association)

Is EQUIPOISE as great as Man o' War, the standard of comparison when great race horses are discussed?

Almost since Equipoise's first start as a four-year-old in 1932 the argument has been raging and particularly since Equipoise won the Arlington handicap this year and threatens to pass Sun Beau as the champion money-winner of all time.

Many opinions have been voiced on the merits of the two thoroughbreds which never met and there will be countless more. Why not an opinion from one who has seen both horses at their best?

Miss Elizabeth Daingerfield is one person qualified to be quoted on the subject, particularly on Man o' War, for she is the director of Hayland Farms, Lexington, Ky., where the great one is standing. However, she stresses the fact that her opinion is not influenced by the fact that she is in charge of Man o' War.

• • •

"EQUIPOISE IS truly a superb horse, a credit to the turf, to his ancestors and to every one connected with the C. V. Whitney stables," says Miss Daingerfield. "A horse of Equipoise's calibre is the greatest asset racing can have.

"It is with no intention of disparaging Equipoise that I state my belief that Man o' War is a greater horse. Man o' War was defeated only once in 21 starts and that in his two-year-old form. Equipoise has been beaten 15 times. However, both have good excuses for their losing efforts.

• • •

IN COMPARING Equipoise with Man o' War, it is noted that Equipoise has negotiated the fastest mile in history, 1:34 2-5, in winning a minor stake race with 128 pounds up at Arlington, June 30, 1932. Man o' War's best mile was 1:35 4-5 in the Withers stake at Belmont, May 29, 1920, with 118 pounds aboard. It was then a record mile.

But it is Miss Daingerfield's opinion—and she believes also the opinion of most horsemen—that running time is a factor not to be too seriously considered. "There are so many track differences to be taken into account that a comparison of time is almost futile. Wind, weather, for instance, may make the same course, officially characterized as 'fast,' appreciably slower or faster on succeeding days."

• • •

THE ONLY STAKE won by both Man o' War and Equipoise was the Keen Memorial at Belmont. Man o' War, carrying 115 pounds, won this two-year-old event in 1919 in 1.05 3-5 and Equipoise captured it in 1930 with 122 pounds up and in :52 3-5. The race was only four and one-half furlongs in 1930, whereas in Man o' War's time it was five and one-half.

Man o' War was a great weight carrier and so is Equipoise. The former won six races at 130 pounds and one at 135, all at Jamaica in 1920, and still another at 138, at Havre de Grace, also in 1920.

As early as 1930 when Equipoise was a two-year-old, the Whitney star packed 130 and 132 pounds, but lost by close margins both times. It was not until late in July, 1932, that the track handicappers started to weight Equipoise down. Victories in his first five starts last year brought Equipoise up to the Arlington handicap with 134 pounds where he was beaten by Plucky Play.

• • •

In THE Arlington handican this year, Equipoise was assigned 135 pounds and he won with comparative ease. In the Wilson stakes at Saratoga recently he was given only 126 and won. A few days later, however, his trainer refused to send him to the post in the 31st running of the Saratoga handicap with a 142 package, probably fearing that if he accepted and Equipoise won that some day some handicapper would pile on about 145 or more pounds and result in bowed tendons and the end of this great horse's career.

Equipoise's largest purses were won as a two-year-old. In the fall of 1930 he captured the Pimlico Futurity worth $50,360. Six weeks before the son of Pennant-Swinging won the Eastern Shore stakes at Havre worth $26,900, and in June, 1930, he took the important National Stallion stakes at Belmont, worth $25,600. The total winnings for the "big little" Whitney horse that year were $156,835 and almost came to $256,485 but for a whisker defeat by Jamestown in the Belmont Futurity which cost Equipoise $99,600. However, Equipoise beat out Jamestown by nearly $5,000 for the money-winning honors for juveniles. He lost two other nose decisions his first year which cost him $11,000.

An injury curtailed Equipoise's 1931 record and kept him out of the Kentucky Derby won by Twenty Grand. Last year his winnings amounted to $107,375, and to date this year $47,210 or a grand total of $314,420.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

Number 82

ALEX MORRISON says:

In spite of all the changes you make in your position for putting there's one item that should remain the same.

You should have the ball either opposite your left foot or a point about half way between both feet so that your hands can rest close o your left leg.

It's all right to have the shaft of the club leaning a bit forward so that your hands are slightly ahead of the ball. In doing this you should not close the face of the club.

If you have any inclination to do so just turn your body toward the left.

Use a slightly open stance. This will put you in a position to swing the putter in the proper groove.

Ike Boone Loses Leadership At Bat

Two of Buffalo's big guns who are keeping the Bisons in the race for a play-off berth in their northern section of the International League along with Julius Solters supplied the action in the Big Six yesterday. Solters regained the batting leadership when he slammed out four hits while Ike Boone was idle. Mulleavy and Tucker went into a tie for fourth place and shoved Moose Clabaugh down to sixth. The batting leaders:

	AB	R.	H.	P.C.
Solters, Baltimore	466	109	169	.363
Boone, Toronto	505	90	183	.362
Thompson, Al.	393	61	134	.341
Mulleavy, Buffalo	533	122	180	.338

TENNIS

Only one mens' doubles, first round, was run off in the Open Tournament yesterday, Walter Jackson and George Scott beating H. Macdonald and W. Howden, 6-1 and 6-1. In second round mixed doubles, Hazel Jackson and Walter Jackson won from Miss Nixon and C. Richmond, 6-2 and 6-2; Isobel Davidson and H. A. Wilson defeated Bertha Pickering and George Nicholls in a hard-fought one, 2-6, 7-5, and 7-5; and Ruth Sutton and J. Cowling teamed up to defeat Tuna Hart and B. Swartz, 6-4, 6-8 and 6-2. In the third round, Kay Benson and J. Donaldson won over Muriel Donaldson and Howie Macdonald, 6-3 and 9-7. No other matches were played.

No matches will be held to-day at the Peterborough Club courts, recent heavy rains making them soft. Play there will be resumed as soon as the courts are in shape again. Meantime it is hoped that more of the men's doubles will be run off this evening at the courts of the Kawartha Club.

Tennis Star Falls Further Down Grade

CHESTNUT HILLS, Mass. August 29 — Ellsworth Vines' surprising descent from the tennis heights continued yesterday as he and Keith Gledhill, defending their title, were defeated by big Frank Shields of New York and little Frankie Parker of Milwaukee in the semi-finals of the national doubles tennis championship, 6-3, 6-4, 3-6, 3-6, 6-2.

The victory—none the less decisive because the match went the full distance — gave Shields and Parker the unique honor of becoming championship finalists after a mere five weeks as doubles partners. Who their opponents will be on Wednesday was undecided because darkness hated the other semi-final fater George Lott of Chicago and Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles took the first set from Adrian Quist and Don Turnbull of Australia, 6-4. The Australians led by 2-1 on service in the second. The match will be resumed at that point to-day.

Baseball—Softball—Lacrosse Soccer—Wrestling, and Others

(By C. J. P.)

How does that song go? Oh, yes: "There'll be no rain where I'm heading for!" It's a good song but should never be sung by anyone heading toward Lindsay, nossuh! We made the last two trips with the Sugar Bowl softballers there and each time got a couple of buckets of rain right down our back. Both times the sun was shining bright when we started but both times he clouds soon drifted over, opened up and gave us the works before the end. Last night's game was called "no contest," being halted with two out in the first of the seventh and the score 8 to 2 for the Bowlmen. And hereby hangs a tale or two.

• • • • • •

The Dormer crew was strong-armed out of the series last night. Yeah, the long-dormant rivalry existing one time between Lindsay and Peteborough players and fans came to life with a loud bang in that game last evening. The crowd was getting plenty hostile when they saw Sugar Bowl jogging along toward an easy victory, which would have eliminated the Smith-Baldwin team, and they stopped the contest. They swarmed on the diamond, holding up the game and yelling for the umpire to call it off. He didn't do is just then for them but had to shortly after they resumed play—much valuable time having been lost.

• • • • • •

Lefty Sturgeon was pitching in top-form, and incidentally hit two homer and double in four times too, and his teammates were going like a million bucks back of him.. Looked like a pipe, the only question apparently being: How much will we lick 'em by? The Lindsay team was looking pretty feeble and knew they were being handed a sound walloping. And the crowd knew it. They're rotten sports—at least a certain element there—and the players are as bad. They got the crowd started, and the base-umpire, a Lindsay man, even advised the Scugogers not to play in the rain It was a playoff game and nearly over, so why not play in the rain? Did Babe Sheppard call that Kingston game here when it was pouring right at the start? No, they went right out there and began play.

• • • • • •

Fever, Lindsay captain, came around to the cafe afterward and admitted his team was in the wrong, but what the heck good did that do, then? They just couldn't take it—players or fans! Umps Bob Batley was afraid to forfeit it when the fans wouldn't leave the diamond. He had no police protection and a couple of hundred soreheads were clustered around him, offering to take him apart, so what chance did he have? Later on, he sent a full report of it to the O.A.S.A. and no doubt the Lindsay club will hear plenty shortly. Meantime, guess we'll have to go up there again, risking the rain and another mob scene, and see Sugar Bowl smack 'em down again. Just bad losers, those Lindsay players and fanatics.

• • • • • •

The Petes' players, as superstitious as any ball players, insisted the last two trips to Kingston on staying at the same hotel and eating at the same restaurant as they did when they won the first playoff game there. Now that they lost, 7-2, yesterday, some of 'em are even hanging the blame on us—who weren't around in Kingston at all yesterday! That's just it, they claim, you should have been there. Seems that the only trips we made with the team this summer were the only times they won in either Belleville or Kingston. Yesterday, we missed connections and couldn't find transportation down. Well, the Petes lost but we refuse to be blamed for that. We'll go to Napanee Wednesday, but will take no responsibility, win, lose or draw!

• • • • • •

Inability to hit at the right time, some bad slips in the field, and a Kingston team at its best—these seems to be the reasons why the Petes were knocked off yesterday. Bill Calladine was sent right back at the Limestone gang, and he outpitched Jamieson at that. However, the fighting home team came through with clouts when they meant something and flashed some fancy fielding to cop the duke. Kingston is nobody's setup and now the old series is tied up tight again, deciding game in Napanee Wednesday afternoon at three. The Petes have to win that, or it's all over.

• • • • • •

Kitchen or Deyell will fling in that fifth game and if the pitching is good it's smack up to the others to give them the fielding and hitting. A team can't win ball games when they don't hit at the right time, once in a while a least. And this is a fine time for the fielders to start and crack! They've got to get in there and play the sort of ball they're capable of from now on. They should still have the edge but if the youngsters lose heart and figure they're on the toboggan, then they're sure going to be taken for a ride. The Petes should realize the Ponies are every bit as worried and doubtful of the outcome as they are—and the best team will win, whichever one it is.

• • • • • •

Peterborough is pulling hard for the locals to win their first C.O.B.L. title since 'way back in 1920. While they went to the finals in '27, it was not as Central League representatives but through a bye in the Lakeshore loop—there being no C.O.B.L. that year. A huge mob of rabid fans stood outside The Examiner last night watching the bulletins, and probably two thousand inquiries were made over the phones through the evening! And look how large the crowds have been at the ball games here once the Petes got into the playoffs. Yeah, local support is okay, and now it's right up to Knotty Lee and his players to deliver.

"Gossip and Such"

IN THE years to come some former major league ball player will be able to say:

"I was the guy they got to replace Babe Ruth!

We soon should know whom that fellow will be. By soon we mean before the conclusion of the 1934 campaign.

That the New York Yankees will make strenuous efforts to obtain a great batting and fielding star to replace the Babe when old man Ruth quits his post for good goes without saying.

However, no matter how great a ball player replaces Babe the newcomer can never fill the mammoth gap left by the most popular diamond athlete that ever lived.

There can never be another Babe Ruth—not even in that spot in the Yankee outfield, so long occupied by the home run star.

• • •

WHO WILL be the lucky—or unlucky—man to succeed Ruth?

Anyone's guess, at this time, is as good as anybody else's.

Earl Averill of Cleveland, if the Indians are willing to sell, is the first name that comes to mind. The Yankees once tried to land Averill but the Cleveland club wouldn't listen.

This year Averill seemed unable to hit in Cleveland's new stadium. This fact and a possible larger offer from the Yankee ownership might cause a change of heart on the part of the Indians.

It is possible that the Yanks might make a bid for Al Simmons. However, the Chicago White Sox are hardly likely to listen to an offer for the Milwaukee marksman, no matter how large, as the Sox have been spending money freely themselves in an effort to raise the Pale Hose from their low estate.

• • •

WHEN DIXIE WALKER demonstrated earlier in the season that he was of major league calibre, New York fans thought they saw in the youngster a potential successor to Ruth. However, Dixie is far more likely to permanently supplant Earl Combs who, too, is nearing the end of his playing days.

The Yanks may surprise everyone by reaching into the minors and plucking from nowhere some unknown to replace the greatest name in the game. This, thought, is hardly likely. The passing of Babe will be hard enough for the fans to take without their being forced to see their beloved replaced by any but a star.

If Jimmy Foxx, the Athletic first baseman, were an outfielder he would seem just the man the Yanks would want. Foxx, however, well versed in playing any position in the infield as well as catch is not an outfielder.

So—we just must wait until the Babe goes, and may that day be further away than we fear!

MARY PICKFORD IN 'SECRETS'

Movie-makers, it seems, are going in for romantic drama. That is the very latest, as far as the silver screen is concerned. And a writer in Liberty magazine proclaims the fact that the younger generation is serious-minded and intent on the facts of life. Perhaps that is why this picture, as noted at the matinee performances, appears to hold the young folk enthralled. There is a mixture of western life, high society and romantic episode, about it, that seems to appeal to their interest at once. One very junior youth murmered "hotcha" in awed admiration when the heroine, her crinoline skirts billowing out behind her, eloped through the window by way of a ladder.

The openng scenes go in for the grand manner, the pompous parental authority, and the sweet, timid amiability of the maidens, in an earlier age. And Mary Pickford grows old—gracefully, it is true—in this picture, as Norma Shearer in "A Strange Interlude" and as Helen Hayes in "The Sin of Madelon Claudet."

It has a very picturesque setting, with beautiful photography and appropriate music. Mary Pickford, apparently almost as young as in the days when she did 'kiddie' roles with such acclaim, makes a lovely, appealing heroine, although she is not able, evidently, to quite step down from the pedestal on which popular opinion has placed her. There is a quality about her acting graceful and expert as it is, that makes the watcher remember Mary Pickford always, and the same quality extends peculiarly enough, to the other members of the cast associated with her.

The story abounds in effective moments and has plenty of interest for young and old alike. The audience is plumped at once into the vagaries of love's young dream and the romantic flavor persists to the final curtain. Even the 'secrets' which John Carlton has amassed during his lifetime leave little mark on the idealistic worship accorded him by his wife, Mary.

The picturesque, slightly artificial note that flavors the production is set, perhaps before it starts when petit point embroidery, that favorite of an older time (and now coming back into notice) adorns the cover of the opening announcement.

There is a fine cast, with Aubrey Smith, Ned Sparks (as "Sunshine"), Blanche Frederici and Doris Lloyd. Mary Pickford, it will be remembered, was never one to stick to a stereotyped cast. She, apparently picks her own players.

By HERSCHEL DEUTSCH
(Central Press Canadian Writer)

(The operator of a crooked carnival game is called a "grifter." Although the sucker—the paying customer—doesn't know it, practically every game of skill and chance at the average traveling carnival or resort can be fixed by the operator so that the player can't win.

This is not usually true, however, of legitimate amusement parks, which have large investments in permanent equipment and are interested in keeping the good will of their patrons. Such places do not permit grifters. But beware the fly-by-night joint!)

THE SUCKER pulls the string. The box at the top lifts to release the three marbles. They roll down the board, ricocheting against the pins and drop into the numbers at the bottom. The grifter adds up the total. It is an odd number. The sucker wins a key ring. If it had been an even number he would have had his choice of the beautiful prizes on the shelves at the rear of the booth.

"Try again?" the grifter asks. The sucker hesitates and the shill steps up. The grifter drops the marbles into the compartments in the releasing box and the shill pulls the string. This time the number is even!

Although the sucker cannot see it, the pins are so arranged on the board that they form three definite tracks for the marbles. The one from the center compartment leads to the numbers in the center, all odd; and the ones on the side carry their marbles into the even numbers. Permitted to take their own course, they will always show an odd total.

However, it sometimes becomes necessary to turn up an even number. When that happens the grifter simply drops the center marble into a secret pocket to one side, which releases it also into a side path, making the total even.

For Wednesday, August 30

A DAY OF magnificent opportunities for advancement, preferment, honors, with enhancements of many varieties, is presaged from the auspicious rule of important planets. These great benefices may be suddenly presented, "dropping from the sky" as it were and to be wisely grasped and diplomatically manipulated.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a wear of sudden and quite unforeseen events, of a far-reaching effect on the future destiny in both private and business life. There is augury for promotion, honors, outstanding adventures, with the pronounced preferment of elders, superiors, those in power and those whose friendly interests are of great importance.

A child born on this day should be excellently equipped to do great things in life either in employment or in independent channels. It should be schooled in thrift, lest it squander its substance.

Fred J. Squire & Son

Of Havelock, Oldest Established Firm in County.

A few years ago practically all fowls and animals were fed the food that was raised or happened to be plentiful in that particular locality. If it was a good corn year, they got corn, and so on down the line.

To-day as much thought and attention is given to the proper feeding of fowls and animals as is given to any other line of business. Because we have learned that properly fed, housed and handled, all fowls and animals thrive practically as well during one part of the year as another. As much milk, meat or as many eggs can be produced as heretofore, was possible only under ideal weather conditions. Scientific remedies are now given either as or with food and keep the producers absolutely fit, therefore efficient.

Fred J. Squire & Son has made a thorough study of the requirements and has on hand or can secure all that is required to keep fowls or animals in the best possible condition. This information and service is at your disposal and he will gladly confer with you and give you the best information obtainable. Their prices are right and the stock is not only always fresh but absolutely the highest grade that can be purchased. It has ever been the aim of Fred J. Squire & Son to make and sell honest feeds at honest prices and through the savings affected in their manufacturing and distributing costs they are able to offer you these famous feeds at very moderate prices. These feeds are made from the very best materials and they maintain the same uniform formula and quality always. The fact that this firm is located here in your midst is another important fact toward helping it maintain high-grade quality at moderate prices. By using carefully balanced rations, you will assure absolutely profitable results.

Fred J. Squire & Son also supplies Havelock and environs with the best of provisions and groceries obtainable. They have been in business over forty years and have always kept abreast of the times.

You will be more than pleased with the results of the feed purchased here. Consult these expert feed men if you are having difficulty with your livestock by phone or mail. You will know just what is needed. Fred J. Squire & Son, the owners of this business, are men who are altogether conversant with this business and who aid in the progress and development of the community. Do you know what brands of feeds are handled by this firm?

WE DROVE IN THE DARK

MANY A TIME these last few years I've thought of the war. I've thought of one thing that we did in the war.

I've thought of how we learned to drive in the dark.

For more than a year we did that. We drove automobiles that had no lights on them. Never thought of turning them on. Got so used to it that it became almost as easy as driving with headlights that make a road as light as day.

They weren't good roads, either. They were narrow, rocky or muddy. They had shell-holes in them. They had no direction signs or crossroads, either....Nor were they deserted roads. Most of the time they were cluttered with troops, ambulances, trucks, ammunition trains, tanks, horses, all the machinery of war.

But we didn't mind so much. We became used to it. It was war and we were in it. We learned to strain our eyes into the darkness. We developed a knack of remembering trees and broken villages and we learned to know just where old shell-holes were and to sense, in some strange way, new shell-holes made since we had last come that way....Not that we didn't break wheels, slide off into ditches, lose our way often enough. Those things happened, to be sure. But they were just parts of a war. We complained, we groaned, we talked to ourselves in more or less profane fashion, cursed our luck, damned our fate, relieved our feelings in varous ways.

But we did it. We learned to know when trucks bigger than elephants were coming our way. By a slight thickening of the blackness ahead of us, we knew when the road was blocked. By the feel of the wheel in our hands we understood the state of the road....We even learned the knack of napping at the wheel under those conditions. But most of the time we were tensely alive. Every nerve, every muscle, every cell in the brain was keenly aware of its job....We were driving in the dark, without lights, and we learned HOW.

So I've remembered that experience often these last few years, because so many of us had to live without lights, to travel along roads that have been vague and unknown, and at first we didn't know how....We were used to smooth roads, bright lights, traffic signals, certainty, security, peace of mind....We didn't know how to live in the dark with only faltering faith on our shoulders and a dim gleam of hope ahead. We didn't know how to suffer and keep going. Didn't know it was possible to be afraid and still to act the part of brave men and women. We didn't know the futility of whining and the necessity of courage.

But we learned! We found out! We dug deep within ourselves and uncovered layers of character we had almost forgotten. We grew callouses on our souls and put them to work. We did what we had to do and put the muscles of our spirits to work....We discovered that we could drive in the dark, if we had to, and could really GET SOMEWHERE....We did it, and we can keep on doing it—if we must! We've learned how and we are bigger than we were.

GRETA GARBO comes to life

Her True Story Now To Be Printed For The First Time

Greta Garbo's true life story and true love story are to be printed for the first time. This same statement made about any other character in Hollywood would not be news. It would just be funny. In Hollywood there are few secrets and little reserve. Again and again they turn their silly souls inside out for the sake of a head line.

But not so, Garbo.

She has been "the cat that walked by herself." She has stood alone on the mountain top. Even her press agents scurrying for copy have never been able to fathom the real Garbo who has now been revealed for the first time.

True Story Magazine has had many hundreds of thousands of all-too-human human documents pass across its editorial desks. Life stories and love stories that reached to the very heart of us millions upon millions of everyday people for whom they were written. But this True Story of Garbo comes pretty close to the top.

For Garbo herself not only comes from the common people. She still belongs to the common people. She has not changed.

The first chapters of the Great True Story of Greta Garbo will appear in the next issue of True Story Magazine which will be out on Friday, September 1st. Watch for it eagerly. It is well worth watching for.

Fistic Encounter Council Feature

WINNIPEG, Aug. 29. — (CP) — Winnipeg's city council chamber today had been the scene of its first fistic affair.

Alderman John Blumberg, Labor member, and Arthur T. Henderson, president of a local taxi cab company, exchanged blows during a council meeting last night. It was two minutes before they were pushed out the doorway of the chamber and separated. The combatants exchanged blow for blow while cries of "stop it" and "push them outside" rose from crowded galleries.

The encounter followed a duel of words over a statement made recently by Henderson who charged that for $500 any by-law could be passed through council. Council was considering a taxi cab by-law when the Alderman and Henderson clashed.

TIRED HORSES IN REST HOME

British Society Provides Asylum for Ill-used Equines.

ACCOMMODATION FOR 40.

MANCHESTER, Eng., Aug. 29 (CP)—Visitors to the Home of Rest for Tired Horses at Hazel Grove at the annual "At Home" had an opportunity of seeing a work of which not much is heard in the ordinary way, but which is important not only in providing a holiday for tired horses and an asylum for ill-used one but also because it represents an increasingly sensitive public conscience in the matter of people's common duty towards animals generally, whether they are personal property or not.

Pinned on the outside walls of the Home were a number of posters either exposing forms of cruelty to animals or instructing the public how to avoid the cruelty that comes of want of thought. The best-intentioned people sometimes err on the side of sentimentality towards animals, at the expense of the animals' real welfare. In helping to substitute sense and knowledge for ignorance that may lead to unconscious cruelty, the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, which runs this Home, is doing a valuable work.

The home has accommodation for 40 horses and 17 were in residence at the time of the annual "at home."

CUBANS DEMAND SPEEDY REFORM

A.B.C. Revolutionary Society Do Not Want Delay Till After Elections.

FRICTION OVER ARRESTS.

HAVANA, Aug. 29 (A.P.)—President de Cespedes' reply was awaited today to demands of the powerful A.B.C. Revolutionary Society for immediate constitutional reforms.

The President reportedly had not planned to alter the constitution until after the general elections six months hence, but A.B.C. members have threatened to withdraw two Cabinet members if the hoped-for changes are not effected.

Secretary of the Treasury Martinez Hains and Minister of Justice Saladrigas, the two Cabinet members involved, and Jose Andres Gutieras conferred at length late last night about the problem. The three compose the A.B.C. directorate.

Meanwhile, Baldino Gonzalez Pasaron, President of the Havana Superior Court, was arrested by A.B.C. men and soldiers who accused him of crimes under the deposed Machado regime.

He was taken to military headquarters, where the Secretary of Justice ordered his immediate release. Later, Juan Manuel Menocal, President of the Supreme Court, ordered the arrest of the two A.B.C. members making the arrest and their appearance in court to-day on charges of causing an arrest under false pretences.

BANKING PROBE POLICY SCORED

Couzens' Counsel Claims 'Hearsay Evidence' May Ruin Fine Reputations.

GIVES INSTANCES.

DETROIT, Aug. 29 (AP) — The practice of the one-man Detroit banking investigating jury in taking "hearsay evidence" was criticised before the jury to-day by Arthur J. Lacy, personal attorney for United States Senator James Couzens (R., Mich.). Lacy, declaring that such evidence taken at an open hearing becomes a public matter and a "gossipy thing," declared he believed the court made an "error in judgment" when it permitted such action.

"It may ruin the reputation of a perfectly fine and good man or woman," said Lacy. "Take the case of Mrs. Couzens, wife of the Senator. A finer woman does not live. Yet the hearsay statement made here, that she had withdrawn 'smart money' was published in the newspapers here without any amount being mentioned, and the inference was permitted that she had withdrawn an enormous sum."

Published Abroad

News gathering associations, said Lacy, "sent the report over the whole world, and it was published in London and Paris newspapers at a time when she was accompanying her husband who was representing this country at an international conference."

Discussing testimony presented by the militant Father Charles E. Coughlin, crusading priest, before the jury last week, Lacy said:

"The the case of Peter Monaghan. (Attorney and prominent Catholic layman mentioned by Father Coughlin as one "doubtful of escaping Federal indictment".) "I don't know of a finer Christian gentleman than Peter Monaghan. If anyone had heard anything against him it was a great tragedy that it could not have been presented secretly to this court and an investigation made to determine the facts. Then let the facts speak for themselves."

VAST WHEAT CROP WORRIES U.S. AS SHE AGREES TO EXPORT LIMIT

Reports Trickle in Farmers Intend Reaping Benefit of Reduced Acreage.

WILL BOOST PRODUCTION.

(By Roy F. Hendrickson, C.P. Staff Writer.)

WASHINGTON, August 28.—Disposition of the bulging wheat crops by the United States popped up as a major problem again to-day despite action by nations, the agricultural adjustment administration and more than a score of nations to form at London a pact to cut down production and re-open foreign markets.

While one group in the Agriculture Department sought to speed up the campaign to reduce domestic wheat acreage, from another came word that two of the country's largest producing areas will have vast "exportable surplus" this year—the Pacific North-west and South-west.

Meanwhile the export movement of wheat has slowed down to a mere trickle compared with years past and doubts have arisen whether the wheat acreage reduction plan will offset unofficial reports that farmers not joining in it contemplate increasing their production.

Reports are coming to farm administrators that many farmers, tempted by better prices for wheat and the drafting of both domestic and international policies to improve the position of wheat growers, hope to "cash in" by expanding their production.

Pending a study of the London agreement, administrators are withholding a decision on their plans for subsidizing exports of the grain. They have looked to China as an outlet, but still another group reported that "there is no immediate interest in buying foreign wheat" there.

161,000,000 Surplus.

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics estimated the "exportable surplus" at 161,000,000 bushels, most of it in the Pacific North-west and South-west, after allowing 125,000,000 bushels as a minimum carryover after domestic needs have been met from the potential supply. It would have been much higher except that this year's crop, the lowest since 1893, is estimated as less than 500,000,000 bushels. The July 1 carryover was 388,000,000.

Administrators expected word from London during the day of the signing of a supplement to the wheat agreement specifying the limit on American exports during the year which started August 1. The United States during negotiations agreed to limit its exports for the year to 45,000,000 of 360,000,000 bushels allotted under the agreement to the four main exporting countries — Canada, the United States, Argentine, and Australia.

ALL-BRAN STOPPED HIS SLEEPLESSNESS AND TIRED FEELING

Cereal Relieved His Constipation

Read this enthusiastic letter from Mr. Haraden:

"My system had been run down for quite some time. About three weeks ago, I started taking ALL-BRAN for breakfast. I had been unable to sleep nights, but now all I have to do is turn in, and before I know it, I am fast asleep.

"I used to have a tired feeling all day, but now that ALL-BRAN is in my home to stay, there will be no more tired feelings with me."—Mr. Carl Haraden (address furnished upon request).

Science says that ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, this clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this safer than taking pills and drugs—often harmful? Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily for most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

PEACE OF MIND IN COMFORTABLE SHOE

Bernard Smith Shoe Store at Havelock Has a Most Comprehensive Stock.

There is nothing that makes one so low in spirits, cross or ill-tempered, and as uncomfortable as an ill-fitting shoe. On the other hand there is nothing from which we derive more pleasure or satisfaction than comfortable, well fitting shoes. It is absolutely essential to our peace of mind that our feet be comfortable.

While our feet are buoyantly supported by snug fitting, flexible shoes, they must have style, quality and durability. Nowhere will you find this combination better suited to your needs than at Bernard Smith's Shoe Store, Havelock. Here you will find shoes that from the tips of their toes to the snug fitting heels are beautiful. Shoes in which there is no restriction of any kind to disturb the ease of your feet. In their flexible footwear you will enjoy the cool comfort of feet that are free and well fitted; shoes that are shaped like the natural foot.

In addition to the composite features of style and comfort, the durability of a shoe must be taken into consideration. No part of our wearing apparel is subjected to more wear and strain than a pair of shoes. No shoes can boast of longer durability and still retain their shape than those of Smith's. Mr. Bernard Smith, the proprietor, has realized the necessity of having stylish shoes that wear, and through this recognition has built up a business that bears witness to the fact that their shoes afford you comfort, durability and style.

By way of completeness their is a modern and up-to-date gent's furnishing department, and being in the harness business where could one find a better judge of leather. Artist Finds, Returns $2,000,000 Bonds, Prefers Riches In Paintings To Reward

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 28.—(AP)—An artist who found and returned another man's fortune of $2,000,000, paints deserts and oceans here in a studio that faces an alley.

He is Oscar Stroebel, son of a Cincinnati banker, and he sums up a philosophical vein in his own words:

"I'd rather be rich in creative activity; rich in my paintings."

F. K. Baron Von Koenig-Warthausen, noted German aviator, thought so much of Stroebel's work he obtained for him a scholarship in Berlin's academie Dr. Kunst. The artist borrowed $3,000 and left for Europe.

When the bellboy brought his bags to a room in a New York hotel, Stroebel found an extra grip. It bore the label of an Indiana man, whose name Stroebel declines to reveal.

"The hotel clerk knew of no one by that name," Stroebel said, "so I opened the bag. It contained, among other things, a long red envelope. In it were 1,600 shares of National City Bank stock, $250,000 worth of convertible Liberty bonds, $400,000 worth of Guaranty Trust Company stock and enough other securities to total $2,000,000.

Stroebel said he dallied, temptation staring him in the face.

"Then I called a broker and asked him what the National City stock was worth, the artist continued. "He told me $950,000."

Stroebel dashed over to the National City bank.

Yes, they knew the Indiana man. They also knew the bag and securities were lost. The fortune was restored to its owner.

The Indiana man offered him $1,000 reward.

"I don't want any reward", Stroebel said.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN

Approximate prices track shipping point: Wheat, 65c to 66c; oats, 32c to 34c; barley, 38c to 41c; rye, 45c to 46c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Grains moved slowly backward yesterday, held by an indifferent demand and weakness of the British pound sterling.

Scattered selling was noted in the pits at the start of trading, and with demand at a low ebb prices declined around 2c a bushel in wheat before early strength set in. Liverpool wheat prices showed relatively little change in British money but were 1⅜c to 1¾c lower in terms of dollars, due to a sharp drop in exchange rates. Corn was almost lifeless, following wheat but slightly, and lacking any motive power on its own hook.

Wheat Loses 1⅛ to 1⅜c.

Wheat closed weak and 1¼c to 1¾c below Saturday's finish; corn also weak and ⅜c to ⅝c down; oats ⅜c to ⅝c off, and provisions 8c to 38c lower.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29.—Although trading was on the quiet side, prices were steady to firm on the Montreal dairy and produce market yesterday. There was a firm undertone to the egg market, with graded shipments of Ontario extras at 22½c to 23c a dozen, firsts at 18c, and seconds at 14½c to 15c. Westerns were ½c to 1c a dozen under these levels. Receipts totalled 829 cases.

The butter market remained at 18c to 18¼c a pound for No. 1 grade in carlots or less. The general price seemed to be at 18c, but some dealers were still asking the maximum quote. There is a report that a movement is under way in Western Canada to store no butter for three weeks, placing it on the export market. Arrivals amounted to 110 boxes.

The cheese market continued at 9G¼c to 9¾c a pound for Ontario and 9¼c to 9⅝c a pound for Quebecs. A total of 355 boxes was offered for sale.

New Quebec potatoes held at 80c per 80 pound bag.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, August 29.—Despite export business estimated between 500,000 and 750,000 bushels, wheat prices were unable to rally from an early fractional decline on the Grain Exchange yesterday, and under the influence of hedging pressure from elevator interests closed ⅛c to ¾c under the previous finish.

Trading was never very active and volume was rather small. October option closed the day at 71⅝c, December at 73¼c, and May at 78¾c. The full decline amounted to about 1c, but at the low points, prices were still well above the minimum levels.

Week-end Sales Small.

Sales of Canadian wheat over the week-end were not of much account, but a moderate business developed during the morning for shipment to United Kingdom, and took care of any early offerings, after which time prices sagged a little and then held fairly steady for most of the session.

Liverpool, after showing firmness, declined to finish ¼d to ½d lower. Broomhall intimated Liverpool continued bullish on the London wheat agreement, with millers making considerable purchases of German and other wheats. North American wheat shipments amounted to 4,530,000 bushels, most of which was chiefly Canadian origin, reflecting the better demand for Canadian wheat noted in recent weeks.

Eliminate Spots

If lukewarm water doesn't remove those rug spots that the moths like so well, dampen a cloth with carbon tetrachloride and rub them out this way. Always put a thick cloth under the part of the rug you are cleaning, and let the air get at it when drying. Coffee stains are the hardest of all to remove, and lukewarm water is more efficacious here than any other cleansing substance. Dry with a clean cloth.

PONIES SCORED TWO IN SECOND LEADING PETES

Russ Kitchen Pitches for Petes—Fournier for Kingston.

PONIES LEAD 5 TO 1.

Hollingsworth's Error is Costly to Petes in Second.

(By C. Perdue)

NAPANEE, Aug. 30. — A warm sun and over a thousand fans greeted the Ponies and Petes as they took the field today in the game that was to settle the Central Ontario League championship. Big Russ Kitchen was named starting pitcher by Knotty Lee while Kingston wrapped its hopes in the short slim form of Lefty Fournier. Indications pointed to a real pitching duel. The Petes went to bat first.

FIRST INNING

Petes.—Hollingsworth led off with a walk. Batten sacrificed him to second. Rose singled to right to score Red. Rose went on second on Whatley's single to right. Both moved up as Foley grounded out to the pitcher. Ash walked to first to fill the bases. Burton rolled out to Fournier. One run, two hits, no errors.

Kingston.—G. Arniel grounded out to Kitchen. Compeau flied out to Burton. McQuade hit a cheap double to right, falling between three players. Joyce hoisted one to Batten. No runs, one hit, no errors.

SECOND INNINGS.

PETES—MacDonald drew a walk. Kitchen popped a foul fly to the catcher, Hollingsworth fanned. Batten singled to left and was stopped at second. Rose struck out. No runs, one hit, no errors.

KINGSTON.— Smith singled to centre. J. Arniel grounded to Rose, but Hollingsworth dropped the ball and both were safe. They moved up on Quinn's sacrifice. Two runs scored on Scrutton's single to centre, Fournier fanned. Scrutton was thrown out stealing. Two runs, 2 hits, 1 error.

THIRD INNINGS.

PETES—Whatley whiffed. Foley rolled out to second. Ash singled to centre. Burton lifted one to centre. No runs, one hit, no errors.

KINGSTON — G. Arniel struck out. Compeau singled to left. McQuaide's fly was taken by MacDonald. Joyce rolled out to Kitchen. No runs, one hit, no errors.

FOURTH INNINGS.

PETES — MacDonald fanned. Kitchen rolled weakly to the box. Hollingsworth grounded out to third. No runs, no hits, no errors.

KINGSTON—Smith rolled out to Kitchen. J. Arniel walked. Quinn dittoed. Scrutton's double to centre scored two. Fournier singled to centre, Scrutton taking third. Calladine now pitching. G. Arniel grounded out to Calladine. Compeau did the same. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

CIVIC BANQUET IS EXTENDED FIRE CHIEFS

Hon. George Challies is Guest Speaker at Dinner in Legion Hall.

PRESENTATION MADE.

Canada to See More Glorious Achievements Speaker Declares.

"Wonderful things have been wrought out of this Canada of ours all down the years of its eventful history. What our eyes behold of marvellous development, is but the earnest of things more glorious to follow," stated the Hon. George Challies, provincial secretary and Minister of the Department of Game and Fisheries during the course of an inspiring address, which he delivered last evening as guest speaker at the civic banquet tendered to the Dominion Fire Chiefs' Association.

The gathering held at the Canadian Legion Hall, was presided over by Alderman J. D. Fitzpatrick, chairman of the Reception Committee of the City Council, and was attended by over two hundred persons, which included not only the fire chiefs and their ladies, but civic officilas representative of the city and county, as well as the two Members of Parliament in the persons of E. A. Peck, K.C., M.P., and J. Ford Strickland, K.C., M.P.P.

Reeve John McIntosh, warden of the County of Peterborough and Reeve C. S. Tanner of Lakefield, represented the County Council.

One of the surprise items on an interesting and comprehensive program, was the presentation of a set of lawn bowls, made to Chief George Gimblett the convention host, by President Chief Harry Guerin on behalf of the Association.

The presentation was made by Chief Guerin after he had responded to the toast to the "Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs" ably proposed by Alderman J. A. McNabb, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

In his introductory remarks, prior to calling upon Alderman McNabb to propose a toast to "the Dominion Association" the toastmaster remarked upon the importance of fire protection and fire prevention work in any community, and added, "for that reason the Fire Chiefs' Convention is an important one."

A Big Responsibility

Alderman McNabb said it was an honour he deeply appreciated to propose such a toast on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the Association. He believed a great responsibility rested upon the chief officer of any fire department —a responsibility which increased when that officer swung into active duty at the call of the alarm bell. There was no nobler calling.

FORD'S HOLDOUT STARTS INQUIRY BY ROOSEVELT

Says Nothing, Makes No Threats But Signs Point to Pending Action.

AUTO CODE SNAG.

Ford Mum — Feels Scheme Means Handing Industry to Union Leaders.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 30. — (AP) — President Roosevelt has asked General Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, for a report on the failure of Henry Ford to enroll under the new working agreement for the automobile industry.

Mr. Roosevelt wants the latest news on this before he departs tomorrow for a vacation cruise back to Washington and there is indication he is considering action although the president is saying nothing about that and making no threats.

In talking with General Johnson it was stated that no word had been received at Washington so far from the Michigan auto magnate. Inquiries here about the use of the drastic licensing power to impose the N.R.A. working code on Ford brought answer that no detailed consideration has been given so far to this piece of authority.

The agreement fixing working hours and wages for gigantic automobile industry was signed by the president late last week and it has the support of every other branch of this industry except Ford who is remaining silent.

Ford Is Silent

BIG BAY, Mich., Aug. 30.—(AP) —Henry Ford, on vacation at the Huron Mountain club, near here, today declined to discuss statements made in Washington by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, that "maybe the American people will crack down on Ford" if he does not obtain the Blue Eagle.

"I have nothing to say at all about the N.R.A." Ford told his questioner. He declined to answer any questions about his further plans, and would not say whether he plans a statement when he returns from his vacation.

No statement of any kind has been authorized from the Ford offices here since the automobile industry's code was accepted in Washington without the participation of Henry Ford. Ford has been represented by associates and other close to him as feeling that the code as drawn up meant the "handing over of all industry to union labor leaders."

The minimum wage scale at the Ford plants at present is 50 cents an hour and operations are on an eight-hour, five-day week basis. The industry's code calls for a minimum of 43 cents in the larger cities and scales down to 40 cents in smaller communities, with a 35-hour week.

WIFE SLAYING TRIAL BEGINS

Husband of Nude Woman, Found Dead in Tub Full of Water, to Testify.

REACTIONS WATCHED.

SAN JOSE, Calif., Aug. 30 (A.P.). —What David A. Lamson allegedly said to officers when they arrived at his Stanford Campus home last May 30 to find the nude body of his wife in the bath-tub full of water and how he acted in the face of their questioning was expected to come out in the testimony to-day at his trial for her murder.

Among the witnesses under call was Deputy Sheriff John Moore, who shortly after going to the scene of the tragedy reported having heard Lamson say:

"My God! Why did I ever marry her!"

The State completed the presentation of the first phase of its case yesterday with the introduction of a series of blood-stained articles and clothing, taken from the bungalow last May 30.

The list, including house slippers, garden gloves, a bath towel and bath mat and the blood-stained pyjamas and bathrobe of the defendant, were identified by Deputy-Sheriff Earle Hamilton as they were held up for the jury to view.

2ND BATTALION PLANS RE-UNION FOR SATURDAY

HISTORY OF UNIT.

Eastern Ontario's First Contribution to the Great War.

Preparations were approaching completion to-day for the reunion of veterans of the 2nd Canadian Infantry Battalion, which will be held here on Saturday, Sept. 2. Reunion arrangements were in the hands of a committee presided over by Lieut. Col. G. G. Winterbottom, M.C., D.C.M., officer commanding the Peterborough Rangers. Nearly 500 former officers and other ranks of the old Second Battalion were expected.

The territorial district of the battalion was Eastern Ontario but in its 4½ years' history the battalion drew from nearly every province of the Dominion. It was organized at Valcartier in September, 1914, and proceeded to France in February, 1915.

The battalion distinguished itself

BANDITS' RAID NETS $30,000

Kill Policeman, Wound Another While Robbing Two Bank Messengers.

USE MACHINE GUN.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 30 (AP)—Machine gun bullets killed one policeman and wounded another as five bandits obtained $30,000 in currency from two bank messengers to-day.

Leo Pavlek, 35, was the officer killed and James Yeaman was wounded as the robbers seized the money from Joseph Hamilton and Herbert Cheyne, whom they were guarding.

The two messengers represented the Stockyards National Bank here. They had just left the post office, in the centre of the business district in company of the officers.

The messengers brought the money from the District Federal Reserve Bank in Minneapolis.

Witnesses said a car containing the five bandits swung to the curb and a man stepped out.

He commanded the messengers to drop the money and ordered them to lie down behind a truck parked nearby, then shooting began and the street was raked by fire. The officers fell and the men seized the money and fled in their car.

LIFE AND LASHES FOR KIDNAPPING URGED IN CANADA

Recommendation Before Canadian Bar Association Enthusiastically Received.

PRESENT TERM 25 YEARS.

Guthrie in Welcoming Address Lauds Legal System in Neighboring Countries.

OTTAWA, August 30 (C.P.). — Life imprisonment with lashes as the penalty for kidnapping was proposed before the Canadian Bar Association to-day.

A draft report of the Committee on Administration of Criminal Justice, presented to the convention, contains this recommendation for submission to the Dominion Government. The draft report is to be considered by the committee so that it may make its final recommendation to the convention to-morrow.

The Canadian law, as it now stands, makes a kidnapper liable to imprisonment for 25 years. The penalty is provided under Section 297 of the Criminal Code. If the proposal for punishment by life imprisonment with lashes is accepted by the Bar Association and the Dominion Government acquiesce an amendment to the Criminal Code would have to be introduced in Parliament.

A murmur of applause broke out on the floor of the convention hall when the recommendation was read. Many judges and lawyers attending the meeting have intimated in conversation their belief that the punishment for kidnapping should be made more drastic.

The United States recently made kidnapping a capital charge, punishable by death in the electric chair in those states where the electric chair is still in use.

Until recently, a few years in the penitentiary was the usual sentence. This was the punishment as a rule in both Caanda and the United States.

Welcome By Guthrie.

Distinct and mutual advantages accrued to Canada and the United States by reason of the similarity of their systems of jurisprudence—both based on the British system of common law. In his address of welcome before the Canadian Bar Association this morning, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, paid this tribute to the legal systems in the neighboring nations. Attorney-General W. H. Harrison, of New Brunswick, responded to the official welcome.

In eight provinces of the Dominion, Mr. Guthrie recalled, the British common law was followed. Quebec had its civil code based on the code propounded by the Roman Emperor Justinian. All states of the American Republic, he continued, had their systems based on

George Young Is Out of the Race At End of Sixth

Marvin Nelson Takes Lead At End Of Seventh Mile In C. N. E. Swim—Young Taken Out Complaining Of Sore Eyes And Dizziness.

JACKIE MAY WHO LED FOR THREE MILES DROPS OUT IN SIXTH—GAMBI ALSO OUT.

TORONTO, Aug. 30. —(CP)— Marvin Nelson, Fort Dodge, Ia., took the lead in the Canadian National Exhibition's 15-mile professional swim marathon at the end of the seventh mile today, shortly after George Young of Toronto had been taken from the water, complaining of sore eyes and dizziness.

Young had been swimming strongly, but on rounding the six-mile buoy tried to get into his boat. After an argument with his wife, Margaret Ravior Young, and Torchy Peden, Victoria, B.C., cyclist, who were in the boat, Young swam over to a float and was helped out of the water.

Jackie May of Honolulu who had led the race for the first three miles was also removed in the sixth mile. He had "burned himself out" by setting a terrific pace in the early stages — just as he had done in previous years

Gambi Nearly Drowns.

Conditions changed rapidly, however. Jackie May, the Honolulu speedster who led for three miles, was taken out. Then Gianni Gambi of Italy, the "Italian windmill" nearly drowned directly in front of the Press enclosure when he was stricken with cramps. Bud Platt of Stratford, a strong swimmer, was also eliminated.

Gambi, whose unorthodox style of swimming had led to his being second in the affair last year and nicknamed the "windmill," placed had been highly favored to win this year.

Clarence Ross of Chicago was crippled with back cramps in the eighth mile while leading and was hauled into his boat. He was the third outstanding swimmer to be removed.

Marvin Nelson was still in the lead when the tenth mile buoy was passed. He was swimming strongly as ever, nearly 100 yards in front of Harry Glancy of Philadelphia, who was making terrific efforts to catch up. Bill Goll was in third place, but only by inches, for the two were swimming down like a team. Frank Pritchard, Buffalo, was fourth. George Samuel Bladen of Memphis, Tenn., was fifth and Eli Radakovich, Duquesne, Pa., sixth.

117 Started

The official count for the starters was 117 while 164 drew numbers and paid the entrance fee.

The first swimmer taken out was blonde Norval Sweet of Oshawa, Ont. He travelled only 50 yards. Sweet explained he had suffered

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(CP) —Blonde Lilyan Astaire, American actress, today had completed a European tour dedicated to observation of how the women of different countries make love, and she had concluded the ladies of England and Sweden are too aloof — "just like their men."

Miss Astaire, who will impersonate the various types of lovers for United States audiences, also decided that French, Russian and Italian women are of the same emotional temperament. Russian women, however, "take the cake" when it comes to unadulterated, demonstrative love-making.

Noticeable Increase in Attendance—Government Feels Power Broken.

MOSCOW IS GAY.

(BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN).

MOSCOW, August 14. — They are on the upgrade in Moscow. The city is a zooming beehive. A note of optimism prevails in all quarters. There is not only a noticeable increase in luxury, there actually is a note of gaiety. Moscow has developed quite a night-life since I was there last. It is a good sign, say the authorities with whom I spoke on the subject. Strange as it may sound, Moscow is going in for jazz at the present time. Until recently jazz was frowned upon and the magnificent Russian orchestras played classic music exclusively. Their utmost compromise with modernity was Viennese light music. Now it's the latest tin-pan alley stuff. Paul Whiteman, Jack Hylton, Ted Lewis, and other kings of rhythmic syncopation have conquered the proletarian republic.

This is also a good sign. But it is only a part of a general liberalization policy officially inaugurated by the Soviet Government. Everywhere, in every domain of life, the reins are allowed to slacken. In one fell swoop the organizations of proletarian writers, of proletarian actors and composers were dissolved

PAY INCREASED AT ROAD CAMPS

Premier Henry Announces Men Will Get $10 Monthly Instead of $5.

AFFECTS OVER 5,000.

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—Commencing Sept. 1, men employed in relief camps on the trans-Canada Highway will be paid $10 per month instead of the nominal payment of $5 a month, which they have been receiving since spring, Premier Henry announced yesterday, after a meeting of the Cabinet Council.

This will affect between 5,000 and 6,000 men, who are at the 40-odd camps scattered along the right-of-way of the highway. And the Department of Northern Development is expecting a heavy increase in the numbers of men who wish to go to these camps. Seasonal employment, which occupied many men, is falling off, and they are looking for a place for the winter.

Out of the $10, the men have to contribute 50 cents a month for medical care, and they provide their own clothing. In reality the men were paid $5.50 during the summer, with the 50 cents deducted for medical care.

A much larger number of men were in the camps during last winter, when the pay was $10. In the spring it was dropped to $5.50, a nominal amount for men who did not have any chance of employment during the summer.

When the bandit pressed a gun against her ribs and attempted to get at the cash register, Miss Robertson coolly pushed him away. When he fired a shot at her feet, the owner gave the thug another shove and sent him out the door. It was believed the shell must have a blank because it left no mark on the floor.

BANDITS' CAR BEEN RECOVERED

Stolen Car Used By Bank Robbers Found Near Toronto.

ELUDE POLICE.

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—Search for two robbers who held up the Orangeville branch of the Royal Bank of Canada and escaped with $3,500 centred in the Toronto district to-day. Police had virtually abandoned hope the gunmen were anywhere near the scene of the robbery.

The stolen sedan used by the duo to race out of Orangeville was found at midnight—about nine hours after the hold-up—in York township a few miles out of Toronto. The car, owned by a Toronto man, was stolen from in front of a house in Hamilton Sunday night.

Eluded Police

Finding of the machine convinced police the two had run through a police barricade placed on the main highway linking Orangeville with Brampton and Brampton with Toronto, probably by keeping to sideroads. Parked on a highway intersection, out of the way of traffic, the car was not damaged.

Four members of the bank staff were forced into a vault yesterday afternoon when the robbers, carrying sawed-off shotguns, entered the branch. All the money in the teller's cage was taken.

W. F. Christie, William Campbell And Douglas Smith Are Trio Expelled From Further O.H.A. Activities As Result Of Probe Into Club Affairs.

NO PLAYERS IMPLICATED IN MISCONDUCT OR TRANSGRESSION OF OFFICIAL RULES.

TORONTO, August 30 (C.P.). — With the rescinding of their franchise the operations of the Toronto Marlboro A.C. —a club noted for its title-winning junior teams—were ended to-day in Ontario Hockey Association circles.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the O.H.A. here last night ,a report of an investigation into the club's affairs disclosed the presence of men actively connected with professional sport on the club's membership, and as a result the franchise was revoked.

In addition three of the officers, W. F. Christie, William Campbell, and Douglas Smith, were barred from further participation as officials in hockey within the O.H.A. jurisdiction by the executive.

Testimony given by witnesses in the court action recently taken by Andrew Taylor, first manager of the Maple Leaf Gardens against his employers in a breach of contract suit, led to investigation of the Marlboro Club's affairs.

Books of the club were laid out before the O.H.A. executive at the request of the governing body, but the O.H.A. found "there being no evidence to connect the players with any misconduct or any transgressions of the rules of the O.H.A. they will be eligible to apply for playing certificates in the O.H.A. in the regular way."

TRIO TRAPPED ON HIGH LEDGE

Young Climbers Await Rescue 400 Feet Up N.Y. Mountain Side.

NO FOOD OR WATER.

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., August 30.—A chilling wind last night beat against the bare side of Wall Face Mountain where three youths, trapped on a narrow ledge since early in the afternoon without food or water, huddled together and awaited the arrival of rescuers.

The youths were William La Due, Robert Glenn and Tyler Gray, all of Plattsburgh, N.Y. They were on a perilous perch without shelter, a sheer drop of 400 feet below them.

Rescue parties set out late in the afternoon for the remote spot in the Adirondacks where they had been sighted by an airplane pilot sent out after Robert La Due, brother of William, had reported their predicament. Far off any regular mountain trail, Wall Face Mountain is more than seven miles from the nearest settlement.

The youths had undertaken the difficult climb early yesterday morning, according to their companion, who arrived at the Adirondack Lodge almost exhausted after his long dash for help. He said he had remained behind while the others negotiated the difficult cliff to the ledge from which they were unable to retrace their steps.

As darkness set in it was feared they might suffer from exposure, because in this section the temperature at night drops to the freezing point, and the youths were in their shirt sleeves.

The rescuers doubted if they would be able to scale the cliff and take them down before Wednesday morning. All three youths are between the ages of 18 and 21.

DELHI DOCTOR MAY BE CHARGED WITH WOUNDING

Police Allege Physician Opened Fire as Group Gathers Outside Office.

BULLETS RICOCHETED.

Two Men in Crowd Injured—Complaints Been Made Previously.

SIMCOE, Aug. 30.—Crown Attorney W. E. Kelly, K.C., to-day intimated that charges might be laid against Dr. E. W. Zumstein, well-known Delhi medical practitioner, as a result of an alleged shooting affray in the village on Sunday, when two foreigners were injured.

Bullets Hit Two

The affair occurred, it is alleged, about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon outside Dr. Zumstein's office on Main street. Returning to find a number of foreigners loitering outside the building, Dr. Zumstein is alleged to have alighted from his car with a revolver in his hand and to have discharged four bullets. Two of these struck the sidewalk, ricocheting into the group and wounding two men. One man was struck in the neck and the other in the ankle.

Quiet Probe

Provincial police of Simcoe quietly investigated the affair on Monday, and, after a conference with Crown Attorney Kelly, intimated that a charge might be laid under the recently revised section of the Criminal Code dealing with the issuance of permits for carrying weapons. Dr. Zumstein is known to be a collector of revolvers and had formerly possessed the necessary permit, issued by a Magistrate. Recently, however, the act has been amended, necessitating new permits. Neither of the men struck by bullets was seriously injured. Both are foreign tobacco workers and are still in this vicinity.

Target Practice

Residents of Delhi when interviewed were indignant over the matter. They alleged that Dr. Zumstein is given to practicing revolver shots in an alley near his office, which is situated in the heart of the village, and declared that complaints have been numerous in this regard.

Sunday's incident is not held by officers here to be connected with the recent flare-up in Delhi, when foreigners were injured by village residents in the course of a mild riot. Since the event occurred early this month there has been no visible friction between townspeople and the transients, although annoyance is still expressed at their habit of congregating in numbers on the village streets.

LAKE IN IRELAND BACK IN BOUNDS

Returns to Bed After Disappearing Through Cavern Month Ago.

SUPERSTITION RECALLED.

GEEVAGH, Irish Free State, Aug. 30.—(A.P.)— The waters of Lake Naguil, which ran out a month ago through a cavern in its bed, returned to-day with a roar, A man walking on the dry bed barely escaped.

The lake, covering 45 acres, was 30 feet deep before the water disappared in the night, leaving heaps of dead fish and mud flats.

Inhabitants of this region in Sligo County recalled an old superstition that the lake was associated with King Balor "of the evil eye," who was slain and buried on its shores.

The cavern through which the water ran out is shaped like a huge eye. Hence the body of water is known as the "Lake of the Eye."

CYCLE CRASHES INJURING FIVE AT BELLEVILLE

Racer Fails to Make Turn and Crashes Into Fair Crowd.

MACHINE WRECKED.

Officials Halt Remaining Speed Events—Track Too Narrow.

BELLEVILLE, Aug 30—Crashing into the guard-rail surrounding the Exhibition Park race track here yesterday afternoon at a speed of 65 miles an hour, Merlin Gage, a 22-year-old novice motorcycle racer, suffered concussion of the brain and severe cuts, and injured four spectators: Donald Monroe, 16; Maxwell Peters, 16; Freddy Daly 13; and Billy Tracy, aged 7.

The five were rushed ot the Belleville General Hospital, where it was discovered that Monroe and Gage had suffered concussion of the brain. Tracy and Daly were able to return to their home after preliminary treatment, while Peters has severe internal injuries and a fractured knee.

The accident occurred in full view of over 1,500 spectators lining the track and in the grandstand. It came as Gage was rounding the eastern turn at the start of the second lap.

Fence Demolished

Ten feet of the fence was demolished, and the machine was entirely wrecked. The race was discontinued at the conclusion of the succeeding lap, when the racers were flagged off the track. The three and five-mile races were called off.

In a statement issued by Dr. G. S. Cronk, attending physician last night, it was learned that all three of the seriously injured are expected to recover.

Gordon Davies, president of the Quinte Motorcycle Club, which sponsored the race, was non-committal when interviewed concerning the accident, beyond stating that the track was too narrow at the turns for high speed racing. Gage was riding in his first race, and when the accident occurred was in fourth place.

Spectators in the stand had a premonition of the accident, as it was seen that the rider was too close to the outside rail at the turn. The injured were carried to an ambulance by bystanders and officials of the Quinte Motorcycle Club.

Indignation was aroused among patrons of the fair that the board would allow inexperienced drivers to enter a high speed race. Members of the fair board when interviewed, were of the opinion that the races would be discontinued for the remainder of the week. It is believed improbable that motorcycle racing will be resumed here in future.

Ask No Prosecution For Sporting Guns

TORONTO, Aug. 30. —(CP)— A memorandum today was on its way from Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General of Ontario, to Crown Attorneys and Provincial Police Constables urging them to use discretion in enforcing the amendment to the criminal code with regard to sportsmen using rifles and guns under licenses issued by the Game and Fisheries Department.

It would, in his opinion, the Attorney General stated, be unfair to the holder of a hunting license to be prosecuted under the new criminal code legislation.

ARGENTINE ADDS NAME TO PACT

Signature is Twenty-second on Agreement Designed to Raise Wheat Prices.

CROP IS CURTAILED.

LONDON, Aug. 30. — (A.P.)— Thomas Le Breton, Argentine representative here, to-day signed an international agreement designed to raise wheat prices and brought to 22 the number of signatories.

Delegataes from the other three major wheat exporting colunntries, Canada, the United States and Australia were present at the brief ceremony at which Le Breton added his name to the accord.

The pact was signed by representatives of 21 nations last week. It set 63-08 gold cents a bushel as the price which will decide when importing countries are to lower their wheat tariffs.

Importers agreed to cut duties against wheat when this price has been held four months. They also promised to encourage consumption, modify quota restrictions, and not to boost domestic production.

Exporting countries, including Canada, the United States and Australia, agreed to export no more than 560,000,000 bushels of wheat in 1933-1934, to reduce production in 1934-1935 by 15 per cent. The last point applies to the "big four" producers.

Some doubt as to whether Argentina would sign arose because of questions concerning her share in the export quota. Luis Duhau, Argentine Minister of Agriculture, said last night, however, that Argentina's forthcoming crop would be curtailed by drought and a locust invasion.

BEAUTY IN LIFE IS ROTARY TOPIC

Rev. T. J. O'Conor-Fenton Delivers Interesting Address At Campbellford Luncheon.

BEAUTY OF SPEECH.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 30 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The beauty of life, and the need to add to our life and its work that beauty, thoughts "taken from the private draw of my mind and some of the things I've felt worth while thinking about," formed the theme of an address delivered yesterday before the Campbellford Rotary Club at the noon hour luncheon by the Rev. T. J. O'Conor-Fenton of Norwood, who, in his own familiar and charming style, gave club members and their guests thoughts worth while, in these days of mental upheavels. The meeting was presided over by Rotarian Clarence Williams, songs being led by Rotarian Elie Brunelle.

Speaking of the difficult times people are now facing, the speaker pointed out that there was little reason to worry, for we could wonder as to why we were here at all. There was some reason for it. Considering the vastness of space we are concerned with, he drew an example from the saying of the Lord's Prayer. Roughly speaking, i took thirty-five seconds to say this prayer, yet measured by spherical distances, the movements of the earth relative to the sun, its own axis and such like, in that short time we actually travel six miles, six hundred miles and a quarter of a million miles. With these circumstances around us, he said, we realize that extraordinary fact of our existence.

Early History Important.

The early history of ourselves, our families, the settlement of this country, the formation of the country itself, proves to us how many millions of circumstances exist for us to be here to-day, and made us realize the truth and beauty of the hymn of Newman's, "I was not ever thus, nor prayed that Thou should'st lead me on."

"Our spirit, Mr. O'Conor-Fenton declared, is akin to the Creator in its conception of beauty. We humans stand alone in perceiving beauty of sunset flowers, nature."

KING'S HOTEL

At Norwood Caters to the Discriminating.

The modern hotel of to-day has become an essential to commercial activities, and, in ever increasing numbers, men and women are making such institutions their home away from home. Then, too, people from adjoining towns and cities find it more convenient to stay over night there, rather than make the trip home and back again to complete their business. Any town that can boast of such a hotel is sure of much recognition throughout the surrounding territory. Mr. O. R. Edwards has realized that to maintain a modern hotel, receiving patrons from all walks of life, he must have the prices moderate. That he has attained the highest degree of success is evidenced in the fact that when a Norwood hotel is mentioned, the King's Hotel is the first mentioned.

All rooms at the King's Hotel are comfortably furnished and are tastefully decorated, have plenty of ventilation and with bath, either hot or cold running water, it gives the advantage of excellent service, which is of the highest character, and provides for most any want desired. At this hotel "Guest is King," meaning that when one registers their name as guest of this hotel they are at one's service as long as one wishes to stay—be it just over night or for months and the home resident is just as welcome as the traveling salesman or tourist.

Of course one gets hungry and one must eat. The best remedy for this most human ailment is their choice of chicken, fish or steak dinners. One will find the food well cooked, wholesome and deliciously appetising, the prices are most reasonable for all meals. Mr. O. R. Edwards makes reservations and is to be commended upon the efficient manner in which he is conducting this establishment. Do you know the prices of two kinds of dinners at this hotel.

Chief Guerin expressed the pleasure it gave him to address such a gathering in his old home city, and took the opportunity of again extending the thanks of the Association to the citizens for the warmth of the welcome they had extended to the fire chiefs.

Referring to his former association with Chief Gimblett on Hamilton Fire Department, the president related some interesting experiences in which he, and the present head of Peterborough Fire Department had participated, after which he asked Chief Gimblett's acceptance of a token of appreciation from the members of the Association to which he was host.

To Chief A. S. Kappelle of Stratford was entrusted the duty of proposing a toast to "The Convention City" to which Mayor Roland Denne responded.

His Worship agreed with Chief Kappelle that a need existed for municipalities to "tighten the purse strings" but was inclined to agree with the view previously expressed by Alderman McNabb that, "the clouds of depression were lifting."

He spoke of the co-operation that had been received in Peterborough from all the manufacturers, stating that through all the period of depression almost without exception the factories had been working four and five days a week. He was glad to state, that at the present time there were factories in the city working night and day.

Eulogizes Work of Firemen

Mayor Denne eulogized the work of the Fire Department, and at the same time paid tribute to the efficiency of the local Police Department, which was directed by Chief S. Newhall, an outstanding officer.

"The Ladies" was the toast very ably proposed by Chief James Armstrong of Kingston, secretary of the Association. It was responded to in a no less able manner by J. J. Duffus. The latter spoke of the part played by women in the building of Canada, with particular reference to the sacrifices they made during the Great War.

E. A. Peck, K.C., M.P.

Rising to propose the toast to "Canada", E. A. Peck, K.C., M.P., referred to the fact that he was at one time a member of the old volunteer fire brigade in the town of Peterborough. He remarked upon the progress that had been made since those days, comparing the firefighters of those days with the present organized force of firemen on the City Fire Department.

Speaking more particularly to the toast, he said, "Canada whether the land of our birth or adoption is our home. I am proud to live here."

He continued to speak of Canada's geographical and physical advantages, and of her rich natural resources. While agreeing that Canada was passing through a trying time in common with rest of the world, he believed, that a great future was ahead of this country. One of the great needs, he thought, was increased population. "We must encourage others to come here" he said, "and help to build Canada to a place of greater importance among the nations of the world."

He believed that fair, reasonable and proper support should be given to those who were controlling the country, and urged in the better interests of Canada that politics should not occupy such a large place in the general scheme of things as they had done in the past.

Rev. Mr. Daniel Responds

In the unavoidable absence of J. Grove Smith, Dominion Fire Commissioner, the Rev. C. D. Daniel, pastor of Mark Street United Church was called upon by the toastmaster to respond to the toast. It was a duty which Mr. Daniel discharged very capably.

"As we think of Canada these days" Mr. Daniel remarked, "we should be proud of the fact that she was one of the last countries to feel the depression, and I am sure she will be one of the first countries to come out of the depression."

According to Dominion statistics one had to believe that the tide was turning, yet he said he came into daily contact with very distressing cases of poverty that sometimes made him stop and wonder. He was inclined to think, he stated, that the depression was not yet over.

Agreeing with Mr. Peck in regard to keeping politics more in the background, Mr. Daniels intimated that he would also like to see the Senate abolished. Gradually, he felt, Canada was getting the vision of a great and wonderful country, for the people and by the people.

The Hon. George Challies

Introduced by J. F. Strickland, K.C., M.P.P., the Hon. George Challies, provincial secretary, who also spoke at the opening sessions of the convention, said, "I share with you, at least one common ground, and it is that we are all servants of the state; even if in different spheres and in different provinces of this great Dominion."

"As public servants," he remarked, "I sometimes wonder if we quite appreciate what Canada should mean to every Canadian—if we are furnishing the leadership in a spirit of confidence, faith and unity so essential to national upbuilding."

What the country needed, he believed, was the spirit of natural responsibility that would inspire every Canadian into doing his bit towards the building of a greater and more prosperous Canada.

"True we have our troubles" he said, "which are mostly due to causes outside our control and making, but troubles that must be met and conquered." But he pointed out that troubles had been met in the past, and surmounted.

Back to Confederation

Sixty six years had passed by since the leading public men of the various British colonies in North America joined hands and undertook to make one great country. Their purpose was to bring together provinces dissimilar in their geographical location; dissimilar in their economic needs and conditions; dissimilar in the origin and social characteristics of their inhabitants.

"It was a great and tremendously difficult task" he said, "but after these sixty-six years I think we can say with pride that the high hopes of the statesmen of 1867 have been realized."

"The modest colonies which they united have become one great Dominion—one country, self reliant, vigorous—with opportunities in respect to development of natural resources, social activities and industrial energies such as have seldom come to any people in the past" he said.

Played Prominent Part

"Canada has grown into full nationhood and has taken her place among the nations of the world," Mr. Challies continued. "She has played a leading part in the international councils of these nations—a Canada strong and free—strong in her national ideas and free in her international dealings, and at the same time playing a prominent part in promoting the stability and greatness of the British Empire."

"For over sixty-six years we have been building and developing an organized state in order that we may live happily in bonds of peace and prosperity. We have been building that state upon certain fundamental principles, and it would be dangerous to interfere with those principles without first considering what we are doing."

"For instance, there are those who would tear down and destroy our laws, our authorities, even our constitution. Before accepting their nostrums to cure old ills we should scrutinize carefully the background and experience of those offering such cure. After all the reponsibility of all things good and proper is not upon the Government or upon the Parliament, but upon the citizenship of Canada, upon those who in our democracy hold the sovereignty, and are the arbiters of principles and policies."

A Grave Danger

"As that citizenship stands, so the country will stand" he said. "But should that citizenship divide and fall there is grave danger that the country may divide and fall."

"We must realize," the speaker said, "that the wealth or worth of a nation is not to be found only in the vastness of its territory, the beauty of its climate, the richness of its soil and the abundance of its resources. All these things are valuable assets but the real measure of a national life is the quality of the citizenship expressed in the popular conscience, in the public spirit of its people, and the training of hearts and of souls."

"In Canada we are justly proud and appreciative of our wonderful natural resources, notably our furs and fisheries, natural mineral wealth, vast lumber reserves, great water powers, fertile fields, education within reach of all, loyalty and respect for law and order, energetic and virile people."

The Duty of All

"In a country like ours it is the duty of all to learn to rule themselves, to ascertain their rights and duties, and to practise the virtues of moderation and tolerance—not a tolerance that comprises a principle, but rather that should have enough confidence in one's own opinions to respect the opinions of others—a tolerance that is the charity of the strong."

"Another condition of success on the part of our country," he said, "is optimism and abundant faith in our future. Faith in Canada was the powerful light that illuminated the path of those who made Canada. They fought against what seemed to be insurmountable difficulties. They never yielded or gave up."

"Wonderful things have been wrought out in this Canada of ours all down the years of its eventful history. What our eyes behold of marvellous development is but the earnest of things more glorious to follow. Progress has been our watchword in this mighty Dominion whose citizenship stands for all that is best—all the races fused into a great homogeneous total of loyal and devoted Canadianism."

"We have difference of creed, of language and mentality," Mr. Challies granted, "but that is an asset rather than a liability enabling us while conserving our respective national characteristics to unite in keeping the best qualities and eliminating what is not good."

"Let us keep our respect for sacred traditions" he urged, "let us unite our full forces to achieve the triumph of justice and fraternity over violence, ignorance and misery; everyone of us contributing his or her share to the advancement of our country and the progress of the world."

"Thus shall we create and maintain a national type—the Canadian type combining and harmonizing the best and most enduring qualities, the far-reaching energies of the great races from which we—citizens from every portion of this great Dominion—alike spring."

"In conclusion" he said, "let us hope that the gathering here today may not only assist us in solving the various problems presented but that we return to our respective local fields of activity with a keener realization of our opportunities and duties in the broader field of national service."

TWO POLITICAL SCHOOLS.

Both Liberals and Conservatives are going to school next week.

Down at Port Hope there will be a summer school under the auspices of the Federal Liberal party for the discussion of the pressing problems of the day, while during the same period Conservatives are invited to attend a similar gathering at Pickering College, Newmarket, under the auspices of the Federation of Young Canada Conservative clubs for the study of Canadian economic and social problems.

A striking list of speakers has been arranged. Among those who will address the Liberal school are Professor Gregory of England, Walter Lippman, Professor Moley, late head of President Roosevelt's "brain trust," Sir Herbert Samuel, Professor J. T. Shotwell of the Carnegie Endowment, and Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, while the Conservative array of talent includes Professor Wrong, professor emeritus of history, University of Toronto; Prof. W. Jackman; Professor H. A. Innes; Rev. Father Henri Saint-Denis of the University of Ottawa; J. M. McDonnell, general manager of the National Trust Company; James Simpson, Canadian workers' delegate to Geneva, and other similar speakers.

This is a new departure for Canadian politics, although in Great Britain such gatherings have been uniformly successful.

There is much to be gained through the wisdom and knowledge of the gifted speakers who are to address the two political schools, and through the calm and deliberate discussion of the problems of the country that is possible only at such assemblies.

COMPETENT AUDITING A NECESSITY.

The experience of Huron County should go far toward convincing the public of what should long ago have been evident that it is false economy to entrust the auditing of municipal finances to dishonest or incompetent auditors.

Other municipalities have had a similar experience, yet in spite of these warning signs county councils and other bodies continue to appoint auditors with little or no accounting experience and often with no business training.

These appointments—a bit of municipal patronage—they attempt to justify on the ground of economy but it should be plain to everybody that incompetent auditors are an invitation to dishonest officials and that by their failure to detect irregularities they can lose more in a year than the municipality can hope to save in a decade.

When the services of trained accountants are available at reasonable cost—and when as in the case of Peterborough county an opportunity is provided to secure a firm whose experts have had long experience in just such work—it is difficult to follow the line of reasoning that rejects these changes and puts blind faith in auditors with no training for their task.

It is a chance that no municipal council is justified in taking for while cases of dishonest auditors are fortunately few and far between there is the certainty that incompetent methods of auditing offer every opportunity for municipal losses—drains on the treasury that would be promptly and effectively plugged if independent and qualified auditors were on the job.

Huron county's plight carries a warning to all municipal councils.

FLEETING FAME.

The abuse with which Mrs. Helen Wills Moody is being assailed because she declined to finish the finals of the women's tennis championship when her opponent, Miss Helen Jacobs, had set up a winning lead, carries its warning to athletes everywhere not to put too much reliance on the fame that is to be won on the field of play.

For years Mrs. Moody, the former Helen Wills, had been the idol of the American people who, thrilled by her clever play and her ability to triumph over all opposition, worshipped her as the super-woman of the tennis world.

The other day the tide of fortune turned and Mrs. Moody, after a long series of triumphs, found herself losing; before the final set was completed she announced that through illness she was unable to continue.

As to how serious was the condition of the former champion it is impossible for us to speak with authority; at all events Mrs. Moody claimed that she could not proceed with the game and her physician has issued a statement to the effect that Mrs. Moody was really ill.

It might have been expected that in view of her brilliant record and the regard in which she was held, Mrs. Moody's retirement from the game would have been accepted as an unlucky development; instead, however, the tennis writers have poured their vitriol upon the former champion and the public seems to be following their lead.

Fame of any kind is fleeting, but the prestige that comes from prowess on the athletic field passes with bewildering swiftness; you're a champion to-day and a no good tomorrow.

MORTGAGE INDEBTEDNESS.

For the first time in Canada, in the census of 1931, every farmer-owner was asked for a statement of the mortgage debt on his farm and the results have just been made known in a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The instructions to enumerators read as follows: "The mortgage debt to be reported includes not only the debt secured by an instrument called a 'mortgage' but also debts protected by deeds of trust, judgments or any other legal instrument that partakes of the nature of a mortgage and which has the same legal effect."

It must be remembered that this does not represent all of the farmers' obligations and that it covers only land operated by the owner itself.

According to the report the total mortgage debt reported on owner farm land in Canada amounted to $671,776,500 on June 1st, distributed among the provinces as follows: Ontario, 29.74 per cent.; Saskatchewan, 21.16 per cent.; Alberta, 16 per cent.; Quebec, 14.35 per cent.; Manitoba, 4.82 per cent.; British Columbia, 2.26 per cent.; Nova Scotia, 0.98 per cent.; New Brunswick, 0.97 per cent. and Prince Edward Island, 0.72 per cent.

In order to state the ratio of the mortgage debt to the value of the farms only the fully owned farms were considered, but as these represent 79 per cent of the total, the same is sufficient for the ratio to be representative of the whole.

In the Dominion 35.56 per cent. of the farms fully owned reported mortgage debt, with the ratio of the mortgage debt to the value of the mortgage farm as follows: Canada, 40.86 per cent.; Prince Edward Island, 33.74 per cent.; Nova Scotia, 40.45 per cent.; New Brunswick, 38.26 per cent.; Quebec, 38.07 per cent.; Ontario, 44.79 per cent; Manitoba, 49.46 per cent.; Saskatchewan, 36.11 per cent.; Alberta, 36.75 per cent., and British Columbia, 34.76 per cent.

IN TWO SHORT YEARS.

A youth of twenty-seven appeared in Peterborough police court asking for a year in jail and was given thirty days. Two years ago he received a legacy of two thousand three hundred dollars, and, according to his story told the justices of the peace he "went through" it on cars and having a good time. What he did not spend he was swindled out of.

There are two things certain in life. One has to watch out for the swindler and one has to watch out for one's self. Probably the chief cause of anxiety is self. If the self is rightly set even the swindler cannot break through the defence be his tongue as glib as possible and his offerings rosy.

This a story of a youth who had a wrong ideal. Money he saw but as means of pleasure, not an agency of self-development. Today his wrong ideal has made him accept a very low ideal—a place in a cell. He has asked society to protect him from himself as he is no longer able to look after himself.

This is a bad start but it would have been much worse if this were to come at the end of a long life or at the beginning of age. This boy still has a chance to make good for he has many years ahead though the road uphill will be hard but one to challenge the best in him. Age beaten in such a way would scarcely recover from the realization of the defeat of ideals and the shock of body and mind.—Ontario Intelligencer.

PARROTS OR PREACHERS?

The Reverend Raymond E. Young, of Sandwich, England, sure has been "speakin' right out in meetin'." He startled his erstwhile congregation recently by announcing that, although he was "not an irreligious man" a distate for church work had grown upon him. He voluntarily resigned his pastorate and declared:

"What the average church seems to want today in the pulpit is a sort of tame parrot, who will twitter forth pretty platitudes Sunday by Sunday and flit from house to house, making itself pleasant for the rest of the week."

It is not the first time such a suggestion has been made. Most church congregations will admit at times they don't know just what they want.

If a minister deals with current events there will be those who will tell him with a sigh they wish he would "preach the gospel."

If he avoids local references he will be told he is too academic and "out of touch with what is going on around him." If he makes local references some members will begin to inquire whom he is "getting at."

If he attempts to give any views he may have on social problems he will be told to keep out of politics. If he avoids such references he will be told likely that he is 'just a dreamer and so impractical."

Mr. Young told his congregation:

"I am a young man of 32, and if events take their normal course I have another 30 years at least of active life before me. Would you choose to spend those trotting around trying to please and pacify disgruntled and petulant churchgoers?"

Most people would have only one answer to such a query. And if Mr. Young feels that way about it he is doing right in getting out of the ministry. "I for one am not going to try. I would rather earn my bread with pick and shovel," he avowed.

But when Mr. Young purports: "The position of a minister is no longer consistent with the dignity of man," he is on more doubtful ground. In fact it would almost seem that a young man of so much spirit should not find it difficult to deal even with such arbitrary church members as he himself indicated.

Independence of judgment certainly will always command respect in any calling.

But it all recalls the old problem, and each man must decide for himself. A recent writer declared that "to contrast modern preaching with that of the early church reveals all the difference between those who herald a fact and those who merely hazard an opinion."

Dr. Joseph Parker, the famous preacher of City Temple, London, once publicly advised "any young man who was contemplating going into the ministry not to think of it—unless he was quite sure there was no other possible calling in life open to him." And he said this after half a century as one of the most notable and successful of modern preachers.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

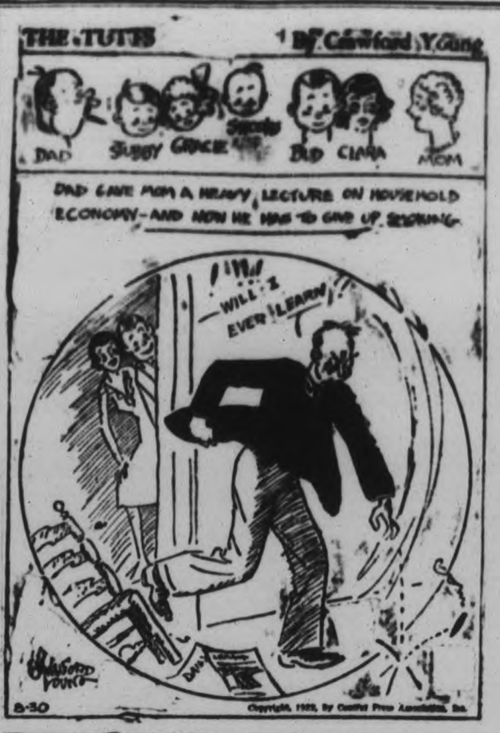
President Roosevelt has lost the services of the chief of his famous "Brain Trust." However the president will still have plenty of people to give him advice.

Up to yesterday at least the Canadian National Exhibition has been running ahead of its last year's attendance figures, which is an encouraging and significant sign.

Thirty million dollars will have been spent in Ontario on relief by the end of the present fiscal year. The province's share alone is over $13,000,000, a heavy burden upon the people of Ontario.

One effect of the NRA policy in the United States is that Canadian consumers of American coal will have to pay more for it, which is not likely to increase the number of Roosevelt fans in this country.

Since Mr. Ferguson announced that there will be no election in Ontario this year, the political fires have died down to a noticeable degree.



VACATION ESCAPADE

By ARTHUR SHUMWAY

CHAPTER 10

"I'M GOING with you!" Sally insisted when Ted told her that he intended to go back to the Proctor house after the movie and dig in the sand where Fred Proctor had pretended to be looking for his lost cigaret lighter.

"Oh no you're not," Ted said. "In the first place we can't be seen together, and in the second place we're not going to expose both of our carcasses to that dead-eyed sharpshooter over there, whoever he is. One of us has to survive and carry on."

"I'll tell you what I can do then," she said, feeling a little glow at his solicitousness. "I'll watch things from the inside of the house so you won't be caught."

"Now—that's a really smart idea," he agreed. "Okay, Sally. You stand guard with your little lantern. One if by land, two if by sea—and I grubbing in the sand will be."

At his suggestion they left the movie separately and met in the darkness around the corner on a palm-lined street half buried under brooding, mossy old live oaks.

Ted grasped her two hands in his as she came to the rendezvous. "God bless you," he said softly. "I'll be a mighty happy citizen when this mess is over and you're out of that slaughterhouse."

"I don't mind it, Ted. It's fun, plotting, slightering about like a gumshoe and—helping you."

"You're a darling, Sally. I—" But—he paused. "Let's get going," he commanded.

"But—you were saying?" Sally said, smiling at him.

"I know—but I was just saying. It doesn't mean anything yet. I haven't any right to start saying things until we see some daylight ahead."

"I like to hear them, though."

"You'll be hearing them all right, if we ever get this mess ironed out."

Sally felwt a pleasant glow as she walked along beside this tall, sincere young man. He was very fond of her, she was sure, and she of him.

"We'll get a cab for you," Ted suggested.

"For me? Why, what are you—"

"We shouldn't be seen together in anything so intimate as a small-town taxi," he told her. "Drivers have eyes, ears, and, unfortunately, tongues. You can't tell. No, you ride over in a cab. That'll get you there well ahead of me without any suspicion. You'll have time to pay your respects to anyone who's up, then yawn and toddle off to bed, so sleepy you can hardly hold your eyes open. You'll get ready for bed, snap off the light with the door ajar—and then you'll be sure to shut and look it. Then you'll sit near the window and wait for me to give you a signal. I'll come sneaking up from the beach like a crab, and while I scoop around in the sand you'll keep your eye peeled at your keyhole and at the window. Since you insist on getting in on this little archaeological party, that'll be the best and safest way."

"You think of everything," Sally marveled.

"I hope so," Ted sighed, seriously.

Ted left Sally just short of the cab-stand. "Now, remember," he said, "this may seem like a lark, but you can't tell but what that joint is watched."

Remembering his warning, Sally studied the cab driver carefully as she got into the car. He was a dark, wispy young man, no larger than a half-grown boy, and he seemed quite harmless. Yet she noticed that when she gave him the address of the Proctor residence, he caught a quick shrewd glimpse of her over his shoulder. That might not mean a thing; yet, again, anything might have a meaning these days.

Sally felt a pleasant glow as she softly and loked into the library. At first she did not notice, Fred Proctor, then she became conscious of his presence in the far corner of the room, sitting in a big chair and bending over a large open book. "I just saw the silliest movie," she announced, disarmingly.

Proctor was looking at her quizzically. Without removing his dark eyes, he softly closed the book. As Sally drew near she noticed that it was a gray, leather-reinforced bookkeeping volume of some sort. She noticed, too, that the man shifted his position and rested his elbow on it and the end-table on which it sat.

"I was wondering where you had gone," he said pleasantly. But the pause that followed was not pleasant—for Sally.

"Do you know," he said, "I wish you wouldn't hurry off to town that way, alone, without telling me."

She felt her heart swell and rise into her breathing apparatus. Desperately, she fumbled for some reply.

"What do you do? Take the bus?"

"Why, yes," she said nervously.

He shook his head and smiled. "It's quite a walk to the bus and it isn't the most convenient form of transportation. After this I wish you'd take one of the cars. No sense in having two of them and one lying idle. You're perfectly welcome, you know. You drive, don't you?"

"Why—yes, Mr. Proctor," she stammered, unnerved by her relief.

"Well, then, just get the keys whenever you want to run over alone. I'll have them or they'll be in the desk. You might just as well have the use of a car now that I've such an efficient man to look after them."

"I think I'll get some sleep," Sally said drowsily. "I doubt if I can stay awake till I get upstairs."

"If you can't and I hear you bump the floor I'll come right along and carry you up and tuck you in," Proctor suggested lightly.

"You bet you will!" Sally thought. She yawned again and started for the stairs. "G'night," she mumbled.

She went to her room, got into her pajamas and negligee and then left her door slightly ajar with the light still on while she brushed her teeth. She came out of the bath room, sighed audibly, snapped off the light and closed the door, locking it at the same time so that the sound of the closing would drown the noise of the catch. Then she hurried to the window and watched for Ted.

She had not been sitting there long, listening to the endless lull of the surf when she heard a little hiss from the palmettos below. She was so startled she nearly fell.

"It's Ted," came up the whisper. "Okay?"

"Okay," she whispered.

She saw his lean form come crouching out of the palmettos toward the house. Looking about carefully, she tiptoed to her door and listened. There was no sound. She hurried back to the window and watched the shadowy form below move over the sand.

"Right there," she whispered softly.

Ted looked up and nodded and began to dig with his two hands. Sally noticed only then that he was clothed only in a pair of khaki trunks. Puzzled a moment, she realized then the wisdom of the plan. He was much harder to distinguish against the sand than if he had been clothed. She supposed that he had hidden his clothing nearby.

As she watched him nervously she heard footfalls in the hall outside her room. Quickly she tiptoed again to the door and looked through the keyhole. She saw nothing, then heard no more steps. But by this time she was keenly tensed and alive to every sound and shadow however small.

Back at the window she saw Ted still scooping furiously in the sand. She looked out over the beach and saw the lights of an automobile in the distance. The car was coming at a high speed. For an instant Sally felt she must scream. She saw Ted flatten himself on the sand. Then the car, on the hard sand 300 yards to the east, whisked by without slowing and she knew she could breathe again.

She stole once more to the door and looked through the keyhole. All she could see was a small section of the wall across the hallway. But she felt a growing dread when she knew that she was listening to heavy breathing hardly an arm's length away.

Holding her own breath while her heart knocked painfully in her tight chest, she looked again through the keyhole and this time saw a shadow on the wall, a shadow that she knew almost intuitively, was that of the evil-looking Gus Vitelli. Suddenly the light was cut off from the keyhole as a man's body came bending down outside the door. Sally jumped back, terrified. He was looking through the keyhole.

On her hands and knees she wormed her way to the window and peered out. Ted was gone.

ALL OF US

By MARSHALL MASLIN

THE ANGRY MAN IS FUNNY

The angry man is funny.
Not to himself, of course, but to other people.
His face is red, his eyes flash murderously, his lips are drawn back from his teeth, the hair rises on the back of his neck, his muscles bulge, his fists clench, he talks to himself and anybody who will listen. A violent secretion pours through his body and urges him to destructive action... He stands alone, all alone, in this world and makes a spectacle of himself.
He's funny.
What's the matter with people, anyway? Why don't other people get angry when he does? His rights have been outraged. His feelings have been injured, his pride trampled in the dust—why can't other people see that his is a righteous anger, indeed, and that a man's anger isn't as funny as they seem to think?
I don't know....All I know is that angry men, angry about something that isn't our intimate concern, are laughable. We don't laugh at sick people. We don't laugh at the poor and helpless. Our sympathy goes out to them, but we do laugh when we see a man get red in the face and double up his fists and defy the whole world to put him down....Not because he has a great cause, not because he is glad to sell his life to make other lives better, but just because he's one of those unstable lads who fly off the handle at the slightest nudge of circumstances....That man's a joke. He's funny.
I know. I've done it myself. And the memory of the spectacle I made is still a sore spot with me....I ought to laugh at myself now, but I can't. Vanity gets in the way. Vanity will not let me laugh at that odd creature who lost his temper in public and gave strangers some free amusement....So I'm quietly angry at myself. The old philosopher was right when he said, "An angry man is again angry with himself when he returns to reason." And so was Shakespeare, writing "Anger's my meat; I sup upon myself and so shall starve with feeding."
.....So, in the future, I'll let the other furious fellow furnish the public amusement and I'll go stalking round the house to kick a fence-post....Perhaps.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

A TELEGRAPHIC MONOPOLY

On this date in 1881, the stock of the Great North Western Telegraph Company, founded at Winnipeg, was acquired by a Toronto syndicate, and the new company took over the Montreal and Dominion Telegraph Companies. The G.N.W. had been incorporated by federal act on May 7, 1880, its capital being placed at $400,000, mostly western, as will be seen by the names of the directorate: Hon. Alex. Morris (lieutenant governor of Manitoba 1872-76); Hon. A. C. Bannatyne (a former M.P. for Provencher and provincial minister); Hon. J. P. Brown; Hon. J. C. Aikens (who was to be lieutenant governor of Manitoba, 1882-88); F. P. Leacock, H. S. Donaldson, C. McDonald, J. Anderson, G. A. Kirkpatrick (of Kingston, afterwards lieutenant governor of Ontario, 1892-97); Thomas Swinyard (of Hamilton); Hon. Dr. Schultz (afterwards Sir John and Lieutenant Governor of Manitoba 1888-95); F. W. Strange, J. G. Haggart (of Perth afterwards Postmaster General and Minister of Railways), A. Markham and J. J. Foy (of Toronto. The new company had as its directors, Erastus Wiman, Hon. William McDougal, Adam Brown (of Hamilton), William Gooderham (president of the Bank of Toronto), D. H. Bates, James Hedley, O. S. Wood, Richard Fuller and A. S. Irving.

The Montreal Telegraph Company had been in existence from 1847 and at the time of the merger owned and operated 20,479 miles of wire, had 1,507 offices, 2,625 instruments, and had in its employ 70 women and 2,267 males. The Dominion Company had been founded in 1868 by Selah Reeves, who had been financed chiefly by subscriptions gathered around Clifton, Ont., but he failed in the enterprise and it was not until January 11, 1870, that the company was really organized at a meeting at Toronto, which elected these officers: Hon. P. McMurrich (president), J. I. McKenzie (vice president), James Michie (treasurer), Hon. J. H. Cameron (consulting counsel), Hon. M. C. Cameron (solicitor) and H. J. Colles (secretary). The directors included A. R. McMaster, Hon. W. Cayley, Toronto; A. Cozo, Hamilton; E. Nelson, St. Catharines and T. N. Gibbs, Ottawa). The company's lines ran from Ottawa, Buffalo and Detroit to Quebec and embraced 3,340 miles of line with 366 offices. It gained considerable business by a contract with the Direct United States cable Company and extended its line from the cable landing at Toe Bay, N.S. via Halifax to Quebec by way of Pictou, New Glasgow, Guysboro, Cape Canso and Antigonish. This brought its mileage to 5,142 and its offices to 608 at the time of the merger. Mr. Gibbs was then its president, Mr. Swinyard its manager, director with M. H. Gault as local director at Montreal and A. Joseph at Quebec.

Mr. Wiman was elected the first president of the G.N.W., with O. S. Wood of Montreal as vice-president, and H. P. Dwight of the Montreal company as secretary. The merger was an official record says, "in friendly alliance with the Western Union Company" of the United States. Amongst its divisional superintendents was Charles R. Hosmer at Montreal, who was to, later, organize the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs and break the G.N.W. monopoly. Although Mr. Wiman's residence was in New York, he was a Canadian, having been born at Churchville, Upper Canada, in 1834, and after being a typesetter developed into a journalist, eventually, into a financier and became a partner in the mercentile agency firm of R. G. Dun, which he made, "Dun, Wiman and Company." He died February 9, 1904, but had previously resigned the presidency in favor of Mr. Dwight, who was also general manager until October 1903, when he relinquished the latter office, but held the presidency to his death July 4, 1912. Mr. Isaac McMichael succeeded as general manager; he died February 2, 1911.

The G.N.W. passed out of sight January 1, 1921, when it was absorbed by the Canadian National Telegraphs, which now have through lines from Atlantic to Pacific, something which the old company tried for for years but never achieved.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterborough's Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner.

Max Johnson
Burleigh Falls Fishing Club, Ont.

You ask if you would be a suitable truck driver. My answer is 'yes' if you have no other definite ambition, but you will have to do your utmost to overcome that nervousness which is so clearly depicted in your writing, and you will have to learn to think quickly and correctly for as you know, accidents happen too often for comfort. It is the man who can do the right thing at the right time in an emergency who usually manages to escape serious consequences on the road. Your writing is so changeable that there seems to be no exact definition of your characteristics. I believe the truth is that you are so very young, that you have not set any real standard for yourself. You seem to live from day to day (just growing up) as it were. In order to encourage you I am going to list you the different lines of employment which are faintly discernable in your writing, so that you may try to concentrate upon one at least, and make it pay. First music as a hobby, mechanics as in trucking or garage attendant, out of door expert guide for fishing or hunting; swimming instructor and here's wishing you success.

O. Henry,
582 Park St., N., Peterboro', Ont.

You say you are nineteen years of age and wonder if you will have any success. Of course, the answer is entirely due to your own ability to concentrate and make the most of your talents. Your writing reflects a versatility which causes you to become restless and dissatisfied with yourself and everything about you. It seems to me that you are nervous and reticent but no doubt this is due to your extreme youth at present, and as you gain confidence in your own ability to accomplish something really worth while, I feel sure that your health will improve and you will then be able to master your faults and shortcomings. I am very glad to know that you have an ambition, for that will encourage you to forge ahead and overcome difficulties, and by the well expressed capital 'H' in the word Henry, I know that you will put your best efforts into the culmination of your desires. The writing as you present it now suggests, banking, missionary work or pharmacy. If neither of these suit you, write me again through The Examiner, stating the particular ambition, and enclose your birthdate, month and year using your same pen name O. Henry and I shall be glad to assist you further.

Mrs. N. Whitney,
R.R. No. 1, Round Lake, Ont.

Your handwriting as delineated on your sample for analys's registers a most versatile individual. One who likes a change of scenery and friends. You possess a cheerful disposition and though at times you cannot have what you desire, you manage to be satisfied with conditions as they present themselves from day to day. You are most adaptable and have a happy faculty of making the most of each situation. Your hands are clever and can fashion many worthwhile objects. You are fond of music but too much 'jazz' irritates you. You are neat about your home, and enjoy harmony. You are tender hearted and cannot bear to see anyone suffer, especially little children. You have a love for flowers but you hesitate to cut them, lest they should die. You are sympathetic and have a soothing touch of healing in your hands to those who are sick at heart or mind.

E.A.M., c o Mrs. N. Whitney,
R.R. No. 1, Round Lake, Ont.

Your handwriting slightly forward in its formation with accentuated capitals, denotes impulsiveness. Yet, there is a reticence in expression. You are susceptible to slights and your sensitive nature is very easily hurt. Therefore, you deliberately hide your emotions, hopes and ambitions. You are proclaimed as essentially stylish in your mode of dress but you carry yourself with a demure simplicity characteristic of your own retiring nature. Your large capitals show a desire to become numbered among the artistic clientel. The crossing of your 't' bars represents a certain amount of will power, though not quite sufficient to enable you to attain your desire. You have a retentive brain and can remember every little detail of incidents which happen. You are kind and easy to deal with, and you will not enter into gossip or arguments.

Norma Rennie,
Keene, Ont.

The handwriting as depicted on your sample for analysis delineates you as a most circumspect person. You are neat and precise. You carry yourself with an air of importance and emanate poise and well being. You are reserved and thrifty, considerate and polite. You do not 'gush' over people, neither do you desire flattery. You talk convincingly, but you are not argumentive. Your will power is well balanced as is your determination. You never emphasize or demonstrate your enthusiasm overmuch, no matter how pleased or angry you may be, but you keep about on an even basis. You choose your clothing with equal care and thought....In the every day business world you could be relied upon to work with integrity, honesty and diligence. The close formations of your small writing denotes a sensitiveness and shyness.

FREE DORLAND IN DAY OR TWO

Decision Made—Date Set To-day at Price-Guthrie-Dupre Conference.

SESSION IN OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, Aug. 30.—(C.P.)—Albert Dorland, serving time in Portsmouth penitentiary for an attempted Toronto bank robbery, will be liberated in a day or two, it was learned here to-day from an authoritative source.

It is understood the decision to release him has been made and the date will depend upon a conference to-day attended by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice; Hon. W. H. Price, Ontario Attorney-General, who is in Ottawa, and Hon. Maurice Dupre, Solicitor-General.

Dorland was sentenced in Toronto to a penitentiary term after police arrested him and a man named Touhey on a charge of attempting to rob a bank.

At a Royal Commission investigation a few weeks ago, it was found Touhey was a police informer and that all the facts were not known to the magistrate when sentence was passed.

Steel Production Declines 3 Per Cent.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (AP)—The average of steel ingot output in the United States has declined to 47 per cent of capacity from 50 per cent a week ago, "Iron age" said to-day.

"Both steel releases and mill operations," said the review, "have undergone a further decline, and there is nothing to suggest an early change in trend outside of a contra-seasonal upturn n automobile production.

"Part of the decline in production is attributable to prior purchases for stocking purpose, prompted by the upward trend of prices; much of it has been due to uncertainties growing out of nation-wide readjustments to the NRA program. But for the time being steel producers are themselves so engrossed in making adjustments required by codification that the course of demand and output is commanding comparatively little attention."

LIMITS CANADIAN SHIPMENTS TO AVERAGE OF PAST TWO YEARS

Aimed at Protecting British Agriculturists From Foreign Flooding.

FURTHER CONSULTATION.

LONDON, Eng., Aug. 30. (C.P. Cable)—Negotiations between Canada and the United Kingdom over the British imports of oats and oat products resulted to-night in announcement the United Kingdom will double the duty on foreign oats, while the Canadian government undertakes at the same time to limit her exports of oats and oat products to the United Kingdom.

Huge imports of oats both from Canada and from foreign countries have caused British agriculturists some concern and the discussions have been going on for weeks.

Satisfactory conclusion of these discussions was announced to-night. Oats, oat products and oatmeal from foreign countries will be subject to an additional 10 percent ad valorem duty, making a total of 20 percent.

In an endeavor to limit Canadian exports to Britain for the 12 months ending in August, 1934, to a figure not exceeding, in the case of oats, approximately the average of Canadian exports in the last two cereal years and in the case of oat products, including oatmeal, to a figure not exceeding the average Canaian exports to Britain in the last two calendar years.

This arrangement, it is explained, is made in order to ensure protection will be afforded home producers who will not be prejudiced by increased imports from Canada while the increased duty should effectively check undue imports from foreign countries.

There will be further consultations between the governments of Canada and the United Kingdom on the subject before the 12-months' period expires, it is stated.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (A.P.).—Stocks reversed their trend in late trading today after a forenoon sag under heaviness in gold mining shares, alcohols and others. Utilities and oils moved higher in moderate demand. Early losses of 1 to more than 3 points were cancelled or reduced by United States Steel, New York Central, Allied Chemical, United States Smelting, National Distillers, American Telephone, Chrysler, Alaska Juneau, Dome and Cerro de Pasco. Consolidated Gas, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Amerada, Houston Oil and Nickel showed small net advances. Transfers approximated 2,500,000.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Aug. 30 (CP)—While stocks firmed moderately in the closing half hour to-day the general prive level was slightly lower on the whole. Distillery, metal and other interlisted shares made up the bulk of their earlier recessions in the final buying. Volume was fair in the distillery stocks and in Nickel but small on the whole. Nickel recovered to 21.85, off 15 cents; Brazilian, Ford of Canada, and C.P.R. lost ¼ to ⅝.

Oil leaders closed about ⅛ lower in British American, Imperial and International Pete. McColl Pfd. improved.

Prices slipped around rathe easily to-day, endeavoring to keep within hailing distance of the shifting New York list where alternate waves of selling and slow recovery kept market followers guessing.

Distillery and metal shares took an early drop but recovered only to slump again around noon. Walkers Common fell back to 45 and the other liquor shares took small losses. Nickel dropped below $21 for a time and Smelters lost 3 to 131½.

TORONTO MINING.

TORONTO, August 30 (C.P.).—Mining stocks to-day repeated yesterday's performance on the Standard Exchange, weakening until the last hour and then staging a smart recovery. To-day's rebound, however, was less violent than yesterday. Volume was fair.

Leading gold shares failed to share in the recovery to the extent that the base metal stocks came back. Losses of 50 cents to $1.50 were recorded for Dome, Lake Shore, McIntyre, and Pioneer and Teck. Hollinger and Wright-Hargreaves took losses of 10 to 20 cents.

International Nickel featured the Base Metals, climbing back from a low of $21 to close only 20 cents down at 21.80. Noranda finished about 75 cents lower.

Reaction in the gold list from yesterday's violent upswing in the last half-hour, came early to-day, and prices among the leaders gradually dropped from a few cents to $2.50 with only short intervals of firmness. The lower quotation on gold in London was also a factor in depressing prices.

Base Metal and silver shares also felt the effect of the bearish New York tone. Nickel dropping to $21.00 and Noranda to $35.25 around noon.

WAX EGGS.

ALLERTON, Ill.—Thieves who stole 142 eggs from a chicken farm found out later that all of them were made of wax.

Livestock-Produce Quotations

TORONTO, Aug. 30 (CP)—Trade continued slow on the Toronto Livestock Market to-day with only half the supply sold.

Receipts as reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle, 500; calves, 630; hogs, 740; sheep and lambs, 1,460.

Common to medium weighty steers sold from $2.50 to $4; butcher cattle sold mostly at $2 to $4, with a few choice at $4.50. Top cows brought $2.25, with bulls ranging from $2 to $2.50. A few light stockers brought $2.25 to $2.60.

Calf market was slow at Tuesday's decline. Choce calves brought $6 to $6.50 and common grassers $2.

Hogs steady to sell at $6.40 to $6.50, f.o.b. for bacons; $6.65 to $6.75 off truck, and $6.90 to $7 off car.

GEORGE YOUNG IS TAKEN OUT

an attack of cramps before the start but continued in the hope they would leave when he got under way.

At the end of the first mile, Jackie May of Honoluiu was 30 yards in front and swimming like a streak. Clarence Ross, Chicago, was holding second place, while there was a fight for third, George Young, Toronto, leading by a head, with Harry Glancy, Cincinnati fourth. George Blagden, last year's winner, was next, with Gianna Gambi, the "Italian Windmill" in sixth position. The rest of the field was strung along the mile-long lap.

In previous swims, May has led for the first two or three miles but then quit because of cold water. To-day, however, the 70 degrees was more to his liking. He covered the first mile in the fast time of 26 minutes, three seconds.

Before the end of the second mile, George Young moved up into second place, and was sprinting after May. The Hawaiian youth, however, was still swimming very strongly. In the first hour three swimmers ha been taken out with cramps.

May retained his lead at the end of the third mile, but his lead had narrowed down to 15 yards and Eli Radakovich, Dequesne, Pa., was in second place. George Young had slipped back and was fighting to hold third place with Ross, Marvin Nelson and Harry Glancy. The four swimmers were practically even as they rounded the buoy. Margaret Ravior Young, three times winner of the women's marathon here, was in her husband's boat and was waving George on.

Radakovich proved the surprise of the race. He ended the second mile in fifth place and was chasing May closely at the end of the third mile.

Positions Changed

There was a radical change in positions at the end of the fourth mile. Radakovich had moved up into first place. Ross was second, Young third and the previous leader, May, in fourth place. Marvin Nelson was fifth and Glancy sixth.

The battle had barely started, however. At the end of the fifth mile, one-third of the race, Clarence Ross sprinted into first place. Marvin Nelson was second. Gianni Gambi moved up into third and Radakovich had dropped back into fourth position. George Young was fifth and George Blagden sixth. There was not 50 yards between the entire group, and they were sprinting as though in a 100-yard dash.

LAKEFIELD PLANS SALUTE FOR VISITING FIRE CHIEFS

As a compliment to the members of the Women's Association of Fire Chiefs, who are passing through the village early this afternoon, the fire siren will sound a salute and the brigade will respond and go to the wharf as the Stoney Lake goes through. Fire Chief Clark has posted notices to this effect so that there will be no alarm when the siren "gets busy" between two and three o'clock this afternoon.

Chief Clark is chairman of the committee on exhibits and has worked very hard to procure a good showing which will be on view during the convention.

ROT HITS PEACHES.

GRIMSBY.—Owing to a condition prevailing over the week-end, growers and shippers have experienced an extremly heavy loss in peaches, it was learned to-day. Brown rot, caused by infestation of the cottony moth, resulted in between 50 and 60 per cent waste in carload shipments leaving the Niagara peninsula.

HOLLYWOOD

Sense and Nonsense

Naturally eager to further his wife's career, Merian C. Cooper has considered several stories for Dorothy Jordan's next picture. The one she'll probably do, however, is Lulu Volmer's play, "Trigger," which has been purchased by R-K-O.

Dorothy Jordan

In this story, Dorothy will portray a mountain girl of her own birth-state, Tennessee.

This pretty actress with the southern accent has become one of Hollywood's most important hostesses of late. She recently has entertained the John Hay Whitneys, Elliott Roosevelt and his bride and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Henry D. Roosevelt.

Few people in Hollywood realize what a wide circle of friends may be listed by the quiet-seeming Merian Cooper. He went to Annapolis, was an aviator in the world war and has explored many of the out-of-the-way places of the world.

• • •

With John Barrymore, Ricardo Cortez and Edmund Lowe already mentioned for the part, another actor was being tested yesterday for the lead in "Counselor-at-Law." He is Jacob Ben Ami, star of the Jewish Theatre and periodically a performer on Broadway. Tests were made in New York. Meanwhile Elmer Rice, author of the play, has arrived in Hollywood from Mexico City to work on the screen version. It's his second trip to Hollywood. Samuel Goldwyn brought him out for "Street Scene."

• • •

Major Ernst Udet has bedued many film actresses since his arrival here for the air show, but his favorite seems to be Lilian Harvey. . . . It's a deer hunting trip to the San Jacinto Mountains for Warner Baxter. . . . All bets are off between Universal and Tom Brown. He'll free-lance now.

Sorry, but there isn't much hope for the inexperienced child to get the role of Greta Garbo as a girl in "Queen Christina." The studio is still searching, but they want a youngster who has already appeared before the camera or on the stage.

• • •

Lew Cody reports it as happening on the Marx Brothers set.

Director Leo McCarey was trying to get Groucho to do a fall. "Come on," he urged. "Don't you want to be a stunt man?"

"Ot me," snapped Groucho. "Look at Fairbanks. They're selling his house."

Her picture finished, Benita Hume is scheduled to leave here for New York, London and marriage with Jack Dunfee. Later on, she plans to return to Hollywood and continue her motion picture career. . . . Next Thursday will see Will Rogers' daughter out of a movie job. "My Weakness," her first picture, will be finished. Incidentally, this film will give American audiences their first glimpse of Lillian Harvey in a Hollywood-made picture. Due to a similarity in story to "Adorable," the English actress first film, "My Lips Betray," will be held for later release.

It was a dramatic moment when Jack Gilbert went out on the "Queen Christina" set and spoke to Greta Garbo for the first time in 3 years. La Garbo was lying smothered with covers in a huge replica of a royal bed. Gilbert came up and shook hands. The Swedish star told him it was nice to have him in the picture. With a wide grin and with a sweeping gesture, Jack exclaimed: "Why it's colossal!" La Garbo's throaty laugh rang out.

was also engaged at Festubert and at Ypres, during the gas attack, and Givenchy. In 1916 it was in action at Hill 60, Mount Sorrel and on the Somme, where its conduct was warmly commended by the commander-in-chief, Sir Douglas Haig.

The Second fought in all the engagements of 1917—at Vimy Ridge, Fresnoy, Hill 70 and Passendaele, taking a prominent part at the last named battle in the capture of Passchendeale Ridge.

Telegraph Hill

During the German offensive in the spring of 1918, the 2nd Battalion was engaged at Telegraph Hill, east of Arras. Later it participated in the great attack at Amiens, pushing through to the peak of the penetration on August 9 by its capture of Rouvroy-en-Santerre. Transferred again to Arras the, battalion fought almost continuously from August 30 to September 4, capturing the Fresnes-Rouvroy line, east of Cherisy, and, in the subsequent offensive against the Drocourt-Queant Line, fighting its way through to the Canal Du Nord.

The 2nd Battalion was once more in action at the storming of the Canal Du Nord, on Sept. 27, 1918. Sideslipping north, the battalion crossed the Canal De La Sensee, south of Douail, and participated in the pursuit to Mons.

Forming part of the army of occupation, the 2nd Battalion was the first organized unit of Canadian infantry to cross the German frontier. It garrisoned the Cologne bridgehead for nearly a month before being withdrawn to Belgium.

The battalion was demobalized at Kingston, Ont., on April 23, 1919—four years to the day from its baptism of fire at Ypres.

The Second is perpetuated in the Canadian militia by the Governor General's Footguards of Ottawa and the Peterborough Rangers. Its post-war association has also an overseas alliance, having established an affiliation with the 2nd Australian Infantry Battalion Association of New South Wales. Active branches of the association operate in Ottawa, Belleville, Oshawa and Peterborough.

Enid Wilson Far Above Opposition

EXMOOR COUNTRY CLUB, Highland Park, Ill., Aug. 30.—(A.P.)—Brushing aside her opponent with a game that shattered par by three shots, Enid Wilson of England, entered the quarter finals of the women's United States' golf championship to-day with a 4 and 3 triumph over Mrs. Harley Higbie, of Detroit.

The British champion was never headed as she won the first hole with a birdie four, made the turn in 36, three under par, and ended the match on the 15th with a half in birdie fours. Pumping out tremendous tee shots with her man sized woods and pitching dead to the pin with magic approaches, she was an easy master of par, and Mrs. Higbie, although the latter was only two over par herself.

SPORT OF KINGS

By ART MURRAY

(Special to Examiner.)

WITH TO-DAY'S opening of Stamford Park it marks Ontario's last racing meet for 1933 outside of the four Toronto tracks. In other words only thirty-five more days of racing in our midst. POP'S DREAM looks like a champ for a heat at Niagara. It was at this track that Conny Smythe lost him via the claiming route last month and do not be surprised if he claims him back again. By the way we notice where Conny's Barn at Thorncliffe was burned last Saturday evening and they managed to save Big Blow from a fiery death. This one was a consistent winner last year, but did not perform this year at all.

• • •

CANDYMAN FROM the McLeod Stable is ready to win at the first asking. They generally get a good price on this one too. SHORELINT has been very consistent this summer and should cop a few more races before they put him away in the moth-balls for the winter. He will be offered for sale with the rest of the Thorncliffe Stable at their coming dispersal sale. DARK MISSION has had a nice long rest and when he gets in again it should be custard pie as he has a lot of real class. They tell me Eddie Seagram would like awfully to have him back again.

• • •

UPSET LAD has not won a race this year and Stamford Park looks like the spot for him. They tell me he has slowly rounded into his best form and when he is right he usually cops a few.

• • •

HERE IS a real special. It is one called HAYFIRE. He has been running below form all year but the wise ones tell me he is now ready. DOUBLE DARE is another. Every fall this one reaches the peak of his form and the way he has been going this year leads me to believe that this will be his banner year. So don't forget him from now until the end of October.

• • •

FROM THE innermost circles we hear that Conny Smythe has a couple of well charged bullets in his barn all ready to shoot. One of them is a two-year-old by the name of DIVERT who claims for his sire the famous old handicap performer Display. If he is anything like his daddy he will certainly make them say 'uncle' before very long. The other one is WHITE THORN which needs no introduction to keen followers of the turf. Before closing this column, we want to hand you one called YONKEL who will toe-rope his field probably this week at Hawthorne.

WHEAT EXPORTS DROP.

OTTAWA.—A decrease of more than 700,000 bushels was shown in the export clearances of wheat for the week ending August 25, as compared with the corresponding week of last year, according to a report issued to-day by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The beautiful grounds at the residence of Mr. F. D. Kerr, K.C., on Rubidge Street, made a superb setting yesterday afternoon for the tea at which Mrs. Kerr entertained the visiting ladies who are here in connection with the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs. "Restful" was the appropriate word applied by one of the visitors to the lovely grounds with their massive tress, flowering shrubs and profusion of beautiful flowers. The ladies enjoyed a stroll through the rose garden, where the sun dial placidly counts the hours, paused to admire the gorgeous panoramic western view visible from these gardens, and took advantage of the games of croquet and clock golf on the lawn. The guests were received by Mrs. Kerr and Mrs. Roland Denne. Tea was served from a table on the lawn, under a spreading cut-maple tree. The table, covered by a lace cloth, was centered by an exquisite large bouquet of flowers which were the gift of Fireman Robert Carr, from his gardens on Bonacord Street. In four shades of pink and two of blue, the flowers combined dark and light blue delphinium, flame and rose gladioli, pink snapdragon and spicy carnation pinks. They were placed in a huge silver punch bowl, flanked on either side by a miniature red fire engine and hook and ladder truck. Tea was poured by Mrs. J. F. Strickland and Mrs. C. G. Graham, assisted by Mrs. J. R. Marshall, Mrs. W. Jones, Mrs. H. Robertson and Mrs. A. H. Clark of Lakefield. JUST AMONG US GIRLS

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

A woman should be very attentive to the posture she gets into the habit of taking.

• • • • • • •

At no time should she become careless about them, for the older she gets the more necessary is it for her to have them graceful. Youth is in itself graceful.

• • • • • • •

The bones are supple and the muscles are elastic when one is young Motion is free and there is a beauty of rhythm in attitudes in early years. There are, of course, awkward young people, but they are not the average. Grace and youth go together.

• • • • • • •

It is important during these years to recognize the fact of the grace of motion, not to be self conscious, but to be appreciative that everyone normally is graceful at this stage in life.

• • • • • • •

It is when people grow older that they lose this grace unless they are careful. By refusing to let these graceful motions slip away, persons retain just as much of their youthfulness.

• • • • • • •

It will be seen, therefore, that it is well to realize what youthful attitude are, lest they go without one being aware of it.

• • • • • • •

A young woman, for example, stands with feet well together, and legs straight. Older women often get into the habit of standing with feet separated even as much as ten or more inches. This is anything but graceful.

• • • • • • •

Round shoulders are common. Guard against this—round shoulders are a mark of advancing years. Hold the head well up. Do not let the chin sag—if you do you will get a double chin.

• • • • • • •

It is not always possible to avoid having a double chin but it can be minimized, if not altogether prevented by attention to posture.

• • • • • • •

If one has difficulty in getting up from a low chair when the bones and muscles lose some of their youthful flexibility note the chairs which are high and avoid the very low ones.

• • • • • • •

It is easy to rise from a higher chair and one gives no evidence of stiffness when getting out of it. This hint is given for those also who have a tendency to rheumatism, which sometimes makes one less agile than age would warrant.

WHY IS LADY NOT A WOMAN

Defendant in Australian Court Resents Being So Described.

TERM NOT OFFENSIVE.

MELBOURNE Australia, Aug. 30 (CP)—Arguing on a question of costs in St. Kilda Court, L. Lazarus, who appeared for plaintiff, turned around and, indicating defendant, said "this woman compelled us to come to court." Defendant rose, and, confronting Mr. Lazarus, said: "This woman! how dare you, sir." "I apologize," said Mr. Lazarus. "I should think you would," replied the defendant.

Justice Renfrey, the chairman of the Bench, explained that the term 'woman' was not offensive. To be a good woman was as fine as to be a lady. Mr. Lazarus added that certainly he meant no offence in substituting 'woman' for 'lady.' Defendant walked out of court with the air of one who was not completely mollified.

Aviatrix Fills Role Of Mannequin At Ex.

TORONTO, Aug. 30. (CP) — An aviatrix to-day was in the role of a mannequin at the Canadian National Exhibition fashion show.

Miss "Vic" Torrington, pretty Sudbury aeroplane pilot, explained her presence at the Exhibition by saying: "I fly for thrills and I'm modelling only for money."

"I'd much rather fly than be a mannequin" she added, "but I can't get a job flying so I've taken the job as a model."

Miss Torrington came to the show here at the request of friends. In the show she wears an aviatrix costume and evening gowns. She learned to fly three years ago and is qualified to pilot a plane equipped with skis, floats or wheels.

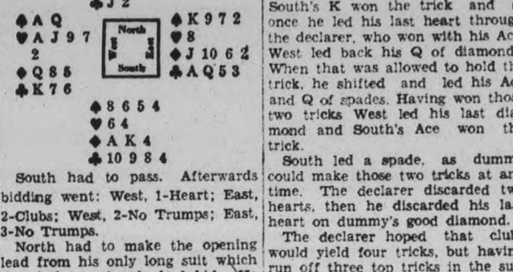
WHAT TO LEAD?

WHAT TO lead against a no trump is the question very often, on the opening lead and when dummy shows both strong suits and weak suits.



South had to pass. Afterwards bidding went: West, 1-Heart; East, 2-Clubs; West, 2-No Trumps; East, 3-No Trumps.

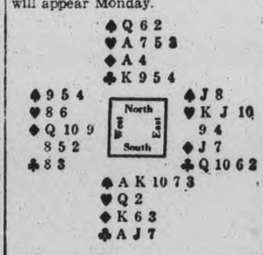
North had to make the opening lead from his only long suit which the declarer already had bid. He led his K, and declarer ducked the trick. Of course North felt that he had to lead another suit. Which should he lead? Against a trump make he would have led a club, through dummy's strength, hoping that his partner might win with the missing K. Against a no trump there is an entirely different rule concerning what to lead. As declarer had bid 2-No Trumps he must have strength in each remaining suit. Probably West held the missing K of clubs, but if he held great strength in diamonds as well he would have bid that suit unless he was short in diamonds. Dummys weakest suit is as much to be led at no-trumps, as his strong suits are to be led through at trump makes.

North led his 9 of diamonds. South's K won the trick and at once he led his last heart through the declarer, who won with his Ace. West led back his Q of diamonds. When that was allowed to hold the trick, he shifted and led his Ace and Q of spades. Having won those two tricks West led his last diamond and South's Ace won the trick.

South led a spade, as dummy could make those two tricks at any time. The declarer discarded two hearts, then he discarded his last heart on dummy's good diamond.

The declarer hoped that clubs would yield four tricks, but having run off three top tricks in the suit he had to give opponents their fourth trick.

North and South bid 6-Spades on the next hand. The opening lead was the 8 of diamonds. How many tricks can they make? The answer will appear Monday.



His Good Deed

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Aug. 30 (CP)—One of the good deeds daily to which William Henry Smith, 13, is pledged as a Boy Scout, won him acclaim as a hero to-day.

A rattlesnake bit his friends, Shelby Jones, 13. Young Smith sucked the blood from the wound, lifted the boy on to a bicycle and hurried him to a hospital.

Physicians said Jones would recover as a result.

Oklahoma Cowboys of Radio Fame to Appear in Person at Capitol Theatre Friday and Saturday

Ever see a group of real cowboy entertainers, sometimes termed as a cowboys' band? You have probably heard Ken Hackley and his Oklahoma Cowboys many times from various radio stations throughout the United States, as they have broadcasted from over sixty-five of the leading and larger radio stations for the past few years and just now being featured from station CRCT at Toronto.

You will have a chance to hear and see them in person at the Capitol Theatre where they will appear Friday and Saturday this week. This is the original Oklahoma Cowboys which was featured on the National Farm and Home Hour over the coast to coast network of the National Broadcasting Company, the ones that create a sensation in every radio station with their fast and diversified radio programs.

Each and every member is an accomplished cowboy musician, playing and using a total of twenty-two string instruments. Of course, they dress in what might be termed their native costumes, large ten gallon hats, cowboy boots, chaps, loud shirts, etc. Yes, sir, honest to goodness cowboys with their quaint and queer entertainment which they have learned around ranch bunkhouses. As they say, they do plenty of playin', singin', dancin' and ropin', and many novelties new to the show going public.

Watch for their special built and decorated car in which they travel. You can't help but see and notice it, as it will be close to the Capitol Theatre while they are appearing there Friday and Saturday. Continuous performance Saturday 1 p.m. to 11 p.m.

MISS ENGLAND GREAT "PERCER"

Scott-Paine Makes Snappy Comeback to Mrs. Gar. Wood.

EXPLAINS BOAT.

ALGONAC, Mich., Aug. 30 (C.P.).—Mrs. Gar Wood, who knows something about motor boats, says Hubert Scott-Paine's little Harmsworth challenger, Miss Britain III., looks like "something with which to cook."

"Wait till you see her, Perc," says Scott-Paine.

The red-headed speed demon, who once won the Schneider Cup, has estimated Miss Britain III.'s chances against the gigantic Miss America X., Gar Wood's defender, at 4 to 1 against. When the races are held, September 2, 4 and 5, he wants Miss Britain III. to make a good showing.

He explained: "My chances of obtaining a more powerful engine in the future will be better if I should be fortunate enough to finish."

Airplane Motor.

The challenger explained how he obtained an airplane motor and built his boat around it. Miss Britain III. is powered with a plant built for the Schneider Cup races but never used, developing 1,375 horse-power.

Miss America X. has 6,800 horsepower, but she is much bigger and heavier. She is 38 feet long, against Miss Britain's 24. She weighs seven tons and Miss Britain weighs 3,000 pounds.

Scott-Paine made Miss Britain light by using three-ply aluminum and duraluminum. Some parts of the frame are made of wood and metal laminations.

Miss Britain III. is not only the smallest boat ever entered in the races, but she is also the most peculiar. Many ingenious devices were necessary to make a boat so light and powerful practicable. She is stream-lined and the cockpit is covered. She has a forward rudder and water-cooled exhausts. Her propeller shaft is only 1¾ inches and the life of her motor at full speed is estimated at not more than 45 minutes.

In the water she behaves like a hydroplane, sitting up so high when going at a good speed as to leave only the smallest wake.

The Peterborough EXAMINER

E. S. DAVEY, OF THIS CITY, HEADS DOLLAR DAYS' PRIZE WINNERS

His Estimate Was 14,770, the Actual Count of Blanks Turned in—An Avalanche of Ties Make Prize Awarding Difficult—Four Ties For Fourth Place.

M. O'KEEFFE, PETERBORO, A CLOSE SECOND IN THE RUNNING FOR FIRST, WINS GRAFTON'S SPECIAL PRIZE.

The count in the Dollar Days ticket box outside The Examiner office last Friday and Saturday, revealed 14,770 estimating blanks to have been deposited, 1,249 in excess of the 13,521 count of Dollar Days last January. Then from trustworthy information to hand the writer can confidently announce that the number of estimating blanks not deposited, together with the number not accepted with purchases, would have swelled the count well into the 15,000 mark. All of which indicates an improvement in economic conditions and leads to the conclusion that ye olde tyme Dollar Day is still a power for stimulating business—especially so when freshened up with a new feature like the "Wrong Price Ticket Hunt". With these facts before us, one is led to conclude that Dollar Days this August have been well worth the effort, and resulted in the circulation of a considerable amount of money. Following are the prize winners, their estimating numbers and the amounts of prize money awarded:

THE SUCCESSFUL ESTIMATORS

Prize Nos.	Name	Number Blanks	Prize Amounts
1	E. S. Davey, 412 George street	14,770	$50.00
2	Mrs. Kennedy, 536 Armour road	14,769	12.50
2	M. O'Keeffe, 426 Park street	14,769	12.50
3	Berdee Pickering, 562 Waterford street	14,768	5.00
3	Babe Killingbeck, 68 Aylmer street	14,772	5.00
3	Mrs. N. O'Toole, 826 Water street	14,772	5.00
4	Mina Waldie, 136 Perry street	14,767	2.50
4	B. Huffman, 192 Park Hill road	14,773	2.50
4	Mrs. R. Cooper, 335 George street	14,767	2.50
4	A. L. Fleming, Hastings	14,767	2.50
5	Mrs. K. Simson, Nicholls Oval	14,766	5.00
6	Mrs. A. E. Bottum, Bobcaygeon	14,765	2.00
6	Mr. D. Kennedy, 536 Armour road	14,775	2.00
6	Weldon Kennedy, 536 Armour road	14,775	2.00
	Total amount estimating prizes		$111.00
	Add 20 $1 prizes in wrong price ticket contest		20.00
	Five wrong price tickets not found		5.00
	Grand total		$136.00

Prizes will be awarded at The Examiner office next Saturday, September 2nd.

These last Dollar Days were characterized by the number of ties found in the winning group, only the first and fifth prize winners escaping the disappointment of one or more tieing with them. Two tied for second prize, three for third prize, four for fourth prize and three for the three prizes of $2.00 each. Here it should be distinctly understood that the prizes are awarded the nearest estimators to the actual count—above and below. In the case of ties the prizes have been equally distributed, and unfortunately the four tie winners of the fourth prize each get less than the sole winner of the fifth prize. But in all fairness this cannot be awarded unless the four former winners agree among themselves to break their tie by a draw.

As announced above, the actual number of blanks in the box was 14,770, and that number being Mr. Davey's estimate, to him goes the first prize of $50.00. There were 1,469 blanks in the winning 14,000 class, and estimating was close.

Where Winners Obtained Their Blanks

One second prize tie ticket from Grafton & Co.
One second prize tie ticket from McBride & Franks.
One third prize tie ticket from Dickson Co.
One fourth prize tie ticket from McBride & Franks.
One sixth prize ticket from Grafton & Co.
Two sixth prize tickets from McBride & Franks.
Other prize winning tickets were not stamped by the business houses issuing them.

Special Prize From Grafton's

As announced by this popular Men's and Boys' Clothing House, M. O'Keeffe, 426 Park street, will be awarded $10.00 worth of merchandise for winning a second prize on a ticket from Grafton & Co. Mr. O'Keeffe's estimate was nearest to that winning the first prize.

Winners of the Ticket Hunt

Much interest was aroused by the "Wrong Price Ticket Hunt", a feature on Dollar Days resulting in the following winners of $1.00 for being the first to discover the mistakes in the various stores:

Miss F. Rickey; Mrs. George Kelly; Miss Moher; Mrs. Ferguson; Mrs. Swanston; M. Shaughnessy; Mrs. G. Patton; Jack Castle; Miss Moore; Mrs. Friedly; Miss Helen Barrie, Birdsall, Ont.; Mrs. T. McMillan; Mrs. H. Chambers; Mrs. Collins; Mrs. W. M. Sweetman; Mrs. E. Holden; Mrs. Killenbeck; Miss E. Scott; E. F. Jarrett, Lakefield; J. Londerville.

Remarkable Features of Contest

Pessimism and optimism were found in burlesque figuring. For instance, the low numbers were 31, 165, 234, 396, 462 and 800, while the new highs included 3,124,067, 750,000, 546,732, 674,823. Of course these estimators might have meant otherwise but that is how their tickets quite clearly read. In conclusion, matter in the ticket box foreign to the question included a business card, a cash check, customer's check from the Eaton Groceteria, Border Transit Bus ticket, and a Capitol Theatre seat check, to say nothing of a cap from a Belfast Ginger Ale bottle.

FLOOD DELAYS WRECK SALVAGE

Two of Golden State Limited's Eight Victims Still Unidentified.

WATER COVERS ENGINE.

TUCUMCARI, N.M., August 30 (C.P.).—In a flooded arroyo, usually dry, the Golden State Limited lay to-day, mute evidence of the tragedy which took eight lives and injured more than two score.

Repair crews waited abatement of the torrent to salvage the wrecked cars and repair the bridge, while a board of inquiry was called to investigate Tuesday's early morning wreck. The board will be composed of railroad officials and members of the New Mexico State Corporation Commission.

The revised death list, with two victims still unidentified: C. J. Croft engineer, Tucumcari; James Randall, fireman, Tucumcari; W. H. Varley, Quincy, Ill., Mrs. Varley; F. D. Cook, Southern Pacific employee, El Paso; Sister Mary Cecelia, Tucson, Arizona.; two unidentified women.

Of the injured, Sister Mary Rosa of Tucson, Ariz., was not expected to live. She suffered a skull fracture, severe cuts, and was badly scalded.

The train was proceeding slowly about five miles from here in a heavy rain. Then, as survivors tell it, there was a sudden lurch as the engine and five cars of the 11-coach train toppled off the trestle and piled up in the torrent. The engine was buried deep in mud and water.

Screams of the injured and dying prayers and curses, mingled in the darkness and confusion as terrified passengers sought to escape.

Chauncey Depew, conductor of the train, escaped from one of the rear coaches which had remained safely on the track and made his way through the storm, over rain-soaked roads, to summon aid from Tucumcari.

Young Swimmer Much Encouraged

TORONTO, Aug. 30 (CP)—Guido Delabbio, 13-year-old Sault Ste Marie youth was plugging along steadily two hours after the Canadian National Exhibition's 15-mile marathon was started. The confident little youngster was about a mile behind Jackie May, Honolulu, who was leading the parade, but apparently wasn't a bit worried.

Three youthful companions, two boys and a pretty little red-haired girl, were in Guido's boat and what he lacked in early speed they made up in enthusiasm. No boat load of "rooters" could match them in spurring their swimmer on.

MINING CAMP FIRE HAZARDS ARE OUTLINED

Fire Chief R. J. Matheson, of Kirkland Lake, Addresses Annual Convention.

HISTORY OF CAMP.

Delegates Take Trip Up Canal to Lakefield and South Beach.

Fire Chief R. J. Matheson of Kirkland Lake—one of the heroes of the recent mine fire at Cobalt, presented an interesting paper to his fellow colleagues at the 25th Annual Convention of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs this morning.

"Fire Hazards of a Mining Camp" was the subject of Chief Matheson's paper, specially prepared by him at the request of the secretary of the Association.

Going into the very beginning of the mining camp now known as Kirkland Lake, the Chief related how Harry Oakes and George Tough had come across country from Dane on the main line of the T. and N. O. railway and pitched their tents on the shores of Kirkland Lake. They located a rich gold deposit and staked the property which they called the Tough-Oakes Mine.

News of the gold discovery brought more prospectors and saw the establishment of a tent village, which was gradually replaced by log cabins. Then came the location of townsites and the rapid building of frame structures to house and miners and their families.

Roughshod Methods.

When the mines came into production, the Chief stated, the township of Teck was organized and the task of forming by-laws to effect better construction started. At that time the Northern Ontario Light and Power Company, he said, was called upon to supply electrical power to the mines and electric lighting for the town. The houses were wired in a roughshod fashion. This brought inspectors of the Hydro-Electric, who effected many changes in the elimination of fire hazards in the homes, such as loose joints, inferior wiring and overfusing systems.

All the time these changes were taking place, the Chief said, the pople of the town were living in fear of a conflagration. Steps had to be taken to cut the forest back in the outskirts of the town.

In his opinion the Chief stated, "the forest is not an all-season hazard. There is a period in the spring that it is possible for fire to burn rapidly in the bush and cause considerable damage if not checked. Around the first of June, however, the green foliage is out and the fire had less chances of gaining headway.

Forest Fires Unnecessary.

If the people who got their living from the forest would exercise fire prevention and pile and destroy brush at the proper time, the Chief believed, it was not essential that there should be any great hazard from forest fires.

Muskeg, he said, was a greater hazard than standing timber, as it burned from underneath and gave off little or no smoke. In the mining camp, the powder magazine was another hazard feared by the fire departments. Although every precaution was taken by the mining companies, he believed the powder magazine to constitute a dangerous hazard to human life.

Chief Matheson also discussed surface mine hazards, leaving the balance of the paper having to do with the hazards of fire in the underground workings of a mine, to P. C. Smith, mines rescue engineer.

The paper was well received and evoked considerable discussion.

Adjourning at an early hour, the delegates to the convention again had an official photograph taken by the Roy Studios outside the City Fire Hall. The taking of another picture was found to be desirable owing to the arrival since yesterday morning of other delegataes.

This afternoon the sessions of the convention were resumed aboard the Steamer Stoney Lake, while she was en route up the Trent Waterway to Lakefield and Clear Lake. Arriving at South Beach, the delegates went ashore for lunch after which an ambitious program of sports was staged.

LOCAL COLLEGE HAS NEW COURSE

Advanced Business Training Now Available Under Curriculum.

NEW PRINCIPAL.

An advanced business course under a new department of Secretarial Science and Business Administration has been added to the curriculum of the Peterborough Business College for the opening of the new Fall term, beginning September 5.

R. R. Reynolds, B.Com., a graduate in Commerce and Finance of Queen's University, has been engaged as principal of the school and head of the new department. He is a teacher of ten years' experience, and has had considerable business experience also. He comes to the Peterborough Business College with high recommendations from former employers and professors.

In announcing the new courses which he planned Mr. J. A. McKone points out that they should appeal to young men and women with junior matriculation or higher academe records. The standard for graduation is considerably higher than in any other commercial course in this section of the province, since several, if not all, of the commercial subjects will be on a par with those given in a commerce and finance course at any Canadian university. The professions are crowded, business apparently is steadily improving, and the future beckons to ambitious youth. In the executive phases of business, Mr. McKone believes that there is an opportunity for many young men and women who prepare themselves for the openings that are bound to develop.

LIFE AND LASHES FOR KIDNAPPING

the common law of England, with the exception of Louisianna, where the civil law prevailed. "Under the dual system in Canada we have succeeded well," commented the Minister. "And we are proud to boast that in this Dominion we have members of the legal profession learned both in the common law and the civil code."

"Under common law money paid in mistake to the Crown could not be recovered; but under civil law, recovery could be made. A bill had been introduced at the last session of Parliament to cover this anomaly but had not been proceeded with, the Minister added.

J. Starr, K.C., Named To Coatsworth's Post

TORONTO, Aug. 30.— (C.P.) — Re-arrangement of the Toronto Board of Police Commissioners has been effected by the Ontario government, the Telegram said it was learned to-day. Implementing recommendations of Mr. Justice A. C. Kingstone's report on the Dorland case, the Telegram said it learned J. R. L. Starr, K.C., has been appointed to succeed Judge Emerson Coatsworth, whose resignation from the Commission has been accepted, after being in the hands of the Attorney-General for two years.

Stratford Invited Fire Chiefs For 1934

An invitation has been received by the officers of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs to hold their 1934 convention at Stratford according to announcement made last evening at the civic banquet tendered to the Fire Chiefs at the Canadian Legion Hall. The invitation was received by officials of the Association through Alderman F. A. Wilson of Stratford. Chief A. S. Kappelle is the delegate from that city.

FIRE FIGHTING EQUIPMENT IS BEING SHOWN

Interesting Display of Equipment to be Seen in Duffus Building.

PUBLIC INVITED.

Among an interesting display of fire-fighting and fire-prevention equipment that is being staged by a group of prominent manufacturers in the Duffus Building, Convention headquarters of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs, is that of the Dunlop Rubber Company. The Dunlop display is in charge of Jack Rozerson of Toronto, and includes fire hose and fire accessories, as well as featuring Dunlop Redflex tires.

On its way for delivery to Rothesay (New Brunswick) Fire Department a "baby" Bickle combined pumper-booster and hose truck mounted on a Chevrolet 1½-ton chassis, arrived yesterday afternoon. It has a 300-gallons per minute capacity, and is equipped with a 60-gallon booster tank. Of all-Canadian construction the "baby fire wagon" was made by the Bickle Fire Engines Ltd., of Woodstock.

The Johnson-Tremblay pump, made by the Canadian Johnson Motors in this city, and extensively used by the Provincial Forestry Department, is on display, and is a centre of interest.

Other exhibitors at the convention include: Safety Supply Company, gas masks and inhalators; Fyr Fyter; William Scully, badges, etc., Montreal; C. H. Petch, fireproof coats, Montreal; Muir Cap Company; Bilateral Hose Company; Grant, Holden, and Graham, fireproof coats; General Motors Corporation; J. K. Hughes Ltd; Gypsum Lime and Alabastine; Hamilton Cap Company; LaFrance Foamite; Leyland Motors; A. R. Hewer Cap Company; J. J. Turner and Sons Ltd.; Porter and Company, Lakefield; Gutta Percha Rubber Company; Peterborough Canoe Company; United Sales Company, Toronto; Willis Automatic Fire Detector.

The display is open to all members of the general public, to whom Fire Chief Gimblett, convention host, and Chief Allan Clark of Lakefield, chairman Exhibits Committee, extends a cordial welcome to be present.

To Check Parking In Vicinity Of Bowl

A warning that police are to begin a thorough check-up on parking in the vicinity of the Bowl in East City was issued by Chief of Police Newhall to-day. Serious congestion has been caused by motorists ignoring the parking laws during the girls' softball games this season, he said.

The by-laws forbidding parking on Hunter street bridge and parking on the east side of Burnham street will be enforced and the owners of all cars parked contrary to the by-laws will be summoned, he warned.

Through the permission of Mayor Denne, motorists attending the games will henceforth be allowed to park on the city property which was formerly the brewery grounds. If cars are parked in an orderly manner, the brewery grounds afford sufficient space for all the cars regularly brought to the games the chief said.

If you buy out of town, and I buy out of town and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town? Ever think about it?

Petes Plan to Seize Gate Receipts at Napanee To-Day

ACTION AIMED TO BRING TO ISSUE DISAGREEMENT OVER EXPENSES

Petes Claim Kingston Far Short in Proper Repayments For Several Trips.

SHERIFF TO TAKE ACTION.

The Peterborough Baseball Club is placing a lien on the gate in Napanee today. Cyril Giroux, local club secretary, left for Napanee early today and arrangements were made through Ernie Gibbard, O. B. A. A. representative in that district, to have a sheriff at the gate throughout the game and seize the money paid for admission. The C.O.B.L. executive will then have to meet and thresh out the differences between the Peterborough and Kingston clubs regarding expenses.

The Petes' officers state they were given nothing—though entitled to half their hotel expenses—for the game which was rained out in Kingston last Thursday. The whole team stayed overnight after their tie-game of Wednesday but rain Thursday forced the re-play to be called off. Then in this past Monday's game in Kingston, the local officials claim they were paid $34 less than their guarantee. For these reasons, they are taking legal steps to recover the expense money owed to them.

Short On Guarantee

Kingston officers said they could pay no more Monday night, as enough money had not been taken in. Even if this were the case, the club must pay the guarantee. However, Peterborough executive members who were in Kingston for the game charge there were close to two thousand fans on hand. And Ches Mowry, local officer who represented this club on the gate, reported that many tickets were sold outside the gate and the people could walk right in with their tickets—there being no way of proving whether they had purchased them or had secured free passes. A previous report from the umpires was to the effect that the Kingston club failed to pay them in full for expenses incurred by that tie-game.

Since there seemed no other way of bringing the matter to a head before the next league meeting, the local club decided to take legal steps to hold the gate-money in Napanee today and thereby force the issue. It will then be for the C.O.B.L. executive to bear both sides of the case and make its decision before the money can be touched.

Bantam Hurler Fans 32 Batters

GUELPH, Aug. 30—Something in the nature of a record for O B A A playoffs was made in a third-round bantam game last night, when St. Catharines and Guelph battled 14 innings to a runless tie, the game being called on account of darkness.

The game, featured by a marathon mound duel between Finamore of St. Catharines and Mason of Guelph, was one of the snappiest Bantam encounters ever witnessed here. Mason establishing an all-time Provincial Bantam strikeout mark, with 32 to his credit. Finamore fanned 22.

Champion Thinks Wills Did Right

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., Aug 30—Helen Jacobs, women's national tennis champion, to-day said Mrs. Helen Wills Moody had acted wisely in defaulting in their championship match at Forest Hills last Saturday when the latter felt her physical condition would not permit her to continue. At the same time Miss Jacobs expressed a liking for her opponent and denied any personal feud existed between them.

BOWLING NOTES

(By Herb Martin)

The first round in the rink playoff was completed last night. Mayneord defeated Sedgewick 15-8, and Braund just managed to nose out Freeman 15-14.

The Braund-Freeman game was a beautiful exhibition all the way through with probably the playing of C. Williamson and Andy Brown being the outstanding features. This game was tied several times and was also a tie coming home. First one was shot and then the other, till finally Andy drew in a beauty right beside the jack. Freeman tried to play a little over with both bowls just missing by inches.

The Sedgewick-Mayneord affair was very close until Mayneord slipped a nice four over and then it was all off. Mayneord's bowling was the high light in this game.

Thursday's Draw

Braund-Mayneord.
Allan-Mahood.
Cairns-Coleman.
Gimblett-Wall.

Several games were played in the club doubles last night, but the game that deserves mentioning is the Coleman-McDonald affair. At the half way mark Coleman was leading 17-2 but by steady plugging and some good bowling Mac finally caught Coleman and won out on the last end 19-18. It was a tough game to lose and a good one to win.

Scullers Conclude Training for Big Race

TORONTO, August 30 (C.P.). — With the world's professional sculling title at stake, Bobby Pearce, Olympic champion and one-time Diamond Sculls holder, and Ted Phelps of England, present titleholder, have concluded training and are awaiting the gun that will start them on their match race on Friday.

Both are reported in the pink of condition and anxious to match blades over the Canadian National Exhibition's course. Pearce to-day was a 5-3 favorite over his lighter rival to win the event, but experts are non-committal as to Pearce's chances.

Bobby, who originally came from Australia but now resides in Hamilton, has never been beaten in a major amateur event, but this will be his first professional encounter.

The draw for positions was made yesterday, with Pearce drawing No. 2 position and Phelps the lane nearest the shore wall. The champion will thus have a slightly turning course if he stays close to the breakwater off the Exhibition waterfront. The course is very wide and both scullers shou'd have plenty of room for their maneuvers.

RIPPLE'S HOMER DEFEATS LEAFS IN BIG EIGHTH

Royals Move Up Hard on Heels of Toronto and Buffalo.

ROCHESTER WINS TWO.

Newark Sweeps Double Victory Over Albany to Remove Play-off Chance.

(By Herbert Barker, A.P. Sports Writer)

Toronto and Buffalo, leading contenders for the second playoff position in the Northern Division of the International League, found Montreal Royals hard on their heels to-day.

The Royals' victory over Toronto last night coupled with Buffalo's defeat by Rochester left Montreal trailing Buffalo by only two games and Toronto by only two and a half.

Orlin Collier, Leaf right hander, blanked the Royals with one hit for seven innings but in the eighth the home club rallied for four runs and won the battle, 4-3. Jimmie Ripple's home run with two aboard was the decisive clout of the rally.

Rochester, assured of the first Northern qualifying position, turned back Buffalo easly 9-2 as Tony Kaufmann hung up his fourth successive victory. After counting two runs in the first frame the Red Wings drove Ace Elliott to cover during a four-run rally in the second frame and then coasted in the rest of the way.

The champion Newark Bears, setting a pace too hot for the rest of the field to follow, swept a doubleheader with Albany, 8-5 and 11-3 and now lead second place Rochester by 9½ games. The Bears got only six hits off Ray Prim in the opener, but bunched these with Senator errors to score all their runs in the sixth inning. Don Brennan and Johnny Murphy limited Albany to six hits. Marvin Duke allowed eight safeties in the nightcap, but kept them widely-spaced and struck out eight.

The double defeat virtually cost Albany all chances of beating out Baltimore for the second Southern qualifying position, for the Orioles walloped Jersey City twice, 17-5 and 8-5, and now lead Albany by 9½ games.

Julius Solters, sensational Baltimore outfielder, drove in nine runs with his 34th homer, two doubles and a pair of singles during the double bill. Cliff Melton went the route for the Orioles in the opener and led 17-1 going into the ninth when the Skeeters rallied for seven runs.

The line ups:

Buehlers—K. Culler, 2b; N. Vitarelli, p; Carter, c; Murray, rf; M. Caccavelli, ss; Masters, lf; P. Vitarelli, 1b; J. Caccavelli, 3b; McDougall, lf; Gardiner, lf.

FAVOR BLAGDEN TO REPEAT WIN IN C.N.E. SWIM

149 Natators Ready to Take Plunge in 15 Mile Marathon Grind.

WATER IS WARM.

It is Expected That Swim Will Finish About 7 O'clock.

(By Jack Hambleton C.P. Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, August 30 (C.P.).—Mild west winds and a slightly choppy lake to-day greeted 149 distance swimmers who shortly before noon will plunge into Lake Ontario in the Canadian National Exhibition's 15-mile Marathon grind.

Water temperature was around 68 degrees—six degrees higher than the minimum required before the swim is postponed. Some years ago, the a large field had wallowed in the lake with the water around 58 degrees, Exhibition officials decided it must be 62 or warmer in future.

With the start of the race but a few hours away, Toronto became mildly excited. Crowds started for the waterfront, but there was not so much of the fevered rush for vantage points as in former years. There was, however, the usual argument regarding the winner of the $2,000 prize for first place. The "experts" were operating at full blast, and a consensus places the finishers as follows:

George Samuel Blagden, Memphis, Tenn., to repeat his win of last year.

Gianni Gambi, the "Italian windmill," to again run second.

George Young, Toronto, third.

However, Young is a surprising swimmer, and if conditions suit him he may repeat his victory of 1931.

According to present plans the swim will start at 11 o'clock (Eastern Daylight time). This should bring the finish around 7 p.m. tonight. The swimmers will plunge from starting barges at the eastern end of the Exhibition Grounds and will cover the entire distance inside the breakwater. Fifteen laps of the mile each make up the distance.

First prize this year is $2,000 with $1,500 for second, $700 for third, $500 for fourth, $200 for fifth, and $100 for sixth.

IN SMART FORM TO GAIN VICTORY OVER CHAMPIONS

Wildness of Keene Pitcher Aids Them in Getting Runs.

SCORE 19 TO 10.

Village Maidens Off Colour and Make Costly Fumbles at Wrong Times.

Mike Latimer's classy Clock-makers hit their stride in big league style last night when they journeyed to Keene and vanquished the husky Rurals on their own doorstep, by the lopsided count of 19 to 10, to tie up the championship series, thus making it necessary to play at least two more tilts before a three-out-of-five victor can be named.

The Westclox experienced one of those nights when they were able to do everything just right, and with Mary McCarthy being generous to the extent of eleven free passes, the locals had little trouble in copping the decision. Both teams secured twelve singles apiece, Helen Nelson leading the losers with four singles, while Barb Blade did the gunning for the winners with three triples in five trips.

Mildred Mortimer pitched for the Westclox, and turned in a neat performance. She had the opposition popping to the infield with a regularity that sent the Keene batters out in order in four of the nine frames. She issued just one free pass.

The winners scored at least one counter in every frame except the sixth, when they went out in order, two fanning. They chased three over in the seventh, four in the eighth and two more in the ninth, to give them an eleven-run lead to hold as the homesters went to bat in the ninth. The latter sent two counters over, but the rally died when Laura Chartren threw out the third batter at second. Dot. Merrett, in left garden for the Westclox, pulled off the feature fielding catch of the game in the seventh when she pulled down a long foul fly hit by Dot Gainor. Audrey Crary in centre for the same team, snared three out of four, all of which were hard-hit clouts. Lois McCarthy was the fielding ace for the Keene team, with a total of five put-outs for a perfect night at third base.

CANTWELL RECALLED

BALTIMORE, Aug 30—Baltimore Orioles of the International Baseball League announced to-day that Guy Cantrell, fast ball pitcher, who has been with Little Rock of the Southern League on option, has been recalled. Cantrell was with the Orioles early in the season but his work was not impressive and he was released to Little Rock. He has been pitching creditable ball recently and the Orioles are attempting to bolster a wobbly hurling staff in their battle for second place in the league.

Walker Pitches Five-hit Ball for St. Louis in Second to Defeat Giants.

(By Orlo Robertson, A.P. Sports Writer)

With the start of their crucial six-game series with Boston Braves only one day away, New York Giants to-day still held a six-game lead, thanks to another one of Carl Hubbells peerless pitching performances. But for another equally brilliant hurling feat on the part of a New York castoff, Bill Walker, the advantage of the league leaders probably would be still greater as they prepare to face the stubborn St. Louis Cardinals in the final game of the series.

Hubbell, hurling the Giants to their first victory in four games, blanked the Cardinals yesterday with five hits for a 3-0 decision. Walker, who had not won a game since May 20, turned the tables, however, and also pitching five-hit ball shut out the Giants 2-0, to give the cardinals the second game of the double-header.

The Giants' ace southpaw boosted his total number of victories for the year to 19, his best record since joining the majors, and at the same time turned in his ninth shut-out of the year. He fanned 12 to run his season's total of strike-outs to 136.

Chicago Cubs remained in third place, a game back of the Braves, who were idle, by splitting a double-header with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Max Carey's men won the first on Power, 13-5, but fell before the fine pitching of Lon Warneke in the second fray, losing 6-2.

Pittsburgh Pirates advanced to within one-half game of the Cubs by trouncing the Phillies for the third straight time. The score was 4-1 as Heinie Meine pitched five-hit ball and held the Phils away from the plate until the ninth.

Washington Senators' lead in the American League was trimmed to eight games as the Yankees came from behind in the last two innings to defeat Detroit Tigers, 11-9, and the league leaders divided a twin bill with Cleveland Indians. The Senations won the first game, 2-1, but dropped the second, 7-2.

Tony Lazzeri was the big noise in the Yanks' attack. He drove out a homer with one on in the eighth to tie the score and then after the Tigers had knotted the count again, connected with a triple to clear the loaded sacks.

Treating four Athletic pitchers roughly, the White Sox pounded out an 11-5 triumph over Philadelphia. Dick Barret, Rube Walberg, Bob Coombs and Leroy Mahaffey were the victims of the Pale Hose's 16-hit attack.

Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Browns split a bargain bill. The six hit pitching of Bob Weiland gave the Sox the second game 9-4 after the Browns had taken the opener 10-8.

MISS ENGLAND ALL PREPARED STATES OWNER

600 Gallons of Special Gasoline Arrives From England for Race.

WOOD READY TOO.

Miss America Paced By Airplane on Trial at 130 Miles Per Hour.

PORT LAMBTON, Ont., Aug. 30. (CP)—Hubert Scott-Paine, British speedboat designer and racer, is "all ready for anything" he announced last night. Cheered by the arrival of 600 gallons of special gasoline and 25 gallons of oil from England, he declared his worries were over.

The delay in the arrival of the fuel had caused the red-headed driver no little worry, since the first race of the Harmsworth series is scheduled for Saturday, and he had feared it might be necessary to ask permission to use a special American mixture in his little craft.

Mrs. Scott-Paine, who has been an almost-constant observer of the preparations for the world's premier speedboat contest, also expressed relief at the arrival of the fuel. She added, however, that while she has been "thrilled" by all the preliminary proceedings, she is "saving the excitement for Saturday."

Trials on Thursday

Neither Miss Britain III nor the big defender, Miss America X, was out on the water to-day. Scott-Paine and Gar Wood, who will pilot his title-holding boat Saturday, plans to have their craft out for final trials Thursday and then keep them in the boatwells until a few minutes before the starting gun at three o'clock (E.S.T.) Saturday afternoon.

The mechanics of both camps were busy as usual to-day and there was the usual gossip of speed potentialities. The pilot of an aeroplane which flew over the course the last time the two boats were out said he had paced Miss America X at upwards of 130 miles an hour on a straightaway, and the English boat at around 105 miles an hour.

Neither Wood nor Scott-Paine would comment, however. Nor would they say how near "wide open" their boats had been on the run.

To Gordon Thomas, mechanician who will ride with the British pilot in Miss Britain III, Scott-Paine is the "safest driver in the world." He said to-day he never felt the slightest fear with his pilot at the wheel.

Orlin Johnson, Wood's mechanician feels much the same in Miss America X. Johnson has handled the motors for Wood in most of his races and knows exactly what a jolt in the ribs from Wood's elbow means when Miss America is travelling at top speed.

Wood laughed to-day when told of gossip the "big power plant of Miss America might break her up."

"Miss America X is the strongest hull I ever rode in" he said. "There isn't a sign of a leak or a seam in her hull that indicates the four motors would crack her. She would hold two more motors if there was room."

BRIDGENORTH WINS SOFTBALL HONORS

Defeat Central Garage in Final for Harvey Trophy.

LAKEFIELD Aug. 30 (Examiner Correspondence)—Bridgenorth won the Harvey Cup in the final game of the Softball League played in a fast game which was close enough to leave the issue in doubt till the end. Both teams were on their toes, although Bridgenorth were short three of their regulars: Ralph Jopling, Ralph Clark and Jack Jopling.

R. C. Chittick was at the plate and Louis Sabatino was at the bases and handled the game to the satisfaction of all. Bridgenorth got a break in the second, when they copped eight runs, which gave them a lead, which they held till the sixth when Lakefield got a break and got seven in, and took the lead. Junkin, Chittick, Price and Don Jopling got the home runs. Garbutt had seven strike-outs and one walk. Forsyth had nine strike-outs and three walks.

At the conclusion of the game Mr. J. F. Harvey, president of the league, congratulated the winners and presented the handsome silver cup which he donated as a trophy for competiton in the District League. Mr. Fred Jopling, who accepted the cup on behalf of Bridgenorth, thanked Mr. Harvey for his co-operation all through the season, and hoped that there would be more co-operation in sport between the district centres. It makes for better feeling and a wider and finer community spirit.

The Central Garage played a good game and took their defeat smiling like good sportsmen.

DELORO AND SCOTS TIE SOCCER GAME

Caleys Play Whole Contest With But Ten Men.

Deloro and Caledonians split even in last night's soccer game, the final score being 1-1. The Scots played the full game with but ten men. Brooks of Deloro kicked off, and both teams were slow in setting down, play being around mid-field. Brown missed in close and Dinesen of Caleys made some fine clearances when hard pressed. The game ranged from end to end, finally moving into the Scots' territory where Brooks scored, but was called offside. Shortly after, Deloro got their goal when Curtis dropped the ball, the referee declaring it went over the line.

On a penalty kick by Caleys Leggitt's shot hit his cross-bar. Neither set of forwards did much shooting for a time, and the visitors were leading 1-0 at half-time. Early in the last part, the home team nearly scored, again hitting the upright after beating the goalie. Brooks came close to getting one for Deloro and play moved up and down at a good clip. The Scots turned on the pressure and Leggitt evened the score, taking a perfect pass to boot the ball in. Both teams tried hard to get the winning counter, but it ended in a deadlock.

The teams:
Deloro—Goal, Neill; backs, Smith and Cousin; half-backs, Gray, Bradley and Stewart; forwards Hart, Simmons, Brooks, Brown, and J. Hart.

Caledonians—Goal, Curtis; backs, Downer and Dinesen; half-backs, Whatman, Ward and McPhate; forwards, Merracken, Leggitt, Dyer and Atkinson.

Referee—W. Harrington.

The C.O.B.L. championship should be decided along about the time this paper hits the street or shortly after. They were due to start that final Kingston-Petes' game in Napanee today at three bells daylight saving time. If it started on time, two or three inning were to be wired here in time to catch the edition before it went to press. At any rate, the phones will be getting a big play again tonight and we'll be sending bulletins back on the contest. Let's hope the Petes come through!

The last time the Liftlockers copped this senior pennant was back in '20 with such stalwarts as Moose Kirn, Lornie Rose, Hap Harrison, Cherrett, Murray, Swanston, etc. They went right through to the Ontario finals, being nosed out by Hamilton. Oldtimers still recall that close final playoff game here the Petes won when Cherrett scored from second on an infield grounder that was played to the plate without an error! It's one of the high spots in local baseball history and compares with the base-runing of Ty Cobb at his peak.

Knotty Lee and his boys are in battling mood and predicting an undisputed victory to rub Kingston right out of the picture. They know they've fooled long enough and must get in with both feet to cop this all-important fray—and that's just what they claim they're doing. Quite a gang of fans were to motor down to Ernie Gibbard's classy new park in Napanee and yodel the Petes on to a win. We think the local lads will come through in the pinch. They have the ability and the coaching. All they need is an even break and lots of fight.

An executive meeting of the Central League has been called for, following the game, and feathers ought to fly before it's over. Seems the Petes' officers, who figure Kingston is gypping 'em right and left on expenses, are having the gate in Napanee today seized by a sheriff and held up till the loop settles disputes. The dope on it appears elsewhere today. Our private opinion is that Kingston figures they wont be permited back in the C.O.B.L. next season and will break away from the O.B.A.A. to play outlaw in the Ottawa Valley. Hence, they're trying to get away with all they can. But the local officers aren't saps, either.

An exhibition lacrosse game that ought to be a dandy has been lined up for the Bowl rink some night next week. Peterborough Juniors, who are in the Inter-County loop playoffs with Cobourg under the name of "Dinty's Inn," will meet an all-star team from the local City League. This means, in fewer words, a powerful team composed mostly of last year's star O.A.L.A. intermediates here, will be seen in a hard-fought game with the present Peterborough O.A.L.A. hopes—the classy junior squad handled by Manager Ken Sine and Coach Bud Fisher. A silver collection will be taken up to help pay off back bills owed by the local lacrossers.

The alarming lasses from the Ashburnham clock shop rambled down to Keene with blood in their eyes last p.m. and fairly mopped up the place with the homesters. Westclox took the sunny side of the 19-10 score to cheer up a flock of fans who made the trip with them. Mildred Mortimer twirled a smart brand of ball and had pretty fair backing from her teammates. On the other hand, Mary McCarthy handed them a trayful of passes, eleven in all, and the other Keenesters did not play the type of ball they generally do. The series is developing into quite a hectic scramble for the silverware. Next game is here Saturday.
